The permission asked for was granted, and Mr. McRea read the following message :

GENTLEMEN OF THE CONVENTION :

I extend to you a cordial welcome to the Capitol, and assure you that the officers of the Provisional Government are anxious to afford you every facility for the discharge of the great duty for which you have been elected—of establishing a constitution and a civil government for Texas, loyal to the Union.

The situation of the Provisional Government has been, and must continue to be, one of extreme difficulty and embarrassment. This was foreseen by me when I accepted my present position : but I could not decline it without seeming to be unwilling to aid in giving effect to what are known as the reconstruction laws. I knew that my appointment was distasteful to a large majority of the people of Texas who had participated in the rebellion, and who had heretofore exercised the political power of the State. But the emancipation and enfranchisement of our colored population had infused a new element into the body politic, who are hereafter to exercise political rights ; and I believed that this class, with the loyal whites, would, as the result has shown, constitute a majority of the voting population, and to whom, I had reason to believe, my appointment would not be unacceptable.

The powers vested in the officers of the Provisional Government are exercised in subordination to the Commander of the Fifth Military District ; and without his co-operation and assistance, all their efforts to execute the laws and preserve the public peace can avail but little. I regret to say that, in some instances, this co-operation and assistance have been withheld, and the acts of the provisional officers have been misrepresented and their recommendations disregarded. A knowledge of these facts has so emboldened and encouraged those who are disposed to disregard the laws that, in many instances, sheriffs have reported to this office that they were unable to obtain the aid of citizens to make arrests, because they feared personal violence from the parties and their friends.

It is due to the present Commander of the Fifth Military District that I should say, in this connection, that he has manifested a disposition to enforce the laws, and I am hopeful of improvement in this regard under his administration.

It affords me pleasure to state that the officers who have been in command of the District of Texas have at all times cordially sustained my recommendations, and rendered every assistance in their power in the execution of the laws; but their powers have been very limited.

It is not the part of wisdom to disguise from ourselves the true situation of affairs. Crime was never as prevalent in Texas as it is at this time. Since the first of December last, authentic information has been received at this office of two hundred and six (206) homicides, committed in only sixty-seven (67) of the one hundred and twenty-seven organized counties of the State, while but a small number of the perpetrators have been arrested and punished by the process of the law. This state of things has become so alarming that the people, in several instances, have taken the law into their own hands, and have executed the murderers without a trial—a proceeding which is always dangerous and greatly to be reprobated.

Any great improvement in the prevention and punishment of crime must be the work of the people themselves. So long as they tolerate the present violence and disorder and the failure to arrest and punish disorders, affairs will continue to grow worse, and be a reproach to the State. But when they will it, the municipal officers of the State will become efficient and vigilant in the discharge of their duties, life and property and personal rights will be protected, and all our material interests will prosper. The first step toward the attainment of these desirable results is the re-establishment of civil government, and the resumption of our relations with our sister States as a member of the Union.

This can now be accomplished, if our citizens choose to comply with the conditions prescribed by the laws of the United States, under which your honorable body has been elected. Few persons supposed, when hostilities had ceased by the surrender of the Confederate armies, that three years would elapse before the rebel States would be fully restored to the Union. Yet three years have elapsed; and, from the temper manifested by the public press of the State, we are apparently no nearer the accomplishment of that object than we were in May, 1865. The great majority of the white population of our State seem to have profited very little from their past experience on this subject. They still reject with scorn the mild terms offered them by the United States. While they complain that any portion of their number should be disfranchised for participation in the rebellion, they insist that loyal citizens shall not be enfranchised, because said loyal citizens are of a different race and color, although subjected to all the burdens that are imposed upon other citizens for the support and defense of the government.

The laws referred to disfranchise only such a portion of our citizens as the government of the United States considered necessary to enable the residue to establish governments loyal to the Union and in harmony with its present policy. No one supposes that this disfranchisement will be extended any farther than is necessary to accomplish that object; while provision will doubtless be made for the removal of political disabilities as rapidly as the safety of the government will permit. Many of those who now oppose the enfranchisement of the colored race would gladly accept the terms proposed by President Johnson in 1865, and the proposed amendment to the Constitution of the United States, known as the Fourteenth Article, which were so contemptuously rejected. And it is worthy of their serious consideration, whether they will not bring upon themselves what they will deem much harder terms, if by their continued opposition they shall succeed in defeating the present effort to reconstruct the State.

It is not my province to make recommendations for your action; but I trust that it will not be considered improper for me to suggest that, in the constitution you are about to form, it is expected—

That you will declare that the pretended act of secession and all laws that have been enacted in aid of the late rebellion, or repugnant to the Constitution and laws of the United States, are and were null and void from their inception; and that you will at once repeal all laws that make any discrimination against persons on account of their color, race or previous condition;

That you will provide for ascertaining and paying all debts that were owing by the State at the commencement of the rebellion, and prohibit the payment of any debts incurred in aid of the rebellion, or for the support of the rebel government, during its progress;

That you will secure equal civil and political rights to every inhabitant of the State who has not forfeited these rights by participation in the late rebellion, or by conviction for crime;

That you will temporarily disfranchise a number of those who participated in the rebellion, sufficient to place the political power of the State in the hands of those who are loyal to the United States Government;

That you will make a liberal provision, by taxation upon property, for the immediate establishment of Free Public Schools for the education of every child in the State;

That you will secure to every citizen of the State, who has not heretofore received it, a reasonable amount of land out of the public domain for a homestead;

That you will adopt efficient measures to encourage immigration to our State from foreign countries, and to give aid and encouragement to such works of internal improvement as the necessities of our people require.

All these measures are called for by the public sentiment of our loyal citizens, and are necessary, I think, to secure the future happiness and prosperity of all.

The division of Texas into two or more States is a question that has recently excited much discussion, and will doubtless be brought before your honorable body. I do not think that the public interests would be advanced by the adoption of such a measure at the present time. Our population does not probably exceed eight hundred thousand; and to subject them to the expenses of two or three State governments, in their present impoverished condition, would not only be a very great burden, but would greatly diminish their ability to support a proper system of public education, and to give aid and encouragement to the measures that are needed to develop the wealth and resources of the State. If this measure is insisted on, it must inevitably delay our return to the Union; for the acts of Congress, under which the effort to reconstruct Texas is now being made, provide for the establishment of only one State within our territory. Should such a division hereafter be desired by our people, it can be more readily inaugurated and carried out after we shall have been restored to the Union, than it can be while we are without a representative in Congress.

There is another measure to which I would respectfully invite your attention; and that is, the propriety of authorizing a negotiation to be opened with the United States Government for a sale of all that portion of our territory lying west of a line drawn from the mouth of the Pecos river to the northwest corner of Hardeman county. This would include no part of the State that has been laid off into counties, except El Paso and Presidio counties, which are so far separated from the other parts of the State by a large uninhabited tract, that they cannot be properly accommodated with courts without making them a separate judicial district, at an expense greatly disproportioned to the revenue derived from taxation on the whole of the territory proposed to be sold. It is believed that the inhabitants of those counties will be favorable to the measure. This territory adjoins the territories set apart by the United States for the Indians, and would be useful to them in carrying out their Indian policy. It would be far more valuable to them than it can ever be to this State; and they will doubtless pay us a price for it far greater than we can realize from it in any other way. If we retain it, we shall probably fritter it away as we have the rest of our public domain, without securing any substantial benefit from it; while, with the money we may obtain from such a disposition of it, we shall at once be in possession of a fund that will enable us to do something effective for education, internal improvement and immigration, without subjecting ourselves to onerous taxation. Such a sale will still leave us sufficient territory to form three large States, whenever our citizens shall desire a division of it.

The officers of the government at this place are prepared to furnish your honorable body with such reports as will give you full and accurate information in regard to the state of the treasury at the commencement of the rebellion, during its progress, and at the present time; the condition of the School fund and the University fund, and what amount of each was diverted to the support of the rebellion; the sales of Land Scrip that were made during the rebellion, and all other information to be found in the public records that may be useful to you in the discharge of your duties.

The amount of money in the State treasury on the thirty-first of May, 1868, applicable to the ordinary expenditures of the government, is two hundred and three thousand, seventy-nine dollars and sixty-nine cents ($203,079 69); of which two hundred and two thousand, eight hundred and eighty-four dollars, and thirty-five cents ($202,884 35) are in United States currency, and one hundred and ninety-five dollars and thirty-four cents ($195 34) are in specie. This is exclusive of the amount standing to the credit of the School, University and other trust funds. It is believed that this money, with that which will be received from time to time under the present tax laws, will be sufficient to meet all the expenditures of the government, and pay the expenses of your honorable body, unless they should be greater than is anticipated, without the necessity of imposing an additional tax upon our citizens, as contemplated by the supplementary reconstruction law of the twenty-third of March, 1867. The Convention of 1866 was composed of the same number of members as the present, and continued in session fifty-five days; and the entire expenses of that body were sixty-nine thousand nine hundred and thirty-three dollars and fifty-nine cents ($69,933 59). And it is estimated that ninety thousand dollars ($90,000) will be sufficient to cover your expenditures. And I would respectfully suggest that the Convention at once pass an ordinance, as contemplated by the said act of Congress of the twenty-third of March, 1867, prescribing the fees, salaries and compensation to be paid to all delegates, and other officers and agents that may be necessary to enable you to complete your labors, and appropriating the sum of one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000), or so much thereof as may be necessary, to pay the same; and that you also pass a resolution requesting the Commanding General of the Fifth Military District to approve your action in the premises. This course, I learn, on consultation with the Treasurer and Acting Comptroller, is desired by them for protection, and will be recommended to said commander by myself and the officer in command of the District of Texas.

We have reason to congratulate ourselves on prosperous seasons, and the prospect of abundant crops. The freed people are doing well, far better than their most ardent friends anticipated under all the circumstances by which they have been surrounded. The prejudice against them is gradually giving way to a better feeling. Many of those who prophesied ruin to the country from their emancipation are now compelled to admit that there is still some hope for the future; and when they shall have been secured in the enjoyment of the same civil and political rights as the white race, and the question finally set at rest, it will become a matter of surprise to many that they ever opposed the measure, in a country where the institutions are professedly based upon the principle that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed.

I trust, gentlemen, that a spirit of harmony will mark all your actions, and that you will be governed by a sincere desire to establish such a form of government as shall secure equal and exact justice to all. And I invoke upon your deliberations the blessings of that Almighty Power that has so often and so signally interposed in our behalf as a community in the hour of need.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

E. M. PEASE,

Governor of Texas.

Mr. Armstrong, of Lamar, offered the following resolution:

CAPITOL, AUSTIN, TEXAS, }
JUNE 4, 1868. }

The Convention met, pursuant to adjournment.

Roll called. Quorum present. Prayer by the Chaplain. Journal of yesterday read, amended and adopted.

Mr. Smith, of Galveston, moved to suspend the rules to offer the following preamble and resolution:

WHEREAS, By the reconstruction acts of March 2, 1867, it is provided "that no person excluded from the privilege of holding office" by the Fourteenth amendment proposed to the Constitution of the United States, shall be eligible to election as a member to this Convention: therefore,

Resolved, That the President of this Convention invite the Governor of the State to be present this morning and administer an oath to each of the members elect of this Convention, in accordance with the conditions of said reconstruction acts.

Convention refused to suspend rules.

Mr. Evans, of McClellan, from the committee appointed to prepare rules for the governance of the Convention, reported as follows:

The committee appointed by the President, under a resolution of the Convention, to report rules for its government during its deliberations, beg leave to submit that they have examined the rules usually adopted by the Legislatures of the State, and with the modifications which they have interpolated, to adapt them to the nature and condition of the Convention as a deliberative assembly, they recommend their adoption as rules to govern this House. Embracing the changes suggested by the committee, they will be found in the printed pamphlet herewith returned as a part of their report. All of which is respectfully submitted.

A. J. EVANS,
L. LINDSEY,
M. L. ARMSTRONG.

Mr. Evans, of McLennan, introduced the following resolution:

Resolved, That the report of the Committee on Rules be postponed until 12 o'clock to-day.

Adopted.

Mr. C. Caldwell, from the committee appointed to inquire into the importance and necessity of procuring the services of a reporter, presented the following report:

MR. PRESIDENT:

Your committee appointed to inquire into the importance and necessity of procuring the services of a reporter, have performed the duty assigned to them, and submit the result of their deliberations.

They respectfully suggest, in accordance with the usage of deliberative bodies, engaged in the work of forming the organic law for a State, that the Convention employ a reporter.

There are many obvious reasons why the debates should be perpetuated, so as to form a part of the history of the very responsible and arduous labors of this body.

In the opinion of your Committee, a record thus faithfully made will become useful and important in the true exposition of the various provisions of the Constitution. Language is so dubious, and susceptible of such various readings that the common experience of mankind has demonstrated that the contemporaneous sayings of those engaged in the work of legislation have thrown light upon the subjects discussed and adopted.

Besides, the people of Texas and the whole country have a right to know the motives and reasons by which members are actuated, as far as practicable, in making a new constitution. It is due alike to the Convention and the people. It is but a debt we owe posterity. It is from sources like this that some future Bancroft, Gibbon, or Prescott will be enabled to write a faithful history of the terrible times upon which we have fallen.

Your committee have consulted with Mr. John Ford, and find him well qualified. He reported the debates of the Reconstruction Convention of Mississippi. Specimens of the daily proceedings and his manner having been exhibited to your committee, we are satisfied of his abilities.

Your committee therefore recommend that they be empowered to employ Mr. John Ford at the rate of fifteen dollars per day.

Respectfully, etc.,

C. CALDWELL, Chairman.

The Treasurer sent the following communication to the Convention:

OFFICE STATE TREASURER,

Austin, Texas, June 4, 1868.

HON. E. J. DAVIS,

President State Convention, Austin, Texas.

SIR: As the Convention under the reconstruction law has now organized, and presuming that application will soon be made to the Commanding General for an appropriation to pay its expenses, I have thought that it might not be improper to give some information touching the condition of the State treasury, and therefore have the honor to enclose herewith a "statement of funds on hand in the State treasury on the thirty-first day of May, 1868."

The State revenue is the fund out of which appropriations are paid, and the statement shows that there is of that fund on hand, in United States currency, \$202,884 35 $\frac{3}{4}$

It is estimated that there will be paid into the treasury before the first day of January, 1869, say, 215,000 00

Total of this fund	\$417,884 35 $\frac{3}{4}$
Estimate of current expenses for support of State Government to January 1, 1869, say	$130,000 00
Estimate of balance on hand, January 1, 1869, of this fund	\$287,884 35 $\frac{3}{4}$

The statement and estimate show that there are now, and probably will be at the close of the year, ample funds in the treasury to defray all expenses, both of the State Government and the Convention, without resorting to the collection of a special tax, as contemplated by the law of Congress.

I have the honor to be,

With much respect,

Your obedient servant,

JOHN T. ALLAN,

Treasurer.

Mr. McCormick, from the Committee on Contingent Expenses, made the following report:

COMMITTEE ROOM.

June 5, 1868.

Hon. E. J. Davis, President of the Convention.

SIR: The Committee on Contingent Expenses, to which was referred the resolution introduced by Mr. Webster Flanagan, relating to the per diem pay and mileage of the members of the Convention, and current expenses of the Convention, have had the same under consideration. They find that the Convention of 1845 fixed the per diem of the members of the first Legislature at three dollars per day; that subsequently, the Legislature raised the per diem to five dollars per day for members of the Legislature; that what is known as the Secession Convention, did not take any action on the subject of their pay, but the Legislature, then in session, passed an act providing that the delegates to the State Convention, and the officers thereof, should receive the same pay as the members and officers of the Legislature. Pay was then made in gold. In February, 1866, the Convention, then assembled here, taking into consideration the difference in the market value of gold, and the currency of the United States, in which pay was then, and is now, made, raised the pay of members and officers to eight dollars per day, and fixed the pay of the first Legislature at that figure. Since February, 1866, United States currency has not depreciated to any considerable extent, if at all, so far as the Committee is informed, and a majority of the Committee are of opinion, and instruct me to report, that they are unable to discover sufficient reason, either in the history of past legislation, or the present condition of the State to justify them in reporting favorably on so much of said Resolution as proposes to fix the per diem of members and officers at fifteen dollars per day. So much of the Resolution, as relates [to] the general appropriation for the current expenses, has received the favorable judgment of the committee. And I am instructed by the majority of the committee to return said Resolution, with the recommendation that it do not pass, but that the Declaration herewith reported be passed in lieu thereof.

A. P. McCORMICK,

for the majority of the committee.

A DECLARATION, making an appropriation for the per diem pay and mileage of the members, and per diem pay of the officers of the Convention.

SECTION 1. Be it declared by the delegates of the people of Texas, in Convention assembled, That the members and officers (not to include Messengers and Porters) of said Convention shall receive from the State Treasury, as a compensation for their services, the sum of eight dollars per day, and the members, likewise, eight dollars for every twenty-five miles of travel, coming to, and going from, the Convention; and the messengers and porters the sum of four dollars per day.

SEC. 2. Be it further declared, That the sum of one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, to pay the mileage and per diem aforesaid.

SEC. 3. Be it further declared, That the certificate of the Secretary of the Convention will be sufficient to authorize the Comptroller to draw upon the Treasurer, for such sums as may be due the members and officers aforesaid; and that this Declaration take effect from its passage.

COMMITTEE ROOM,
June 8, 1868.

To the Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention:

Sir: Your Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was referred a resolution instructing them to enquire into the necessity and propriety of urging upon the Congress of the United States, a change in the Reconstruction Laws, giving to this body the appointment of the Boards of Registrars in this State, and that they report by memorial, resolutions, or otherwise, without delay; have had the same under consideration, and have instructed me to report the following resolutions, and recommend their adoption. All of which is respectfully submitted.

A. J. HAMILTON,
Chairman.

Resolved, 1st, That in the opinion of this Convention, it is necessary in this State, to a fair administration of the Laws of Congress upon the subject of the Reconstruction of the States lately in rebellion, to so change the provisions of said laws, as to transfer from the commander of the 5th Military District, to this Convention, the power and authority to appoint and to remove Registrars, for ascertaining and recording the qualified voters of the State of Texas.

Resolved, 2d, That this Convention respectfully but earnestly urge upon the Congress of the United States, the change indicated in the preceding resolution, at the earliest practicable moment.

Mr. Mullins made the following minority report :

To the Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of State Convention:

Sir: I respectfully submit the following minority report: I do not believe it either necessary or proper for this Convention to urge upon the Congress of the United States a change in the Reconstruction law, giving to this body the appointment of the Boards of Registrars in this State." It is a matter, in my judgment, over which the Convention, as such, has no control. Created by the Reconstruction Laws of Congress, it derives its power to act solely from those laws, and any action that it might take, beyond the formation of a Constitution, would be unauthorized. That its members, individually or collectively, have a right to petition Congress, as citizens, I do not question: but in its official capacity as a law-making power I do not think any such power exists, and such action I would deem a disrespectful assumption on our part, of the right to sit in judgment on the action of Congress. Again: The military commander, uninfluenced by local interests or prejudices, would be as likely, I think, to appoint impartial Boards of Registrars as we, who are, in a greater or less degree, liable to these influences. For these and other reasons, I dissent from the majority of the Judiciary Committee.

Very respectfully,

W. H. MULLINS.

CAPITOL, AUSTIN, TEXAS,
JUNE 10, 1868.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment.

Roll called. Quorum present. Prayer by the Chaplain. Journal of yesterday read and adopted.

The President announced the following communication from the Secretary of State:

AUSTIN, June 9, 1868.

HON. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention:

SIR: In answer to a resolution of the Convention requesting the Provisional Secretary of State to direct the State Librarian to open the State Library to the members of this Convention at all reasonable hours, I beg to inform the members of the Convention that when Governor Pease came into office, the position of State Librarian was vacant, and there being no appropriation for the payment of a Librarian, no appointment has been made.

The Superintendent of Public Instruction for this State, Hon. E. M. Wheelock, occupies the State Library room for an office.

No copies of Paschal's Digest of the Laws of Texas have been purchased by the State, and the Secretary of State has none under his control. There is no appropriation for the purchase of books.

Respectfully submitted,

W. C. PHILLIPS,

Secretary of State.

Mr. Munroe, from the Committee on Engrossed Bills, made the following report:

To the HON. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention :

The Committee on Engrossed Provisions, to whom was referred a declaration making an appropriation for the per diem pay and mileage of the members and the per diem pay of the officers of the Convention, having examined the same, beg leave to report it as correctly engrossed.

A. T. MUNROE,
Chairman of Committee on Engrossed Provisions.

Mr. Evans, of McLennan, from the Committee on Federal Relations, made the following majority report :

HALL OF REPRESENTATIVES,
 June 9, 1868.

To the HON. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention :

SIR: Your Committee on Federal Relations beg leave to report that they have had under patient consideration the propositions submitted to them, in reference to past ordinances, laws, etc., and beg leave to submit that the committee are unanimously in favor of the first and the second propositions, submitted to them, and recommend their adoption after striking out the words "local" and "municipal" in the second proposition, which does not change the same.

But your committee regret to say that upon the third proposition we are not unanimous; but a majority of your committee report that they endorse said third proposition, and ask that it do pass this Convention.

A. J. EVANS,
Chairman of Committee on Federal Relations.

Mr. Sumner made the following minority report :

We, the minority committee, would respectfully recommend that the following be added to the above declaration :

That this declaration shall confine itself to all laws and acts passed in aid of the rebellion, and all laws conflicting with the Constitution of the United States, and we would further recommend that the whole be respectfully referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

Respectfully submitted,

F. W. SUMNER,
 C. E. COLEMAN,
 J. R. SCOTT,
 A. L. KIRK.

Mr. Gray, Chairman of the Committee on State Affairs, made the following report, with accompanying resolution :

To the Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

The undersigned, Committee on State Affairs, to whom was referred a resolution defining and declaring the powers which this Convention may legitimately exercise, have had the subject matter of the resolution under consideration, and ask leave to submit the following report, as the result of their labors.

Your committee regard the questions presented as of great importance; yet, it is believed, the questions are not difficult of solution.

As declared in the first section of the proposed resolution, the right of this Convention to assemble depends wholly on the provisions of what is known as the Reconstruction Acts of Congress. At the close of the war, the President of the United States, in his proclamation, declared that the States in rebellion had deprived themselves of all civil government. There was not an officer within our borders authorized to execute civil law.

Any one at all acquainted with the history of the past knows that it is the established policy, as well as theory, of the National Government, that there exists no power, except in the political authority, to reconstruct the State government recently waging war.

Hence it follows, as a self-evident proposition, that this Convention is assembled here to-day in obedience to, and by the authority of the Government of the United States, as manifested through its officers and agents.

The second proposition contained in the proposed resolution, is as to the powers of this Convention.

By the fourth section of the first supplementary act, touching the reconstruction of the States recently in rebellion, among other things it is declared that "the Commanding General, within sixty days from the date of election, shall notify the delegates to assemble in Convention, at a time and place to be mentioned in the notification; and said Convention, when organized, shall proceed to frame a constitution and civil government according to the provisions of this act and the act to which it is supplementary."

The language quoted from the act of Congress is in the nature of a command directed to the Convention, when engaged in the work of framing a constitution and organizing civil government; and it is only a constitution thus framed which this Convention is authorized to submit to the registered voters for ratification.

There is but one limit on the powers of this Convention, in framing a constitution, that is, that it be Republican in form, and the right to determine this question belongs exclusively to Congress. It was in aid of that provision of the Constitution of the United States which makes it the duty of the Government of the United States to guarantee to every State of the Union a Republican form of government, that the several reconstruction acts were passed. It is the opinion of your committee that Congress has conferred all necessary power on the Convention to frame a State constitution and civil government for Texas. It is believed that the acts of Congress do not limit the powers of this Convention.

It is apparent that this Convention may or ought to exercise just such power, and none other, as will result in the organization of a State government. Hence, your committee respectfully submit and recommend the adoption of the accompanying resolution, as a substitute for the original one under discussion. All of which a majority of the committee instruct me to report.

B. W. GRAY,

Chairman of Committee on State Affairs.

Resolved, 1st. That this Convention is assembled by the authority of and in obedience to the laws of the United States.

2d. That this Convention possesses the power to frame a Constitution and civil government for Texas, and that it is a question alone for this Convention to determine what ordinances, declarations and resolutions are necessary and proper to carry out the expressed will of Congress.

Mr. Gray, Chairman of the Committee on State Affairs, made the following additional report :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
AUSTIN, TEXAS, JUNE 8, 1868.

To the HON. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

The undersigned Committee on State Affairs, to whom the petition of W. R. Story has been referred, asking to be relieved of the disability of minority, have carefully examined the same, and submit the following report :

Your committee are of opinion that the relief sought does not properly come within the range of the duties of this Convention; being of a purely legislative character, it should be addressed to the Legislature. It would be wholly impracticable for the Convention to undertake the work of legislation, except of such general character as might be necessary and proper to organize civil government.

Your committee therefore ask that the petition be laid on the table.

Respectfully submitted,

B. W. GRAY,
Chairman.

Mr. Lindsay, from the Committee on the Judiciary, made the following majority report :

To the President of the Convention :

MR. PRESIDENT :

The committee to whom was referred the declaration offered by the delegate from Rusk, providing "that all sales of property by Sheriffs in the State be, and the same are hereby suspended, until further action can be had therein," have had the subject under consideration, and the majority of the committee beg leave to submit the following report :

That regarding the powers and duties of the Convention as special and specific, and from the nature of the trust committed to its hands by the great body of its constituency, confined and restricted solely and exclusively to the formation of a written constitution for their adoption or rejection; they are unable to discover in the delegated authority to the Convention any power which would warrant the passage of the declaration proposed.

This body represents the whole political element of the State for a certain and definite object only, and it cannot respond to a mere fragment of it by any legislative action. It has no authority to afford relief, if relief it be, in any such way. It can neither legislate for the debtor nor for the creditor portion of the community. Nor are the committee, or the majority of it, prepared to concede the soundness of such legislation, if the Convention were invested with the power. Such interference between debtor and creditor would be the commission of a species of injustice which no civil government should indulge or tolerate; and the founders of our National Government, sagaciously foreseeing the tendency of local municipal governments thus to pervert the principles of natural justice, wisely imposed a check upon all the States against passing any law, organic or legislative, impairing the obligation of contracts. It must be borne in mind by the Convention that we are now living under a Provisional Government, in which all the powers of State are invested, subject to the supervision and control of the military authority, established over it by the acts of Congress, until such time as this Convention shall have completed its special labors and they shall have received the ratification of the people of the State and the guarantee of the National Government. If then any relief could be afforded, as contemplated by the declaration, the appeal would have to be made necessarily to the Provisional Government, and not to this Convention.

In our judgment, the Convention equally depart from the sphere of its duty to memorialize the Provisional Government to grant the relief sought for, as, in the opinion of the majority of the committee, the assumption of such power by the military and Provisional Government would be violative of the Constitution of the United States.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

L. LINDSAY,
JAMES R. BURNETT,
W. H. MULLINS,
W. R. FAYLE,
A. J. EVANS.

Mr. Hamilton, of Travis, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, offered the following minority report and resolution :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
June 9, 1868.

HON. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR: A minority of the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom was referred the ordinance introduced by Mr. J. W. Flanagan, in reference to the suspension of forced sales, are not able to agree with the recommendations made in the majority report. We fully concur as to the legal principles upon which the majority report reposes, and agree that this Convention has no power to grant the relief sought.

We believe that the social, political and financial condition of the State is so peculiar and so embarrassing as to fully justify us in calling upon the military officer in command of this District, whose powers are believed to be plenary for the relief sought. We therefore submit herewith a resolution as a substitute for the original resolution, with the recommendation that said substitute be passed.

A. J. HAMILTON,
A. P. McCORMICK,
C. CALDWELL,
H. C. PEDIGO.

Resolved, 1st. That it is the opinion of this Convention that the social, political and financial condition of this State is so peculiar and so embarrassing that the public good would be promoted by the suspension of all process for the enforcement of judgments sounding in debt or damages. That this Convention has no power to make the required provision, but are of opinion that the military commander of the Fifth Military District is clothed with sufficient power, and we therefore respectfully urge the subject upon his attention and request him to make said provision by general order.

Resolved, 2d. That the President of this Convention is requested to transmit these resolutions to the Headquarters of the Fifth Military District, and have the same brought to the attention of the commander in such a manner as will be most likely to secure his prompt and favorable action on the same.

Mr. Bledsoe offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That I be permitted to go before the Speaker's desk and have him administer to me what is known as the iron clad oath.

Resolution laid over one day under rule.

Mr. Armstrong, of Lamar, offered the following declaration, and moved its reference to Committee on Finance.

It was so referred.

A Declaration for the relief of R. S. Brame, Assessor and Collector of Lamar County.

Whereas, on the 26th night of December, A. D. 1866, the store house of Messrs. Travis, G. Wright, and Ed. Gibbons, merchants, trading in the city of Paris, Lamar county, Texas, was burglariously entered, and the sum of $2,339 93 abstracted from the safe of said Wright and Gibbons, it being the amount of State and County Taxes collected by Richard S. Brame, the Assessor and Collector of the Taxes for Lamar county, and deposited in said safe.

And Whereas, the facts being made known to Gov. Throckmorton, the collection of the State Tax was by him suspended. The County Court of Lamar county, by order of the same, released said Assessor and Collector of any liability for losses sustained by said county, which amounted to the sum of \$881 $\frac{3}{4}$.

Therefore, We, the People of the State of Texas, in Convention assembled, do hereby declare that Richard S. Brame, Assessor and Collector of Taxes for the county of Lamar, he, and he is hereby discharged from any liability whatever, in consequence of the amount so abstracted from the safe of Wright and Gibbons, on the night of the 26th December, 1866.

Mr. Degener offered the following ordinance, and asked its reference to the Committee on Finance.

It was so referred.

AN ORDINANCE

Explanatory and defining the Legal Tender Acts, passed by the 37th Congress of the United States, 1861 and 1862.

We, the people of Texas, in Convention assembled, acknowledging that the Constitution of the United States, and the laws passed in pursuance thereof, are the supreme law of the land, declare 1st, That the citizens of Texas had, and have now the undoubted right to bind themselves for the payment of gold or silver, or its equivalent in the legal tender coin of America.

2d, That the Legal Tender Act of the Congress of the United States, was not intended to, nor does it restrict, alter, modify, or change the above specified right: and therefore ordain

That the Courts of Texas shall hereafter conform their decisions to the time, intent and meaning of the contracts which may come before them for adjudication; unless the Supreme Court of the United States shall declare that the said Legal Tender Act applies to all the personal contracts of the citizens of the United States, without regard to the forms of their contract.

CAPITOL, AUSTIN, TEXAS,
JUNE 11, 1868.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment. Roll called. Quorum present. Prayer by the Chaplain. Journal of yesterday read and adopted.

By consent of the Convention, the President instructed the Secretary to read a communication from the official reporter of the Convention.

AUSTIN, June 10, 1868.

To the Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of Texas Constitutional Convention :

Sir : I have just learned, with no small degree of astonishment, through Dr. Smith, of Galveston, and other members of the Constitutional Convention, that I am credited with being the regular correspondent of Flake's Bulletin, and the writer of a recent letter to that paper containing strictures on the proceedings of this body that were offensive to some of its members. Permit me to state, that there is not a shadow of foundation for such rumor. I do not know Mr. Flake, have no relations with him whatever, and am as ignorant of the purport of the letter in question as I am of what is now transpiring at the Antipodes. Moreover, I should consider it, to say the least, in exceeding bad taste, were I, as an officer of this Convention, to make myself a party to any dispute that may divide its members: and a decided dereliction of duty, were I to become a correspondent or regular contributor to any journal while holding my present position.

I feel that this disclaimer is due to myself, and I trust it will be satisfactory to those gentlemen whose minds have been misled and misinformed on this matter.

I have the honor to be, Sir,

Your obedient Servant,

JOHN TOVELL,

Official Reporter Constitutional Convention.

The President announced the receipt of the following communication from his Excellency Governor E. M. Pease, transmitting report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, in response to a resolution introduced by Mr. Talbot on the 9th instant.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE, AUSTIN,

June 10, 1868.

Hon. E. P. DAVIS,

President of the Constitutional Convention:

Sir: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of this date, inclosing a copy of the Resolution offered by Mr. Talbot, Chairman of the Committee on Education, asking for certain information from the Commissioner of the General Land Office: and also requesting me to transmit to the Convention the Report of the Superintendent of Public Schools, upon the condition of his office.

In reply, I beg leave to transmit herewith the Report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, which, I presume, is the Report desired.

A copy of the Resolution has this day been sent to the Commissioner of the General Land Office, asking him to furnish the information desired from his office, which will be transmitted to the Convention as soon as it can be made out.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient Servant,

E. M. PEASE.

AUSTIN, TEXAS, May 30, 1868.

TO HIS EXCELLENCY E. M. PEASE,

Governor of the State of Texas :

In accordance with your instructions I have the honor to submit the following report, embracing a summary of what has been done hitherto for the maintenance of public education in Texas; together with such suggestions as may be of use in founding a system of permanent public schools.

While Texas remained as a frontier province of Mexico, with a small white population in scattered settlements, open on every side to the inroads of the wild tribes of the Plains, no provision could be made for public instruction.

In 1836, in the organic act which broke the federal relation with Mexico, and declared Texas an independent republic, it is made "the duty of Congress, as soon as circumstances shall permit, to provide by law a general system of education." Accordingly, three years later, an act was passed granting to each county three leagues of land for school purposes. In the following year a board of school commissioners for each county, consisting of the chief justice and two associate justices, were appointed, with power to locate and survey these lands; while an additional league was granted to each county, which the board were empowered to sell at their discretion, and apply the proceeds, one-half for the use and benefit of an academic school for each county, and the remainder to be distributed equally among the various primary schools.

It was subsequently provided that these lands should not be sold or disposed of save by lease, and that for a limited term of years. As there was no possibility of leasing lands, the provision simply amounted to a prohibition of their sale. In view of the vast amounts of land that were then being thrown upon the market at a nominal price, the restriction was a wise one, and prevented the waste of this liberal grant.

At that time the Congress of the Republic could do nothing more for the cause of popular education than to lay the foundation that aftertimes might develop into a permanent school fund such as has not heretofore fallen to any community.

At the close of the year 1845 occurred the annexation of Texas.

The convention that then framed the State constitution found the endowment in this condition, and by article ten confirmed the restriction on sales in the act of 1839, and extended the benefits of the grant to all the other counties established subsequently to the passage of that act.

By this legislation a grand total of 520 leagues, or 2,302,560 acres was set apart to the one hundred and thirty organized counties of the State, as the basis of a perpetual school fund. About five-sixths of this amount has been located and surveyed.

The Legislature was also enjoined "to make suitable provision for the support of schools;" "to establish free schools throughout the State, furnish means for their support by taxation on property," and "to set apart not less than one-tenth of the revenue of the State, derivable from taxation, as a perpetual fund, which shall be appropriated to the support of free public schools, and entitled the General Common School Fund."

Laws from time to time were passed in accordance with this article of the organic law, and the fund thus accruing amounted in 1855 to $328,668.

In January, 1854, a great forward step was taken. The sum of two millions of dollars in United States bonds (being a portion of the ten millions indemnity paid by the Federal Government to Texas, in settlement of boundary claims), was set apart as a special school fund; the interest arising therefrom to be applied toward the payment of teachers' salaries; while the income from the general school fund, derivable from the one-tenth taxation, was to be devoted to the payment of the school rates of indigent pupils. The chief justices and county commissioners were required to form their respective counties into school districts of convenient size, and to order an annual election in each district of a board of trustees who were charged with the school interests of their districts. The assessor and collector of each county was enjoined to take a yearly census of all persons of schoolable age, which census became the basis of the money distribution. The State Treasurer was made ex-officio superintendent of common schools.

This law, copied from the successful school experience of older States, was, in its general scope, progressive and satisfactory. It might well have been made the basis of an efficient public school system, carrying instruction by force of law into every village and settlement of the State.

But it was soon found that legislation had outrun public opinion. Many of the officers named in the law were remiss in the performance of duty; but partial returns were received from the counties; not one-fourth of the school districts complied with the conditions upon which the distribution of the fund depended, so that the greater portion of the moneys distributed through the years 1854-5 remained in the hands of the county officers. There was no one charged with supervision; no officer set apart to lend force and impulse to the machinery of the law. The Treasurer, absorbed in the more legitimate duties of his office, could give to education but incidental and casual attention: above all, the spirit of slave society, always and essentially aristocratic, was adverse to the education of the people.

At the end of two years the common school law of 1854 was repealed or materially changed, the district system abolished, and the board of trustees dispensed with; it being provided in their place that "all schools, the teachers of which shall make a tabular return of attendance to the county courts, shall be public schools."

By another section of the act of 1856, authority was given to loan the special school fund to railroad companies under certain conditions: the companies giving first mortgage bonds payable in ten years at six per cent. in specie, with a further annual payment of two per cent. as a sinking fund.

The general school fund received from one-tenth taxes and the special school fund of $2,000,000 were blended and made one, and the income from both assigned to the use of the scholastic population, as follows: First, in payment of the tuition of indigent children, especially orphans, and the children of widows; the balance to the paying patrons of the schools pro rata.

This plan of loaning the school moneys was judicious, and under wise restrictions would have been a safe investment. But instead of confiding the loan to a few prominent trunk-lines until completion, charters were indiscriminately granted, and State aid unwisely extended to companies without responsibility or capital. The fund thus scattered served to begin many roads, and to finish none. The companies, without income or credit, and loaded with debt, began even before the war to fail to comply with their obligations to the school fund; and the rebellion completed the suspension of payments, or authorized them to be made in worthless paper.

This act was amended, in some of its details, in 1858, and in accordance with its provisions the income of the fund was annually distributed to the counties until the civil war engulfed all.

The school resources were greatly strengthened this year (1858) by the important law of February 11, which added to the principal of the educational fund the proceeds of all sales of public lands. This law was repealed during the war. It should be re-enacted, and made ir repealable.

I have not been able to find any official statement or record of the yearly progress of education in Texas under these various laws: nor of the number of teachers and of schools. There seems to have been but little inspection, discrimination or progress. The Treasurer, in his reports, complains of the chronic remissness of the counties in forwarding data: in the year 1861, for instance, out of a total of one hundred and twenty-four organized counties, but "twelve of the county courts made their reports as required by law." While the State was distributing upward of $100,000 annually for the support of public education. no summary of facts and school statistics were published or preserved. Such fragmentary data as were obtainable are here subjoined.

The Treasurer reports a disbursement for schools during the years 1854-5 of $27,137. For the six following years the amounts paid and the number of school children were as follows :

	Scholastic census.	Amount.	Per capita.
In 1856.....	72,826	$101,588	$1 38
In 1857.. ..	87,000	106,000	1 21
In 1858.....	102,772	105,855	1 03
In 1859.....	101,031	113,154	1 12½
In 1860	104,447	104,447	1 00
In 1861.....	105,200	65,224	0 62

Since 1861 no disbursements for schools have been made from the treasury.

In the first year of the rebellion the summary of the school fund was as follows :

Specie	$76,389 90
United States bonds.....	782,000 00
Interest coupons.....	17,675 00
Railroad bonds.....	1,635,500 00
Interest due.....	72,450 00
State warrants.....	8,518 24
Total.....	$2,592,533 14

In the destruction consequent upon the war, all of these funds that could be cashed, or made available, were sunk. Before the fifth of August, 1865, the total thus expended amounted to $1,285,327 ; for which, as the school fund had been declared permanent and inalienable, the State is in equity liable.

The railroad bonds alone were left. These roads have all forfeited their charters by non-payment of interest, and are almost hopelessly in arrears. With perhaps a single exception, they are regarded as insolvent. Omitting the arrears of the sinking fund, their condition is as follows :

Unpaid principal.....	$1,753,317 00
Interest due to March 1, 1868.. ..	450,140 00
Total.....	$2,203,457 00

The total now due may be summed up thus :

Due by railroads.....	$2,203,457	00
Due by the State.....	1,285,327	05
Specie in treasury.....	59,779	31
Currency.....	855	22
Total.....	$3,549,418	58

So nearly has this great endowment become extinct, that it is very doubtful whether, in its present condition, an annual income of thirty thousand dollars can be realized from it for the maintenance of schools.

The Convention of 1866 amended in some important respects article ten of the old constitution on education. It provided for a Board of Education and a Superintendent of Schools—the latter an office essentially necessary to the successful operation of a common school system. In addition to the school lands granted to the counties, it set aside the reserved sections of railroad lands, together with one-half of the proceeds arising from the sale of all public lands, as a basis for a perpetual school fund; and it wisely placed the county lands under the control of the Legislature, which was authorized to provide for their sale. But a clause of section six, giving to each county the power to negative the sale, rendered the provision valueless. The Legislature should have exclusive control of the school lands.

The railroad lands thus granted and yet unsold, amounting to 2,548,070 acres, added to the former grant, makes a total land endowment of 4,850,630 acres. If these lands are placed in the market gradually, in accordance with the annual demand of immigration and of a growing population, and sold on long credits with interest, they would, on the return of prosperous times, soon bring an average price of two dollars per acre. Before many years a fund could thus accrue of over nine millions of dollars. To these land endowments should be added, and made inalienable by the organic law, the remaining public domain.

The public lands of Texas, which a few years since amounted to 175,000,000 of acres, exceeding in size the combined area of all the States on the seaboard from Maine to Maryland; and which, if properly husbanded, would have sufficed for all demands of State revenue, of Education, and of Public Works, for many a year to come, have been so ingeniously lavished, that little now is left save Young's Territory, the sterile wastes of the Staked Plain, and the mountain ranges of El Paso.

With the exception of that portion ceded to the Federal Government, the State has realized comparatively nothing from its immense possessions; and but a few years more of special and speculative legislation is needed to dissipate, without remedy, the last fragment of the public lands. The prodigal past cannot be redeemed, but in this moment of fundamental change, we will, if we are wise, provide for the future.

The unsold lands of our State now offer the means of strengthening the wasted and ruined school fund to the height of every future demand. If neglected now, never again will the highest interests of the commonwealth find at our hands so propitious an occasion. The fund thus accumulated, while set apart as an inviolable educational resource for all coming years, could be invested under such careful conditions as would give safety, strength and permanence to the plan in the bonds of a system of main trunk railroad penetrating every section with vital lines of travel and of trade.

The provision of the old constitution, by which one-tenth of the annual revenue derived from taxation was added to the principal of the common school fund, is abolished by the constitution of 1866. It is recommended that at least double the former proportion be now set apart—not, however, to augment the principal of the fund, but to serve as an immediate means of income, and to be annually expended for the support of schools.

The State revenue may be estimated for the next five years at about $500,000 per annum, one-fifth of which would yield for public education $100,000. This amount, combined with whatever gleanings of income may be realized from the old fund, would suffice to set on foot a system of primary schools suited to the peculiarities of our country and population, and placing instruction within the reach of every child of whatever color, condition or race.

The sum asked for is not large, either as compared with the ability of Texas, or with the expenditure of other American States. Fifty-two per cent. of the ordinary taxation of Ohio is yearly expended in support of education. The State of Vermont, rocky and poor, with a stationary population of 315,000, and with a smaller aggregate of fertile soil than many a Texan county possesses, paid out in 1866 for common schools $121,444; while all other expenditures for carrying on the civil government were less than $193,000. Iowa, settled and admitted into the Union later than Texas, with a population in 1867 of 900,000, and with not a tittle of the natural wealth and resources of our commonwealth, expended last year upwards of two millions of dollars for public schools!

One-twentieth of that sum is not a large yearly appropriation for us, with a population of 800,000, of whom one-fourth are between the ages of five and eighteen.

In view of the fact that the Convention is about to assemble, to frame or revise the fundamental law of the State, I would respectfully suggest the desirableness of securing, in the educational clause of the new constitution, the following features of a school system:

1. A common school fund, consisting of whatever values may be realized from the wreck of the former fund; the proceeds of fines, forfeitures, estrays, and of the estates of deceased persons to which the State may become entitled by law; the county school lands; the reserved sections of railroad lands; the public domain not otherwise appropriated. The principal of the fund not to be diverted or diminished, and the income to be devoted to the support of common schools by the payment of the salaries of teachers.

2. One-fifth of the aggregate annual income of the State to be yearly expended as above.

3. The Legislature to be authorized to provide, by the levying of a tax, for the erection of school buildings, etc.

4. The supervision of public instruction to be vested in a Board of Education and a State Superintendent of Schools, whose powers and duties shall be prescribed by law.

5. The Legislature to provide by law, at the first session, for the division of the State into districts of convenient size, and for the inception of a general and uniform system of common schools, to continue at least four months in every year, equally open to all children between the ages of five and eighteen, wherein tuition shall be without charge, and every child of requisite age required to attend, unless educated by other means.

Thus, while the paramount law ordains that there must be a system of free primary schools, open to the entire youth of the State, it may properly refer to the Legislature the settlement of the details thereof: the construction of buildings, the salary of teachers, the method of instruction, the question of separate or mixed schools, the plan of supervision, and the whole apparatus of the law.

It seems to have been a cherished design of the people of Texas to establish an institution for the instruction of youth in the higher branches of learning; and by generous grants to so endow the same as to place within the reach of rich and poor the privilege of a liberal and thorough education. The President of the Republic was ordered, in 1839, to set apart 221,400 acres for this purpose. In 1856 one hundred thousand dollars in United States bonds and one-tenth of the railroad lands were also appropriated "for the establishment and maintenance of the University of Texas," and the lands were offered for sale on a credit of twenty years. The grant was ample: the lands were choice, and large amounts were readily sold at an average price of three dollars and thirty-four cents per acre. Of this fund $379,168 was destroyed during the civil war by the State authorities: and it is understood that considerable sums, the proceeds of the land sales, were paid in Confederate money.

The amount of the University fund now in the treasury is $134,472 in State paper. No practical steps have yet been taken toward the location and establishment of this institution. But when once our State is dotted with common schools in full operation, for the education of the children of the people, these will naturally require, to be supplemented by High, graded and Normal schools, adapted to pupils of a larger growth, and these again crowned by a University.

A State University is indeed a logical necessity and outgrowth of the free school system, the head of the grand line of forces by which we would draw the whole people up to light and knowledge.

Of the value and need of public education little has been said in this report, for little need be said. Its own unquestioned utility lifts it above the support of argument. The imperative necessity of public schools, established for all, open to all upon equal terms, and upon principles common to all, has grown into a clear conviction, not liable to debate. The question is a closed one. With the American people, especially, the system of common schools is not an experiment. Since its early adoption upon the Atlantic shores, its growth has been continuous, and now, perfected by the experience of five generations, it is the chief glory of the Republic.

And this sense of the vital relation between free government and universal education has been deepened a hundred fold by the grand lessons of the war. Treason found no foothold among the educated commonwealths of the North and West. The public schools of the free States were the great bulwark of the imperilled Unity and Nationality. They were everywhere living fountains of loyalty and patriotism. No insurgent State had a practical free school system, and no loyal one was without it. The line of Free Schools divided the faithful and the rebel communities as sharply as did the contending camps. From that war we have emerged with changed purposes and an altered destiny. We are not the same people that we were; we can never be the same. To us the task is set to place our commonwealth in line with the nineteenth century, and to re-adjust the course of the ship of State for a new historic voyage. A civilization vitalized and energized by free schools is our chief need, and the education of youth our primary duty. Let the community in its organized capacity provide the bread of knowledge for all its children, and leaven with intelligence the whole mass of society. As the limits of citizenship widen, let us equally enlarge the capacity of the citizen.

There is nothing we ought not to do, there is no effort we ought not to make; there is no sacrifice, whether of money or of prejudice, we ought not to yield, rather than allow a generation into whose hands the ballot and the government is gravitating, to remain unfitted for their duties and destiny.

That so many of our people are grossly, dangerously ignorant, has long been a reproach and a moral stigma upon us; it is now something more—a question of self-preservation. In a country where all are rulers, all must be educated, or the lower level drags down all above.

Universal suffrage necessitates universal education.

Very respectfully,

E. M. WHEELOCK,

Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Report adopted.

Mr. Degener offered the following Declaration :

ARTICLE ON CORPORATIONS.

SECTION 1. Any two or more persons, whether citizens of this State or not, may associate themselves as a corporation, and upon lodging in the office of the Secretary of State their articles of association, and recording the same in the county wherein their principal office is established, may, in their corporate capacity, and under a corporate name, indicating the object of the association, engage in any kind of business, with the same powers as a natural person, a citizen of this State. The articles of association shall define the object and powers of the corporation, its duration, the mode of conducting the business, and the individual liability of its members.

SEC. 2. Any such corporation established for the purpose of constructing railroads, may acquire land needed for that purpose, by designating the same to the Governor of the State, if the land belongs to the public domain, and by paying to private owners a just compensation to be determined in the manner established by law. Provided, That, if within one year after such designation, or appointment, the railroad be not constructed through such land, the same shall revert to the original owner, subject to the right of the corporation to make a new designation, or appraisalment thereof. And further provided, That no such corporation shall construct a railroad on the route before designated for another in actual operation, or on any parallel route, within twenty miles thereof, except at one terminal point, without first obtaining the consent of the corporation operating the same.

SEC. 3. All corporations shall keep within this State an office for transacting business, and original or duplicate books of accounts and records; and the President, Secretary and Treasurer, or assistant officers of like grade and power, shall reside in this State.

The Legislature may require reports of the condition of all corporations to be made and published, and may provide for the examination of their books and business.

On motion of Mr. Degener, the Declaration was referred to the Committee on Internal Improvements.

Mr. Buffington introduced the following declaration :

We, the People of Texas, in Convention assembled, do declare,

1st, That it shall be the duty of the Legislature to provide for the more certain and speedy collection of the fees of the officers of the Courts.

2nd, That the Legislature of the State shall make it a sufficient cause to strike from the docket any cause where the costs of the officers of the court are not paid on, or before, the first day of each term of the court; except the parties shall swear that they are not able to pay such costs.

3rd, That in all cases where indictments are not sustained, the costs shall become a tax on the State.

Mr. Buffington moved it be referred to the Judiciary Committee.

It was so referred.

Mr Buffington offered the following declaration :

We, the people of Texas, in Convention assembled, do declare,

1st, That it shall be the duty of the Legislature to provide by law and enforce the collection of any back taxes that may be due and owing to the State.

2nd, That it shall be the duty of the Legislature to repeal all laws, and parts of laws, giving time to redeem land sold for taxes. The legislature shall by law make the sale of land by assessors and collectors absolute.

Mr. Buffington moved it be referred to the Judiciary Committee.

It was so referred.

The President announced the business in order was the unfinished business of yesterday, upon the motion of Mr. Evans, of McLennan, to adopt the majority report of the Judiciary Committee, respecting suspending sales by sheriffs.

Mr. Evans, of McLennan, in the chair.

Mr. Hamilton, of Bastrop, moved the report of the majority of the Judiciary Committee be re-referred to said committee and printed.

Motion not seconded.

On motion, the Convention adjourned until 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

CAPITOL, AUSTIN, TEXAS,
JUNE 13, 1868.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment. Roll called. Quorum present. Prayer by the chaplain. Journal of yesterday read and adopted.

The President announced a communication from his Excellency Governor E. M. Pease, transmitting the following report from the Commissioner of the General Land Office, in answer to the resolution offered by Mr. Talbot on the 8th inst. :

GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Austin, Texas, June 11, 1868.

To His Excellency Governor E. M. PEASE :

SIR: In response to the resolution of the Convention, received with your note of yesterday, I have the honor to submit the following report :

The area of the State, as estimated from the latest data, is 169,969,920 acres.

Of this there have been granted, and claims have been issued against it as follows :

ACRES.

Granted by the governments of Spain and Mexico.....	22,492,057
Headright certificates issued under the laws of the Republic and State.....	31,153,409
Bounty and Donation Warrants issued by the Republic and State.....	5,723,983

Grants confirmed by acts of the Legislature, approved February 10, 1852.....	3,741,241
Grants West of the Nueces, confirmed by the District Courts.....	78,219
University Lands, 50 leagues.....	221,400
County School Lands, 156 counties, four leagues each.....	2,763,072
Grants to Semineries of Learning under special acts.....	123,984
Pre-emption and settler's claims under laws prior to Nov. 12, 1866.....	1,346,281

Lavaca Navigation Company.....	30,720
Galveston and Brazos Navigation Company.....	60,160
Texas Powder Company.....	3,840

Surveys returned under Donation Act of November 12, 1866.....	56,160	82,770,556
Making a total of 82,770.556 acres, as lia- bilities against the Public Domain of the State.....		87,198,364

Deduct this from the estimated area above mentioned, and there remain 87,199,364 acres, against which there is no outstanding claim. This includes the Islands, alternate Railroad sections, and all other reserved lands as well as the vacant lands proper now open to location.

The above number will most probably be increased by abandoned locations and forfeited claims, so as to make the unencumbered area, say in round numbers, 87,500,000 acres. The greater portion of this is not included within the limits of the organized counties.

Of the liabilities against the Public Domain as above stated, there remain unpatented of Headright Certifi- cates of the 1st, 2d and 3d classes.....	ACRES.	4,014,298
Bounty and Donation Warrants		872,326
Scrip Certificates.		1,214,515
Railroad Certificates		4,147,485
Galveston and Brazos Navigation Company.....		41,600
Texas Powder Company.....		3,840
Surveys under act of November 12, 1866.....		56,160

The several Railroads have received lands and land certificates amounting to 5,296,960 acres, of which 1,168,035 have been patented. A tabular statement marked A, is transmitted herewith, shewing the amount of land certificates issued to each company, with the amount patented by virtue of the same. The attention of the Convention is respectfully called to this statement, and especially to Memphis, El Paso and Pacific Railroad Company.

By act of the Legislature, each county in the State is entitled to four leagues of land for school purposes. From a tabular statement hereto appended and marked B, it will be seen that but few counties have received the amount of land to which they are entitled, and that many have received none at all. This statement shows the actual condition of the lands that have been surveyed for the counties named therein.

Fifty leagues have been set apart for the purpose of supporting a University.

Statement C, shows how much of the same has been surveyed, when located, and the quantity patented. The entire amount of University land sold can be ascertained only from the State Treasurer.

One hundred thousand (100,000) acres each were set apart by act of 30th of August, 1856, for the Lunatic, Blind, Orphan and Deaf and Dumb Asylums. Statement C will also show how much has been surveyed for each of these Institutions, and where the lands are situated. None of these lands have been sold.

Of scrip issued during the rebellion for Confederate money and State Treasury Warrants, 6,400 acres was issued under the act of February 11, 1858; 117,920 acres under the act of January 1, 1862; and 21,280 acres under the act of March 11, 1863, together amounting to 145,600 acres, for which there was received $113,816. Of this Scrip, 48,438 acres have been patented; 37,322 acres have been located and field notes returned to this office, and are on file unpatented, leaving 59,840 acres outstanding, and so far as the records of the office show, unlocated.

A statement of said Scrip is herewith transmitted, marked D, also embracing the certificates issued under Special Relief Acts, passed during the rebellion.

These amount to 83,019 acres, nearly all of which have been patented. It is proper to remark that none of the class of Scrip mentioned in this statement, has been patented since I have had charge of the office.

Under the Act approved December 20, 1861, "To incorporate the Texas Powder Company," six certificates of six hundred and forty acres each were issued on the 27th January, 1862, amounting to 3,840 acres. Only one of these certificates appears to have been located and returned to this office. The act of incorporation provides that "said certificates shall be forfeited to the State if said manufactory shall not be in successful operation in six months after the passage of this Act." Inasmuch as there is no evidence on file that said Act has ever been complied with, it is presumed that the said six certificates are forfeited to the State, and the land located by virtue of the one returned to this office, is vacant and subject to location by genuine land claims.

Under the Act of December 15, 1863, "To encourage the erection of certain machinery by donations of land and otherwise," Mr. Charles Bussy, of Anderson county, the Cherokee Furnace Company of Cherokee county, and the Waco Manufacturing Company of McLennan county, appear to have taken the necessary steps to have surveys made for their benefit, but hitherto none have been returned by either of them. The office is not advised whether any surveys or locations have been made by either of these parties, but it would save the office some embarrassment if the Convention would say whether locations and surveys under this law shall be respected.

The Act of November 12, 1866, donates 160 acres of land to actual white settlers. Under this law there have been surveyed 56,160 acres; but as the law provides for a residence of three years upon the land before the settler shall be entitled to a patent, none have yet issued to this class of settlers. Inasmuch as there is a discrimination in favor of the white citizen to the prejudice of the colored, parties who have returned field notes of surveys, have been informed that their locations would be respected, but that no patents could issue to them until there was further legislation on the subject.

This course suggested itself in view of the Civil Rights Bill passed by Congress on the 9th of April, 1866, which provides in substance that the colored citizen shall have the same rights in all the States and Territories of the Union as are granted to the white citizen. The subject is respectfully submitted to the Convention.

A statement of the amount of land reserved by law from location, together with the counties in which they are situated, is hereto appended, marked E. These lands amount to 2,554,108 acres, and together with the reserve of eight miles on each side of the Memphis, El Paso and Pacific Railroad line, are believed to embrace some of the choicest lands of the State.

It will be seen by an examination of this statement, that but a small portion of these lands have been sold and patented as contemplated by law, whereas, if they were thrown open for location and settlement, under a liberal Pre-emption Homestead law, there can be but little doubt that they would be rapidly taken up and become a source of revenue to the State.

Very respectfully submitted,

JOSEPH SPENCE.

Mr. Talbot moved it be referred to Committee on Education. It was so referred.

Mr. Armstrong introduced the following declaration and petition :

A Declaration establishing new Counties.

Be it declared by the People, in Convention assembled. That the Legislature may establish new counties for the convenience of the inhabitants of this State : provided no new county shall be established which shall reduce the county or counties, or either of them from which said new county shall be taken, to a less area than nine hundred square miles (except the counties of Bowie and Marion). But the county of Delta is hereby established out of portions of the counties of Lamar, Fannin, Hunt and Hopkins, the same bounded as follows, to-wit : beginning at a point where the east line of Hopkins county crosses the Sulphur fork of Red river, thence south with the south fork of Sulphur to a point at the confluence of south and middle Sulphur, thence with Middle Sulphur to the ninety-sixth degree of longitude : thence with said line north to a point where said line crosses North Sulphur ; thence down said North Sulphur with its meanders to the place of beginning, and that the county of Delta proceed to organize the same in accordance with the laws. Every new county, as to the right of suffrage and representation, shall be considered a part of the county or counties from which it was taken, until entitled by numbers to the right of separate representation.

Mr. Armstrong moved its reference to the Committee on General Provisions.

It was so referred.

To the honorable Delegates of the State of Texas, in Convention assembled :

The undersigned resident citizens of the counties of Lamar, Fannin, Hunt and Hopkins, would respectfully show unto your honorable body that in consequence of the central locations of the different county seats in the four counties above named, and natural barriers presented by such streams as the Sulphur and the Bois d'Arc, and going to and from the towns of Paris, Bouham, Greenville and Tarrant, public justice, the business affairs, and convenience generally of the undersigned, people who reside in the annexed boundary, is greatly disturbed at all seasons of the year by high waters, bad roads, and various other causes, wherefore they refer to Cordova's map of Texas, and ask that a new county be made within the following boundaries, to-wit : Beginning in the county of Hopkins, at a point the confluence of the north and south frongs of Sulphur ; thence south with the south fork of Sulphur to a point, the confluence of South and Middle Sulphur; thence with Middle Sulphur to the ninety-sixth degree of longitude; thence with said line north to the point where said line crosses said North Sulphur; and from said point back with the meanders of the North Sulphur to the place of beginning. Your petitioners would further most earnestly submit that they believe that the creation of this new county, to be called by such name as your honorable body may adopt, would not only be of interest to them, but of incalculable advantage to the people of the respective counties from which the territory is taken, and the entire State at large. Wherefore we pray as before.

N. B. We would offer for your consideration the word "Delta."
Signed by C. E. Kingston and 401 others.

CAPITOL, AUSTIN, TEXAS,
June 17, 1868.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment.

Roll called. Quorum present. Prayer by the Chaplain. Journal of yesterday read and adopted.

The President directed the Secretary to read the following communication:

AUSTIN, TEXAS,
June 15, 1868.

To the Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention:

SIR: I herewith present to you, for the use of the Convention over which you have the honor to preside, the New York Convention Manual, containing all the Constitutions of the respective States of the Union as they existed prior to the recent Conventions of the Southern States called under the Reconstruction Acts of Congress. I trust that these precedents may be of service to the Convention in the great work now before it.

I remain, with great respect,

GEO. W. PASCHAL.

Mr. McCormick, from the Committee on Contingent Expenses, offered the following report:

COMMITTEE ROOM.

June 17, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR: Your Committee on Contingent Expenses, to which was referred the resolution introduced by Mr. Sumner instructing the Committee on Contingent Expenses to "inquire whether there are more pages, messengers and porters now employed by this Convention than are required to perform the work, and also to report what number of each is necessary," have had the same under consideration, and after full investigation beg leave to report that there are no more messengers and pages than are needed now employed. We find there are now employed five messengers and four pages, and five porters. The duties of the pages appear to require more time and labor than the duties of the porters, and we recommend that one of the porters be assigned to duty as a page, which will give five messengers, four porters and five pages, and all of whom in the opinion of the Committee are needed for the work. And that system and efficiency may mark the labors of these employes, we are of the opinion that the Sergeant-at-Arms should assign each his respective sphere of duty, and exercise a general and constant superintendence over the labors of all of these employes, under instructions, in doubtful matters, from the President of the Convention.

A. P. McCORMICK,

Chairman.

COMMITTEE ROOM.

The Committee are, however, of the opinion that these clerks when not engaged in the discharge of the regular duties of their respective offices should assist the Secretary; and I am instructed to report the accompanying resolution as a substitute for the original resolution :

A. P. McCORMICK,

Chairman.

Mr. Armstrong of Jasper, offered the following protest :

HON. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention :

The undersigned delegates ask leave to present their objections to the passage of the resolution offered by the honorable delegate from Travis county, A. J. Hamilton, on the 15th inst., "urging upon the Congress of the United States the necessity of authorizing the organization by this Convention of a militia force in the several counties of this State, to act in conjunction with and under direction of the military commander therein. In the first we are of opinion that the rumors and reports in regard to lawlessness and crime are greatly exaggerated, and many of them have no foundation in fact ; and if the power asked be granted, owing to the existence of much excitement and unfounded fears, the result will be unfavorable to the promotion of peace and good order.

We believe, furthermore, that the organization of such a force by a political party would only tend to exasperate the public mind and in all probability have the effect to produce conflicts of races, and in our judgment, the officers of the Provisional Government, if they will do their duty, together with the military, are fully able to bring all transgressors to punishment ; and we do not hesitate to say that the masses of the people, if called on, would lend any needful assistance.

We believe, moreover, that the military authorities of this District, on proper application made, will furnish ample protection to our citizens.

In our opinion, this resolution, if not an expressed is an implied censure of the commander of this military district, and the granting of such power would invest the commander of this State, through this Convention, with power over the District Commander within the limits of this State. Seeing no good that will probably result from the passage of the resolution, we respectfully submit this protest and ask that the same be spread on the journals of this Convention.

ARMSTRONG of Jasper,
W. H. MULLINS,
MARSHALL GLENN,
J. B. BOYD,
G. M. L. SOKELLE.

Mr. Buffington moved to spread the protest upon the minutes.

Mr. Bryant of Grayson moved to lay the protest upon the table, upon which the yeas and nays were demanded.

Mr. Flanagan moved to suspend the rules to allow Mr. Armstrong to speak in support of his protest.

Rules suspended.

The yeas and nays being called upon the motion to lay the protest upon the table, resulted thus :

Yeas—Messrs. President. Bell. Bledsoe, Board, Brown, Bryant, of Grayson, Bryant of Harris, Buffington, Carter, Coleman, Constant, Curtis, Degener, Downing, Evans of McLennan, Fayle, Flanagan, Foster, Grigsby, Hunt, Johnson, of Harrison, Kendal, Kuechler, Leib, Lippard, Long, McWashington, Munroe, Oaks, Patten, Phillips, of San Augustine, Ruby, Slaughter, Smith of Galveston, Smith, of Marion, Sumner, Vaughan, Watrous, Whitmore, Williams, Yarborough—41.

Nays—Messrs. Adams, Armstrong, of Jasper, Armstrong of Lamar, Bellinger, Burnett, Caldwell, Cole, Evans of Titus, W. Flanagan, Gaston, Glenn, Goddin, Gray, Hamilton of Bastrop, Hamilton, of Travis, Harris, Johnson, of Calhoun, Jordan, Kealy, Keigwin, Kirk, Lindsay, McCormick, Mills, Morse, Mueckleroy, Mullins, Mundine, Pedigo, Phillips of Wharton, Rogers, Schuetze, Scott, Sorrell, Stockbridge, Talbot, Thomas, Varnell, Wilson of Brazoria, Wilson of Milan, Wright—41.

Mr. Whitmore, Chairman of the Committee on Finance, made the following reports :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
AUSTIN, June 20, 1868.

HON. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR: Your Committee on Finance, to whom was referred the declaration introduced by Messrs. Evans of McLennan and Armstrong of Lamar, asking an appropriation of twenty-five thousand dollars to be used by the Governor, if found to be necessary, in the apprehension of lawless and desperate persons, have had the same under consideration. A majority of said committee instruct me to report the same back to the House, and ask that the declaration offered by Mr. Evans of McLennan do pass.

G. W. WHITMORE,

COMMITTEE ROOM,

HON. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR: Your Committee on Finance, to whom was referred the resolution offered by Mr. Armstrong of Lamar, providing for the payment of the unsettled balance due the civil officers of this State, appointed by Governor A. J. Hamilton, have had the same under consideration, and herewith transmit the same to the Convention with the recommendation that it do pass.

G. W. WHITMORE,
Chairman.

Mr. Glenn offered the following minority report :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
AUSTIN, June 19, 1868.

HON. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR : I do not think that the adoption of the resolution appropriating twenty-five thousand dollars for the arrest of desperadoes and thieves, as recommended in the majority report of the Committee on Finance, necessary or expedient.

It seems to me that the measures of the Convention to secure the organization of a militia force throughout the State by Congress, to act in conjunction with the military and civil already existing in the State, if of any effect at all, are sufficient to answer any emergency that may arise in the apprehension and arrest of those contemplated in the original resolution.

The military commander in this State has by his order shown an entire willingness and earnest desire to furnish a sufficient force to any of the post commanders throughout the State, to give protection to the various sections or districts where they may be located. And in no instance has he intimated that his powers were not adequate ; and when I consider the aid he offers in connection with the powers of civil officers in the State, who by law have the authority to call to their aid the posse committatus, together with the various expenditures which are bound to be met in the progress of reconstruction from the Treasury Department, am driven to the conclusion that the majority report in this behalf should not be adopted by this Convention. All of which I most respectfully submit.

MARSHALL GLENN.

Mr. Degener moved to suspend the rules to take into consideration the majority report of the Finance Committee upon the resolution offered by Mr. Evans of McLennan, appropriating twenty-five thousand dollars to be used by the Governor of the State in apprehending lawless persons.

Carried.

The Legislature is also vested with power to settle the claims of such new State or States to a proper share of the school fund and public domain.

It was so referred.

CAPITOL, AUSTIN, TEXAS,
JUNE 23, 1868.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment.

Roll called. Quorum present. Prayer by the chaplain. Journal of yesterday read and adopted.

Mr. Hunt, of Comal, presented the following petitions, and asked their reference to the Committee on Counties and County Boundaries.

TO THE HONORABLE CONVENTION

Of the State of Texas:

Your petitioners, resident citizens of the county of Guadalupe, respectfully represent to your Honorable Body that they suffer great inconvenience from being incorporated within the limits of the county of Guadalupe, because they live in the north-western part of said county, at a considerable distance from Seguin, the county seat thereof, but in close and immediate neighborhood of New Braunfels, the county seat of Comal county, along the present south-eastern line of said county. That their main business transactions are with New Braunfels, as the nearest and most convenient place therefor. That there is their postoffice, there the churches, there the mills and trading houses, they go to. And with the citizens thereof, they are connected by family, social and numerous other ties, and by their mutual interests. All of which render it desirable and necessary that the territory, upon which they reside, be annexed to the county of Comal.

Therefore, the premises considered, petitioners pray your Honorable Body to pass an ordinance establishing the south-east boundary line of Comal county, so as to embrace the territory upon which your petitioners reside.

And as in duty bound, they will ever pray, &c.

(Signed by) AUGUST WEGEL,

And sixty-nine others.

TO THE HONORABLE CONVENTION

Of the State of Texas:

Your petitioners, resident citizens of the county of Comal, respectfully represent unto your Honorable Body:

That, by the act creating the county of Blanco, a very large and valuable portion of about 550 square miles was cut off from the original county of Comal, for the purpose of creating the county of Blanco then, and that of Kendall afterwards;

That, in lieu thereof, by the said act, a small part of the territory of the county of Guadalupe was attached to said county of Comal, containing only about fifty square miles;

That the natural formation of the county is such, that of the present area thereof only narrow parts of the Guadalupe river valley and the small valley of Comal creek, on the south-eastern boundary line of the county, are fit for cultivation and settlement, while the greater portion of the county is mountainous and rocky;

That New Braunfels, the county seat, is situated on the southeast boundary line of the county, and that the settlements, situated along, and immediately below and along said line, in Guadalupe county, on the Guadalupe and Santa Clara, are in fact an extension and part of the New Braunfels colony, and form a nucleus around said city as their centre of trade;

That the interests of the citizens residing in that part of Guadalupe county, are identified with those of Comal county, as well by their general business transactions and social relations, as by their national and family and religious connections: so that their mutual interests would be materially promoted, if they were embraced in the same county.

The premises considered, your petitioners respectfully pray that your Honorable Body may pass an ordinance establishing the south-eastern boundary of Comal county, as delineated on the following plot by A. B. & C, which is herewith respectfully submitted to the consideration of your Honorable Body as a part of the petition.

And as in duty bound, they will ever pray, &c.

(Signed by) FRANK GOLDBECK,
Mayor of New Braunfels,
 And Ninety-One Others.

Referred to the Committee on Counties and County Boundaries.

TO THE HONORABLE MEMBERS OF THE STATE CONVENTION OF TEXAS, OF 1868.

Petition of S. B. Buckley, for pay for services rendered the State as Assistant State Geologist, in 1861, after April 5, of said year.

Your petitioner states that he was appointed to the office of Assistant State Geologist, by Dr. Francis Moore, with the approval of Gen. Houston, then Governor of the State; and, further, that during the administration of Gov. Houston, in 1861, he left Austin with Dr. Moore, on a geological tour to the coal region of Fort Belknap, and north-westward of said Fort; thence along the frontiers, a large portion of the time beyond the settlements. From whence they arrived at Austin, on June 15, 1861, and then ascertained that Gov. Houston had been deposed, and, also, that the Geological Survey had been suspended by joint resolution of the rebel Legislature, passed April 15, 1861, all of which was officially unknown to either Dr. Moore, or your petitioner, until their arrival at Austin. As this service was not made in aid of the rebellion, nor has your petitioner ever in the least aided said rebellion; he prays that he may be paid in full for his services, then rendered as Assistant State Geologist for the State of Texas.

He would further state that he was mostly engaged in the business of the survey until the middle of July, 1861, when he left the State and arrived at Philadelphia, where he remained engaged in the study of specimens collected in Texas, pertaining to the natural history of the State, the results of which are partly embodied in his Preliminary Report of the Geological and Agricultural Survey of Texas, published by the last Texas Legislature. Said report has been pronounced an able one by some of the best geologists of the country. It has already done the State much good by making known in part her vast mineral and agricultural resources; therefore it would be no more than just and right that your petitioner should receive the pay of Assistant State Geologist for the six months of his stay in Philadelphia.

Dr. Moore received pay for his services in the survey up to July, 1861, which was collected by his agent, Mr. Swinson. The salary of Assistant State Geologist is fifteen hundred dollars a year in specie.

All of which is respectfully submitted by your petitioner.

S. B. BUCKLEY.

Mr. Hamilton, of Bastrop, moved that the Convention resolve itself into Committee of the Whole upon the report of Committee on Division of the State.

Carried.

The Convention then went into Committee of the Whole, Mr. Armstrong, of Lamar, in the Chair.

The Committee rose, reported progress, and asked leave to sit on Tuesday morning, at ten o'clock.

On motion, the Convention adjourned until nine o'clock Monday morning.

CAPITOL, AUSTIN, TEXAS,

Mr. Degener, Chairman of the Committee on Immigration, made the following report:

COMMITTEE ROOM.

June 28, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention:

SIR: The Majority of the Committee on Immigration has instructed me to report the following resolutions, to form a part of our new Constitution, to-wit:

ARTICLE —.

IMMIGRATION.

SECTION 1. A Bureau, to be known as "the Bureau of Immigration," is hereby established, which shall have the supervision and control of all matters connected with immigration. The Chief of said Bureau shall be styled "Superintendent of Immigration." He shall be appointed by the Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, for the term of four years, and shall receive a salary of not less than — dollars per annum during his continuance in office.

SEC. 2. The Legislature shall be required to enact the necessary laws, and shall have power to appropriate a sum not exceeding —th part of the regular revenue of this State, for the purpose of promoting and protecting immigration.

SEC. 3. Such appropriation shall be devoted, a—to defray the expenses of the Bureau of Immigration and contingent expenses; b—to support agencies in foreign seaports; c—to pay in part or in toto the passage of emigrants from Europe to this State, and their transportation on railroads in this State.

SEC. 4. Each immigrant, head of a family, whether male or female, shall be entitled to locate and appropriate a tract of one hundred and sixty (160) acres, and each male immigrant, not the head of a family, shall be entitled to locate and appropriate a tract of eighty (80) acres out of the public domain of the State. The lands donated to immigrants by this section shall become their property in fee simple, after three years' personal occupation of the same by themselves or their heirs, free of all costs whatever, other than the expense of surveying the same.

Deeming it appropriate that a statement should accompany the resolutions, setting forth the motives and arguments for said resolutions, your Committee has further instructed me to offer the following REPORT.

A nation which derives its origin from immigration, whose numbers are annually swelled by hundreds of thousands from the same source, thus producing an increase of population not paralleled in the history of any other nation, could not fail to recognize the importance of regulating by appropriate legislation such accession of power, wealth and civilization. Thus, at an early day, have the free States of America made it their special care to guide and protect the stream of immigrants, which in daily increasing proportions, flows from the cradle of the American nation to the United States. Agencies were established in foreign and domestic seaports to diffuse among the immigrants a proper knowledge of the resources of the various States, to protect them against unscrupulous freighters; to prevent their being fleeced by bogus railroad agents, landlords, or such other imposters as seaports are generally infested with; and to provide for the health and comfort of the immigrants as well as for employment or cheapness of transportation to the interior of the country.

The unparalleled progress of the great West is the recompense for such wise statesmanship, and needs only to be pointed at to make any further arguments superfluous.

The American slave States could not keep time with their successful sister free States.

Apart from the abhorrence in which Slavery is held by Europeans, and the reluctance of a free laborer to enter into competition with a slave, the advocates of the forced labor system recognized but too well that immigration was the most deadly enemy of their cherished institution; and this fully explains why all the efforts of patriotic Southerners to lead a portion of the stream of immigrants into their States were frustrated by the wealthy and powerful slave aristocracy. This impediment is now abolished. Those who formerly were the greatest obstacles to forwarding immigration are now the loudest in clamoring for free white labor, and are willing, even by a special taxation for this purpose, to import laborers for their broad acres, to relieve themselves from the harsh contact with their former slaves, whom they never can forgive—that from property they have become their equals at the ballot box.

On the other hand, the white laborer, weighing the relative merits of the different States, for the purpose of selecting a new home, will soon discover that wherever the protection of life and property are equal, fertility of soil and a more congenial climate must bear down heavily the scales in favor of the Southern States. If a hard-working immigrant can make it a paying business to cultivate the soil in a climate where, of the six summer months, he must toil nearly three for bringing his cattle through the six winter months, where the inclemency of the climate forces him to invest a large amount of his earnings in a dwelling and expensive clothing for his own and his family's comfort; he cannot be in doubt that a climate where all the year round the cattle work for him; where the lightest dress and the most primitive dwelling afford ample protection, that there he will be able in a much shorter time to work himself up to a comfortable competency.

Impressed with the correctness of these views, your Committee think it appropriate to provide, in a separate Article of our new Constitution, for the establishment of a special Bureau charged with,

SEC. 1. "The supervision and control of all matters connected with immigration." It is obvious that an officer who is appointed to superintend so important a branch of our Government, to whom, in a great measure, must be entrusted the distribution of the funds which our future Legislatures may appropriate for immigration purposes, must be liberally salaried, so as to enable him to devote all his time and all his energies to the great object in view. It is left to the Convention to fill up the blank, indicating the minimum below which it would be useless to try to secure first-rate ability.

LEGISLATION.

SECTION 2. Without discussing the powers for Special Legislation, with which this Convention may be vested, your Committee holds that such power should be used with the utmost discretion, and has on that account confined itself to impose upon the Legislatures hereafter the duty of regulating by appropriate laws all such matter as may appertain to immigration; vesting it at the same time with power to appropriate a sum of money out of the public treasure which may be necessary for carrying out the measures their wisdom may deem appropriate; binding them only so far, as a maximum is stipulated, beyond which they have no authority to burthen the public treasury, which maximum being left blank, it is the province of the Convention to fill. It must be left to the discretion of the several Legislatures, with due consideration of the report of the respective State Comptrollers, to estimate the amount which, during their financial period, can be spared for immigration purposes.

DISTRIBUTION OF FUNDS.

SEC. 3. Without entering into details, your Committee thought it appropriate to give an outline of the system it would favor, if called upon to act as legislators on the subject; and has on that account stated in this section, under the subdivision of a, b, c. for what purposes the appropriated money should be used, without binding the Legislatures in any manner as to the proportion in which such subdivision should be made.

The office of Superintendent and his Bureau being established by law, the salary of the former and of as many clerks as it may be thought necessary to employ, together with the Bureau expenses, such as the publication and distribution of pamphlets setting forth the resources and the advantages offered by this country, and the inducements held out by our Government will, as a matter of course, remain a standing item on the Budget of the State.

The hight of the appropriation sub. b. for the support of agencies, will, in a great measure, depend upon the total amount which can reasonably be devoted to the expenses provided for sub. c. for the payment of ocean and railroad passage of the immigrants.

Your Committee has advisedly used the word foreign, in speaking of seaports where agencies ought to be established, for the patent reason that it is more desirable for a country if immigrants arrive with some means, be they ever so small, than if a circuitous route and the various extra commissioners through whose hands they pass between the point of departure and their final arrival in Texas, have exhausted their very last dime, and thus throw them upon the mercy of the first labor speculation who may have an order for procuring hands for a sugar or cotton plantation in an unhealthy swamp district.

It is true, that the department of the superintendent is to take care of the immigrants on their first arrival; this duty will, however, be considerably facilitated, if immigrants do not arrive as entire paupers, and fall at once to the charge of the country after leaving the ship.

Your Committee holds, that a sum of $10,000 annually devoted to defray the expenses of the Bureau at the Capital, for the sub-agencies in our own seaports and for the two or three agents or commission merchants in Europe, well applied, should be fully sufficient to meet the requirements.

It is a well known fact that cheapness of transportation is one of the greatest inducements for the immigrant in deciding his choice for his new destination: especial care ought therefore to be taken, to reduce the passenger freight to our seaports to as low a standard, as shorter distances, and the competition between ship owners, have reduced it to Northern harbors. The unavoidable difference between freights from Europe to Northern seaports and our shipping places should be borne entirely by our State government; and it greatly depends upon the liberality of our Legislatures for this particular purpose, whether the funds appropriated for the Bureau and the foreign agencies, will turn out as a profitable investment for the benefit of our country, or as a sinecure only for the officers.

It is obvious, that precisely in the same proportion as the number of immigrants increases, will the share of the Bureau expenses diminish, with which the individual immigrant has to be charged.

Thus, estimating the subsidy for the freight of every immigrant to be $20 and the general expenses to be $10,000, an appropriation of $100,000 would be sufficient to enrich the country with 4500 immigrants; or every individual immigrant would cost the country from 22 to 23 dollars.

Your Committee advisedly calls it enriching the country, because a small outlay acquires a producing capital, the interest of which nets in one year more than four times the original outlay.

It must be conceded that every laborer or producer represents a certain capital, and that the surplus of his labor, over and above what he himself consumes, may be computed as the interest such capital contributes to the nett income of the country.

The wealth of a nation consists in the accumulated surplus of its labor, and if the portion of such surplus in a slave State, which is invested in 'hands' be enumerated among the assets, it is but falsifying comparison with the wealth of a free State, where the produce of free labor capital is the inalienable property of the individual and therefore not enumerated.

Setting apart all considerations of philanthropy and civilization, and drawing a cool calculation of economy alone, it must be conceded that the importation of free labor is just that much more value to the country at large, as the investment for a similar forced labor capacity would have amounted to: or taking the average wages of a laborer as a standard, he is just worth so much to the country, as a capital owned by a citizen is, which produces as much interest as the annual nett wages of the former may be computed at.

A field hand can at present with facility secure from ten to fifteen dollars per month, or from 100 to 150 dollars all the year round, in hard cash, board and lodging being found; and represents on that account a productive capital value of at least 1000 to 1500 dollars.

Compared with this access of wealth, the amount donated to the immigrant to facilitate his transportation, dwindles into insignificance; and is refunded to the country in a few months, provided the laborer does not at once again leave the country and export his earnings.

It is true, the outlay does not flow back to the same source from which it originated, but this impairs in no manner, the aggregate of the National income.

LAND DONATION.

SEC. 4. The Land Donation provided for in this section, may serve as an inducement to such emigrants, who coming from thickly populated districts, where land is an expensive commodity, are but too readily inclined to over-estimate a donation, which at their native place in itself would constitute a fortune. To avoid the reproach of misrepresentation, it ought to be made the duty of our foreign agents to fully explain the real value of such donation to the immigrant.

The suggestion of issuing Land Scrips to the immigrants, which eventually might be sold by them, or giving them the permission to dispose of a portion thereof, say one-half, for the purpose of paying their transportation, was discussed in the Committee, but met with no favor, as the object of the donation is the cultivation of the land and not to furnish additional material for land speculation.

If an immigrant avails himself of the pre-emption advantage, the proviso of a three year's personal occupation more than compensates the donation, not to mention the enhancement of the value and increased taxability of the lands bordering on the new location.

PRIVILEGES GRANTED BY THE CONSTITUTION.

Your Committee might be accused of having, perhaps, only one particular branch of immigration in view, in drafting the above resolutions, and owes it, therefore, to itself, to assign the reasons for so doing.

It is not the wealthy foreigner, nor the merchant; not the industrial nor the experienced American citizen; immigrating from another State to Texas, who is in need of the protecting and assisting hand of the Bureau of Immigration, but such class of foreign labor to whom the trilling outlay for ocean transportation is a serious consideration.

What we are in need of, is a hard working thrifty population, which clings to the soil it has once undertaken to cultivate, without nomadic propensities and of unquestionable loyalty to the Government of the United States; and it will not be denied, that the German and Scandinavian nationalities possess these qualifications in an eminent degree.

It is therefore but proper to call the attention of this Convention, and of the respective committees, to such points which have a direct bearing upon the peculiarities of the above nationalities.

Fully realizing the liberality of the U. S. Naturalization law, your committee holds that a more liberal practice than hitherto in force, with regard to State franchise, is imperatively demanded by the circumstances, as a Constitutional provision, rendering legislative interference in matters of religion impossible.

The opposition against colored suffrage can not be met with greater force, than by allowing bona fide settlers to acquire the full right of State citizenship in six or twelve months after their arrival; the history of the equal suffrage amendment, in some of the Northern States, when saddled with Sunday laws, can not fail to challenge the earnest attention of every true Republican.

Immigrants will not wend their way to such States, where former settlers are dissatisfied with the laws of the country; they will go where the laws are in full harmony with their own peculiarities.

All of which is most respectfully submitted.

E. DEGENER,
Chairman of Immigration Committee.

Mr. J. W. Flanagan, from the Committee on Internal Improvements, made the following report.

To the Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention :

Your Committee on Internal Improvements have had under consideration a declaration in relation to railroads, in which the Convention is asked to consolidate the Brazos Branch Railroad Company and the Henderson, Marshall and Jefferson Railroad Company into one company, to be known as the International Pacific Railroad Company.

Your committee have given due consideration to this very important question, and from all the light before them, a majority of the committee instruct me to report the declaration back to the Convention with a recommendation that it pass.

J. W. FLANAGAN,
Chairman of the Committee on Internal Improvements.

Mr. Smith of Galveston, made the following minority report :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
June 27, 1868.

To the Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention :

The minority of the committee, to whom was referred the declaration to consolidate and incorporate the Brazos Branch and the Henderson, Marshall and Jefferson Railroad, respectfully report that they regard all such special legislation at this time unnecessary and unwarranted; that there is now a bill pending before the United States Congress relative to this very question, and which will, if it becomes a law, prepare the people of Texas to act; that the division of the State of Texas will qualify all such legislation, and it is altogether a premature measure; that it is proposed to introduce into the Constitution of the State a provision governing all legislation in regard to corporations; and that we are opposed to galvanizing into life a dead corporation, unless it can be shown that there is a real bona fide company, prepared with the means and ability to prosecute to a successful termination the improvement they ask this Convention to sustain. For these reasons we respectfully submit the following resolution, and ask that it do pass :

Resolved. That the declaration consolidating the Brazos Branch and the Henderson, Marshall and Jefferson Railroad, and granting a new charter, be indefinitely postponed.

ROBERT K. SMITH,
ANDREW DOWNING, SR.,
N. PATTEN.

Mr. Munroe, from the Committee on Engrossed Bills, made the following report :

HON. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention:

SIR: The Committee on Engrossed Provisions, after examination, instruct me to report the following resolutions as correctly engrossed, to wit:

No. 20. Resolution defining the powers of this Convention.

No. 21. Resolution appropriating twenty-five thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to offer rewards for the apprehension of desperadoes.

No. 22. Resolution amending the rules governing the Convention, so that a simple resolution, or resolutions relating to the government of the Convention, may be disposed of upon a vote at first reading.

No. 23. Resolution appropriating the sum of two hundred dollars to frame the portrait of Gen. Sam Houston.

No. 24. Resolution appropriating fifteen thousand dollars for the payment of the civil officers of the State, appointed by Provisional Governor A. J. Hamilton.

Respectfully submitted,

A. T. MUNROE,
Chairman.

Report adopted.

Mr. Bellinger, from the Committee on Federal Relations, to whom was referred a resolution of Mr. Mills, ceding the county of El Paso to the United States, made the following minority report :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
June 29, 1868.

To HON. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR: A minority of the Committee on Federal Relations, to whom was referred a resolution by Mr. Mills of El Paso, being unable to agree with the majority of said committee, offers the following report :

El Paso county contains an area of 9450 square miles, with a population, according to the latest census, taken in 1860, of 4050 inhabitants, only 436 of whom have registered, the vote cast at the last election being 292 for and 2 against a convention. The assessment of State taxes for 1867 was $2151 64, or 53 cents per head. The average for the entire section west of the Colorado being $1 10 per head.

Almost the entire population of the county is concentrated in the narrow Rio Grande Valley from Franklin to Elisaria, this being the only portion of the county redeemed for cultivation.

The population has hardly made as much as an attempt to settle outside said valley, and never exercised any control over the vast uninhabited territory situated within the limits of the county ; nor is it to be expected that the population, in its present composition, will make such an attempt.

The future condition of the country therefore is entirely subject to the influx of a new element to its population, which can only reasonably be expected from that section of Texas which is proposed to be erected into a new Western State.

The wide territory between the Rio Grande and Pecos Valleys, situated in the region of meteorologic permanency, suffers almost under a continuous drought, and but few places outside the Pecos Valley are available for agriculture with artificial irrigation. This deficiency of atmospheric humidity is amply compensated by the abundance of metallic resources. The range of hills traversing the country in a northwesterly direction, being spurs of the Sierra Madre of Mexico, fully maintaining the same character of the latter. And their mineral wealth has justly become proverbial. Coal, iron, lead, copper and silver to some extent, are the minerals in which this region abounds, in deposits and in veins ; but above all in the unmeasurable layers of rock salt, capable of furnishing a continent with this indispensable commodity, which will make this region one of the most desirable portions of West Texas, which has to furnish the mining population to lift the treasure from its now hidden abode.

In view of the little adaptability of this region for agriculture, it will be the department of the northwestern counties of Texas to furnish the breadstuffs for the mining population.

To cede the jurisdiction over this territory, as contemplated in the majority report, and over the plains intervening between El Paso and the western counties, exposing it perhaps to be converted into Indian reservations, would be as disastrous a policy as could befall this country; and it would be relinquishing without any compensation a country vast in extent, whose intrinsic value has never yet been sufficiently explored, and therefore cannot be properly computed.

Should it be the determination of Texas to sell to the United States that portion of territory lying without the limits of the organized counties, it would be of the utmost importance for Texas to be able to embrace in said transaction this valuable region, which is now proposed to be alienated without any consideration. But should this event never occur, it would be unwise in Texas to deprive herself of the resource of so much future wealth and prosperity for her people.

The minority of your committee therefore report that the majority report be not adopted.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

JACOB KUEHLER,
E. BELLINGER.

Mr. Sumner moved a suspension of rules to allow Mr. Burnett to introduce a petition.

Mr. Smith, of Galveston, moved a suspension of the rules to take up the resolution.

Rules suspended.

Mr. Ruby moved to amend by adding, "the Committee on Education."

The resolution as amended was adopted.

WHEREAS, It is very probable that the regularly contemplated biennial session of the State Legislature of Texas will not meet in the year 1868; and

WHEREAS, Such failure to meet may prejudice the interests of railroad companies, in loss of their charter, &c., &c.; be it therefore declared:

SECTION 1. That all railroad companies in Texas holding charters which may be affected in their rights by a failure of the said biennial session of the Legislature in the year 1868, shall not suffer any prejudice in their charters, rights and privileges, until ninety days after the meeting of the first lawful Legislature, with consent of Congress of the United States, shall meet in Texas.

On motion, the declaration was referred to the Committee on Internal Improvement.

CAPITOL, AUSTIN, TEXAS,
June 30, 1868.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment.

Roll called. Quorum present. Prayer by the Chaplain. Journal of yesterday read and adopted.

Mr. Burnett presented the following petition :

To the Honorable Constitutional Convention of Texas :

The petition of Wm. P. Leaverton, a citizen of Houston county, respectfully represents unto your honorable body that heretofore, to-wit, on the —— day of April, 1863, his brother, James H. Leaverton, departed this life in Anderson county, Texas, leaving all his property, real and personal, and outstanding debts and liabilities, with probably but a small exception, in Houston county, where he had formerly lived for many years, and where his homestead is situated and his orphan children now reside; that your petitioner is the legally appointed and qualified administrator of his said brother's estate, and is now administering the same in Anderson county; that by the laws of Texas administration can only be had in Anderson county, where deceased died, and that it is important and necessary to the convenient and economical administration of said estate that the administration be removed to Houston county.

Therefore, your petitioner prays your honorable body to adopt a special resolution or declaration providing for the immediate removal of the administration of said estate to Houston county, and as in duty bound your petitioner will ever pray.

WM. P. LEAVERTON.

CROCKETT, TEXAS, June 24, 1868.

Referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.
Mr. Kealy presented the following petition:

HON. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention:

SIR: The undersigned citizens of Denton and Cooke counties respectfully ask leave to file the following protest against a petition introduced by Mr. Thomas, the member from Collin, asking for a subdivision of the counties of Cooke, Denton, Grayson and Collin, and the formation of a new county out of fractions taken from the above-named counties, with Pilot Point for its county site, for the following reasons, to-wit:

Denton and Cooke counties, from which a large portion of the territory is proposed to be taken for the formation of said new county, are situated on the northwestern border of the State, and have, comparatively speaking, a very sparse population: and, owing to frequent Indian depredations committed on their western border, there is no hope of an early increase of the population or wealth of either one of said counties, so as to enable them to support their organizations in the manner that they should be supported, without being deprived of that part of their territory that contains their heaviest population, as is proposed in the said petition. And, as facts in support of this statement, they represent that neither one of the four counties out of which the proposed new county is to be taken, have a jail sufficient to secure the safe keeping of criminals, and some of them have no jail at all; and that there is but one courthouse in the four counties in which the courts can be held with any degree of comfort whatever; and they further state that the counties of Denton and Cooke are not now, with the entire population in their limits, able to erect such public buildings as are absolutely necessary for the administration of justice.

And they further state that the county sites of said counties have for years been satisfactorily located within five miles of the center of the counties, and, to erect a new county, as proposed, would, according to the statement of said petition, place the town of Denton, the county site of Denton county, within ten miles of the eastern boundary of said county, and would also place the county seat of Cooke county in a similar situation in reference to her southern border, and would, in all probability, entail upon those counties years of local strife and bitterness, growing out of the agitation of the questions of the change of their county seats to a point within the constitutional limits for the location of the county seats of the counties of the State, and thus not only disturb the peace and harmony of the population of said counties, but would produce a state of uncertainty that would retard their progress for years to come. Your petitioners do, therefore, humbly pray that the said petition be not granted, and that their organizations be allowed to remain as they now are.

(Names of citizens of Cooke county.)

R. F. Scott and thirty-two others.

On motion the petition was referred to the Committee on Counties and County Boundaries.

Mr. Smith, of Marion, presented the following Minority report from the Committee on Immigration :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
AUSTIN, June 30, 1868.

HON. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR : Your Committee on Immigration having under consideration the importance of such resolutions as will induce the greatest amount of Immigration to our State as is necessary to promote the interests, develop the resources and increase the wealth of our State :

We, the undersigned, in behalf of the minority report, concur with the majority in the great principle, but dissent as to the manner of accomplishing the great object. We believe that the Legislature should make the necessary arrangements in establishing a Bureau of Immigration. We join with the majority in their rules as applicable at present, but the interests of the country might require a great change in a short time, as our country increases in wealth and prosperity and the wants of the people change :

Therefore, I present the following resolution and recommend that it do pass.

ARTICLE —

Resolved, SECTION 1. That the Legislature of the State shall enact such laws as is necessary to induce, promote and protect Immigration.

SEC. 2. The Legislature shall provide for a Bureau of Immigration.

Mr. Davis, of Nueces, introduced the following declaration :

Declaration to be incorporated into the General Provisions of the Constitution.

SECTION 1. That the action of the (so-called) Convention of the State of Texas, which assembled in the city of Austin, on the — day of February, A. D., 1861, was and is null and void. That all the action of the rebel organization in the State of Texas, under the authority of said Convention, of its Ordinances or its Constitution, whether Legislative, Executive, Judicial or Military, was, and is, hereby declared to be null and void. That no debt or liability, whether for civil or military purposes, or incurred by the action of said Convention, or by the so-called Legislature of said State, or by any department of the so-called government of the same, between the said day of February, 1861, and the — day of August, 1865, shall ever be recognized as obligatory on the people of this State. That the action of the convention which met in Austin on the — day of February, 1866, and of the so-called Legislature which met in Austin on the — day of August, 1866, was without legal authority and only provisional in character.

Provided, however, 1st. That the following laws and parts of laws passed by the assemblages sitting at Austin, and calling themselves Legislatures of the State of Texas, since the said — day of February, 1861, be, and the same are, hereby declared and established as laws of this State, viz: (here Committee on General Provisions will insert by title and chapter or section, (as the case may be) the laws and parts of laws intended to be declared and established.)

2nd. That all such private acts of incorporation or charter, passed by the assemblages mentioned in 1st proviso, and since the said — day of February, 1861, as may have been enacted for a meritorious object, (and not for the purpose of rewarding persons lately in rebellion) where under such acts, operations by the companies chartered, have actually commenced and money been expended in carrying out the purposes of the same, be and the same are, hereby declared and established and made valid: Provided, that this provision shall not be considered as continuing such charters in existence, where, under the terms thereof, the same would have already expired or been forfeited.

3d. That the acts of so-called officers, in solemnizing marriages; in taking acknowledgment and recording deeds and other instruments of writing; the decisions of so-called courts, during the period since said — day of February, 1861, where parties were present in the State; all contracts made between private parties since said — day of February, 1861; and the acts and proceedings of military and provisional officers and courts since the — day of August, 1865; be and the same are hereby declared and established as valid and of binding force, to the same extent that such acts, decisions, contracts and proceedings would have been, had the enactments or laws under which the same were executed, been legally made, and the said officers been legally authorized to perform the acts or proceedings in question. Provided; that loyal men shall not be prejudiced in their rights by this declaration, and that any loyal person or his heirs may, by proper legal proceeding, to be commenced before the 1st day of September, 1869, show proof in avoidance of any contract made since said — day of February, 1861, that through fraud practiced, or threats or violence used towards such person, no adequate consideration for the contract has been received; and also, that any loyal person, or his heirs, may by such legal proceeding, commenced before said 1st day of September, 1869, revise and annul any decision of the courts made since the — day of February, 1861, where through absence from the State of such person, or through political prejudice against such person, the decision complained of was not fair and impartial.

On the reading of the declaration offered by Mr. Davis, of Nueces, Mr. McCormick made the point of order that so much of the declaration as is contained in these words :

“That all the action of the rebel organization in the State of Texas, under the authority of said Convention, of its ordinances or its constitutions, whether legislative, executive, judicial or military, was, and is hereby declared to be null and void,” having been definitely acted upon by the Convention could not be again introduced.

The chair decided that the Convention had taken no action, that prevented the introduction of the declaration as presented, from which decision of the President, Mr. McCormick appealed, and the question being put, “shall the decision of the chair be sustained,” the same was decided in the affirmative. So the decision of the President was sustained.

Mr. Davis, of Nueces, moved that 100 copies of the declaration be printed, and that it be referred to the Committee on General Provisions.

Carried.

The President announced the hour had arrived to go into Committee of the Whole, upon the report of Committee on the Division of the State.

CAPITOL, AUSTIN, TEXAS,
JULY 2, 1868.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment.

Roll called. Quorum present. Prayer by the chaplain. Journal of yesterday read and adopted.

Mr. Hamilton, of Travis, Chairman of the Committee on Judiciary, made the following report :

TO THE HON. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

The Committee on Judiciary, to whom has been referred the message of the Governor, in regard to the purchase and distribution of Paschal's Annotated Digest of the Laws of Texas, have instructed me to report that they find that the work was prepared by Judge Paschal during the leisure which the unhappy civil war enforced; that it consequently has been prepared with a degree of learning, labor, care and accuracy which so able an author could not afford under other circumstances; that it contains the whole body of our statute laws of force, as well as all the organic and repealed laws, upon which so many rights in Texas rest; that these statutes are noted with the decisions which have interpreted them, arranged in a manner which has no equal in any State; that the numbering of the articles of previous digests have been preserved in a manner which renders the Texas Reports intelligible upon many points, when they would be obscure without such aid; and in a word, that the work is indispensable to the profession and in the administration of justice.

The publication of the work was authorized by the Provisional Governor, and so highly has it been approved by the entire legal profession of the State, that it has been adopted by the Supreme Court, and it is now universally quoted by articles and notes.

The work has thus become an authority, and an indispensable one, since much of the matter is inaccessible to most of the officers of the State.

The whole expense of the enterprise has thus far been borne by the public spirited and patriotic author.

But, in the opinion of your committee, in this case, necessity points to the path of duty.

Judge Paschal has suffered much for his patriotic devotion to the cause of the Union, and independently of the intrinsic merits of a work which has given a high character to the laws of the State, he deserves well of his country; and this Convention could not consistently do less than to purchase the number of copies necessary to supply the immediate wants of the officials who, under the laws, are entitled to digests.

The author asks of the State no speculative price, but he proposes to furnish the work at a rate greatly below any book ever purchased or printed by Texas.

The ability to do so grows out of the fact that the copyright and stereotyped plates belong to the author, who has borne the heavy expense of the outlay.

As the work, therefore, is the best, the cheapest, and under all changes, will be the most useful which the State could purchase, and as we doubt not but the appropriation would meet the approbation of the whole people, the Judiciary Committee have instructed me to report the following resolutions:

ANDREW J. HAMILTON,
Chairman.

Resolved, 1st. That the Governor be instructed to contract with Geo. W. Paschal for the delivery of thirty-five hundred copies of "Paschal's Annotated Digest of the Laws of Texas," in the city of Austin, at the proposed price of nine dollars per volume: the books to be printed and bound in the same style of the first edition.

Resolved, 2d. To ensure the early delivery of the work, it shall be the duty of the Governor, as soon as the said Geo. W. Paschal shall execute to the State his bond, with securities to be approved by the Governor, in the sum of forty thousand dollars, for the delivery of said number of the Digests, in the city of Austin, within four months from the date of said bond, to draw upon the Treasurer of the State for twenty thousand dollars of said money, and to draw for the balance as soon as the books shall be delivered to the Secretary of State.

Resolved, 3d. The sum of thirty-one thousand five hundred dollars be, and the same is hereby appropriated, to carry into effect this ordinance.

Mr. McCormick, Chairman of the Committee on Contingent Expenses, made the following report :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
AUSTIN, July 2, 1868.

HON. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR: The Committee on Contingent Expenses, to whom was referred the resolution offered by Mr. Evans, of McLennan, making an appropriation to pay the expenses of the committee appointed to investigate the State Penitentiary, have instructed me to report the same back to the Convention, with the recommendation that the blank be filled with "four hundred," and that said resolution be passed.

A. P. McCORMICK,
Chairman.

Be it declared, That the sum of four hundred dollars be, and the same is hereby appropriated, out of the contingent fund of the Convention, to pay the expenses of the committee to investigate the State Penitentiary, traveling expenses, expenses of witnesses, etc., etc.

Mr. McCormick moved that the rules be suspended for the consideration of the declaration.

Rules suspended and declaration read second time.

Mr. Armstrong, of Lamar, moved to insert "500" instead of "400."

The question being upon the amendment of Mr. Armstrong, it was lost.

The question being upon the engrossment of the declaration, it was engrossed.

Mr. McCormick moved a further suspension of the rules to put the resolution on its final passage.

Rules suspended.

Resolution read a third time and passed.

Mr. Caldwell, Chairman of the Special Committee on Lawlessness and Violence, made the following report :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
AUSTIN, June 30, 1868.

HON. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention :

SIR: The Committee on Lawlessness and Violence respectfully submit the following report :

We have had access to the following sources of information, viz :
1. The records of the State Department, particularly the official reports of the Clerks of the District Courts. These reports are, however, very meagre, inasmuch as they represent only about forty counties, and take notice of only those offenses for which indictments have been found. 2d. The records of the office of the Freedmen's Bureau. These records are likewise very imperfect, as they give information from only about sixty counties, and do not supply accounts of all the outrages committed in those counties ; and 3d, the sworn statements of competent and reliable witnesses in different sections of the State. These are also incomplete, for they were made from memory, neither are they as numerous as they should be. We have found no little difficulty in getting gentlemen to testify before us. Many are unwilling, and others are afraid of assassination should they do so, and hence very few have responded to the summons of the committee. We do not, therefore, offer this report as a complete exhibit of crime in Texas. We feel confident that it presents a very imperfect view of the actual violence and disorder in the State.

In collecting the statistics here presented, we have carefully excluded every report that did not bear the marks of veracity. In compiling the number of homicides, for example, we have included only such cases as are either officially reported or distinctly mentioned or remembered by affiants, and we have ventured no statement which is not fully warranted by facts. It is claimed for the report, therefore, that it is faithful and true.

In our statistics we have not embraced assaults with intent to kill, rapes, robberies, whipping of freedmen, and other outrages, many of which we found to be most cruel and wanton ; such a summation would impose an almost endless task. We have directed our investigations to the homicides committed during the period of time intervening between the close of the rebellion and the first of June, 1868, and, from the three sources of information mentioned, we present the following statistics of homicides in Texas :

Killed in 1865,	39	whites;	38	freedmen—	77
“ “ 1866,	70	“	72	“	142
“ “ 1867,	166	“	165	“	331
“ “ 1868,	171	“	133	“	304
Year unknown,	24	“	21	“	45
Of unknown race					40

Total whites, 470; total freedmen, 429; making a grand total of 939 homicides committed in Texas since the conclusion of the war, June, 1865, to June 1, 1868, including a few cases casually reported in the present month. This gives an average of 313 per year.

Of these 939 homicides, there were by whites, 460 whites, 373 freedmen—833; by freedmen, 10 whites, 48 freedmen—58; and by parties whose race is unknown, 48.

Now, incomplete as they are, these figures tell a frightful story of blood. They represent stubborn facts which cannot be suppressed by denials, or by denouncing them as fabricated for political effect; and whoever attempts it is not only unfaithful to history, not only an apologist for crime, but may be justly charged as an accessory to the wickedness itself, as encouraging and abetting murderers, and as equally guilty with them. We cannot shut our eyes upon these appalling scenes of bloodshed; and, instead of attempting to conceal them, it becomes us to face them honestly, and address ourselves to the duty of discovering the cause, and locating the responsibility of this slaughter of our fellow citizens.

Many of these homicides have doubtless been committed for the purpose of plunder and robbery. The facts and the testimony show that many of our highways are infested by bandits, who will take life for a horse, or a pistol, or a purse. These desperadoes, with very few exceptions, were either Confederate officers, or soldiers or bushwhackers during the late war, and now constitute one of the legitimate entailments of secession and rebellion. It is also true that many of these homicides have resulted from private quarrels. There is much bad blood in the land. But this wholesale killing cannot be accounted for by either or both of the causes named. The figures themselves shed some light on this subject.

During the last three years, according to the reports consulted, three hundred and seventy-three freedmen have been killed by whites, whilst only ten whites have been killed by freedmen. Now, it cannot be that all these colored people, or any considerable number of them, were murdered for their money. Their extreme poverty forbids the supposition. Neither can it be that many of them were slain in personal altercation with whites; for, in that event, there should have been as many whites killed by freedmen, as freedmen by whites—the freedmen being, it is said, generally as well armed as the whites. This great disparity between the numbers of the two races killed, the one by the other, shows conclusively, that “the war of races” is all on the part of the whites against the blacks. The evidence in our possession also shows that a very large portion of the whites murdered were Union men, and that the criminals, with remarkably few exceptions, were and are disloyal to the Government.

We are, hence, directed to the hostility of feeling entertained by ex-rebels against loyal men of both races, for the discovery of the cause of a large proportion of these outrages. Men naturally hate those whom they have wronged; and we are authorized by facts to affirm that multitudes who participated in the Rebellion, disappointed and maddened by their defeat, are now intensely embittered against the freedmen on account of their emancipation and enfranchisement, and on account of their devotion to the Republican party; and against the loyal whites for their persistent adhesion to the Union, that they are determined to resist by every means promising success, the establishment of a free Republican State government; that it is their purpose, even by desperate measures, to create such a state of alarm and terror among Union men and freedmen, as to compel them to abandon the advocacy of impartial suffrage or fly from the State; and that this feeling of animosity prompts and inspires them to many of these murders, unrestrained, as it is, by any fear of retribution.

There is absolute freedom of speech in very few localities of Texas. Union men dare not generally avow their political convictions. In many places they can hold public meetings only when supported by troops or armed men; and in many others they dare not hold them at all. In several instances their assemblies have been broken up and fired upon, and their speakers ordered to desist. The dominant rebel element will not tolerate free discussion.

We have been challenged to produce cases of Union men and freedmen being persecuted for their loyalty. We now do so: Judge Black was a Republican; he was murdered in 1867, in Uvaldi county, by a rebel. Milton Biggs was a Union man, and had been appointed County Judge of Blanco county; he was murdered, in 1867, while plowing in his field, before he could qualify. Judge Christian, a loyal man, of Bell county, was pursued into Missouri, and murdered by a party of rebels. Mr. Wade and seven other gentlemen were killed in Lamar county, last year, for their Unionism. Four men were recently murdered in the county of Hunt, and six in Bell county, for their loyalty. Within the present month, the County Judge and the District Clerk of Hunt county have been driven from their homes, and compelled to fly for their lives, because of their unyielding attachment to the Government. Hundreds of loyal men, to our knowledge, are, at this time, forsaking their homes in Texas, fleeing from the assassin—forced away by rebel intolerance. And we here put it to record, that Honorable members of this Convention are to-day exiles from their friends, and dare not return to their families, for the only reason that they will not forswear their principles.

Now, whilst it remains true that the Union men of Texas constitute a very small proportion of the white population, and whilst it is true that they are being killed by the rebels, it is impossible to escape the conclusion that they are killed for their Unionism. In other words—if they were rebels they would not be killed.

And when we come to examine the persecutions suffered by the freed people, the mass of testimony is so overwhelming that no man of candor can for a moment question the statement that they are, in very many parts of the State, wantonly maltreated and slain, simply because they are free, and claim to exercise the rights of freemen. Some months ago, in Panola county, a party of whites rode up to a cabin wherein some freed people were dancing, and deliberately fired upon them, killing four, one a woman, and seriously wounding several others. In 1867, in DeWitt county, a white man met a freedman riding, and asked him what he was going to do with the whip he had in his hand, and on being answered, "Nothing," shot the freedman, killing him instantly. In the county of Fort Bend, last year, a white man was riding through town, and seeing a negro man standing on the steps of the office of the Freedmen's Bureau, he drew his revolver and shot him dead. The criminal had never seen or spoken to the freedman before. In Newton county, 1867, a white man met a colored man driving a team, the former made the freedman get out of his wagon, and then shot him seven times in cold blood. In Fort Bend county, same year, the freed people were holding a fair to procure funds to finish their church, and while they were singing a hymn two white men rode by and fired their pistols into the church. In October, 1867, a white man was traveling in Grayson county and met a freedman; after passing him a few yards, he turned and fired upon him, hitting him in the back. The freedman died in a few hours; he had not spoken a word to the murderer; had never seen him before. But a few days ago a party of white men assaulted the family of an unoffending freedman in Falls county, killing one and dangerously wounding another freedman. In the same county, a few weeks ago, two armed white men, in open day, went to the house of a colored man, and without any provocation murdered him. Soon after this a white man, in the same neighborhood, rode up to two freedmen, and, without any known cause, shot one of them dead and fired at the other. Last week the colored Registrar in Burleson county was found murdered; and in January last the colored Registrar of Milam county was called to his door at night and shot. And so the bloody story runs.

We mention some minor outrages. In April last, a party of white men visited the cabins of two quiet industrious freedmen in Freestone county, captured one of them and took him to the woods to murder him; he, however, escaped, being fired at several times and receiving one wound. In that and adjoining counties the whites are driving the freedmen from their homes and from their crops, some of whom are in this city to-day, fugitives from rebel violence. In the county of Marion bands of armed whites are traversing the county, forcibly robbing the freedmen of their arms, and committing other outrages upon them. Last week a colored woman was whipped in Parker county by a white man; and some time ago, in another county, a white man cut off the ears of a freedwoman. It is openly proclaimed by many of the perpetrators of these wrongs that their object is to compel the negroes to give up loyal leagues, and to get satisfaction out of them for supporting Yankees.

We could extend this account. We have selected these cases at random to exhibit the feeling of hatred cherished by a certain class of ex-rebels against Union men and freedmen; and we deem them sufficient to sustain our allegation, that there is a settled determination on the part of many to suppress the growth of loyalty, and, if possible, to expel or exterminate the white and colored Unionists in the State.

It has also come to our knowledge that there are organizations of disloyal desperate men in several sections of the State, leagued together for the purpose of murdering prominent Unionists. This fact is set forth in the notices sent to leading Republicans in different portions of the State. It is not only believed by many good citizens, but it is claimed and openly asserted by rebels in many localities that such organizations do exist. The fact is stated too by several witnesses. It reveals itself likewise in the outrages systematically perpetrated on loyal whites and freedmen in the localities where these organizations are reported as existing. Some weeks ago a discreet officer of the United States Army was sent with instructions to investigate certain murders in Bell and Corryell counties, and he found tangible evidence of such an organization there. He found it in the murder of six or seven loyalists, several of whom had fought under the Union flag during the rebellion, and had to the last refused to desert their colors. He found it too in the terror and dread among the loyalists of that section, and in the precipitate flight of many from the State for safety. In the instances investigated by him, the murderers went in a body at night, in April last, and murdered in cold blood several loyal law-abiding citizens, rousing them from their beds and shooting them. They then gave out that their victims were horse thieves, but a thorough examination exploded that falsehood. In his official report the said officer uses this language: "From all that I could learn, it is very evident that the rebels of Bell county have determined to kill or drive every loyal Union man from the county. This they are doing every day; and after they get rid of the men they seize their stock or whatever they can lay their hands on; so that instead of killing horse thieves, they prove to be thieves and murderers themselves." Again he says: "There appears to be a regularly organized band in Bell county for the oppression and extermination of the Union element." He also gives the names of some of this organization, and says, "they are all rebels, and disfranchised.

We have evidence of similar organizations in other parts of the State. Only a few weeks ago, since the meeting of this Convention, some arrests were made by the military authorities in Freestone county. The arresting party came upon the criminals by surprise at midnight and secured three of them, and by daylight the whole country was swarming with armed desperadoes from three different counties, who pursued the officer and soldiers, and, numbering about two hundred, rescued the prisoners. The officer who had charge of the expedition testifies: "It is my opinion that there is an organization of lawless men in that section. One of the men whom I let go stated this plainly to me, that they were bound to help one another, and from all that transpired I am satisfied that they have their signals, their runners and system of action."

We have intimated that bad men do not fear the civil courts of Texas. Why should they? During the years 1865, 1866 and 1867, as shown by the State Department, there were 249 indictments for murder found in the District Courts of the State, and only five convictions, about two per cent. of the whole; and it is a fact known to all that for the 900 murders known to have been committed since the conclusion of the war, there has been but one capital execution according to the forms of law, and that was the execution of a freedman in the county of Harris. These figures of themselves demonstrate the insecurity of human life in Texas. The criminal laws of the State are not executed.

In some districts the combinations of lawless men are too strong for the civil authorities, and openly defy them. This is the case in twenty-five or thirty counties. In some instances the county officers are themselves involved in these acts of violence, or connive at them, or willfully neglect to make arrests. The Sheriff of one county, for example, is one of a band of murderers, the Sheriff of another is at the head of certain desperadoes who have committed numerous outrages, including murder on the loyal whites and blacks of the county. We have information of numerous cases where the officers of the law most criminally refuse to make arrests for violations of law, and "no arrest" is the almost universal appendage to reports of lawlessness in our possession, although the criminals are generally known to the community. Not unfrequently they are aided in their escape, and harbored or concealed by citizens claiming respectability.

But all of these obstacles to the punishment of criminals are not sufficient to explain the inadequacy of civil government in Texas. We are compelled to introduce here that animosity toward the government and its friends, so prevalent everywhere, as a factor in bringing about such a state of anarchy. It is our solemn conviction that the courts, especially juries, as a rule, will not convict ex-rebels for offenses committed against Union men and freedmen; neither will they award judgments in favor of Union men and freedmen as against rebels. This is explicitly affirmed in nearly all the testimony before us. In one case wherein a white man had committed an offence against a freedman, the offender was brought to trial, found guilty, and, because he could not give bond, released; and when the agent of the Freedman's Bureau notified the magistrate that the law authorized committal in default of bail, the reply was, "you would not send a white man to jail for a nigger." In another case a freedman sued a white man, the judge ruled in favor of the freedman, but the jury, contrary to the law and the evidence, decided against him. The case was reversed by the Bureau. In another instance a white man brutally assaulted a freedman with intent to kill; he was arrested by the agent of the Bureau, turned over to the civil authorities, found guilty, and fined one cent! Such cases are frequent. In another county a freedman was tried for assault with intent to kill a white man, and the jury convicted him, when the facts proved on trial, as shown in the proceedings of the case, showed that the freedman was the assaulted and injured party. He was pardoned by Gov. Pease. A white boy, thirteen years old, was waylaid and shot and severely wounded by a man named Johnson, in Hopkins county. Said Johnson was arrested by the Sheriff, a loyal man, brought before Judge Mayberry, of the 8th Judicial District, found guilty of a simple assault, and fined ten dollars. The Sheriff of Hunt county, a Union man, was resisted and shot whilst arresting a criminal; the said criminal was tried before the said Mayberry, bailed in a bond of six hundred dollars, and is now at large. In another county a rebel murdered a boy not fourteen years old; he was tried and acquitted on the ground that he had lost an arm in the Confederate service. In another case a loyal man was assaulted with intent to kill by a rebel, and after being fired at once, shot and kill his adversary; he was promptly arrested and compelled to give bond for fifty thousand dollars. Another loyal man was assaulted with deadly weapons three times by a party of rebels; he made oath of the facts before the proper authorities, but to this day the said authorities have refused to arrest the criminals, though well known to the Sheriff.

The result of all this discrimination against Union men and freedmen is, that they have despaired of securing their rights by law. They feel that the courts are only employed as an engine for their oppression; and they would rather suffer their wrongs patiently than seek legal redress only to be mocked at for so attempting.

In other instances, where the officers of the law are disposed to do their duty, they are not sustained by the citizens. The people are sometimes afraid to aid in the enforcement of the laws, and they not unfrequently, on account of their sympathy with the criminals, positively refuse to do so. In a certain county a loyal sheriff called upon the citizens to assist him in arresting some criminals in town, and the citizens refused, saying, "Call on your nigger friends." Several officers have resigned their places because they cannot get the support of the people in the execution of the laws; many of the important offices in the State are now vacant because men either fear to accept them, or feel that they could not have the co-operation of the citizens; and we know of efforts being made to intimidate fearless and efficient officers from the discharge of their duties.

A very noteworthy fact developed by our investigations is the increase of crime within the last seven months. Witnesses from various parts of the State testify of increased bitterness against the Government and its supporters, and of the multiplication of crime during the last winter and spring; and official data confirm their testimony. This fact, we know, is persistently denied by Conservatives; and they claim, further, that, if true, it is to be charged against the present provisional State Government. They tell us that the offices of the State are in the hands of Radicals or military appointees, and that, therefore, the Republican officials of Texas are responsible for this increased lawlessness and disorder. To this we reply:

First. The powers of the provisional State government are very limited, and are exercised in subordination to the authority of the Commander of the Fifth Military District. The State government is without any militia or police whatever. It is dependent entirely on the spirit of the people themselves for the maintenance of order, and is utterly powerless of itself to enforce a single law. Either the citizens themselves must keep the peace, or the military must interfere and compel obedience, or there will be no peace. And we submit that, with such limited powers, and with such a spirit of lawlessness as dominates in Texas, and without the efficient co-operation of the military power, no government under the sun could preserve the peace of society.

Second. It is not true that the offices of the State are held by Republicans. Governor Pease qualified as Governor of Texas on the eighth of August, 1867. There were at that time 2,377 elective offices held by persons elected in 1866. Some time after this some changes, removals and appointments, were made by the military. These all, to the twenty-fourth instant, amount to 796. Of these 247 were made to fill vacancies, leaving 549 removals and appointments, and 394 of the appointees refused or failed to qualify—many of them declining for fear of assassination; in which cases the old incumbents continue to act; so that there are 1,975 of the elective offices in Texas in the occupancy of those elected in 1866, and only 402 in the possession of military appointees. There are 182 notaries public appointed by Governor Throckmorton still in office, and there are only twenty-seven who have been appointed by Governor Pease. It thus appears that only one-fifth of the officers in Texas to-day are loyal men. And yet some have the effrontery to hold this one-fifth responsible for the acts of the whole. But, certainly, if any responsibility at all rests upon the State government, it legitimately rests upon the large majority of Conservatives who hold the power of the State, and who, as we have seen, too frequently use that power for the protection of criminals. And,

Third. The only period of time in which the present administration of Texas could justly be said to have been Republican, was marked by the greatest amount of tranquility. That period was between the eighth of August, the date of Governor Pease's qualification, and the twenty-ninth of November, the date of General Hancock's assuming command of the District—about three months of 1867. In the three months of September, October and November, 1867, there were twenty-seven murders committed in Texas, as reported by the Freedmen's Bureau; that is to say, there were nine murders per month; whilst in the other nine months of the same year there were 160 murders committed in Texas, as reported by the same authority; that is to say, there were about eighteen murders per month—double the former number.

These simple statements are amply sufficient to refute the slander so frequently repeated by Conservatives, and to vindicate the present civil administration of Texas from all complicity in the increased lawlessness in the State.

But it is not difficult to fix the responsibility of this increase of crime. Previous to the succession of Gen. Hancock to the command of the Fifth Military District, there was some degree of respect for life in Texas. The numerous arrests of criminals by the military authorities, and the prospect of trial by military commissions inspired bad men with a salutary fear. But on the publication of General Orders No. 40 from Headquarters Fifth Military District, dated Nov. 29, 1867, a very different and a very turbulent spirit manifested itself throughout the State. That order was understood to proclaim the supremacy of civil law and the suspension of the military power, in the treatment of crime; and, hence, criminals who, as has been demonstrated, entertain very little fear of the civil courts, interpreted the said Order as a license for the perpetration of all manner of villainies. This was evidenced at the time by words and by the tone of the rebel press, and more forcibly ever since by unrestrained violence.

During the three months of Governor Pease's administration, aided and sustained by Generals Sheridan and Mower, and previous to the advent of General Hancock, the murders in Texas, as already seen, averaged nine per month. The number during the other months of the same year, averaged eighteen per month. And, confining our estimates to the records of the office of the Freedmen's Bureau, the number, since the first of December, 1867, has averaged thirty-one per month. During the first month of Hancock's administration, December, there were thirty murders reported by the Bureau. In other words, according to the lowest calculation, the peace administration of Generals Hancock and Buchanan has to account for twice the number of murders committed under the Sheridan-Throckmorton administration, and three times the number committed under the Sheridan-Pease administration.

Moreover, fuller reports show that since the policy of General Hancock was inaugurated, sustained as it is by President Johnson, the homicides in Texas have averaged fifty-five per month; and for the last five months they have averaged sixty per month. And it is for the Commander of the Fifth Military District to answer to the public for at least two-thirds of the 330, or more, homicides committed in Texas since the first of December, 1867. Charged by law to keep the peace and afford protection to life and property, and having the army of the United States to assist him in so doing, he has failed. He has persistently refused to try criminals, rejected the prayers of the Executive of the State and the Commanding General of the District of Texas for adequate tribunals, and turned a deaf ear to the cry of tried and persecuted loyalists. And, knowing whereof we affirm, and in the face of the civilized world, we do solemnly lay to his charge the death of hundreds of the loyal citizens of Texas—a responsibility that should load his name with infamy, and hand his very memory to coming years as a curse and an execration.

The obligations of the government and of the citizen are mutual and correlative. If true allegiance is rendered by the latter, ample protection is due from the former. And for, and in the name of the loyal whites and blacks in Texas, we do avow that we have been true and unwavering in our fidelity to the United States Government. In the face of persecution, in the face of social proscription, in the face of the halter, and in the face of every imaginable peril, we have stood firm in our devotion. If there be a people on earth who can rightfully claim the protection of Government, the loyalists of Texas certainly have that right; especially now that it is in the power of the Government to extend it, do they claim protection from the vengeance of those who still pursue them for their allegiance. But, let the responsibility rest where it may, we say it deliberately, that protection has not been granted us.

The Committee recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
AUSTIN, July 2, 1868.

HON. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR: I transmit, herewith, copies of two communications received at this office, from Geo. C. Rives, Esq., the acting Comptroller of Public Accounts, concerning the finances of the State, which I request may be laid before the Convention.

Very Respectfully,

Your Ob't Servant,

E. M. PEASE.

COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,
Austin, Texas, June 30, 1868.

HIS EXCELLENCY GOV. E. M. PEASE,

SIR: Referring to my letter of this date, you will readily perceive, that I took no note of the probable receipts from the General Land Office, and other sources of revenue, which in the aggregate would not amount to $7,000 per annum, nor did I take into account many appropriations likely to be made by the Constitutional Convention, or by the Legislature, should one assemble. This subject is a very serious one, and I beg that you will give it your consideration.

I have the honor to be,

Your ob't servant,

GEO. C. RIVES,
Acting Comptroller.

COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,
Austin, Texas, June 30, 1868.

To His Excellency, E. M. PEASE,
Governor of Texas.

SIR: I beg leave, most respectfully to call your attention to the probable receipts and expenditures of the State Government during the period from July 1st, 1868, to July 1st, 1869, which shows that the treasury will, in all probability, be unable to meet the demands likely to be made upon it during the next twelve months.

Should the Convention levy a tax to reimburse the Treasury for the amount drawn in its behalf, and if it should be paid into the treasury during the next twelve months, then, we may hope to have a small balance on hand July 1st, 1869, otherwise I see no way of keeping the treasury in funds.

Your most ob't serv't,

GEO. C. RIVES,
Acting Comptroller.

Mr. Fayle offered the following preamble and resolutions:

WHEREAS, The fragments of rebel usurpation within this State are so violent in their antipathies to the United States Government, and so hostile to the Reconstruction Acts of Congress that, notwithstanding all the magnanimity and forbearance of the Government towards them, they are still arrayed in strong opposition, endeavoring to thwart and, if possible, defeat the measures of Congress for the reconstruction of the State, and its restoration to a place in the general Government; and

WHEREAS, From all the facts before us, there is evidently a wicked combination of the old secession rebel elements to defeat by force and fraud the organization of a civil government in loyal hands within this State, or, if unable to defeat, seeking to control; and

disposal of the Commanding General, is altogether inadequate for the protection and defense of the loyal and peaceable portion of the citizens thereof, and this to such an alarming extent as to leave some sections almost in a state of anarchy, and threatening the entire State with the direst oppression and misrule; and

WHEREAS, There is no likelihood of any sufficient force being sent into the State, such as would meet the exigencies of the case, or if sent could arrive in time to accomplish the desired results of preserving peace and giving protection; and

WHEREAS, The loyal citizens of this State are a law-abiding, order-loving people, and willing and able to defend themselves, if it could be done under the sanction of and in accordance with law. Yet inasmuch as the greater part of the offices in the State are in the hands of rebels and devoted adherents to the lost cause, and are backed up by the lawless and violent of their respective communities, there is, under the present administration of affairs, no redress; and

WHEREAS, Under such circumstances, there can be no true election by the people—the malicious and revengeful spirit of the enemies of the United States Government have inaugurated a reign of terror, such as existed in the year 1860, thereby allowing no just expression of the public will—no fair choice to be made by the people;

AND WHEREAS, The Reconstruction Acts positively require of this Convention not only that they should “frame a Constitution, Republican in its principles,” but make it their imperative duty to “establish a civil government loyal in its character,” specifying only that the members of the Legislature be elected directly by the people; leaving all other matters pertaining to the offices and machinery of the State government to be regulated by, and as may seem best to this body, and in conformity to the exigencies and condition of things.

Therefore be it resolved, That this Convention do hereby appoint a committee of seven of its members, representing the different parts of the State, whose duty it shall be to select and appoint the entire executive officers of the State, to serve during the first term, as required by the Constitution framed by this Convention, and to take their seats upon its acceptance by Congress.

FAYLE.

On motion it was referred to the Executive Committee.

Mr. Hunt, of Comal, offered the following declaration:

WHEREAS, Corrupt means have been heretofore used in this State to obtain charters and special privileges, monopolies having thereby been created in the interest of a favored class, including political speculators and demagogues, who have used their franchise to subserve and strengthen party cliques, to the detriment of the welfare of the community at large.

Be it therefore declared by this Convention, That no charter shall hereafter be granted by any further Legislature, having for its object the development of the resources of the State, or improvement of the country in any way, without the party or parties who apply for such charter or privilege shall first give full and sufficient security of ability to carry out to successful completion the right or privilege desired.

Granted.

On motion the declaration was referred to the Committee on State Affairs.

Mr. Harne offered the following resolution.

Resolved, That each county of the State shall make provisions for the poor of their respective counties, by purchasing three hundred and twenty acres of land, convenient to the county site of such county, and erect suitable buildings for the accommodation and care of said poor persons, who may become charges on any of said counties, and said lands be brought into cultivation for the support of said poor persons; said land and buildings not to exceed in value the sum of five thousand dollars, unless by a two-third vote of the legal voters of said counties. All the necessary appointees to superintend and carry out the purchase of land, erect buildings, etc., shall be left to the convening of the next sitting of the State Legislature; who shall, at their session, make all the necessary preliminaries to carry the same into effect.

CAPITOL, AUSTIN, TEXAS,
JULY 6, 1868.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment.

Roll called. Quorum present. Prayer by the Chaplain. Journal of yesterday read and adopted.

Mr. Cole made a minority report from Special Committee on Lawlessness and Violence, as follows:

To the Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

The undersigned, one of the Special Committee on Lawlessness and Violence, while admitting the correctness of the figures in the committee's report, made on June 30, ult., respectfully dissents from the comments and conclusions of the committee, as set forth in said report, and asks that this dissenting report be spread upon the journal of the Convention.

Respectfully submitted,

COLE, of Hopkins.

Mr. Burnett moved the suspension of the rules, to allow Committee on Public Lands to report.

Rules suspended.

Mr. Lippard, from Committee on Public Lands, reported as follows :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
July 3, 1868.

To the Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR: The Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the following bills, to-wit :

A bill by Mr. Carter, bearing date June 23, 1868;

A bill by Mr. Pedigo, bearing date June 24, 1868;

A bill by Mr. Lindsay, bearing date June 26, 1868;

And a bill by Mr. Patten, bearing date June 29, 1868; have had the same under consideration, and after a thorough examination of said bills, are of opinion that they more properly belong to a strictly legislative body, and cannot be entertained by this Convention. Said bills are herewith returned with a recommendation that they be rejected by the Convention. The Committee will, so soon as possible, report articles, to be a part of the Constitution, authorizing the Legislature to pass such bills as will supply the want now felt.

The Committee would respectfully suggest and recommend to the Convention, that the Secretary of the Convention be instructed to number each bill presented to the Convention, believing thereby to facilitate the work of the Convention.

J. H. LIPPARD,
Chairman Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. Burnett offered the following minority report :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
July 6, 1868.

HON. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR : The undersigned, of the Committee on Public Lands, dissent from so much of the report of said committee as reports back, and recommends the rejection of the declaration offered by Hon. H. C. Pedigo, with reference to the relinquishment, by the State, of all her right to minerals, etc.; and we respectfully recommend the adoption of the declaration for the following reasons, to-wit :

The majority of the committee, in their report, style the said declaration as legislative, and without reference to the merits or policy of the measure, suggest that it would more properly come before the Legislature; but we are of opinion that the declaration is fundamental in its character, and is a proper matter to be incorporated among the provisions of our organic law.

The reservation, by the State, of all minerals beneath the surface of the earth, had its origin in the days of darkness and barbarism; it was the principle of the common law of England, and also obtained in the civil and the Spanish law, from the latter of which it became a general principle in our own law. It was incorporated into our statutory law in 1837, in the days of the Republic, and it has been held that this special recognition of the doctrine was only declaratory of the existing law, and that the general principle was applicable to all grants of land by the State; so it may now be unquestioned that the State has a legal claim to all salt springs, gold and silver mines, copper, lead, and other minerals beneath the surface of all lands granted by the State.

While such reservation may be suited to governments which recognize the "Divine right of kings," yet we believe it is dictated by a narrow and arbitrary spirit, and is totally at variance with the genius of free Republicanism. We believe our government has derived no substantial benefit from the reservation; but, on the contrary, that its effect has been, and will continue to be, to retard the development of the great mineral wealth of the State, of which we have so often justly boasted, and to which we confidently look as a source of future wealth and prosperity. It seems to us it would be better for the State to relinquish all her claims to these minerals, which would encourage the rightful owners of the soil to rapidly develop the mineral resources of the country; and in the increase of taxation arising from the enhanced value of the lands, etc., the State would be fully compensated for the relinquishment. We believe the adoption of the declaration would be in keeping with the enlightened and liberal spirit of this age of progress and improvement, and that it would redound to the interest of the State and the whole people.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES R. BURNETT,
SAM. W. JOHNSON,

Of Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. Lippard, from the same committee, made the following report upon the resolution of Mr. Yarborough:

COMMITTEE ROOM,
AUSTIN, July 3, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention:

SIR: The Committee on Public Land, to whom was referred a resolution offered by Mr. Yarborough, have had the same under consideration, and have the honor to report the following:

A statement from the General Land Office, appended to the report of the late Attorney General, shows that Capt. Stephen Crosby, late Commissioner of the General Land Office, is a defaulter to the extent of $17,839 34 in coin. Of this aggregate amount $3,766 10 appears to be due individual depositors, and $14,073 24 the State. Individual depositors have to look to the ex-Commissioner alone, who they voluntarily made their banker for their deposits.

So far as the State is concerned, it can and ought to recover against him and sureties.

Your committee are clearly of opinion that in no case should any deposit made during rebel rule be treated as legal and valid. They are unable to perceive why persons who aided and abetted the rebellion should be permitted to take advantage of their own wrong, and claim now to be insured by a loyal convention against losses incurred through the defalcation of a rebel State officer.

They hold that in justice they can go no further than to concede that in case a recovery is had against Capt. Crosby and his sureties, the amount recovered should be credited to those by whom it was deposited, provided their deposits were made prior to February 1, 1861.

Your committee are not convinced that such a number of "widows and orphans" made deposits prior to the date specified, as to warrant their being made the entering wedge for breaking into the treasury in the manner and to the extent contemplated by the resolution under consideration.

For the foregoing and other reasons they recommend that the resolution do not pass.

J. H. LIPPARD,
Chairman Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. Newcomb offered the following declaration, and asked its reference to the Committee on General Provisions :

Be it declared, by the People of Texas in Convention assembled,
That the following shall be a section in the Constitution of this State :

SECTION.—All children born in this State out of wedlock are legitimate for all purposes of law and fact, and it shall be the duty of the Legislature to pass an act enabling such persons to inherit the estates of their parents and to enforce all the obligations of parent to child.

Referred to Committee on General Provisions.

Mr. Smith, of Galveston, offered the following as proposed sections to the Constitution and asked its reference to the Executive Committee.

SECTION.—There shall be elected by the qualified voters, at stated periods, fixed by law, a Comptroller of Public Accounts and a Treasurer, who shall hold their offices until their successors are qualified.

SEC.—The Comptroller shall be the chief fiscal agent of the State, shall have a salary equal to the Governor of the State, and shall have the power to nominate, through the Governor, to the Senate for confirmation, all assessors and collectors of taxes for the several counties: and to suspend or remove from office, for incompetency, neglect of duty or malfeasance in office, and to appoint their successors, subject to the action of the Senate.

WHEREAS, the people of Texas, on the — day of — A. D., 1861, were in the enjoyment of, submitting to and abiding by, a good and lawful State government, Republican in form, to wit : a

State constitution, framed by delegates in convention assembled, of date August 27th, A. D. 1845, and which had been duly accepted by the Congress of the United States of America, of date December 29th, A. D. 1845, and laws made in pursuance thereof; and whereas, to wit: on the —— day of February, A. D. 1861, a portion of the people of Texas did make an abortive attempt to overthrow the aforesaid State constitution of A. D. 1845, and to transfer their allegiance from the United States of America to another government; and whereas, said attempt to overthrow the said State government and to transfer their allegiance to another government engendered a conflict of arms; and whereas in said conflict of arms all civil State government in Texas was lost; and whereas the Congress of the United States of America has graciously permitted the people of Texas to meet in convention to frame a State constitution and civil government in Texas; therefore, we, the delegates of the people of Texas, in their name and for them, do declare that the constitution of A. Be it declared by this Convention, Whereas, there is now pending before the Congress of the United States an act to aid in the construction of the International Pacific Railroad from Cairo, Illinois, to San Blas, on the Pacific Ocean, passing through the State of Texas; and, whereas, it is the opinion of this Convention that the State of Texas should encourage said grand enterprise, it is therefore declared

SEC. 2. And should said International Pacific Railroad Company construct said road upon the line indicated in section one of this declaration, then they shall have the right to demand from the Legislature of the State of Texas the same aid, by way of donations in land, that has heretofore been given to the most favored railroad company in Texas.

SEC. 3. As soon as said International Pacific Railroad Company shall survey and permanently fix the line of their road-bed in Texas, and file a plat of the same with the Commissioner of the General Land Office of Texas, then all the public land for a distance of forty miles on each side of said road shall stand reserved, to satisfy the donation of land to said company.

SEC. 4. All railroad companies, now holding charters in the State of Texas, connecting points put in railroad connection by the International Pacific Railroad, shall have the right of consolidation with said International Pacific Railroad, under such regulations as the Legislature of Texas may prescribe and said companies agree upon.

COMMITTEE ROOM,
AUSTIN, July 7, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR: The Committee on General Provisions, to whom has been assigned the duty of preparing provisions under that head for the Constitution, have had the same under consideration for some weeks, and have instructed me to report the accompanying "Bill of Rights," with preamble thereto, and sections from 1 to 14, inclusive.

It will be observed that section 3 embodies the substance of ten of the sections in the Bill of Rights in the Constitution of 1845. it being the opinion of your Committee that the inhibitions enumerated in the said ten sections are fully covered by the nine articles mentioned as amendments to the Constitution of the United States, thus dispensing with a long string of sections which are deemed useless.

Your Committee also submit the accompanying 48 sections under the head of "General Provisions," to which the attentive consideration of the Convention is invited. The plan and provisions of the Constitution of 1845, so far as applicable to the altered condition, political and civil, of the people of Texas, and in so far as experience has shown them to have been well chosen and efficient for the ends had in view, have been adopted. A number of new provisions have been deemed necessary and proper, which require no argument.

Your Committee beg leave to ask the careful attention of the Convention to the change proposed in the mode of appointing Assessors and Collectors of Taxes, and of enforcing the collection of the same, so far as lands are concerned, the largest item of taxable property in the State, much of which has hitherto escaped taxation altogether. Your Committee believe that the experience of more than twenty years is decisive as to the waste, inefficiency and expense of the elective system as to collectors of revenue. Competent, honest and prompt business men are required, nay, absolutely necessary, to the faithful discharge of the duties of such a position. These necessary qualifications cannot always, or even ordinarily, be obtained by appointment. The reverse is the rule by election. Indifferent officers increase largely the burden of taxation, and it behooves the State to make provision to remedy the evils under which the people have so long suffered.

So, also, your Committee advise in regard to the annual sales of lands by Assessors and Collectors. The system has not worked well. Titles thus obtained have become so worthless that no one will risk the sum of a single year's tax upon a given parcel of land for a deed in fee simple to the whole tract. Your Committee believe that periodical sales, under decrees of courts of competent jurisdiction, after full notice, and a careful compliance with the provisions of the law, and the lands offered to bidders in small lots or parcels, and the purchaser put into possession at at once, with no right of redemption on the part of the owner, will in a great degree remedy the evils heretofore experienced. At the same time, if the Legislature shall frame the law in the spirit of the sections reported, your Committee deem that the inducements to prompt payment will be found adequate to the wants of the Treasury, while the non-payment of the annual assessments will run at interest from the date, and are a lien upon the land.

Your Committee have been so nearly unanimous in reporting these provisions that great confidence is felt in urging their adoption by the Convention, at least in substance.

Your Committee have also had under consideration, more recently, the declaration of the gentleman from Nueces, on the void action of the pretended authorities of Texas during the years intervening 'twixt the beginning of the rebellion and the resumption of authority by the United States, and have instructed me to report the section numbered 43. The section embraces substantially everything contained in the declaration referred, except the validation of pretended laws passed since 28th January, 1861. Your Committee have great repugnance to accepting as valid any law passed by those in rebellion against the government, or to validate any such pretended law, however inoffensive in its character, especially when it is believed that every right honestly acquired during the deranged state of public affairs may be protected under the laws which existed antecedent to the disturbance. If private rights have grown up resting upon any of the pretended laws enacted during the rebellion, it must be some of the special enactments granting privileges or franchises; and your Committee deny the right of the pretended authorities of Texas to act for the people of Texas at any time since the date of secession, so far as the granting franchises, the sale of the property or assets of the State. Such acts require the full sanction of the people, which has not been given in any form which your Committee or the country feel inclined to respect.

There are still other provisions which may be hereafter reported, when your Committee have fully considered upon them. It is deemed proper to report such as have been prepared, so that they may be printed and in the hands of the members for examination.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

M. C. HAMILTON,
Chairman.

BILL OF RIGHTS.

ARTICLE I.

That the heresies of nullification and secession, which brought the country to grief, may be eliminated from future political discussion: that public order may be restored, private property and human life protected, and the great principles of liberty and equality secured to us and to our posterity, we declare that:

SECTION 1. The Constitution of the United States, and the laws and treaties made and to be made in pursuance thereof, are acknowledged to be the supreme law: that this Constitution is framed in harmony with and subordination thereto; and that the fundamental principles embodied therein can only be changed subject to the national authority.

SEC. 2. All freemen, when they form a social compact, have equal rights: and no man, or set of men, is entitled to exclusive separate public emoluments or privileges.

SEC. 3. The inhibitions of power enunciated in articles from one to eight inclusive, and thirteen, of the amendments to the Constitution of the United States, deny to the States, as well as to the General Government, the exercise of the powers therein reserved to the people, and shall never be exercised by the government of this State.

SEC. 4. All persons shall enjoy equal rights and privileges upon any conveyance of a public character; and all places of business, or of public resort, or for which a license is required, by either State, county, or municipal authority, shall be deemed places of a public character, and shall be open to the accommodation and patronage of all.

SEC. 5. Importations of inferior races of men, under the name of "Coolies," or any other name or designation, or the adoption of any system of "Peonage," whereby the helpless and unfortunate may be reduced to practical bondage, shall never be authorized or tolerated by the laws of this State.

SEC. 6. All prisoners shall be bailable by sufficient sureties, unless for capital offences.

SEC. 7. The privileges of the writ of habeas corpus shall not be suspended, except when in case of rebellion or invasion the public safety may require it.

SEC. 8. No bill of attainder, ex post facto law, retro-active law, or any law impairing the obligation of contracts, shall be made; or any law depriving a party of any remedies for enforcing a contract which existed when the contract was made.

SEC. 9. No person shall be imprisoned for debt, except in cases of fraud or defalcation of an office, after verdict and judgment of a court of competent jurisdiction.

SEC. 44. Recognizing the principles embodied in the preamble to this Constitution as declaring the true relation which States in the Union bear to the Government of the United States :

Be it declared, That the ordinance of secession, adopted by the so-called Convention of the people of Texas, assembled in the city of Austin on the 28th day of January, 1861, is and was from the beginning null and void ; that all the action of the rebel organization, under the authority of the said Convention, or the so-called Confederate States of America, of which it was a constituent part, its ordinances, constitution, pretended laws and official acts, whether executive, legislative, judicial or military, were and are declared to be null and void ; that no debt or liability contracted or incurred under said authority, after said 28th day of January, 1861, shall ever be recognized as obligatory on the people of this State, nor shall any of the so-called laws or decisions of pretended courts ever have place among the statutes of this State, be classed as "Texas Reports," or read as authority in any of the courts thereof.

Be it further declared, That the Convention which assembled in the city of Austin on the — day of February, 1866, and the so-called 11th Legislature, which convened in obedience to the requirements of the amended Confederate States Constitution, on the — day of August, 1866, were without the sanction of legal authority, and their action having been adopted by the United States, through the Military Commander of the Fifth Military District, may be left to the care of the United States Government. The pretended general laws, passed by the said Legislature, will be respected so long only as the Commanding General shall enforce them as rules of action under his government. The special laws, so-called, enacted by the said body, for the most part designed as rewards for treason, are hereby declared null and void. Nevertheless, along with the vast mass of void action, and the numberless wrongs and outrages perpetrated upon the loyal citizens of the United States, resident and non-resident in Texas, under the sanction of the pretended laws and authorities of the same, during these years of anarchy and misrule, at the same time many acts inoffensive in themselves and beneficial to citizens, purporting to be official, were attempted to be performed.

Be it therefore further declared, That the acts of the so-called officers in solemnizing marriages, in taking acknowledgments, and recording deeds and other instruments of writing, the decisions of so-called courts, where parties were present in the State and due notice given, and all contracts between private parties, subject to the laws of the United States, since the said 28th day of January, 1861, be and the same are hereby declared and established as valid and of binding force, to the same extent that such acts, decisions, contracts and proceedings would have been, had the same been performed by the duly constituted authorities of the State: provided, that neither the State of Texas, the United States, nor any loyal citizen thereof, shall in any manner and to any extent be prejudiced thereby; and further provided, that any loyal person, or his heirs, or legal representatives, may by proper legal proceedings, to be commenced within two years after the acceptance of this Constitution by the Congress of the United States, show proof in avoidance of any contract made, or revise or annul any decree or judgment rendered, since the said 28th day of January, 1861, when through fraud practiced, or threats, or violence used toward such person, no adequate consideration for the contract has been received, or when through absence from the State of such person, or through political prejudice against such person, the decision complained of was not fair or impartial.

Be it further declared, That the statutes of limitation in force in Texas on the said 28th day of January, 1861, both criminal and civil, were from that date suspended by the rebellion, the citizens of the United States being thereby deprived of the remedies provided by law for their protection against such statutes; nor shall any such have force and effect in Texas until one year after the adoption of this Constitution by the Congress of the United States, or until peace shall have been declared by the said Congress.

The first Legislature convened under this Constitution is hereby required to take final action upon the joint resolution of the United States Congress, known as the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States, and until such action has been taken by the Legislature, no money shall be drawn from the treasury in payment of the per diem and mileage of the members.

SEC. 45. The Legislature shall give effect to the foregoing general provisions, and all other provisions of this Constitution which require legislative action, according to their spirit and intent, by appropriate acts, bills, or joint resolutions.

Mr. Hamilton, of Bastrop, moved that the report be printed and made the special order for Wednesday, July 29, 1868, upon which the yeas and nays were demanded and resulted thus :

Yeas—Messrs. President, Armstrong, of Lamar, Bellinger, Bledsoe, Brown, Bryant, of Grayson, Bryant, of Harris, Burnett, Caldwell, Carter, Coleman, Constant, Curtis, Degener, Downing, Fleming, Foster, Gray, Grigsby, Hamilton, of Travis, Harne, Hunt, Johnson, of Harrison, Johnson, of Calhoun, Jordan, Kealy, Kendal, Kuechler, Lindsay, Lippard, Long, McCormick, McWashington, Morse, Munroe, Newcomb, Oaks, Patten, Phillips, of San Augustine, Posey, Rogers, Ruby, Schuetze, Slaughter, Smith, of Galveston, Smith, of Marion, Stockbridge, Sumner, Talbot, Thomas, Watrous, Williams—52.

Nays—Messrs. Adams, Armstrong, of Jasper, Bell, Board, Buffington, Evans, of McLennan, Evans, of Titus, Fayle, Flanagan, W. Flanagan, Gaston, Harris, Keigwin, Kirk, Leib, Mackey, Mills, Muckleroy, Mundine, Phillips, of Wharton, Scott, Varnell, Whitmore, Wilson, of Brazoria, Wilson, of Milam, Wright, Yarborough—27.

So the motion prevailed.

Mr. Gray presented a petition from citizens of Titus and Davis counties, asking the formation of a new county out of portions of said counties.

Referred to Committee on Counties and County Boundaries.

Mr. Smith, of Galveston, from the special committee appointed to visit the Blind Asylum, made the following report :

AUSTIN, Texas, July 8, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR: The special committee appointed to visit the Blind Asylum and witness the exhibition, respectfully report that they have performed that duty; that the examination was in the highest degree creditable to both teachers and pupils; that the organization and management of the institution, under the superintendence and direction of Dr. Baker, shows that with the limited means at his command, nothing has been neglected to elevate all those under his care in religious, moral and intellectual culture; that their personal comfort and welfare receives from all the most careful attention; and that cleanliness and good order are everywhere apparent.

Your committee, however, regard the appropriations for that institution altogether insufficient to provide for the necessary wants of the pupils. Suitable apparatus and books are greatly needed. The salary of the Superintendent ought to be increased, at least, upon the same footing with the salary of the Superintendent of the Deaf Mute Institution. The duties are equally responsible and onerous; and the deaf mutes have forty acres of land to cultivate, and thus save much expense in living by the application of the labor and the vision of the inmates; whilst the Superintendent of the Blind has neither land or labor to assist in supporting the charge under his care. Therefore the appropriations ought to be governed by these considerations. Your committee would respectfully offer the following statement, and ask that the accompanying resolution do pass:

STATEMENT IN REGARD TO THE INSTITUTION FOR THE BLIND.

Attendance for the last session—Highest number, nineteen; lowest, fifteen; average, seventeen.

Appropriation for 1867 and 1868, ten thousand dollars, or five thousand dollars per year.

Appropriation for pay of Superintendent for 1867 and 1868, two thousand dollars, or one thousand dollars per year.

The buildings are scanty and out of repair.

There are dormitories in the main house, by putting four beds in a room, that will accommodate sixteen female pupils.

There are dormitories in the wings and over the school room which may accommodate fourteen male pupils.

According to this estimate, every bed must contain two inmates, and not a spare bed for the sick or for a visitor.

For the musical department a piano is needed.

All the windows need blinds.

Five hundred dollars' worth of books in raised print are needed, in addition to what has been ordered.

One of the cisterns must be repaired, if it can, or rebuilt, as it has become almost entirely useless to hold water.

There is no land attached to the institution except what is included in the court yard containing the buildings.

The distance from town is so great that in summer and all times in bad weather, the pupils cannot walk to church. There should be an ambulance and team provided for this and other purposes.

Therefore, resolved, That the Provisional Government of the State of Texas be requested to appropriate a sufficient amount of money to purchase the necessary books, apparatus, and instruments necessary for the wants of the blind pupils, for the repairs and improvements suggested in the foregoing statement; and that the salary of the Superintendent be not less than the sum of fifteen hundred dollars per annum.

ROB. K. SMITH,
Chairman Special Committee.

Mr. Patten offered the following resolution:

WHEREAS, The copies of the Daily Austin Republican contracted for have not, in a single instance, been delivered in accordance with the terms of the contract, nor have they contained the debates as promised; and

WHEREAS, Such scraps of debates as have appeared in the said Austin Republican are disconnected, unfair, and well calculated to mislead the public; and

WHEREAS, Other expenditures unauthorized by this body have been illy considered with reference to the ability of the treasury to meet the drafts made upon it; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the reporter appointed be discharged from further service in this Convention: that all the newspapers ordered be discontinued from this date; that the Committee on Finance consider and report without delay the propriety of so reducing the number of employes of various grades so that those retained may have room to tread their way through the hall.

Mr. Hamilton, of Travis, moved the rejection of the declaration, upon which the yeas and nays were called and resulted thus:

Yeas—Messrs. Adams, Armstrong of Lamar, Bryant of Grayson, Bryant of Harris, Buffington, Burnett, Carter, Coleman, Curtis, Fayle, Fleming, Grigsby, Hamilton of Travis, Harris, Harne, Johnson of Harrison, Kealy, Kendal, Lindsay, Mackey, McCormick, McWashington, Mills, Mundine, Munroe, Pedigo, Phillips of San Augustine, Phillips of Wharton, Posey, Rogers, Schuetze, Scott, Smith of Marion, Stockbridge, Sumner, Thomas, Watrous, Wilson of Brazoria, Wright—39.

Nays—Messrs. President, Armstrong of Jasper, Bell, Bellinger, Bledsoe, Board, Brown, Cole, Constant, Degener, Downing, Evans of McLennan, Evans of Titus, Flanagan, W. Flanagan, Foster, Gaston, Glenn, Hunt, Johnson of Calhoun, Jordan, Keigwin, Kuechler, Kirk, Lippard, Long, Morse, Muckleroy, Mullins, Newcomb, Oaks, Patten, Ruby, Slaughter, Smith of Galveston, Talbot, Varnell, Whitmore, Williams, Wilson of Milam—40.

So the motion to reject the resolution was lost, and, upon motion, the resolution was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. Mundine offered the following declaration:

Be it declared by the people of Texas in Convention assembled, That the following shall be a section of the Constitution of the State of Texas, known as

SECTION —, of Article —. Every person, without distinction of sex, who shall have arrived at the age of twenty-one years, and who shall be a citizen of the United States; or is, at the time of the adoption of this constitution by the Congress of the United States, a citizen of the State of Texas, and shall have resided in this State one year next preceding an election, and the last six months within the district, county, city or town in which he or she offers to vote (Indians not taxed excepted), shall be deemed a qualified elector. And should such qualified elector happen to be in another county, situated in the district in which he or she resides at the time of an election, he or she shall be permitted to vote for any district officer; provided, that the qualified electors shall be permitted to vote anywhere in the State for State officers; and provided, further, that no soldier, seaman or marine, in the army or navy of the United States, shall be entitled to vote at any election created by this constitution.

Mr. Johnson, of Calhoun, moved that the declaration be rejected.

Mr. Slaughter moved a call of the House.

Call of the House sustained.

Mr. Smith, of Galveston, moved a suspension of call.

Call suspended.

The question being upon the rejection of the declaration, offered by Mr. Mundine, the yeas and nays were called and resulted thus:

Yeas—Messrs. Bellinger, Bledsoe, Board, Bryant of Grayson, Buffington, Coleman, W. Flammigan, Gaston, Grigsby, Hamilton of Travis, Leib, Long, McWashington, Muckleroy, Phillips of Wharton, Posey, Sumner, Talbot, Thomas, Williams, Wilson of Milam, Wright—22.

Nays—Messrs. President, Adams, Armstrong of Jasper, Armstrong of Lamar, Bell, Brown, Bryant of Harris, Burnett, Carter, Cole, Constant, Curtis, Degener, Downing, Evans of McLennan, Evans of Titus, Fayle, Flanagan, Fleming, Foster, Glenn, Gray, Harris, Harne, Hunt, Johnson of Harrison, Johnson of Calhoun, Jordan, Kealy, Keigwin, Kendal, Kuechler, Kirk, Lindsay, Lippard, Mackey, McCormick, Mills, Morse, Mullins, Mundine, Munroe, Newcomb, Oaks, Patten, Pedigo, Phillips of San Augustine, Rogers, Ruby, Schuetze, Scott, Slaughter, Smith of Galveston, Smith of Marion, Stockbridge, Varnell, Watrous, Whitmore, Wilson of Brazoria—59.

So the motion to reject was lost, and upon motion the declaration was committed to the Committee on State Affairs.

Mr. Varnell offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Legislature may be authorized and empowered to pass laws prohibiting the sale of spirituous and intoxicating liquors within certain limits of colleges and seminaries of learning; provided, said colleges and seminaries are not located at county sites or State capitals.

It was referred to Committee on General Provisions.

Johnson, of Harrison, offered the following declaration :

Be it declared by this Convention, That no person shall be eligible to the office of Judge of the Supreme, District, or Criminal Courts of this State, who, besides possessing the necessary moral qualifications, shall not also have been admitted as an attorney and counselor at law in the Supreme Court of this State.

It was referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

Mr. Kuechler offered the following resolution.

Be it Resolved by the people of the State of Texas in Convention assembled, That it is the true and wisest policy of the State of Texas, to relinquish all right which the State may have to mineral substances above and beneath the surface of the earth, to every person who is working any mine according to laws already passed, or which the Legislature may hereafter pass.

Resolved, 2. That the Committee on Public Lands be instructed to report a declaration in conformity with the principles set forth in this resolution.

Laid over one day under the rules.

Mr. Slaughter offered the following declaration, and asked its reference to the Committee on General Provisions:

WHEREAS, The acts of the Legislature for the session A. D. 1866, is filled with acts of incorporation, making special and magnificent grants and privileges to men generally engaged in rebellion, and

WHEREAS, These numerous grants and special incorporation privileges were intended as distinguishing rewards and premiums for treason to the Government of the United States: therefore

Be it declared by the people of Texas in Convention assembled, That all acts of incorporation made and granted by the said Legislature of the State of Texas, for the year A. D. 1866, be and the same are hereby declared null and void, except the following acts of incorporation: Institutions of Learning, Orphan's Home, Towns and Cities, Bridges, Companies, Wharf and Press Companies, Established Ferries, Mills, Fire Companies, Chambers of Commerce, Ice Companies, Odd Fellows and Masons.

Referred to the Committee on General Provisions.

Mr. Long offered the following resolution:

WHEREAS, The custom of carrying concealed weapons is openly indulged by spectators and others who visit this Convention, in the lobbies and elsewhere; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Convention do order that no person shall hereafter be allowed in this hall, who carries belted on his person, revolvers or other offensive weapons.

Mr. Carter moved the suspension of the rules for the consideration of the resolution.

Rules suspended.

Mr. Lindsay offered the following amendment to the resolution:

Resolved, further, That the Sergeant-at-Arms is hereby ordered to see to it, that this order is strictly observed.

The question being upon the adoption of the amendment, it was adopted.

Mr. Buffington moved to amend by inserting "deadly," instead of "offensive."

Amendment adopted.

The question recurring upon the adoption of the resolution as amended, it was agreed to.

Mr. Thomas moved a suspension of rules to take up resolution respecting the discontinuance of all papers taken by the Convention, except 500 copies of the Austin Republican.

Rules suspended.

Mr. Hunt moved its reference to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. Lindsay moved to lay the resolution offered by Mr. Thomas on the table, upon which the yeas and nays were demanded and resulted thus:

Yeas—Messrs. Bell, Bellinger, Brown, Buffington, Carter, Coleman, Fayle, Fleming, Grigsby, Hamilton of Travis, Harris, Harne, Johnson of Harrison, Kealy, Kendal, Leib, Lindsay, Mackey, McCormick, McWashington, Mills, Morse, Mundine, Pedigo, Phillips of San Augustine, Phillips of Wharton, Posey, Rogers, Schuetze,

The question recurred upon referring the resolution to the Committee on Finance.

Lost.

Mr. Hamilton, of Travis, moved its reference to the Committee on Contingent Expenses.

The Convention refused to refer the resolution to that committee.

Mr. Evans, of McLennan, moved the previous question, upon the adoption of the resolution.

Previous question seconded.

Pending the vote, the Convention adjourned under the rules, until nine o'clock to-morrow morning.

CAPITOL, AUSTIN, TEXAS,
July 9, 1868.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment. Roll called. Quorum present. Prayer by the Chaplain. Journal of yesterday read and adopted.

Mr. Varnell offered the following protest :

HON. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

The subscribers to this protest respectfully state that some of them are members of the Committee on General Provisions, and that the honorable Chairman of said committee made a report to the Convention to-day, July 8th, and moved that it be made the special order for the 29th day of July, 1868 : we cannot see the propriety for this delay. The labor of the committee had been well matured, and if this most important part of a constitution cannot be considered for the next twenty days, it does seem to your protestants that we had better adjourn sine die.

This thing of remaining in session here, at an enormous expense, and the work on General Provisions suspended for twenty days, seems to us that something else must be contemplated outside of regular constitution making : and for the purpose of showing our opposition to the postponement of the action contemplated, we respectfully ask that this protest may be spread on the records.

W. M. VARNELL,
WM. J. PHILLIPS,
J. W. FLANAGAN.

Mr. Morse offered the following declaration :

I am of the opinion that the receipts for the period commencing first July, 1868, and ending thirtieth June, 1869, will fall short of the receipts for the corresponding period of the previous year, of at least one-fifth, for the following reasons, to-wit :

The deranged condition of the machinery of this office, occasioned by the removal of assessors and collectors, and the failure of the appointees, in many instances, to qualify : because of vacancies now existing in the office of assessor and collector, in many counties : the decrease in the business of the country, made apparent by the returns of occupation taxes. And, in addition to these causes, it is proper to state that His Honor Judge Winston Banks, of the Eighth Judicial District, has granted a perpetual injunction, restraining the assessor and collector of Hopkins county from collecting the tax levied under the law upon Crumby & Withers, for retailing ardent spirits in quantities less than a quart. I am aware that this decision of Judge Banks only affects the particular case adjudicated; but it is presumed that others will take the hint, and that this decision will materially decrease the receipts of the treasury. I have, however, made no estimate of what that decrease will be.

The forced collection of "back taxes" has been prohibited, which will lessen the receipts of the present year (1868) to a very considerable amount as compared with the receipts of 1867—say, at least $30,000.

The additional appropriations which may be made by the Commanding General, the Constitutional Convention, or the Legislature, should one assemble, are not considered in this estimate. Nor is the direct tax due the United States considered, because enough is shown to make it apparent that the treasury will certainly be empty before first July, 1869; and it is not reasonable to suppose any revenue to be derived from the tax which may be levied by the Convention to reimburse the treasury for the amount expended in its behalf, will be paid into the treasury before first of January, 1870.

I have the honor to be,

Your obedient servant,

(Signed)

GEO. C. RIVES,
Acting Comptroller.

Mr. Whitmore, Chairman on the Committee on Finance, offered the following reports :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
July 8th, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention:

SIR: The Committee on Finance, to whom was referred a resolution of Mr. Patten, respectfully return the same, and declare, that

First, the Reporter's services should not be discharged, but that the publication of the speeches should be dispensed with, that a manuscript copy should be written out and preserved in the State Secretary's office for future use.

Secondly, the newspaper question having progressed so far in the Convention, the Committee deems any action on this subject unnecessary.

Third, the Committee would ask that, that portion of Mr. Patten's resolution which refers to the various employes of the Convention, be referred to the Committee on Contingent Expenses.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

G. W. WHITMORE,

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention:

SIR: The Committee on Finance report on a resolution introduced by Mr. Leib. to-wit :

That burying grounds, public school houses, houses used exclusively for public worship, institutions of purely public charity, pub-

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention:

SIR: The undersigned members of the Committee on Finance beg leave to dissent from the Majority report, from said Committee in relation to retaining the services of a Reporter; and respectfully ask that the services of said reporter be dispensed with; for the reason that the purposes and ends contemplated by the Convention in his appointment has failed, and no material benefits seeming to result to the Convention or the country at large from his labors, we therefore hope that he may be discharged; and the concomitant expenses thereby cut off.

Respectfully submitted,
MARSHALL GLENN,
G. W. WHITMORE.

Mr. McCormick, Chairman of Committee on Contingent Expenses, made the following report :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
July 10th, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention:

The Committee on Contingent Expenses, in view of the fact that the official Reporter employed by the Convention, has found himself unable to report the debates of the Convention, from day to day, for publication currently, with the business on which they occur; and that no proper opportunity can be furnished members for correcting the reports of their speeches, and not thinking it proper to recommend the incurring the additional expense for the reporting of the debates, have instructed me to report the accompanying resolution dispensing with the reporting of the debates which may occur after the passage of said resolution. They are of opinion, that according to the terms of this contract, the official reporter should furnish the Convention with debates which have occurred or shall have been had in the Convention up to the date of the passage of said resolution, and have, therefore, provided that he shall deposit with the Secretary of the Convention his report written in the ordinary English character, of the debates had up to that time, before receiving a certificate entitling him to pay for the same.

Respectfully submitted,

A. P. McCORMICK,

Chairman.

Resolved, 1. That the services of John Tovell, engaged on the — day of June, 1868, to report the debates of this Convention, be now and henceforth dispensed with.

2. That the Secretary of the Convention be, and he is hereby authorized to settle with the said John Tovell at the rate of fifteen dollars per day from the date of his said employment, until the date of the passage of this resolution, upon the condition precedent, however, that the said John Tovell shall fairly write out in the ordinary English character, the debates which shall have taken place during the period of his said employment; and the Secretary is instructed not to furnish said John Tovell with any certificate of amount due him until said debates are thus written out and deposited with said Secretary.

3. The certificate of the Secretary, that this resolution has been complied with, and showing the number of days between the date of said John Tovell's said employment as reporter and the date of the passage of this resolution, and the amount due therefor, shall be a sufficient voucher to authorize the Comptroller to draw his warrant upon the Treasurer in favor of said John Tovell for said amount so certified to be due, to be paid out of the appropriation made or approved by the Commanding General for the expenses of this Convention.

Mr. Thomas, from the Committee on Printing, offered the following report:

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention:

The Committee on Printing, to whom was referred a resolution proposing to discontinue certain newspapers heretofore subscribed to for the use of this Convention, have had the same under consideration and recommend that the resolution be so amended as to accept one thousand copies of the Austin Daily Republican at eight cents per number, and five hundred copies of the San Antonio (tri-weekly,) Free Press, at seven cents per number, and that the resolution thus amended be adopted.

Respectfully submitted,

Mr. Talbot, Chairman of the Committee on Education, made the following report :

HON. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

Your Committee on Education, which was added to the Special Committee to attend the examination of the Blind School, at the close of its session, would, in addition to the report of the Special Committee, present the following :

The examination commenced on the 30th of June, and continued through that and the succeeding day.

Upon consulting the records of the Superintendent, we find that the largest number of pupils attending the school during the session was nineteen, and the smallest fifteen, which number was present at the examination.

It was one of the objects of our visit, to ascertain, as far as our limited time would permit, the methods of instruction, and the internal police and regulations of the school : and in all these particulars we would say, it merits our full approbation. The officers and teachers were polite and obliging, and the pupils attentive, interested, and cheerful, and their happy faces showed that they had a full appreciation of the stores of intellectual wealth they were laying up in their minds.

The studies pursued during the session are, in addition to the common English branches, Algebra, Geometry, Natural Philosophy, Astronomy, Philosophy of Natural History, Science of Government, and the French language, together with vocal and instrumental music.

The examination of the several classes to which your committee listened, was of a highly interesting character, and gave abundant evidence that the pupils had received thorough and accurate instruction in the various studies pursued by them : and the recitations throughout were characterized by a degree of promptness and correctness not surpassed by schools composed of seeing pupils.

Several of the younger pupils were called upon to read, which they did with great facility and correctness. They read from books upon various subjects, where the words were long and difficult, with apparently the same ease, and with as little hesitation as those who see. One little girl, seven years old, particularly attracted our attention. She read in the third reader with as much fluency and propriety as any child we ever listened to.

As the time of the committee was limited, and they could not be present through the whole examination, the Superintendent requested them to call for such classes as they might wish to hear. They accordingly directed the teacher, Dr. Baker, to examine his first class in intellectual algebra. The class consisted of four members, three females and one male, the youngest of which was thirteen years old. The exercises included the solution of problems producing equations containing one unknown quantity, those producing equations containing two unknown quantities, elimination by the various methods, the formation of powers, numerical and literal, and the solution of problems producing incomplete, and complete equations of the second degree.

The committee regarded the examination in this branch, in addition to what had preceded it, as a sufficient test of the attainments of the pupils in all the studies pursued by them. The result was extremely gratifying. Every question proposed was answered, and every problem was solved with a facility and accuracy truly astonishing, manifesting a degree of mental discipline your committee had never witnessed in any school.

There was another exercise of which your committee desire to speak, and that was the examination of a class of four boys in the Constitution of the United States, and the principles of Republican Government. The text books studied by this class were Young's Science of Government, and Sullivan's Political Class Book, and the recitation showed that those books had been used to good purpose.

The musical performances during the examination, and at the concert, given by the school on Wednesday evening, consisting of a choice selection of pieces, both vocal and instrumental, were of a high order, and fully satisfied the committee that the school, during the session, had enjoyed superior advantages for the cultivation of this pleasing accomplishment, and to the blind, almost indispensable branch of education.

In conclusion, your committee do not hesitate to express their entire approbation of the manner in which this institution is conducted, and do most cordially recommend it to the fostering care of this Convention.

The examination above referred to continued two days, and your committee not feeling at liberty to devote their entire time to it deputed one of their number, the Hon. D. C. Constant, whose attendance continued throughout the entire examination, and to whom your committee are indebted for this report.

JOSEPH W. TALBOT,
Chairman of Committee on Education.

Evans, of McLennan, authorizing the county courts for police purposes, to authorize the people in any county or counties to vote a tax for railroad purposes, and I am instructed to report back the declaration, and to recommend the adoption of the same.

J. W. FLANAGAN,
Chairman.

Mr. Flanagan offered the following additional report :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
Austin, July 11th, 1868.

To the Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Constitutional Convention :

SIR: The Committee on Internal Improvements, heretofore charged by resolution of the Convention with the duty of ascertaining the indebtedness of the several railway companies of the State to the special School Fund, and also the condition of said Companies, and their Roads, and to report to the Convention, has had these subjects under consideration, and has instructed me to make the following report :

The special School Fund of the State was created by the Act of the 31st of January, A. D., 1854. The Act authorizing the loan of the special School Fund to railway companies was passed on the 13th of August, A. D., 1856. This latter act provided that the Board of School Commissioners created by the act should not deliver to any railway company any warrant on the Treasury of the State, against the special School Fund, until such company had delivered into the Treasury its bonds, in sums of not more than one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, and not less than fifty thousand dollars, with coupon bonds for six per cent. per annum interest, payable annually; and the same section of the act provided that, in addition to the annual interest of six per cent. to be paid on the bonds, every company accepting any loan under the provisions of the act should pay annually the further sum of two per cent. upon the amount of the loan, for the purpose of establishing a sinking fund, to be applied towards the payment of the loan at maturity. The amount paid for the purpose of establishing the sinking fund to be credited to the company paying the same.

Under the provisions of the act of August 13th, 1856, four railway companies have received loans from the special School Fund, to-wit: The Houston and Texas Central Railway Company; the Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado Railway Company; the Texas and New Orleans Railway Company, and the Southern Pacific Railway Company.

By special acts of the Legislature, the benefit of the act of the 13th of August was extended to two other companies, to-wit: The Washington County Railway Company, and the Houston Tap and Brazoria Railway Company; so that the six companies above named became indebted to the special School Fund of the State.

According to the statement furnished to your committee by the Comptroller of Public Accounts, the Houston and Texas Central railway company borrowed from the special School Fund, in the years 1857, 1858, and 1859, the sum of $450000, for which sum, said company executed its bonds, in conformity with the act of August 13th, 1856. which said bonds were deposited in the Treasury of the State. The whole amount of interest accruing on these bonds to March 1st, 1868, was $257,255 56. To the 31st day of August, 1860, the said company paid, in specie, on account of the two per cent. sinking fund required by law, the sum of $18,000. thereby reducing the principal of the debt to the sum of $432,000. On account of accrued interest, said company has paid as follows: From March 1st, 1858, to March 1st, 1860, inclusive, in specie, the sum of $49,801 21; from December 31st, 1866, to December 31st, 1867, inclusive, in specie, the sum of $38,290; making total payment of interest, in specie, $88,091 21. The said company also paid, in the year 1864, on account of interest, in State Warrants, $49,146 49; and in State Warrants fundable in 8 per cent. bonds $56,188 67; and in State Warrants fundable in 6 per cent. bonds, $439; making the whole amount of interest paid in State Warrants $105,774 35; and the whole amount of interest paid, both in specie and State Warrants, $193,865 56; leaving a balance due on account of interest, of $63,390.

By way of full explanation, your committee deem it proper here to state, that, by the 7th section of an act of the 11th Legislature, entitled "An Act regulating the Collection of Debts," approved November 10th, 1866, it was provided that "all railroad companies that are owing interest upon the bonds for loan of the Common School Fund, shall have an extension of time for the payment of interest now due, as follows: The entire amount of interest now due shall be divided into eight equal parts, and paid as follows, in specie; one equal eighth part due by each company, shall be paid on or before the first day of January next; and one equal eighth part every six months thereafter, until the entire amount shall have been paid: Provided, that on failure of any company to pay any one of such installments, as above stipulated, such company shall forfeit the benefits of this act, and the entire amount of interest then due shall be collected as now provided by law."

The arrears of interest due by the Houston and Texas Central Railway Company, and intended to be embraced in the above provision of the act of 10th November, 1866, are included in the above amount of $63,390.

The Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado Railway Company borrowed from the special School Fund, in the years 1858 and 1859, the sum of $420,000. The whole amount of accruing interest on this loan, to March 1st, 1868, was $228,158. This company paid, prior to the 8th day of October, A. D., 1860, on account of the two per cent. sinking fund, in specie, the sum of $12,000; thereby reducing the principal of their debt to the sum of $408,000. To the 31st March, A. D., 1860, inclusive of that day, this company paid, in specie, on account of accrued interest, the sum of $32,218 75. On the 7th day of January, 1867, this company paid, in specie, on account of accrued interest, the sum of $6,120. During the year 1864, this company, on account of accrued interest, paid, in State Warrants, the sum of $23,815, and in State Warrants fundable in 8 per cent. bonds the further sum of $74,204 25, making the total amount paid in State Warrants, on account of interest, $98,019 25, and the whole sum of payments on account of interest, both in specie and in State Warrants, $136,358, leaving a deficit of the whole amount of accrued interest to March 1st, 1868, of $91,800; thus making the whole indebtedness of this company to the special School Fund, on March 1, 1868, amount to $499,800. The deficiency in the interest account embraces the arrears of interest intended to be embraced within the provisions of the 7th section of the act of the 10th of November, 1866, before referred to.

The Texas and New Orleans Railway Company borrowed from the special School Fund, in the years 1860 and 1861, the sum of $430,500. Of the two per cent. sinking fund required by law to be annually paid, this company has never paid any amount. On account of accrued interest, this company paid, on March 1st, 1861, in specie, the sum of $14,271 52, and on the 5th of January, 1867, in specie, the sum of $16,143 75, making total payments in specie, on account of accrued interest, amount to $30,415 27. This company has never paid any further sum on account of interest, in any kind of funds. The whole amount of accrued interest due on the sum borrowed to March 1st, 1868, was $195,081 52. The deficit on interest is therefore, to March 1st, 1868, $164,666 25, and the whole amount due this company to the special School Fund, on March 1st, 1868, was $595,166 25.

In this connection, your committee deems it proper to call the attention of the Convention, to the second section of an act passed during the extra session of the Eighth Legislature, entitled "An Act for the relief of the Texas and New Orleans Railroad Company." The act referred to was approved on the 7th day of February, 1861. The said second section provided that "said railroad company shall have the power and is hereby authorized to issue a first mortgage upon its railroad, from the west bank of the Trinity river to the city of Houston; provided that this company shall relinquish all claims to the State Loan on said section of its road." Your committee is informed that, under the provisions of this act, the said railway company executed a first mortgage on the forty miles of their road lying between the west bank of the Trinity river and the city of Houston, for the sum of six thousand dollars per mile, making the sum of $240,000. If the act referred to of the 7th of February, 1861, is a law of the State, or was such at the time of its passage, then this first mortgage, to the amount of $240,000, will take precedence of the lien of the State upon that portion of the road, and of course the value of the security for the payment of the debt to the special School Fund will be correspondingly diminished. Further reference will be made to this matter before concluding this report.

The Washington County Railway Company borrowed from the special School Fund, in the year 1859, the sum of $66,000. The whole amount of accrued interest to March 1st, 1868, was $29,312 59. This company paid on June 6, 1860, on account of two per cent. sinking fund, in specie, the sum of $1,320. On the 11th day of May, A. D. 1865, this company also paid, and had placed to its credit, on account of said sinking fund, the sum of $27,663, in State Treasury Warrants, reducing the principal of its debt, by the said payment, to the sum of $37,017. On account of accrued interest this company paid, on the 28th day of February, 1860, in specie, the sum of $2,899 45. And on January 1st, 1867, said company paid, on account of interest, in specie, the further sum of $317 93, making the total payments of interest, in specie, $3,217 43. During the year 1864, this company paid on account of accrued interest, in State Treasury Warrants, the sum of $15,546 40; and on the 11th day of May, A. D., 1865, said company paid the further sum, on account of interest, in State Treasury Warrants, of $3,880 80, making total payments of interest in State Warrants of every kind $19,427 20; and total payments on account of interest in specie and State Warrants, $22,644 63, leaving balance due of interest on 1st March, 1868, of $6,667 96; thus making the whole indebtedness of said company to the special School Fund on March 1st, 1868, $43,684 96.

The Southern Pacific Railway Company borrowed from the special School Fund, on the 31st of May A. D., 1862, the sum of $150,000. The interest on this loan to March 1st, 1868, amounted to $52,625. This company has never paid any sum, either as sinking fund or interest. The account is therefore easily stated: Principal, $150,000; interest to March 1st, 1868, $52,625; total indebtedness of this company to special School Fund on March 1st, 1868, $202,625.

The Houston Tap and Brazoria Railway company borrowed from the special School Fund, in the years 1859 and 1860, the sum of $300,000. This company paid on the 1st of January, 1861, in specie, on account of the two per cent. sinking fund required by law, $4,200, reducing thereby the amount of the principal debt to the sum of $295,800. The whole amount of interest due on the loan to this company, on March 1st, 1868, was $142,849 58. This company paid on account of accrued interest, on 27th February, 1860, in specie, the sum of $2,375 38. This company also made payments of interest in State warrants, as follows: on June 23d, 1864, in 8 per cent. warrants, $2,000; on July 13th, 1864, in 6 per cent. warrants, the sum of $13,163 33; on the 20th of August, 1864, the sum of $270 in 8 per cent. warrants, and the sum of $1,730 in 6 per cent. warrants; and on the 24th of August, 1864, in 8 per cent. warrants, the sum of $50,075, and in 6 per cent. warrants, the sum of $2,245; making total payments on account of interest in State warrants of every kind, $69,483 33; and total payments on account of interest, both in specie and in State warrants, $71,858 71; leaving balance due on account of interest on March 1st, 1868, of $70,990 87, making entire indebtedness of said company to the special School Fund, on 1st of March, A. D., 1868, $366,790 87.

To recapitulate, these six companies are indebted to the special School Fund, as follows :

Houston and Texas Central.....	$495,390 00
Buffala Bayou, Brazos and Colorado.....	499,800 00
Texas and New Orleans.....	595,166 25
Southern Pacific.....	202,625 00
Houston Tap and Brazoria.....	366,790 87
Washington County Road.....	43,684 96
Aggregate indebtedness.....	$2,203,457 08

From the foregoing statement it will be seen that not only have all the companies named (except the Southern Pacific) made payments on account of interest, in the State treasury warrants, but that the Washington County Railroad Company also made a considerable payment on the principal of its debt in State warrants. It therefore becomes proper to state the authority, or pretended authority, under which these payments in treasury warrants were made. Your committee believes that the first step towards authorizing such payments was taken by the Tenth Legislature, in the passage of an act entitled, "An Act authorizing the Comptroller of the State to receive from railroad companies in this State the interest that may be now due, or hereafter become due on their bonds." This act was approved December 16th, 1863, and provided that the Comptroller should be authorized to receive from railroad companies all interest on their bonds then due, or afterwards to become due, provided the same should be tendered in State bonds or in State treasury warrants, previous to the meeting of the next regular session of the Legislature. The act also provided that for all sums so paid in, the Comptroller and Treasurer should issue to the special School Fund, the bonds of the State bearing six per cent. interest. The next step in this direction was taken at the called session of the Tenth Legislature, by the passage of an act amending the act above referred to, and providing that the act of December 16th, 1863, should not apply to railroad companies that might fail or refuse to receive State bonds or State treasury warrants at par, for freight or passage, at the prices or rates established by law; and it was made the duty of the Comptroller to refuse to receive State bonds or treasury warrants, for the interest due on their bonds, from companies that failed or refused to receive such bonds and warrants at par for freights or passage at the rates established by law. This second act was approved May 28th, 1864. The last action on this subject was that of the Tenth Legislature at its second extra session, in the passage of an act entitled, "An Act to authorize railroad companies to discharge their indebtedness to the special School Fund with the treasury warrants and bonds and coupons of the State." This act provided that the railroad companies indebted to the School Fund should continue to have the privilege of paying their interest in treasury warrants and bonds and coupons of the State; and that such companies might also discharge the whole or any part of the principal of their indebtedness to the School Fund in the same manner, provided such railroad companies should satisfy the Comptroller that the treasury warrants and bonds and coupons of the State were received by them at par, with specie for freights and passenger travel. This last act was approved November 15th, 1864, and provided that all treasury warrants and bonds and coupons, that might be received in the treasury under its provisions should be cancelled, and that the Comptroller should issue bonds of the State bearing six per cent. interest to the School Fund, for the amount paid in. Your committee has received no direct communication from any of the railway companies indebted to the School Fund, except the Houston and Texas Central Railway Company. The President of that company has addressed a written communication to the Chairman of your committee, accompanied by a printed pamphlet, setting forth the condition, purposes, prospects and wants of said company. This company has become the owner of the Washington County Road. This Washington County Road is twenty-five miles in length, extending from the town of Hempstead, a few miles east of the Brazos river, to the town of Brenham, which is the county seat of Washington county. The Houston and Texas Central Railway Company desires to have the Washington County Road declared to be a branch of the Central, and it wishes to have the privilege of extending this branch from the town of Brenham to the city of Austin. At the close of the war the Central Road was eighty miles in length: since which time the company has built twenty additional miles and opened the same to travel and traffic. The President informs your committee that thirty miles more of road are now under contract and in process of construction, and will be completed and opened to travel and traffic by the first of October next. The President claims that the company is solvent; that since the close of the war, the road, then broken down, dilapidated and unsafe, has been renewed and made safe, its bridges renewed, stone supports put in the place of wooden ones, new ties, new locomotives and cars costing $200,000 procured, the floating debt taken up, and back interest to foreign and Northern bond-holders and creditors fully paid, and the credit of the road built up and established. The President says that the gross earnings of the road, since the war, have been about six hundred thousand dollars per annum, and the legitimate expenses about forty per cent. of the earnings. He says that no dividends have been made of the earnings amongst the stockholders, but that the whole amount of the earnings has been used to repair and extend the road. Your committee believes this company to be solvent, and desirous to extend its roads as rapidly as possible, and proposes, at an early day, to make its affairs the subject of a further report.

The Texas and New Orleans Road is represented to be in very bad condition. The bridge over the Trinity river is stated to be unfit for use, and the road generally in a state of extreme dilapidation. Cars have ceased to pass over it. This road is believed to be greatly needed by the people of Texas, and with a connection with New Orleans would certainly be a very valuable property. The present company has not shown the ability to make the road serviceable to the public, and under its present management it will soon cease to be, if it has not already ceased to be, an adequate security for the large sum due to the School Fund.

The same, in the judgment of your committee, is true of the Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado Railway. This road has been for several years in operation, and while the company is in arrears of interest to a large amount to the School Fund, your committee is informed that the company owes a large floating debt, for which it is not able to provide; that its stock is very greatly depreciated in value, and the road suffering greatly for want of repairs. These two last named companies are indebted to the State more than a million of dollars, and the two roads in the hands of companies able to keep them in good condition, ought to be ample security for the amount due, or even for a larger sum. They must always be important lines, enjoying the advantage of much travel and traffic. Your committee does not hesitate to express the opinion that immediate steps ought to be taken to rescue these roads from the hands in which they now are, and to make them a perfect security for the debts due by the present companies, to the School Fund, and also to make them more widely beneficial to the people of the State. Your committee is of opinion that these desirable objects can easily be accomplished. These roads are valuable, and must attract the attention of capitalists. Let the roads be sold, but in such manner and upon such conditions that there will be no sacrifice of the School Fund, or of any part of it.

What your committee has to propose on this subject is embodied in an accompanying declaration or ordinance, which your committee hopes will receive the favorable consideration of the Convention.

The Southern Pacific Road is also a valuable property, and the State ought not to lose any part of the debt of the company owning the road to the School Fund. This road has been sold under execution, as your committee has been informed, and is now conducted in the interests of a very few individuals. Your committee is of opinion that the State should foreclose its mortgage upon this road, and it is embraced within the provisions of the ordinance relating to the Houston and New Orleans Road, and the Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado Railroad.

The changed condition of the country on the lower Brazos and Colorado, growing out of the events of the war, has made the Houston Tap and Brazoria Railroad of but little value. It is the opinion of your committee, based on what is deemed reliable information, that this road cannot long be maintained. There is not travel and traffic sufficient to sustain it. The only return which this road can make to the School Fund will probably be such sum as can be obtained for the iron, and in order to find a purchaser for the iron of this road, such purchaser must have authority to remove the iron and use it elsewhere. The only question concerning the disposition to be made of this road is: Will the State take such a course as to realize some portion of the debt to the School Fund, or will the road be permitted to fall into absolute ruin, so that no part of the debt to the School Fund can ever be recovered? Your committee is of opinion that this road ought to be sold, with a right on the part of the purchaser either to run the road under the laws of the State, or to remove the iron from the same. In this way a portion of the debt can be saved; in no other way can any part of it be recovered. Your committee presents herewith an ordinance or declaration respecting the sale of this road. Whether the act of the 7th of February, 1861, giving the right to the Texas and New Orleans Railway Company to execute a first mortgage on that portion of its road between the Trinity river and the city of Houston, is to be treated as having the force of law or not, your committee entertains no doubt of the right of the State to sell the whole line of said railway, subject to the lien created under the provisions of said act. Such right is clearly to be deduced, in the judgment of your committee, from the provisions of the 3d, and 11th and 12th sections of the act of the 13th August, 1856; and so far as the right of the State to vary the manner of sale for the purpose of collecting the debts due the School Fund, from that prescribed by the act of 1856, may be called in question, your committee deems it only necessary to refer to the 14th section of the said act of 1856, which is in the following terms: "The State of Texas expressly reserves the right to enact hereafter all such laws as may be deemed necessary to protect the interest of the special School Fund, in securing the payment of said bonds, and in enforcing the lien reserved thereon." This right of the State, it will be seen, to make any change that may be deemed necessary in the manner of sale or in the terms and conditions of sale for the purpose of enforcing its lien, is one of the fundamental conditions of the loan; and none of the delinquent companies can be heard to complain that the State now exercises this right.

Your committee forbears, on account of the necessary length of this report, to present to the Convention further arguments in support of the recommendations embodied in the accompanying declarations or ordinances.

Your committee feels confident that the great importance of the subject here presented will secure from the Convention the deliberate consideration of this report, and wise action in the premises.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. W. FLANAGAN,

Chairman.

D. 1868, in the sum of $499,800, principal and interest; that the Texas and New Orleans Railway Company was indebted to the Special School Fund, on the same day, in the sum of $595,166 25, principal and interest, and that the Southern Pacific Railway Company was indebted to the Special School Fund, on the same day, in the sum of $202,625, principal and interest.

SEC. 4. The sale of these roads shall be at public auction; and if any person shall bid for either of said roads the whole amount of the debt due by the company owning the road to the Special School Fund, with interest to the day of sale, the whole amount to be paid down in coin, it shall be the duty of the Governor to accept such bid, and to cause the road in question to be knocked off to such purchaser, provided he cannot obtain a better bid in cash; but, if no person shall bid the whole amount due by the companies owning said roads respectively, it shall be the duty of the Governor to bid for each of said roads the whole amount due by the company to which the road belongs to the School Fund, and thus purchase each of said roads for the State; and upon the making of such bid by the Governor, and his public declaration that he purchases said roads for the State, said roads shall become the property of the State; and the Governor shall, on the same day, file in the office of the Secretary of State a written declaration that he purchased said roads, or either or any of them, as the case may be, for the State, which declaration shall be attested by the Secretary of State and the seal of the State.

SEC. 5. If any person other than the Governor shall become the purchaser of said roads, or either or any of them, then it shall be the duty of the Governor, after the payment of the price, to give to such purchaser a certificate of sale, signed by himself officially, and attested by the Secretary of State, using the seal of the State: which said certificate, after being recorded in the office of the Secretary of State, shall be delivered to the purchaser, and shall vest in said purchaser full title to the road or roads so purchased, with all the rights, franchises, property, &c., &c., set forth in the third section of the act of the thirteenth of August, 1856, concerning the loan of the School Fund.

SEC. 6. If the Governor shall purchase either or any or all of said roads for the State, he shall have, and is hereby vested with power to resell either or any or all of said roads to any person or company or association of persons that can show, to the satisfaction of the Governor, the pecuniary ability to put said road or roads in complete running order for the use of the public; and that shall also enter into contract with the Governor to put such road or roads in complete running order within a reasonable time; and any person or company or association of persons proposing so to contract with the Governor for the purchase of one or more of said roads, shall, in such contract, stipulate that the bonds of the former company or companies, for the sums borrowed from the School Fund, shall continue to be a first lien on said road or roads, for the amounts due said School Fund; and in making any such contract the Governor shall, as the representative of the State, stipulate that the party purchasing either or any or all of said roads shall have an extension of time for payment of the bonds of the former company or companies for the amounts due to the School Fund, of twenty years from the date of such contract: and such contract shall also contain a stipulation that if the party purchasing either or any or all of said roads shall make default for a period of thirty days in the payment of the interest upon said bonds, then the principal as well as the interest of said bonds shall be deemed to be due, and the State shall have the right to proceed to sell the road or roads upon which the bonds so becoming due are a lien, in such manner as is now or may hereafter be prescribed by law. Such resale and contract with the Governor shall subrogate the party purchasing to all the rights and privileges granted by the charter or charters of the company or companies sold out, and shall subject the party purchasing to all the provisions of the laws of the State as fully as the sold out company or companies was or were.

SEC. 7. If the Governor shall not make any re-sale of said roads or either or any of them before the first day of the meeting of the next Legislature of the State, then his power to re-sell said roads or such of them as at that time have not been re-sold by him, shall cease, and it shall be the duty of the Legislature to make such disposition of such roads or road as may be the property of the State, as will best protect the Special School Fund, and subserve the interests of the public.

SEC. 8. In the event that the Governor shall purchase any or either of these roads for the State, as hereinbefore provided, he shall have authority to take possession of the roads or road purchased, and to appoint a receiver or receivers to control and manage the same for the State, under his direction, until a re-sale shall be made, or until the Legislature shall otherwise direct.

SEC. 9. In the event of a purchase of these roads, or either of them, from the Governor, under the provisions of the sixth section of this declaration, nothing in this declaration contained, and nothing in the contract which the purchaser may enter into with the Governor, shall be construed or understood to deprive the Legislature of the power to control said roads by law, or to make any further agreement with such purchaser as may be deemed beneficial to the roads or to the public, and conducive to the security of the School Fund.

SEC. 0. It shall be the duty of the Governor to recite this declaration in the advertisement of said roads for sale.

A DECLARATION.

SECTION 1. It is hereby declared by the delegates of the people of Texas, in Convention assembled, That it shall be and is hereby made the duty of the present Provisional Governor of the State to cause the Houston Tap and Brazoria Railroad to be sold for the payment of the indebtedness of the company owning the same, to the Special School Fund of the State.

SEC. 2. As soon after the passage of this ordinance as may be consistent with his other official duties, the said Provisional Governor shall cause the said railroad to be advertised for sale for sixty days, in the following newspapers: the San Antonio Express, the Austin Republican, Flake's Galveston Bulletin, the Houston Telegraph; and for at least forty days in some leading paper in the city of New York. The sale shall take place in front of the Capitol, in the city of Austin, between the hours of ten o'clock A. M. and two o'clock P. M. The sale shall be at public auction and under the direction of the Provisional Governor. The sale shall be for cash to be paid down in gold or silver money of the United States, or in its equivalent in United States currency, on the day of sale.

SEC. 3. As there may be some question as to the rights of a purchaser under the existing law of the State, it is hereby declared that any purchaser of this road shall have the right either to run and manage said road in conformity with the charter of the company now owning the same, and subject to the laws of the State in the premises, or to take up and remove the iron from said road; but if the use of said road shall ever be discontinued and the iron removed from the same, then the franchises granted in the charter authorizing the construction of said road shall revert to the State of Texas.

SEC. 4. If any person shall appear and bid for said road and become the purchaser thereof on the day fixed for the sale, it shall be the duty of the Governor to give to such purchaser a certificate of the sale and purchase, which shall be signed by the Governor officially, and attested by the Secretary of State, and the seal of the State; which said certificate shall be recorded in the office of the Secretary of State before being delivered to the purchaser; and such certificate shall vest full title to said road in the purchaser, with all the rights and privileges accorded by the charter of said road, by the laws of the State, and by this declaration.

SEC. 5. No bid for a less sum than twenty-five thousand dollars in coin for said road shall be considered by the Governor; and if there be no sale made of the road aforesaid, then it shall be the duty of the Legislature, at its first session, to make such disposition of said road as may be deemed necessary and proper.

Mr. Flanagan moved a suspension of rules for consideration of report.

Rules suspended.

Mr. Flanagan moved that two hundred copies of the report be printed, and that it be made the special order for next Thursday, July 16, 1868, at ten o'clock.

Carried.

Mr. Bledsoe offered the following declaration:

DECLARATION

Authorizing the Police Court of Dallas county to levy a special tax, etc

WHEREAS, Several citizens of the county of Dallas have memorialized this Convention to pass an ordinance authorizing the Police Court of said county to levy and collect a tax of five thousand dollars in specie, to be expended under the direction of said court in removing obstructions in the Trinity river, between the town of Dallas and the mouth of East Fork; and

WHEREAS, The citizens of the town of Dallas have signified their willingness that one-third of said tax shall be paid by those owning property within the corporate limits of said town; and

WHEREAS, The enterprise is of great importance to the citizens of the town and county of Dallas, and should be encouraged; therefore,

Be it declared by the delegates of the people of Texas, in Convention assembled. That the Police Court of the county of Dallas be and is hereby authorized to levy and collect a tax of five thousand dollars in specie upon all property in Dallas county subject to ad valorem taxation: the said tax to be assessed upon the schedule or lists rendered to the Assessor for the year 1868; said money to be expended under the direction of the Police Court in removing obstructions in the Trinity river between the town of Dallas and the mouth of East Fork: Provided, that one-third of the amount shall be collected from the property situated within the corporate limits of the town of Dallas: And provided further, that the tax levied shall not be more than twenty cents on each hundred dollars, except on property within the corporate limits of the town of Dallas, which may be taxed as high as sixty cents for each hundred dollars.

Be it further declared, That a certified copy of this declaration, signed by the President and countersigned by the Secretary, be forwarded to the said Police Court, and that this declaration take effect from and after its passage.

On motion, the declaration was referred to the Committee on Internal Improvements.

Mr. Bledsoe presented a memorial from Dallas county, respecting the navigation of the Trinity river, and asked its reference to the Committee on Internal Improvements:

MEMORIAL.

To the Honorable President and Members of the Constitutional Convention, now in session at the city of Austin:

Your memorialists, citizens of the county of Dallas, respectfully represent unto your honorable body that the recent arrival of the steamboat Job Boat No. 1, Captain J. H. McGarvey, master, at the town of Dallas, establishes the fact that the Trinity river can be successfully navigated from the city of Galveston to the town of Dallas for six months annually, by the expenditure of a small sum of money in removing snags, leaning timber, and other obstructions between the town of Dallas and the mouth of East Fork. An experienced steamboatman of twenty years' practice has proposed to the citizens of Dallas county to remove all the obstructions in the river between the above designated points, so that boats of sufficient capacity to carry five hundred bales of cotton can run the river to Dallas for four months of the year, for the sum of five thousand dollars in specie. A project promising advantages so great to every department of industry and enterprise should demand the especial attention, not only of the people of Dallas county, but of the whole State. The benefits flowing to the people of Dallas county from the success of such an enterprise are not to be measured or estimated by the small sum proposed to be expended: in fact they are beyond enumeration. To the State, of opening up to successful navigation a stream penetrating her interior a distance of seven hundred miles from her seaboard, securing the rapid settlement of millions of acres of rich and fertile lands by thrifty and enterprising emigrants, which are now lying idle and yielding but little revenue to the State, and none to the owner. The saving in the single item of pine lumber in one year will fourfold restore the amount expended, beside the advantage of the great reduction of prices in the items of salt, sugar, iron and other articles of necessary consumption. The immense pineries of the counties of Anderson, Houston and Walker, almost valueless in their present condition, remain standing because of the slow and expensive means of transportation to the prairies, where every description of pine lumber is in constant demand. Navigation to Dallas three months annually would reduce the price of pine lumber one-half, thereby bringing it within the reach of every farmer to supply himself for the improvement of his farm and home.

To raise this money by private contribution would naturally become onerous upon those who are determined on the success of the enterprise, while those, for reasons whether selfish or otherwise, refusing to contribute, would reap an equal benefit. Therefore your memorialists are impressed that a more proper and just course would be to levy a sufficient tax upon the property in Dallas county to raise the sum of five thousand dollars in specie, and as the citizens in the town of Dallas have signified their willingness, let the tax be so levied that one-third of the whole amount shall be paid by those owning property within the corporate limits of said town.

Your memorialists are aware that more properly this petition should be presented to the Legislature when it assembles, but the delay of such a course would compel the loss of the advantages of at least one season, and perhaps more, the importance of which needs only to be mentioned to command its reason. Feeling that you will not hesitate to act in a public enterprise of so much magnitude, and especially when those to be burthened are asking the action, we therefore ask your honorable body to pass an ordinance authorizing the Police Court of Dallas county to levy and collect a tax of five thousand dollars in specie upon all property in Dallas county subject to ad valorem taxation, the said tax to be assessed upon the schedule or lists rendered to the Assessor for the year 1868; said money to be expended under the direction of the Police Court in removing the obstructions in the Trinity river between the town of Dallas and the mouth of East Fork. Provided, that one-third of the amount shall be collected from the property situated within the corporate limits of the town of Dallas; and provided further, that the tax levied shall not be more than twenty cents on each hundred dollars, except on property within the corporate limits of the town of Dallas, which may be taxed as high as sixty cents for each hundred dollars.

CAPITOL, AUSTIN, TEXAS, JULY 13, 1868.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment.

Roll called. Quorum present. Prayer by the Chaplain.

Journal of yesterday read and adopted.

Mr. Smith, of Galveston, presented a petition from H. Rodefeld, and asked its reference to the Committee on General Provisions.

To the Honorable Convention of the State of Texas.

Now in Session at the City of Austin.

The petition of Henry Rodefeld, a resident citizen of the county of Galveston, and State of Texas, respectfully represents :

That your petitioner, on the day of 1861, at the city of Galveston, in said State, intermarried with one Catherine Cordes ; that said Catherine lived with your petitioner for about three months, and then left his home, being impelled thereto by an aberration of intellect, amounting to insanity ; that as her husband and protector, your petitioner sought her out and compelled her to return to his home and protection ; that subsequently the said Catherine became completely insane, and with the consent of your petitioner was placed in charge of her brother, to whom she was very much attached ; that in the year 1862, her insanity assumed such a serious shape, and seemed so hopelessly permanent and incurable, that she was consigned to the Asylum at the city of Austin, provided for insane persons, and that since said year 1862, she has remained in said Asylum, in the same condition as to mind as when she was placed there, and without any hope on the part of petitioner, or her relations, that her reason will ever be restored.

Your petitioner further says that since his intermarriage with the said Catherine Cordes, he has learned that before his marriage with her, she was often and frequently insane, but that she had intervals of apparent soundness of mind ; of which fact your petitioner was wholly ignorant at the time of his marriage with her.

Your petitioner further states that the said Catherine, at the time of his marriage with her, had such an interval of apparent soundness of mind as to entirely and perfectly deceive him as to the condition of her mind ; so much so as to induce him to believe that the said Catherine had been during her whole life, of sound mind, and especially that she was of sound mind at the time of her marriage with your petitioner ; and your petitioner, under this belief, entered into said marriage with the said Catherine.

And your petitioner is advised by counsel learned in law, and he so believes, that if the said Catherine had such a lucid interval of soundness of mind at the time of said marriage, as would have rendered her competent to enter into and make a valid contract, then the said marriage was valid and binding upon your petitioner, for the reason that the consent required by law to make a valid contract in such an event was given, and that his marriage contract with the said Catherine would be held valid in such an event, even though she had been frequently insane before her marriage, and subsequently became wholly insane.

And your petitioner further states that such was the character of the lucid interval or period of soundness of mind of the said Catherine, at the time of marriage, that it would be impracticable, if not impossible, to prove conclusively to the satisfaction of a jury, that she was of such unsound mind at the time of marriage as to render her incompetent to enter a valid marriage contract.

Your petitioner is further advised by counsel, and so believes, that he is without relief or remedy either in the Legislature or in the courts of the country, by enacting or decreeing a divorce, for the following reasons, to wit :

1. The Constitution of the State prohibits the Legislature from granting divorces.—Art. VII., Sec. 13, of the Constitution.

2. The courts of the country have not been invested with the power to grant divorces on account of insanity.—See Article 607, O. & W. Digest.

3. Though at Common Law a marriage contract is void if at the time of marriage one of the contracting parties is of such unsound mind as to render him or her incompetent to enter into a valid contract, and the courts have the power to declare such marriage contracts void on the ground of want of capacity to consent in such party. But, as already stated, if such contracting party, at the time of marriage, was of such sound mind as to be competent to contract, then such marriage is valid, though such party was insane before the marriage, and subsequently became permanently insane. And it has been already stated that the said Catherine was, at the time of said marriage, of such apparent soundness of mind as to be competent to enter into a valid contract, and that it would be impracticable, if not impossible, to prove satisfactorily to the contrary.

Wherefore your petitioner respectfully submits that he, being without relief or remedy in the Legislature or courts of the country, presents an equitable case for the interposition of the extraordinary powers of this Convention in his behalf. Wherefore he prays that the honorable Convention do ordain and declare that the bonds of matrimony between your petitioner and the said Catherine Cordes be forever dissolved.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

H. RODEFELD.

Before the undersigned, Edward T. Austin, a Notary Public in and for said State and county, this day came and appeared Henry Rodefeld, to me personally well known, who having been by me duly sworn upon oath, said the facts set forth in the foregoing memorial and petition, are true, and at the same time, in my presence, subscribed said memorial and petition.

To certify all of which, I hereto subscribe my official signature as such Notary Public, and affix my seal of office at the city of Galveston, Texas, this the sixth day of July, A. D., 1868.

TEXAS STATE LUNATIC ASYLUM.

July 10, 1868.

Mrs. Catherine Rodefeld, lunatic, in this institution, was stated to have been insane five years at the time of her admission into the Asylum, June, 1862, constituting now a period of eleven years; and while most medical superintendents regard cases of insanity of over one year's standing very doubtful of recovery, experience has shown that some cases of protracted insanity do recover; yet our prognosis in the case of Mrs. Catherine Rodefeld is unfavorable to a cure, or mental amelioration.

The undersigned having been duly sworn upon oath, say that Catherine Cordes, wife of Henry Rodefeld, was, before her marriage to him, in 1861, often and frequently insane—that is, out of her right mind: and that after his marriage to her she became completely insane, and is now, as we are informed and believe, confined in the Insane Asylum, at Austin, Texas, as hopelessly insane.

EDWARD T. AUSTIN,

Notary Public, for Galveston county.

Mr. Evans, of McLennan, Chairman of the Committee on Federal Relations, made the following report :

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR : Your Committee on Federal Relations, to whom was referred a declaration introduced by Mr. Vaughan, of Guadalupe county, and a declaration introduced by Mr. Hunt, of Comal county, both looking to a recognition of the services of those citizens of Texas who participated as soldiers in the armies of the United States in the suppression of the late rebellion, ask permission to report to this body : That in view of the fact that this Convention has no money at its control, save perhaps the amount necessary to meet the actual expenses of the body ; they have substituted the declaration of Mr. Hunt, which proposes bounties in land, for the declaration of Mr. Vaughan, proposing bounties in money to said soldiers.

After making this substitution and carefully examining the provisions thereof, we have concluded to embody the same in a substitute, and ask that it be adopted by this Convention.

Your Committee are entirely aware that the donations now proposed are mere pittance, not enough to excite the cupidity of the most devoted public economist, or to be considered any real compensation to those to whom they are given. Yet such donations constitute a recognition of the services of those citizens, which will be very grateful to them, their families and friends.

We think it safe to affirm that no men, in any age or country, and under similar circumstances, ever exhibited a purer patriotism, or a more devoted self denial, than did those citizens of Texas who left their all behind them—their families to insult and contumely—their property to the avarice and prey of “ Receivers ” and “ Confiscating Judges,” and their names to be handed down to infamy as “ renegades,” in case the rebellion was a success, and boldly followed the true flag. A night of treason rested on the land of their homes. The flag under whose regis they were born was trailing in the dust in the South, and had met reverses in battle ; yet, amid the desolation of the hour, they were firm. Such devotion—such love of country challenges our admiration and demands our recognition, and we recommend it to be given in acts that live and breathe.

Your Committee do not intend or mean to cast obloquy upon other sons of Texas by a recognition of these. No, we would rather “ strew flowers upon the graves ” of the Confederate dead. We would remember and cherish their virtues, rather than inflict pain upon the feelings of their friends, admirers, and relatives ; and we know it is the desire of this Committee, and in fact of all good men, soon to have an opportunity to see and mark a devotion as true and noble, to the old flag of their country, on the part of the late erring sons of Texas, as they gave to the "Lost Cause."

But no feelings of this nature can induce the withholding of justly merited compliment and recognition. A grateful country and people will wipe from the land of those men, and their wives, and their children, the word "renegade," and write instead thereof the talismanic words, "noble sons of Texas."

We will add our aid, if needs be, to have it written in history, upon tablets of stone, and in the hearts of our people, that devotion to the flag of the United States can never bring reproach to the devotee.

A. J. EVANS,

Chairman of the Committee on Federal Relations.

WHEREAS, During the late rebellion, many persons residing in Texas took up arms, and did good services in the armies of the United States, as members of the First and Second Regiments of Texas Cavalry, and in other organizations: and

WHEREAS, The State of Texas has never heretofore recognized the services of these men in any public manner, as has been done by all the other States of the Union, as to their soldiers; and

WHEREAS, These soldiers of Texas in the Union armies have been mercilessly slandered in their good names, and plundered in their property: be it, therefore, declared:

SECTION 1. That every officer and soldier, a resident of Texas at the time of volunteering, and who served as officer, non-commissioned officer, or private, in the First and Second Regiments of Texas Cavalry, Union forces, or in other organizations of Union forces, during the late rebellion, and who died in the said service, or were honorably discharged, shall receive a bounty of land from the State of Texas, as follows: Those who served for a period of six months, or less, shall receive eighty acres of land; those who served for a period of six months or over, and less than twelve months, shall receive one hundred and sixty acres of land; those who served a period of twelve months, or over, shall receive three hundred and twenty acres of land.

SEC. 2 That the Commissioner of the General Land Office of Texas shall issue to the persons entitled thereto, under this declaration, the certificates herein named, upon the presentation, to him, of the authenticated discharge of the person claiming the same: and in case of a loss of said discharge, or a failure to get it, or the death of the applicant before discharge, said certificates for land shall be issued upon a compliance with such rules as the Commissioner of the General Land Office may make, which he is authorized to do.

SEC. 3. The wife, children, or mother and father, or any of them, according to the laws of descent and distribution of the State of Texas, shall take and receive the bounty, herein granted, of any officer, non-commissioned, or private, who may have died without receiving the same; provided, that no officer or soldier, a resident of Texas at the time of his entering the service, and who entered organizations other than the said First and Second Texas Cavalry, Union forces, and received a bounty in money or land from any State government or individual fund, other than the United States bounty, shall be entitled to the bounty given by this declaration.

SEC. 4. The bounty here given shall not be subject to the debts of grantee; and the said certificates, in case of death, shall issue directly to the wife, children, or father and mother of the decedent, and may be located upon any public domain in Texas.

SEC. 5. That the commanders, or any of the field officers of the First and Second Texas Cavalry, are hereby authorized to procure from the Secretary of War of the United States, a true copy or copies of the muster rolls of their regiments, and file the same in the Executive office of the State of Texas.

SEC. 6. That this declaration be in force from its passage.

Mr. Lindsay, from the Executive Committee, made the following report:

To the Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention of the State of Texas:

SIR: The Executive Committee instructs me to report to the Convention, through you, the accompanying plan (marked A), for the Executive Department of the Government of the State of Texas. It was the unanimous opinion of the committee, that it was the best plan they could suggest, after all the deliberation which they have been able to give to the subject. It will be found to conform, in all its main features, to the Republican principles embodied in most of the State constitutions, and in the Constitution of the United States, differing only in some of its details from the constitutions adopted in other States.

The committee ask that the plan be printed, laid upon the table of members, and its consideration be made the special order of the Convention for some particular day.

L. LINDSAY,
Chairman of the Executive Committee.

Whenever there shall be a contested election for the office of Governor, or of any of the Executive officers to be elected by the qualified voters of the State, it shall be determined by the joint action of both Houses of the Legislature.

SEC. 4. The Governor shall hold his office for the term of four years from the time of his instalment, and until his successor shall be duly qualified. He shall have the power of removal of each of said officers for misfeasance, malfeasance, or nonfeasance; but the reasons and the causes of such removal shall be communicated in writing by him to the Senate at the first meeting of the Legislature which occurs after such removal, for its approval or disapproval; if disapproved by the Senate, it may restore the displaced incumbent by a vote of that body. If a vacancy occurs in any of the Executive offices, by death, resignation, or removal, or from any other cause, during the recess of the Legislature, the Governor shall have power, by appointment, to fill such vacancy ; which appointment shall continue in force till the succeeding session of the Legislature, when he shall communicate such appointment to the Senate for confirmation or rejection. If it be confirmed by the Senate, the tenure of office shall continue until the regular return of the periodic election of such officer.

SEC. 8. He shall have power, by proclamation, on extraordinary occasions, to convene the Legislature at the seat of Government ; or at any other place, if the prevalence there of a dangerous disease, or the presence of the public enemy should make it necessary. He shall also have power to adjourn the Legislature to such time as he thinks proper, whenever the two Houses shall disagree upon the question of adjournment; Provided, however, that such adjournment shall not be made to a period beyond the day of the next regular session of the Legislature.

SEC. 9. He shall, from time to time, give to the Legislature information in writing of the state of the Government, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he may deem expedient.

SEC. 10. He shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed.

SEC. 11. days of its session. And should any such nomination be rejected, the same person shall not again be nominated during the session to fill the same office.

SEC. 14. During the sessions of the Legislature, the Governor shall reside where its sessions are held; and at all other times at the capital, except when, in the opinion of the Legislature, the public good may otherwise require.

He shall, by virtue of his office, be president of the Senate; and shall have, when in Committee of the Whole, the right to debate and vote on all questions: and when the Senate is equally divided, to give the casting vote. In case of the death, resignation, removal from office, inability, or refusal of the Governor to serve; or of his impeachment, or absence from the State, the Lieutenant Governor shall exercise the powers and authority appertaining to the office of Governor, until another be chosen at the periodical election, and be duly qualified: or until the Governor, impeached, absent, or disabled, shall be acquitted, return, or his disability be removed.

If the Lieutenant Governor, while acting Governor by succession, shall die, resign, or be absent from the State, during the recess of the Legislature, it shall be the duty of the Secretary of State to convene the Senate for the purpose of choosing a President of the Senate for the time being.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That the said respective Conventions shall provide, by ordinance or otherwise, for elections for representatives in Congress, members of State Legislature, Governor and other State officers, to be held at the same time, in the said proposed States respectively, as that for voting upon the adoption or rejection of the said Constitutions respectively: Provided, that the aggregate number of representatives from the proposed three States, shall be the same that the State of Texas was entitled to in the year eighteen hundred and sixty, to be divided among the said three States in proportion to the population of each respectively.

To the Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR: Your Committee on Federal Relations have had under consideration a declaration of Evans, of McLennan county, and instruct me to report back to this body the following substitute; and ask its passage :

A. J. EVANS,
Chairman.

A DECLARATION.

Be it declared by this Convention of the people of Texas, 1. That the Governor of the State of Texas be, and he is hereby authorized and requested to open negotiations with the Government of the United States, for cession by sale, on the part of the State of Texas to the United States, of all that part of the territory of Texas, north and west of a line from the northwest corner of Hardeman county to the mouth of the Pecos river; provided, that no cession or sale of said territory shall have effect until submitted to, and approved by the Legislature of Texas; and provided further, that the proceeds arising from any sale of said territory shall be applied to school purposes, and no other.

SEC. 2. That the sum of five thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, be, and the same is hereby appropriated out of any money in the Treasury of the State of Texas not otherwise appropriated, and placed subject to the warrant of the Governor, to enable him to carry out the provisions of this declaration.

SEC. 3. The Governor shall have the authority to appoint a commissioner or agent to assist him in the negotiations specified in section first of this declaration.

Mr. Evans, of McLennan, offered the following additional report from the Committee on Federal Relations, with the accompanying resolution :

To the Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR: The Committee on Federal Relations, to which was referred the resolution of Mr. Carter, asking the Congress of the United States to relieve persons living upon the frontiers of Texas for losses sustained by Indian depredations since the twenty-fifth of April, 1865, have had the same under consideration, and beg leave to make the following report:

The Committee consider that the persons for whom relief is asked have a double claim upon the consideration of Congress.

At the close of the war they returned to their homes upon the outside frontier, having full faith in the strength and power of the Government to protect them. They stood, in a manner, as a wall between the fierce and barbarous savage, and the inside settlers, giving protection to them at the expense of their own lives and property.

As is implied in the resolution, numbers of these families have been again broken up, in some cases with loss of life, losing their little all, turned again upon the world homeless, houseless, without even a horse left upon which to get away from their desolate homes.

Pages might be taken up in reciting the wrongs inflicted by the Indians upon these defenceless people, their calamities and sufferings. But we think that the knowledge that the members have of the sufferings of these unfortunate people, with the few facts stated here, will be sufficient to induce them to give a favorable consideration to their claims.

We know of no demand for relief that can equal the claims of these homeless people. We think that the encouragement given to these hardy settlers, by a favorable consideration of this resolution, would tend very much to hasten the settlement of our extensive frontier: and while it would give just relief to the distressed frontiersman, would strengthen the arms of the Government, in so much as would have the assistance of the settlers, who know the habits of the savages, in successfully protecting the inside settlers.

To entirely ignore the claims of these citizens for relief would show a degree of indifference to their sufferings, which we are unwilling to believe is felt by the members of this Convention.

Upon these considerations we return the resolution, and ask that it be adopted.

A. J. EVANS,
Chairman.

Resolved. That the Congress of the United States, if not inconsistent with the relations existing between the Federal Government and the citizens of Texas, be respectfully petitioned to appropriate a sum sufficient to remunerate, in whole or in part, the citizens of the frontier of Texas, for their losses incurred by Indian depredations since the twenty-fifth of April, 1865.

Mr. Monroe, Chairman of the Committee on Engrossed bills, reported provisions numbered respectively, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, correctly engrossed.

Report adopted.

SEC. 2. Be it further ordained, That the plaintiff or defendant, or both, may testify as a witness, on the trial of any cause contemplated in the first section of this declaration, and that this declaration be in force from and after its passage.

CAPITOL. AUSTIN. TEXAS,
July 18th, 1863.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment.

Roll called. Quorum present. Prayer by the Chaplain. Journal of yesterday read and adopted.

Mr. McCormick, from the Committee on Contingent Expenses, made the following reports:

COMMITTEE ROOM,
July 18th, 1863.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention:

SIR: The Committee on Contingent Expenses, who were instructed to consider the claims of members who were induced to travel circuitous routes, etc., in coming to the Convention, and to report what additional expenses, if any, shall be allowed, have been presented the claim of A. Grigsby, one of the delegates from Bowie, Davis and Marion.

Mr. Grigsby says, that he was reliably informed and assured that a conspiracy was formed in this district he represents to assassinate him on his way to the Convention, if he traveled any of the usually travelled routes, and that it thus became necessary for him, in order to reach this Capitol alive, to travel by way of New Orleans, thereby incurring about eighty dollars additional expenses and——— days' additional time in coming to the Convention, to what would have been required could he have travelled the ordinary route. Mr. Grigsby says, he was thus forced to travel eight hundred and fifty miles in addition to the distance by the nearest route, and he claims that one half of that amount, that is, four hundred and twenty-five miles, should be allowed him in addition to the mileage computed by the usually travelled route: this, Mr. Grigsby says, is four hundred, and added to the extra mileage, makes eight hundred and twenty-five miles in coming to the Convention. In the very nature of the case the committee rest their judgment almost entirely upon the statements of the claimant, and the committee are of opinion, that it is due to the constituents represented by the member, to pay his claim for mileage as presented, and let him answer it to his constituents if the claim is improperly made.

It is, however, due to truth, to state in this connection, that other delegates from the eastern part of the State corroborate the statements made by the claimant so far as the existence of a prevailing apprehension among Republicans, that the members from Bowie, Davis and Marion, would be assassinated on their way to the Convention. The committee have, therefore, instructed me to report the accompanying resolution and recommend its passage.

A. P. McCORMICK,

Chairman.

Resolved. That the Secretary of this Convention be, and he is hereby instructed to admit the claim of A. Grigsby, to mileage for eight hundred and twenty-five miles in coming to the Convention, and to issue his certificate to said A. Grigsby for said mileage as claimed.

Mr. Pedigo from committee on counties and county boundaries made the following reports:

COMMITTEE ROOM,
Austin, Texas, July 19, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention:

Your committee on counties and county boundaries, to whom was referred a declaration introduced by Hon. M. Gray, of Red River, to create the county of Paschal, have had the same under consideration and a majority of the committee have instructed me to report it back to the Convention and to recommend that it be adopted.

Respectfully submitted,
H. G. PEDIGO,
Chairman.

A DECLARATION

Beginning at a point at the junction of Hart's creek with Cypress Bayou in Titus county, thence with the meanderings of said creek to the Hart's creek bridge and turnpike, thence due north to the Sulphur Fork of Red River, thence with the meanderings of said stream to a point five miles east of the north west corner of Davis county, thence due south to the line of Marion county, thence along the line of what is now Marion and Davis counties to Cypress Bayou and thence with the meanderings of said Bayou to the place of beginning.

SEC. 2. Be it further ordained, that said new county shall be named "Paschal" and the county seat shall be at the town of Dangerfield.

SEC. 3. Be it further ordained, that the county of Paschal shall constitute a part of the counties from which it is taken, for all purposes, until a general election or appointment of county officers; and shall, for all judicial purposes, remain a part of the counties of Titus and Davis, until the Legislature shall provide for holding courts in said county of Paschal.

SEC. 4. As soon as the officers of said county of "Paschal" are elected or appointed, it shall be the duty of the officers of said county, exercising the powers of a police or county court, to provide public buildings and records, and for this purpose the said court is authorized to levy a special tax of not more than one-fourth of one per cent. upon all property taxable in the county. The said court may also issue its bonds for that purpose, in the sum of six thousand dollars, with interest, not to exceed twelve per cent.

payable semi-annually; provided, the principal of said bonds shall be paid within five years from the date of issuance.

COMMITTEE ROOM,

H. C. PEDIGO,

COMMITTEE ROOM,
Austin, Texas, July 18, 1868.

It was so referred.

Mr. Foster offered the following resolution, and asked its reference to the Committee on Judiciary:

Resolved, That the following shall be a section of the Constitution:

SECTION — Mechanics shall have a lien upon all articles of manufacture, of every description, made or repaired by them, for or on account of any other person, for the reasonable and proper charges which may be due thereon for said working or repairing, and for materials furnished; and in addition to the right to retain possession of said articles until charges due thereon are paid, shall have power and authority to sell any such articles at public auction, and appropriate the proceeds of said sale to the payment of said charges, in all cases where said articles are supposed to remain with said mechanic for more than twenty days after said mechanic has given notice to the owner or person for or on account of whom said article was made or repaired, of the fact that said article is ready to be delivered upon the payment of charges; and the Legislature, at its first session, shall pass such law or laws as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section.

following resolution, offered by Mr. Coleman, respecting the employes in the government offices of the State:

WHEREAS, Rumors and reports are in circulation to the effect that the various departments of the State government in Austin are filled with employes who were enemies of the United States, and in some instances are still hostile to the government thereof and to the reconstruction of the State under the laws of Congress: therefore, in order that such "rumors and reports" may not circulate to the detriment of the heads of the various departments and that misrepresentation and injustice may not prevail, be it

Resolved by the people of the State of Texas in Convention assembled, That his Excellency, E. M. Pease, Governor of Texas, be, and he is hereby respectfully requested to inform this Convention of the number of clerks and other employes in the General Land Office, Comptroller's and Treasurer's office; how many of them have taken the oath of July 2, 1862; how many of them served in the armies or departments of the so-called Confederacy; how many of them are honorably discharged soldiers or sailors of the United States; and how many of them are in political unison with the government that pays them.

Resolved, further, It is the opinion of the Convention that the resolution of Congress and the executive order of the President declaring "it is eminently right and proper that honorably discharged soldiers and sailors in the war for the suppression of the rebellion shall have preference in employment in the various departments of the government," is just and proper, and that preference in employment in the departments of the government of Texas should be first given to the nation's defenders: and second, to those who remained loyal during four years of Confederate barbarity and rebel persecution: and the Convention is further of the opinion that the constantly loyal should be given preference for all places of "trust and profit" over those who sought in any manner to dismember the Union, or persecuted and ill treated the friends thereof.

Upon motion, the resolutions were adopted.

Mr. Burnett moved that the rules be suspended to take up the following report of Committee on Contingent Expenses, in reference to pay of postmaster:

Mr. Flanagan from the Committee on Internal Improvements made the following report :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
Austin, Texas, July 21, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR: Your Committee have again, by order of the Convention, had under consideration the declarations concerning the Buffalo, Brazos and Colorado Railroad, the Texas and New Orleans Railroad and the Southern Pacific Railroad, likewise the Houston Tap and Brazoria Railroad, and after mature deliberation, they come to the conclusion that it is the immediate and best interest of the State, for the security of the special School Fund, to adhere strictly to their previous reports, allowing the payments that have been made in State warrants and bonds. Your committee are of opinion that they have no power to declare void said payments, and any litigation would only tend to postpone and perhaps jeopardize the whole debt to a great extent.

The premises considered, your committee instruct me to recommend the adoption of the accompanying declarations, which are

Respectfully submitted,

J. W. FLANAGAN,

Chairman of the Committee on Internal Improvements.

A DECLARATION.

It is hereby declared by the Delegates of the people of Texas in Convention assembled :

That it shall be and is hereby made the duty of the present

Provisional Governor of this State to cause the following named railroads to be sold, for the payment of the indebtedness of the companies owning them, respectively, to the special School Fund of the State, to-wit: The Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado Railroad; the Texas and New Orleans Railroad, and the Southern Pacific Railroad.

2. It shall be the duty of the Governor, as soon after the passage of this act as may be consistent with his other official duties, to cause said railroads to be advertised for sale, for sixty days, in the following named newspapers, to-wit: The San Antonio Express, the Austin Republican, Flake's Galveston Bulletin, the Galveston News, the National Index, at Tyler, Smith county; some newspaper in the city of Marshall, Harrison county, and one leading paper in the city of New York. The sale shall take place on the steps of the capitol, in the city of Austin, between the hours of ten o'clock A. M., and two o'clock P. M., under the direction of the Governor. The said roads shall be sold separately. The sale shall transfer to the purchaser all the property in the road and of the company to which the road belongs, upon which the bonds executed for the loan of the special School Fund are a lien, as set forth in the third section of act of the 13th of August, A. D., 1856, concerning the loan of the School Fund.

3. For the purpose of the sale herein contemplated, it is hereby declared that the Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado Railroad Company was indebted to the special School Fund of the State on the 1st day of March, A. D., 1868, in the sum of $499,800, principal and interest; that the Texas and New Orleans Railway Company was indebted to the special School Fund, on the same day, in the sum of $595,169 25 principal and interest; and that the Southern Pacific Railway Company was indebted to the special School Fund, on the same day, in the sum of $202,625, principal and interest.

4. The sale of these roads shall be at public auction; and if any person shall bid for either of said roads, the whole amount of the debt due by the company owning the road to the special School Fund, with interest to the day of sale, the whole amount to be paid down in coin, it shall be the duty of the Governor to accept such bid, and to cause the road in question to be knocked off to such purchaser, provided he cannot obtain a better bid in cash; but, if no person shall bid the whole amount due by the companies owning said roads respectively, it shall be the duty of the Governor to bid for each of said roads the whole amount due by the company to which the road belongs, to the School Fund, and thus purchase each of said roads for the State; and upon the making of such bid by the Governor, and his public declaration that he purchases said roads for the State, said roads shall become the property of the State; and the Governor shall, on the same day, file in the office of the Secretary of State a written declaration that he purchased said roads, or either or any of them, as the case may be, for the State; which declaration shall be attested by the Secretary of State, and the seal of the State.

5. If any person other than the Governor shall become the purchaser of said roads, or either or any of them, then it shall be the duty of the Governor, after the payment of the price, to give to such purchaser a certificate of sale, signed by himself officially, and attested by the Secretary of State, using the seal of the State; which said certificate, after being recorded in the office of the Secretary of State, shall be delivered to the purchaser, and shall vest in said purchaser full title to the road or roads so purchased, with all the rights, franchises, property, &c., &c., set forth in the 3d section of the act of 13th of August, 1856, concerning the loan of the School Fund.

6. If the Governor shall purchase either or any or all of said roads for the State, he shall have, and is hereby vested with power to resell either or any or all of said roads to any person or company, or association of persons that can show, to the satisfaction of the Governor, the pecuniary ability to put said road or roads in complete running order for the use of the public; and that shall also enter into contract with the Governor to put such road or roads in complete running order within a reasonable time; and any person or company, or association of persons proposing so to contract with the Governor for the purchase of one or more of said roads, shall, in such contract, stipulate that the bonds of the former company or companies, for the sums borrowed from the School Fund, shall continue to be a first lien on said road or roads for the amounts due said School Fund; and in making any such contract, the Governor shall, as the representative of the State, stipulate that the party purchasing either or any or all of said roads shall have an extension of time for payment of the bonds of the former company or companies for the amounts due to the School Fund, of twenty years from the date of such contract; and such contract shall also contain a stipulation that if the party purchasing either or any or all of said roads shall make default for a period of thirty days in the payment of the interest upon said bonds, then the principal as well as the interest of said bonds shall be deemed to be due, and the State shall have the right to proceed to sell the road or roads upon which the bonds so becoming due are a lien, in such manner as is now or may hereafter be prescribed by law. Such resale and contract with the Governor shall subrogate the party purchasing to all the rights and privileges granted by the charter or charters of the company or companies sold out, and shall subject the party purchasing to all the provisions of the laws of the State as fully as the sold out company or companies was or were.

7. If the Governor shall not make any resale of said roads; or either or any of them, before the first day of the meeting of the next Legislature of the State, then his power to resell said roads, or such of them as at that time have not been resold by him, shall cease, and it shall be the duty of the Legislature to make such disposition of such roads or road as may be the property of the State, as will best protect the special school fund, and subserve the interests of the public.

8. In the event that the Governor shall purchase any or either of these roads for the State, as hereinbefore provided, he shall have authority to take possession of the roads or road purchased, and to appoint a receiver or receivers to control and manage the same for the State, under his direction, until a resale shall be made, or until the Legislature shall otherwise direct.

9. In the event of a purchase of these roads, or either of them from the Governor, under the provisions of the 6th section of this declaration, nothing in this declaration contained, and nothing in the contract which the purchaser may enter into with the Governor, shall be construed or understood to deprive the Legislature of the power to control said roads by law, or to make any further agreement with said purchaser as may be deemed beneficial to the roads or to the public, and conducive to the security of the school fund.

10. It shall be the duty of the Governor to recite this declaration in the advertisement of said roads for sale.

A DECLARATION.

1. It is hereby declared by the delegates of the people of Texas in Convention assembled, That it shall be and is hereby made the duty of the present Provisional Governor of the State to cause the Houston Tap and Brazoria Railroad to be sold for the payment of the indebtedness of the company owning the same, to the special school fund of the State.

2. As soon after the passage of this ordinance as may be consistent with his other official duties, the said Provisional Governor shall cause the said railroad to be advertised for sale for sixty days in the following newspapers: The San Antonio Express, The Austin Republican, Flake's Galveston Bulletin, The Houston Telegraph, and for at least forty days in some leading paper in the city of New York. The sale shall take place in front of the capitol, in the city of Austin, between the hours of ten o'clock, A. M. and two o'clock P. M. The sale shall be at public auction and under the direction of the Provisional Governor. The sale shall be for cash, to be paid down in gold or silver money of the United States, or in its equivalent in United States currency on the day of sale.

3. As there may be some question as to the rights of a purchaser under the existing law of the State, it is hereby declared, that any purchaser of this road shall have the right either to run and manage said road in conformity with the charter of the company now owning the same, and subject to the laws of the State in the premises, or to take up and remove the iron from said road; but if the use of said road shall ever be discontinued and the iron removed from the same, then the franchises granted in the charter authorizing the construction of said road shall revert to the State of Texas.

4. If any person shall appear and bid for said road and become the purchaser thereof on the day fixed for the sale, it shall be the duty of the Governor to give such purchaser a certificate of the sale and purchase, which shall be signed by the Governor officially, and attested by the Secretary of State, and the seal of the State: which said certificate shall be recorded in the office of the Secretary of State before being delivered to the purchaser; and such certificate shall vest full title to said road in the purchaser, with all the rights and privileges accorded by the charter of said road, by the laws of the State, and by this declaration.

5. No bid for a less sum than twenty-five thousand dollars in coin for said road shall be considered by the Governor; and if there be no sale made of the road aforesaid, then it shall be the duty of the Legislature, at its first session, to make such disposition of said road as may be deemed necessary and proper.

WHEREAS, By authority of said act, unusual, excessive and exorbitant fees are allowed to be taxed and collected by the officers of said court in all suits and proceedings had before them; and,

WHEREAS, Said courts, in the exercise of the jurisdiction conferred upon them by authority of said act, have proven to be a great burden and expense to the respective counties of the State, and onerous perplexing; and a heavy and burdensome tax on the time of the citizens of said counties, and an unnecessary and useless expenditure of the revenue of the several counties; and,

WHEREAS, The entire jurisdiction of all matters, conferred by authority of said act to said county courts, is delegated to and exercised by the several district courts of the State, and to which courts the jurisdiction of all such litigation properly belongs, and is already provided for by law; and,

Mr. Whitmore, by leave, asked to introduce a report from the Committee on Finance.

COMMITTEE ROOM,
AUSTIN, Texas, July —, 1868.

HON. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention:

SIR: The Committee on Finance beg to return herewith the petition of S. B. Buckley, and beg to be discharged from further consideration of the same.

The evidences which have been produced suggest the untruthfulness of the representations of the petitioner. He was never an officer of the State, but a private employe of Mr. B. P. Scheumard, and Dr. Moore, at the rate of one dollar a day. Nor do the services of petitioner deserve any consideration.

A pamphlet of the Board of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia stamp S. B. Buckley as a common imposter; his achievements in Austin, where he has utterly ruined the collection of minerals, show him to be an ignoramus.

Respectfully,

WHITMORE,
Chairman.

SEC. 2. The capital stock of said corporation shall not exceed two hundred thousand shares of one hundred dollars each—but the corporation may be organized upon any less amount of capital stock. The directors of said corporation may issue said capital stock from time to time, at their discretion, and may divide the same into one or more classes of preferred stock, giving such preferences as to dividends and as to voting as shareholders thereon, as in their judgment will best promote the interest of the corporation.

The persons above named shall be the directors of the corporation for the first year, and until others are chosen in their place, and a majority of them shall be a quorum authorized to do any act or thing which this act authorizes. Either five of the directors above mentioned may call the first meeting of the board of directors for the purpose of organizing this corporation. The directors and shareholders may hold their meetings and exercise all their corporate rights under this act, either in the State of Texas or in the city of New York, as shall be most desirable or convenient; but full and accurate records of all their proceedings shall be kept in Texas.

The corporation may receive payment for its capital stock, in whole or in part, the obligations, bonds or shares of any railway or railroad company incorporated by the State of Texas, or by any State of the Union, or by the Republic of Mexico, or any State thereof, with which the railway of this company connects, in extension of their lines of railway.

SEC. 3. This corporation shall have all the powers, privileges and immunities of railroad companies under the laws of Texas; and especially to sue and be sued, to acquire by grant, donation or purchase; to use, occupy and sell, bargain, lease and convey all kinds of property, real and personal, necessary or convenient to operate, use, or maintain its railroad; or the part or the whole of any other railroad hereafter acquired by them. To make any laws for the government and management of the corporation or its officers, not contrary to the laws of Texas, or of the United States; to make, have and use a common seal, and the same to alter and renew at pleasure.

This corporation is hereby authorized to lease, buy, hold, use, sell or operate any line of railroad now existing or hereafter established in this State, and all its property, rights, privileges, franchises and immunities, real and personal.

Also, to construct, maintain, use and operate a railway with a single or double track, commencing at any point in the city of Galveston, or at any point in the city of Houston, or at any intermediate point, and extending in a northerly and westerly direction, via Columbus and San Antonio, to the westerly boundary line of this State, and from thence to the Pacific ocean; with the further privilege of making, owning, maintaining and operating such branches of said railway as they may deem the most expedient, not parallel to any existing line of finished railroad within twenty miles thereof, except at the terminal points. Also, to purchase, lease, buy or sell, join stocks, or consolidate with any railroad connecting with the road of this company, whether in this State or out of it; and whenever it shall have agreed with any company, and acquired the possession of their roadway, then this company shall have and exercise all the powers and privileges which have been or hereafter shall be conferred upon the company so agreed with or acquired, not contrary to the laws of this State.

Also, to build, erect and maintain suitable and convenient station houses, docks, wharves and warehouses, necessary or convenient for the business of the corporation; and also to build and maintain bridges across the rivers, bays or waters of this State in such manner as not to impair commerce or navigation, wherever their line of railway shall cross the same.

Also, to fix, regulate and receive the tolls and charges by them to be received for transportation of persons and property, or for storage or warehousing the property transported, or to be transported, over their road or any part thereof; but their charges, payable in the gold or silver coin of the United States, shall not exceed five cents per mile for passengers and fifty cents per hundred for each hundred miles for freight carried by them, or a currency charge equivalent to that amount payable in gold or silver coin of the United States.

Also, to take, transport, and carry property and persons by railway, by force and power of steam, or of animals, or of any mechanical or other power, or of any combination of them, which said company may choose to apply over any and all lines of railway owned, used or occupied by them, to such points as the company may contract to carry persons or property; also, to buy, and hold or sell, the shares of the capital stock and mortgage bonds, and obligations and evidences of debt made by any company with which this company is authorized as above to purchase, lease or join stocks, or consolidate with; and when purchased by this company, it shall have all the legal and equitable rights that the holders thereof had before their sale to this company.

Also, to support, maintain, hold, use, sell, and convey one or more steam ferry-boats or other steamboats, to be used in Galveston bay or harbor, or on the adjoining bayous or rivers.

Also, to purchase, hold, use, sell and convey, upon its line of railway or elsewhere, any materials, engines, cars, steam ferry-boats, steamboats, or any other property, real or personal, necessary or convenient for this corporation, and for their use in transporting persons and property, or storing or warehousing the same; to purchase, receive, and hold, and to sell and convey such real estate as may be necessary and convenient in accomplishing the object for which this company is incorporated.

This company shall, upon acquiring possession of the roadway of any other railroad or railway company which it is authorized as above to acquire, have all the powers, rights, privileges, and equities, which are or were had by the last named company, to acquire, receive, hold, bargain, sell, and convey lands.

And they shall also have power to purchase, acquire, receive, hold, bargain, grant, sell, and convey all or any part of the lands or the appurtenances thereto, which have been heretofore, or shall hereafter be granted or donated by the State of Texas, or by any municipal authority or by individuals, to aid in the construction of railroads; and also all rights, equities, or things whatsoever pertaining to said lands; and also to have, hold, bargain, and sell all claims, demands, or equities to said lands, against the State of Texas, or against any and all persons or corporations whatsoever.

And they shall also have power to build, construct, purchase or acquire any railway in extension of their line of road through or into the States of Louisiana, Arkansas, and Missouri, and to exercise all their rights, franchises, and privileges in either or all of said States.

And this corporation is hereby invested with all the powers and privileges, immunities and rights which are necessary or convenient to carry into effect the purposes and objects of this corporation, as herein expressed.

SEC. 4. The corporation shall have power to borrow money, and to make and issue bonds, in sums of $500, $1000 and $5000 each, to an amount not exceeding $20,000 per mile of their railway; said bonds may bear an interest not exceeding eight per centum per annum; the principal and interest may be payable in the city of New York, in gold or currency, at the option of the obligors: the interest semi-annually: the principal not beyond fifty years from date. For the ultimate redemption or payment of said bonds, they may establish a sinking fund, in such manner and form and on such terms as the directors deem expedient. The bonds so issued may be made convertible into either class of the capital stock of the corporation. The payment of the bonds may be secured by one or more mortgages or trust deeds upon this franchise, upon the whole or part thereof, and upon the whole or any part of the property of this company, real or personal, and upon the property or franchises which may hereafter be acquired by them. And, except as herein expressly provided, the corporation shall have no power or authority to mortgage or otherwise encumber their property, real or personal, unless the assent, in writing, of the majority in interest of the owners and holders of all the capital stock issued by the corporation shall be first had and obtained, authorizing the same.

The said mortgages, or trust deeds, may also contain covenants and agreements authorizing the bondholders to vote in all stockholders' meetings as follows: each one hundred dollars of the principal of the outstanding bonds shall be entitled to one vote; and giving the bondholders the same pro rata voice in the management of the company with, and as if they were stockholders to the amount of their bonds.

SEC. 5. The immediate government and direction of the affairs of the company shall be vested in a board of not less than seven nor more than fifteen directors; and after the period for which the present directors are designated expires, said directors shall be chosen by the stockholders of said company by ballot, at their annual meeting in each year, and shall hold their office until the next annual meeting of the company, or until others are duly elected and qualified to take their places as directors. The directors of this company need not be residents or citizens of the State of Texas, but they shall keep either the original or a duplicate copy of their records, containing all their doings, at their principal office in the State of Texas.

The preferred stockholders shall elect the directors until a dividend shall have been earned, declared, and paid on the common stock; and, until then, the common stockholder shall have no vote or voice in the election of directors.

The said directors shall elect one of their number president of the board, who shall also, by virtue thereof, be president of the company, and shall also elect a vice president of one of their number. They shall also appoint a secretary, and such other officers or agents as the necessity or convenience of the company requires.

A majority of the directors of the company shall constitute a quorum to do business; a less number may adjourn from time to time.

In all meetings of the stockholders of said company, each share shall entitle the holder thereof to one vote, which vote may be given by said stockholder in person, or by lawful proxy. But this shall not authorize a common stockholder to have a vote for the choice of directors until a dividend has been paid on the common stock, as above provided.

In case it shall so happen that an election of directors shall not be made on the day appointed for that purpose, said corporation shall not for that cause be dissolved, but said election may be and on any day to which the stockholders shall adjourn, or which shall be appointed by the directors. And said directors shall have power to fill any vacancy which may occur in their board by death, resignation or otherwise. Also, to add to their number so as not to exceed thirteen in all.

The said directors shall have power to make and prescribe such by-laws, rules, and regulations as they shall deem proper and needful, touching the disposition and management of the stock, property, estate, and effects of said company, the transfer of shares, the duties and conduct of their officers, agents, and servants, and all matters whatever which may appertain to the concerns of said company, not contrary to those established by the stockholders, or to this act, or to the laws of the State of Texas, or of the United States.

SEC. 6. Upon the dissolution of this corporation, after the payment of all its debts, the remaining assets shall be divided among the different classes of stockholders, according to their preferences; that is to say, the preferred stock shall be first paid in full, and the balance divided among the common stockholders pro rata. But this corporation shall not be dissolved by any act of the company, without an affirmative vote of two-thirds of each class of stockholders.

SEC. 7. Annual meetings of the stockholders for the choice of directors shall be held either in the State of Texas or the city of New York, in the month of March in each year after 1868, which meeting shall be called by the directors, who shall specify the time and place for holding the same. And at least thirty days previous to each annual meeting, the directors shall send through the post-office to each stockholder, to the address as shown by the company's books, a full and specific statement of all the business, acts, and doings of the corporation up to the first day of January preceding, and a notice of the time and place of holding said annual meeting.

SEC. 8. This company shall make all reports to the State of Texas, or to any of the officers of said State, required from other companies in said State, by the general laws thereof, and shall be subject to all general laws, in regard to running over the road of one company by another; they shall also keep at their office, in this State, full and complete accounts of the traffic of the company, and full and complete accounts of the shares and bonds issued by them, and full and complete records of all the doings of the board of directors; and shall, in the month of January, in each year, prepare and keep in their office, in this State, a full and complete list of their shareholders, as shown by their stock books, on the first day of January in each year.

The President announced the reception of the following communication from his Excellency E. M. Pease, Governor of the State of Texas, with accompanying documents in response to a resolution offered by Mr. Coleman.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
July 21, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention:

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith reports from the Comptroller of Public Accounts, State Treasurer and Commissioner of the General Land Office, giving the information desired by a resolution of the Convention, that was transmitted to me a few days since.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant.

E. M. PEASE.

WHEREAS, Rumors and reports are in circulation to the effect that the various departments of the State government in Austin are filled with employes who were enemies of the United States, and in some instances are still hostile to the government thereof and to the reconstruction of the State under the laws of Congress; therefore, in order that such "rumors and reports" may not circulate to the detriment of the heads of the various departments and that misrepresentation and injustice may not prevail, be it

Resolved by the people of the State of Texas in Convention assembled, That his Excellency, E. M. Pease, Governor of Texas, be, and he is hereby respectfully requested to inform this Convention of the number of clerks and other employes in the General Land Office, Comptroller's and Treasurer's office; how many of them have taken the oath of July 2, 1862; how many of them served in the armies or departments of the so-called Confederacy; how many of them are honorably discharged soldiers or sailors of the United States; and how many of them are in political unison with the government that pays them.

Resolved, further, It is the opinion of the Convention that the resolution of Congress and the executive order of the President declaring "it is eminently right and proper that honorably discharged soldiers and sailors in the war for the suppression of the rebellion shall have preference in employment in the various departments of the government," is just and proper, and that preference in employment in the departments of the government of Texas should be first given to the nation's defenders; and second, to those who remained loyal during four years of Confederate barbarity and rebel persecution; and the Convention is further of the opinion that the constantly loyal should be given preference for all places of "trust and profit" over those who sought in any manner to dismember the Union, or persecuted and ill treated the friends thereof.

COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,
Austin, Texas, July 20, 1868.

His Excellency E. M. PEASE,
Governor of Texas:

SIR: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the 20th inst., transmitting the following resolution of the Constitutional Convention, to wit:

WHEREAS, Rumors and reports are in circulation to the effect that the various departments of the State government in Austin, are filled with employes, who were enemies of the United States, and in some instances are still hostile to the government thereof, and to the reconstruction of the State under the laws of Congress; therefore, in order that said rumors and reports may not circulate to the detriment of the heads of the various departments, and that misrepresentation and injustice may not prevail,

Be it resolved by the people of Texas in Convention assembled: That his Excellency E. M. Pease, Governor of Texas, be, and he is hereby respectfully requested to inform this Convention of the number of clerks and other employes in the General Land Office, Comptroller's and Treasurer's Office, how many of them have taken the oath of July 2, 1862, how many of them served in the armies or departments of the so-called Confederacy, how many of them are honorably discharged soldiers or sailors of the United States, and how many of them are in political unison with the government that pays them.

And requesting that I will, as early as convenient, furnish the information desired by the resolution.

In reply I beg leave, most respectfully, to say, that the following named individuals have, at different times, been clerks in this office since 3d September, 1867, to wit: Max Maas, Swante Palm, J. D. Coupland, H. M. Taylor, Horatio C. Hunt, L. B. Collins, A. G. Luck, Charles Schuetze, J. L. Buas, Herman Sjoberg, A. Schuetze.

The following oath has been administered to each clerk upon his entering upon the discharge of his duties, and is filed among the archives of this office, to wit :

THE STATE OF TEXAS, } COUNTY OF TRAVIS. }

I, _____, do solemnly swear that I will faithfully and impartially discharge and perform the duties incumbent on me as clerk in the Comptroller's office for the State of Texas, according to the best of my skill and ability, agreeably to the Constitution and laws of the United States and of this State; and I do further solemnly swear that since the adoption of the Constitution by the Congress of the United States, I, being a citizen of this State, have not fought a duel with deadly weapons within this State, nor out of it, nor have I sent or accepted a challenge to fight a duel with deadly weapons, nor have I acted as second in carrying a challenge, or aided, assisted or advised any person thus offending, so help me God. Furthermore, I do solemnly swear that I have never voluntarily borne arms against the United States since I have been a citizen thereof, that I have voluntarily given no aid, countenance, counsel, or encouragement to persons engaged in armed hostility thereto; that I have neither sought nor accepted nor attempted to exercise the functions of any office whatever, under any authority or pretended authority in hostility to the United States; that I have not yielded a voluntary support to any pretended government, authority, power or constitution within the United States, hostile or inimical thereto; and I do further swear that, to the best of my knowledge and ability, I will support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same; that I take this obligation freely, without any mental reservation or purpose of evasion; and that I will well and faithfully discharge the duties of the office on which I am about to enter, so help me God.

Max Maas was an officer of the Confederate States Army.

A. G. Luck was Quartermaster Sergeant in frontier service during a portion of the time of the rebellion.

Adolph Schuetze and H. C. Hunt were in the Federal service during the rebellion, and are honorably discharged soldiers of the United States, as I believe.

I acted as an officer of the so-called Confederate States Army, from August 1863, to near the close of the rebellion, without confirmation by the Senate, and was finally removed by the Secretary of War because of my supposed attachment to the Government of the United States. My oath is on file at the State Department, and of course is subject to inspection.

It is proper to remark, that no one connected with this office entered the so-called Confederate States service before he was conscribed.

I sincerely believe that there is not now, nor has there been, a single employe of this office, since it has been in charge of the present provisional Comptroller, who is not most heartily in sympathy with the Republican party of the country, and who is not most sincerely attached to the Government of the United States, and who does not promote by his influence and his vote the reconstruction laws of Congress.

I have the honor to be, your ob't serv't.

GEORGE C. RIVES,

Acting Comptroller.

STATE TREASURER'S OFFICE,
Austin, July 20, 1863.

To his Excellency,
Gov. E. M. PEASE,

SIR: In reply to your communication of this day, enclosing a copy of a resolution passed by the Convention now in session, I have the honor to state that this office employs a chief clerk and an assistant clerk, both of whom have on various occasions taken the oath of July 2, 1862; that both are in political unison with the government that pays them; that neither of them have ever served in the armies or departments of the so-called Confederacy; that one of them was a refugee from Texas during the rebellion, and the other is an honorably discharged soldier of the United States Army.

The other employes are a night watchman and a message boy or porter; the former is a Swede, and has not been a year in the United States and knows nothing of politics; the latter is a colored boy fifteen years old. All of which is respectfully submitted by

Your most obedient servant.

JOHN T. ALLAN.

Treasurer.

GENERAL LAND OFFICE,
Austin, Texas, July 20, 1868.

His Excellency, E. M. PEASE,
Governor:

SIR: Your communication of this date, transmitting certain resolutions of the Convention, asking for information respecting the political status of the employes of this office, has just been handed to me. I have to state in response to said resolutions, that there are employed in this office one chief clerk, one receiving clerk, one translator, one examining clerk, one file and application clerk and five assistant clerks, seven draftsmen and one porter, making nineteen employes, all of whom, except the porter, have taken the oath to support the Constitution and laws of the United States and the Constitution of the State of Texas; but have not been required to take the test oath prescribed by Congress for United States officers, approved July 2, 1862. None of them, as far as I know and believe, ever held any office under the Confederate States, but some of them had to accept employment in some of the departments to avoid conscription, and one or two of them were in the Confederate army, but they have all been throughout the war and since Union men, and are now loyal and in entire unison and accord with the Congressional plan of reconstruction.

Yours very respectfully,
JOSEPH SPENCE.

Mr. Schuetze moved a suspension of rules to allow Mr. Degener to make a few remarks upon the attempted assassination of Judge Cooley.

REPORT OF JUDICIARY COMMITTEE.

COMMITTEE ROOM,
Austin, Texas, July 22, 1868.

To the Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention of the State of Texas:

SIR: The Committee on the Judiciary, after a careful consideration of the judicial department of the Constitution, have instructed me to report the accompanying article. It will be perceived that many grave changes of our judicial system are proposed in the article. It is believed that the reasons for most of those changes can be found in the experience of almost every lawyer and of every law-abiding citizen in the State. Thinking it unnecessary, if not improper to indulge in any extended argument in support of the various sections of the article, it is respectfully submitted as the result of the most careful examination and soundest judgment the Committee were capable of exercising on the subject.

Very respectfully

A. J. HAMILTON,
Chairman.

JUDICIAL DEPARTMENT.

ARTICLE IV.

SECTION 1. The judicial power of this State shall be vested in one Supreme Court, in District Courts, and in such inferior courts and magistrates as may be created by this Constitution, or by the Legislature under its authority. The Legislature may establish Criminal Courts in the principal cities within the State, with such criminal jurisdiction co-extensive with the limits of the county wherein such city may be situated, and under such regulations as may be prescribed by law; and the judge thereof may preside over the courts of one or more cities, as the Legislature may direct.

SEC. 2. The Supreme Court shall consist of five judges, any three of whom shall constitute a quorum. They shall be appointed by the Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, for a term of fifteen years. But the judges first appointed under this Constitution shall be so classified by lot, that the term of one of them shall expire at the end of every three years. The judge whose term shall soonest expire shall be the presiding judge. All vacancies shall be filled for the unexpired term. If a vacancy shall occur, or a term shall expire when the Senate is not in session, the Governor shall fill the same by appointment, which shall be sent to the Senate within ten days after that body shall assemble, and if not confirmed the office shall immediately become vacant.

SEC. 3. The Supreme Court shall have appellate jurisdiction only, which in civil causes shall be co-extensive with the limits of the State. In criminal causes no appeal shall be allowed to the Supreme Court unless some judge thereof shall, upon inspecting a transcript of the record, believe that some error of law has been committed by the judge before whom the cause was tried; Provided, that said transcript of the record shall be presented for such inspection within thirty days from the date of the trial, under such rules and regulations as shall be prescribed by the Legislature. Appeals from interlocutory judgments may be allowed, with such exceptions and under such regulations as the Legislature may prescribe. The Supreme Court and the judges thereof shall have power to issue the writ of habeas corpus; and, under such regulations as may be prescribed by law, may issue the writ of mandamus and such other writs as may be necessary to enforce its own jurisdiction. The Supreme Court shall also have power to ascertain such matters of fact as may be necessary to the proper exercise of its jurisdiction.

SEC. 4. The Supreme Court shall hold its sessions annually at the Capitol of the State.

SEC. 5. The Supreme Court shall appoint its own clerks, who shall hold their offices for four years, unless sooner removed by the court for good cause entered of record on the minutes of the court. The said clerks shall give bond in such a manner as is now or may hereafter be required by law.

SEC. 6. The State shall be divided into convenient judicial districts, for each of which one judge shall be appointed by the Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, for a term of eight years, who shall, after their appointment, reside within the district, and shall hold a court three times a year in each county thereof, at such time and place as may be prescribed by law.

SEC. 7. The district court shall have original jurisdiction of all criminal cases; of all in behalf of the State to recover penalties, forfeitures and escheats; and of all suits and cases in which the State may be interested; of all cases of divorce; of all suits to recover damages for slander or defamation of character; of all suits for the trial of title to land; of all suits for the enforcement of liens; and of all suits, complaints, and pleas whatever, without regard to any distinction between law and equity, when the matter in controversy shall be valued at or amount to one hundred dollars, exclusive of interest: and the said courts and judges thereof shall have power to issue all writs necessary to enforce their own jurisdiction, and to give them a general superintendence and control over inferior tribunals. The district court shall also have appellate jurisdiction in cases originating in inferior courts, with such exceptions, and under such regulations as the Legislature may prescribe. And the district court shall also have original and exclusive jurisdiction for the probate of wills, appointing guardians, granting letters testamentary and of administration, for settling the accounts of executors, administrators, and guardians, and for the transaction of all business appertaining to the estates of deceased persons, minors, idiots, lunatics, and persons of unsound mind, and the settlement, partition and distribution of such estates, under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by law.

SEC. 8. In the trial of all criminal cases, the jury trying the same shall find and assess the amount of punishment to be inflicted, or fine to be imposed, except in cases where the punishment or fine shall be specifically imposed by law. Provided, That in all cases where by law it may be provided that capital punishment may be inflicted, the jury shall have the right in their discretion to substitute imprisonment to hard labor for life.

SEC. 9. A clerk of the district court for each county, shall be appointed by the judge thereof, who shall hold his office for four years, subject to removal by the Judge of said court for cause spread upon the minutes of the court; the said clerk shall exercise such powers and perform such duties appertaining to the estates of deceased persons, lunatics, idiots, minors, and persons of unsound mind in vacation as may be prescribed by law; Provided, That all contested issues of law or fact, shall be determined by the district court. And the clerk of the district court shall be recorder for the county of all deeds, bonds, and other instruments required by law to be recorded, and also ex-officio clerk of the police or county court, and by virtue of his office shall have control of the records, papers and books of the district, and county or police court, and shall generally perform the duties heretofore required of county and district clerks.

SEC. 10. The judges of the Supreme and district courts shall be removed by the Governor on the address of two-thirds of the members elected to each House of the Legislature, for incompetency, neglect of duty, or other reasonable cause which shall not be sufficient ground for impeachment. Provided, however, that the cause or causes, for which such removal shall be required, shall be stated at length in such address, and entered on the journals of each House. And provided further, That the cause or causes shall be notified to the judge so intended to be removed; and he shall be admitted to a hearing in his own defense before any vote for such address shall pass. And in all such cases the vote shall be taken by yeas and nays and entered on the journals of each House respectively.

SEC. 11. No judge shall sit in any case wherein he may be interested, or where either of the parties may be connected with him by affinity or consanguinity within such degrees as may be prescribed by law, or where he shall have been of counsel in the case. When the Supreme court or any three of its members, shall thus be disqualified to hear and determine any case or cases in said court, or where no judgment can be rendered in any case or cases in said court, by reason of the equal division of opinion of said judges, the same shall be certified to the Governor of the State, who shall immediately commission the requisite number of persons learned in the law, for the trial and determination of said case or cases. When a judge of the district court is thus disqualified, the parties may, by consent, appoint a proper person to try the case, and upon their failing to do so, the case shall be transferred for trial to the county in the adjoining district, whose county seat is nearest to that of the county where the case is pending. District judges may exchange districts, or hold courts for each other, when they may deem it expedient, and shall do so, when required by law. The disqualification of judges of inferior tribunals shall be remedied as prescribed by law.

SEC. 12. The Governor shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, appoint a District Attorney for each judicial district, who shall hold his office for four years; and the duties, salary, and perquisites of district attorney shall be prescribed by law.

SEC. 13. The judges of the Supreme court shall receive a salary not less than four thousand five hundred dollars annually, and the judges of the district court, a salary not less than three thousand five hundred dollars annually. And the salary of the judges shall not be diminished during their continuance in office.

SEC. 14. When a vacancy shall occur in the office of judge of the district court; or district attorney, at a time when the Senate is not in session, the Governor shall fill the same by appointment, which shall be sent to the Senate within ten days after that body shall assemble, and if not confirmed, the office shall immediately become vacant.

SEC. 15. The judges of the Supreme and district courts, shall, by virtue of their offices be conservators of the peace throughout the State. The style of all writs and process shall be, "The State of Texas." All prosecutions shall be carried on in the name and by the authority of the "State of Texas," and conclude, "against the peace and dignity of the State."

SEC. 16. In all cases of law and equity, when the matter in controversy shall be valued at or exceed ten dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved, unless the same shall be waived by the parties or their attorneys, except in cases where a defendant may fail to appear and answer within the time prescribed by law, and the cause of action is liquidated and proved by an instrument in writing.

SEC. 17. Every criminal offence that may by law be punished by death, or in the discretion of the jury by imprisonment to hard labor for life, and every offence that may by law be punished by imprisonment in the State Penitentiary, shall be deemed a felony, and shall only be tried on an indictment found by a grand jury. But all offences of a less grade than a felony, may be prosecuted upon complaint under oath by any peace officer or citizen before any justice of the peace or other inferior tribunal that may be established by law, and the party so prosecuted shall have the right of trial by a jury to be summoned in such a manner as may be prescribed by law.

SEC. 18. One sheriff for each county shall be appointed by the judge of the district court for the district, to which the counties respectively belong, who shall hold their offices for four years, subject to removal by the judge of said court for cause spread upon the minutes of said court. Process against the sheriff and all such writs as by reason of interest in the suit or connection with the parties or for other causes, the sheriff is incompetent to execute, shall issue to and be executed by any constable in the county.

SEC. 19. There shall be elected in each county by the qualified voters of the different precincts or county, as may be directed by law, five justices of the peace, one of whom shall reside after his election at the county seat, and not more than one of said justices shall be a resident of the same justices' precinct. They shall hold their offices for two years, and should a vacancy occur in either of said offices, an election shall be held for the unexpired term.

SEC. 20. Justices of the peace shall have such civil and criminal jurisdiction as shall be provided for by law. And the justices of the peace in each county, or any three of them, shall constitute a court, having such jurisdiction similar to that heretofore exercised by county commissioners and police courts, as may be prescribed by law. And when sitting as such court the justice who resides at the county seat shall be the presiding justice. The times and manner of holding said courts shall be prescribed by law. Justices of the peace shall also be commissioned to act as notaries public. Justices of the peace shall also discharge all the duties of coroner, except such as by section 21 of this article, are devolved upon constables.

SEC. 21. Each county shall be divided into five justices' precincts. And the justices of the peace in each county sitting as a county court shall appoint one constable for each justices' precinct, who shall hold his office for two years, subject to removal by said court for cause spread upon the minutes of the court. And said constables, or either of them, in addition to the ordinary duties of their office, shall discharge the duties of sheriff in all such cases as heretofore devolved those duties upon the coroner.

SEC. 22. Sheriffs and justices of the peace shall be commissioned by the Governor.

SEC. 23. Sheriffs, district clerks, and justices of the peace, when acting as such, and when acting as a county court, shall receive such fees or other compensation as may be provided for by law.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention:

SIR: The Committee on Contingent Expenses, to which was re-committed the resolution originally reported by said committee, in reference to the substantial recording of the journals of the Convention, and the substitute offered by Mr. Burnett, of Houston, and the motion to amend the substitute made by Mr. Thomas, of Collin, have again had the subject matter under consideration, and are of the opinion that the original resolution embraces all that is necessary or expedient for the Convention to do on the subject; that the price specified is adequate, but not excessive; that the work is such as falls naturally and almost necessarily within the duties of the Chief Secretary of the Convention, who is responsible, and must be so held for its proper execution; that it is not at all necessary, and hardly desirable, that it should be done currently with the sittings of the Convention; and, in the opinion of your committee, the Convention cannot consistently make it the duty of the Secretary to have this work done, and for a certain price, and then require him to transfer the work and pay to another man. The Convention has not provided for such an office as Recording Secretary; and, in the judgment of this committee, there exists no reason for making such an office.

I am, therefore, instructed to report it as the opinion of this committee that the original resolution reported from this committee should be passed, and they therefore report the same back, and recommend its passage.

A. P. McCORMICK,
Chairman.

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Convention be, and he is hereby authorized and required to have the journals of the Convention inscribed in a bound volume, such as is commonly used in recording deeds; and the said secretary shall receive the sum of twenty cents for every hundred words of said journals so inscribed, in addition to his per diem pay.

Mr. Burnett offered the following substitute:

WHEREAS, the secretary of this Convention has procured the services of Mr. John C. Morris, to record the Journal of this Convention, in a well bound record book; and

WHEREAS, said Morris has been engaged in said work for more than thirty days, and is still engaged in said work, and is well qualified to perform said work, in a neat and correct manner; therefore,

Be it resolved, That the Secretary is hereby directed to issue to said John C. Morris, a certificate for pay at the rate of twenty cents for each hundred words recorded.

Resolved further, That the secretary is hereby directed to supervise said record, and see that the same is correctly and properly made.

Mr. Burnett moved the adoption of the substitute.

Substitute adopted.

Mr. Thomas moved to insert $6 00 per day, instead of twenty cents per one hundred words.

Adopted.

Mr. Gray moved that the whole business be recommitted to the Committee on Contingent Expenses.

REPORT OF EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

[July 23, 1868—Reported from Committee of the Whole, and made the special order for Monday, July 27, 1868.]

SECTION 1. The Executive Department of the State shall consist of a Chief Magistrate, who shall be styled the Governor, a Lieutenant Governor, a Secretary of State, a Comptroller of Public Accounts, a Treasurer, a Commissioner of the General Land Office, an Attorney General, and a Superintendent of Public Instruction.

SEC. 2. The Governor shall be elected by the qualified voters of the State, at the time and places at which they shall vote for Representatives to the Legislature.

SEC. 3. The returns for every election of Governor shall be made out, sealed up, and transmitted by the returning officers to the seat of government, directed to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, who shall, during the first week of the session of the Legislature thereafter, open and publish them, in the presence of both Houses of the Legislature. The person having the highest number of votes, and being constitutionally eligible, shall be declared by the Speaker, under the direction of the Legislature, to be Governor; but if two or more persons shall have the highest and an equal number of votes, one of them shall be forthwith chosen Governor, by a joint vote of both Houses of the Legislature. Whenever there shall be a contested election for the office of Governor, or of any of the executive officers to be elected by the qualified voters of the State, it shall be determined by the joint action of both Houses of the Legislature.

SEC. 4. The Governor shall hold his office for the term of four years from the time of his installment, and until his successor shall be duly qualified. He shall be at least thirty years of age, a citizen of the United States, and shall have been a resident and citizen of the State of Texas for three years immediately preceding his election. He shall be inaugurated on the first Thursday after the organization of the Legislature, or as soon thereafter as practicable.

SEC. 5. The Governor shall, at stated times, receive a compensation for his services, which shall not be increased nor diminished during the term for which he may have been elected. His annual salary shall be five thousand dollars, until otherwise provided by law.

SEC. 6. He shall be Commander-in-Chief of the militia of the State, except when they are called into the actual service of the United States.

SEC. 7. He may, at all times, require information in writing from all the officers of the Executive Department on any subject relating to the duties of their offices; and he shall have a general supervision and control over them. He shall have the power of removal of each of said officers for misfeasance, malfeasance, or nonfeasance; but the reasons and causes of such removal shall be communicated in writing by him to the Senate at the first meeting of the Legislature which occurs after such removal, for its approval or disapproval; if disapproved by the Senate, it may restore the displaced incumbent by a vote of that body. If a vacancy occurs in any of the executive offices, by death, resignation or removal, or from any other cause, during the recess of the Legislature, the Governor shall have the power, by appointment, to fill such vacancy, which appointment shall continue in force till the succeeding session of the Legislature, when he shall communicate such appointment to the Senate for confirmation or rejection. If it be confirmed by the Senate, the tenure of office shall continue until the regular return of the periodic election of said officer.

SEC. 8. He shall have power, by proclamation, on extraordinary occasions, to convene the Legislature at the seat of Government; but if the prevalence of dangerous disease, or the presence of the public enemy there, shall render it necessary, then at any other place he may deem expedient.

SEC. 9. He shall from time to time, give to the Legislature information in writing of the condition of the State, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he may deem expedient.

SEC. 10. He shall take care that the laws be faithfully executed.

SEC. 11. In all criminal cases, except treason and impeachment, he shall have power, after conviction, to grant reprieves and pardons; and under such rules as the Legislature may prescribe, he shall have power to remit fines and forfeitures. With the advice and consent of the Senate, he may grant pardons in cases of treason; and to this end, he may respite a sentence therefore until the close of the succeeding session of the Legislature; provided, that in all cases of remission of fines or forfeitures, or grants of reprieve, or pardon, the Governor shall file in the office of the Secretary of State his reasons therefor.

SEC. 12. Nominations to fill vacancies occurring in the recess of the Legislature, shall be made by the Governor during the first ten days of its session. And should any such nomination be rejected, the same person shall not again be nominated during the session, to fill the same office.

SEC. 13. During the session of the Legislature, the Governor shall reside where its sessions are held; and at all other times at the capital, except when, in the opinion of the Legislature, the public good may otherwise require.

SEC. 14. No person holding the office of Governor shall hold any other office, or commission, civil or military.

SEC. 15. At the time of the election of a Governor, there shall also be elected by the qualified voters of the State, a Lieutenant Governor, possessing the same qualifications as the Governor, and who shall continue in office for the same period of time. In case of the death, resignation, removal from office, inability or refusal of the Governor to serve, or of his impeachment or absence from the State, the Lieutenant Governor shall exercise the powers and authority appertaining to the office of Governor, until another be chosen at the periodical election and be duly qualified; or until the Governor, impeached, absent, or disabled, shall be acquitted, returned, or his disability removed.

SEC. 16. Whenever the Lieutenant Governor shall become the acting Governor, or shall be unable to preside over the Senate, that body shall elect, from its own members, a president for the time being. The compensation of the Lieutenant Governor shall be twenty-five hundred dollars per annum, and shall not be increased or diminished during the time for which he may have been elected; and while acting Governor, the same compensation as the Governor would receive for a like period of service in his office, and no more. The president of the Senate for the time being shall have the same compensation as may be given by law to the Lieutenant Governor; and if called upon to administer the government, in any of the contingencies enumerated, shall be entitled to the portion of the salary of the Governor due for the time of such service and no more. If the Lieutenant Governor, while acting Governor by succession, shall die, resign, or be absent from the State, during the recess of the Legislature, it shall be the duty of the Secretary of State to convene the Senate, for the purpose of choosing a president of the Senate for the time being.

SEC. 17. There shall be a Secretary of State appointed by the Governor, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, who shall continue in office during the term of service of the Governor elect. He shall keep a fair register of all official acts and proceedings of the Governor, and shall, when required, lay the same, with all papers, minutes and vouchers relative thereto, before the Legislature or either House thereof, and shall perform such other duties as may be required of him by law.

SEC. 18. There shall be a seal of the State, which shall be kept by the Governor, and used by him officially. The seal shall be a star of five points, encircled by an olive and live oak branches, and the words, "The State of Texas."

SEC. 19. All commissions shall be in the name and by the authority of the State of Texas, be sealed with the State seal, signed by the Governor, and attested by the Secretary of State.

SEC. 20. There shall be a Comptroller of Public Accounts elected by the qualified voters of the State, at the same time, and in the same manner, as the Governor is elected, and having the same qualifications; who shall hold his office for the term of four years. He shall superintend the fiscal affairs of the State; give instructions to the assessors and collectors of taxes; settle with them for taxes; take charge of all escheated property; keep an accurate account of all monies paid into the treasury, and of all lands escheated to the State; publish annually a list of delinquent assessors and collectors, and demand of them an annual list of all tax payers in their respective counties, to be filed in his office; to keep all the accounts of the State, audit all the claims against the State; draw warrants upon the Treasurer in favor of the public creditors, and perform such other duties as may be prescribed by law.

SEC. 21. He shall receive, and take charge of all public money paid into the treasury; countersign all warrants drawn by the Comptroller of Public Accounts; pay off the public creditors upon the warrants of the Comptroller of Public Accounts; and perform all such other duties as may be prescribed by law.

SEC. 22. A Commissioner of the General Land Office shall be elected by the qualified voters of the State at the same time, and in the same manner, as the Governor, Comptroller of Public Accounts, and Treasurer may be elected, who shall hold his office for a like period of time, and shall possess the same qualifications. He shall be the custodian of the Archives of the land titles of the State; the register of all land titles hereafter granted; and shall perform such other duties as may be required by law.

SEC. 25. Should a vacancy occur in either of the offices mentioned in the last section, (section 24 of this article,) by death, resignation, or otherwise, it shall be filled by appointment by the Governor, if in the recess of the Legislature, and referred by him to the Senate, on its subsequent assembling, for confirmation. If the Senate be in session when such vacancy occurs, then the Governor shall nominate some fit person to that body, to fill out the unexpired term of the office.

SEC. 26. Every bill, which shall have passed both Houses of the Legislature, shall be presented to the Governor for his approval. If he approve, he shall sign it; but if he disapprove it, he shall return it with his objection, to that House in which it originated; which House shall enter the objections at large upon the journals of the House, and proceed to reconsider it. If, after such reconsideration, two-thirds of the members present shall agree to pass the bill, it shall be sent with the objection to the other House, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered. If approved by two-thirds of the members present of that House, it shall become a law; but, in such cases, both Houses shall determine the question by yeas and nays, with the names of the members respectively entered upon the journals of each House. If a bill shall not be returned by the Governor within five days (Sundays excepted,) after it shall have been presented to him, it shall become a law, in like manner as if he had signed it. Every bill presented to the Governor one day before the final adjournment of the two Houses, and not signed by him, shall become a law, and shall have the same force and effect as if signed by him. The Governor may approve any appropriation, and disapprove any other appropriation, in the same bill, by signing the bill, and designating the appropriation disapproved, and sending a copy of such appropriation, with his objections, to the House in which it originated; and the same proceedings shall be had on that part disapproved, as on other bills disapproved by him: but, if the Legislature shall have adjourned before it is returned, he shall return it, with his objections, to the Secretary of State, to be submitted to both Houses at the succeeding session of the Legislature.

SEC. 27. Every order, resolution, or vote, in which the concurrence of both Houses shall be required, except the question of adjournment, shall be presented to the Governor, and must be approved by him before it can take effect; or being disapproved, shall be re-passed in the manner prescribed in the case of a bill.

To the Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention:

STR: The undersigned five members of the Committee on Education, beg leave to submit the following statement of our views in regard to the indebtedness of the railroads of the State to the Special School Fund:

We find that by the legislation of 1839 and 1845, 2,302,560 acres of land were set apart to the one hundred and thirty organized counties of the State, as the basis of a perpetual School Fund. About five-sixths of this amount has been located and surveyed.

The Convention of 1836, in addition to the land grant to the counties, set apart for educational purposes the reserved sections of railroad lands, amounting to 2,548,070 acres; making a total land endowment of 4,850,630 acres.

Your committee is of opinion that many years must elapse before any adequate amount will be realized from the sale of these lands.

Any school system we may adopt will have to depend mainly for support upon other sources of income, until the stable reconstruction of laws and society in Texas shall have produced their good fruits in a more general prosperity and the consequent rise in value of real estate.

In 1854, five per cent. United States specie bonds, to the amount of two millions of dollars, were set apart as a special school fund, to be applied towards the payment of teacher's salaries.

To the history of this fund we invite your special attention.

In 1856, authority was given to loan this fund to railroad companies under certain conditions; the companies giving first mortgage bonds payable in ten years, at six per cent. specie, interest, with a further annual payment of two per cent. as a sinking fund. This act was amended in 1858, but these conditions were unchanged.

Under this law, the Houston and Central Railroad, borrowed in 1858-9, $450,000. The interest on which was paid to March 1st, 1860.

From this date to January 20th, 1864, no interest was paid. In the month of January, March, April, July and August, 1864, there were made so-called payments of interest in State warrants, amounting to $105,800 00.

The next payment occurred April 23d, 1866, in specie, to the amount of $10,330 00.

During 1867, five payments were made in specie, the aggregate amounting to $27,430.

In the opinion of your committee the so-called payment of interest, in State warrants, during the year 1864, amounting to $105,800, is not an equitable payment and should not be credited as such. This sum deducted, the indebtedness of the Houston and Central road to the School Fund is as follows:

Interest due to March 1st, 1868.....	$193,284.59
Principal due	432,000.00

Your committee is of opinion that none of these so-called payments made by railroads in State warrants, during the late war, should be allowed by the loyal State government.

The policy of the so-called government of the State during the war was to maintain the value of their paper money, or warrants issued for the carrying out of purposes hostile to the United States. and having this purpose in view, the pretended law was passed under which these payments were made.

The foregoing being considered, and your committee being desirous to recommend such a declaration as will secure the school fund of the State in its just claims against these roads, as well as to give the companies a fair opportunity to relieve themselves of these claims without hasty sacrifice of property, I have been instructed to report the following declaration, and to ask that it be incorporated into the Constitution.

DECLARATION

Providing for the sale of such railroads of this State as may be indebted to the school fund.

SECTION 1. Be it declared by the people of Texas in Convention assembled, That the railroads within this State which are indebted to the school fund, to-wit: The Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado railroad; the Washington County railroad; the Houston and Texas Central railroad; the Houston Tap and Brazoria railroad; the Southern Pacific railroad, and the Texas and New Orleans railroad, shall be sold by the Governor of the State, either at public auction or private sale, as he may order, to any company or individual that will, in the particular case, assume the entire debt that may be due from the railroad to the said school fund; such sale to be under the following terms and conditions:

The company or individual purchasing any of the railroads sold under this provision, to deposit in the treasury of the State, at the time of such sale, the one-fourth part of such indebtedness, which said fourth part may be used, under the supervision of the Governor, in putting the railroad sold in good running order, or in extending the same.

That the company or individual purchasing any of said railroads under the provisions thereof, shall have a term of twenty years within which to complete payment of the indebtedness to the school fund, the payment to be made in equal semi-annual installments, with interest at six per cent. per annum, payable also semi-annually. That should any company or individual, who may purchase under the provisions hereof, fail to make any of the semi-annual payments, either of the amount of indebtedness to said school fund, or of interest due, then the whole amount of such indebtedness and interest shall become due, and the railroad in possession of such company or individual shall be again sold by the Governor, under the terms and conditions of this declaration.

Provided, That, in making the first sale of any of the said railroads, as hereinbefore provided, the Governor shall give a preference to the company or individual at present owning the same.

Provided further, That should the Governor not be able to sell any of said railroads, under the terms and conditions of this declaration, then he may sell the same at public auction unconditionally, for such sums as may be offered for the same.

Provided further, That the indebtedness of said railroads, hereinbefore mentioned, is intended to include the total amount of principal and interest due from said railroads without regard for any pretended payment made during the late rebellion, when such payments were made in any other currency than gold and silver.

Mr. Burnett moved to lay the resolution upon the table, upon which the yeas and nays were demanded and resulted thus :

Yeas—Messrs. President, Adam, Armstrong of Lamar, Bledsoe, Board, Brown, Bryant of Grayson, Bryant of Harris, Buffington, Burnett, Carter, Cole, Coleman, Constant, Downing, Flanagan, Fleming, Foster, Goddin, Gray, Harn, Johnson of Calhoun, Jordan, Kealy, Keuchler, Lindsay, McWashington, Mundine, Munroe, Pedigo, Phillips of San Augustine, Phillips of Wharton, Posey, Ruby, Schuetze, Scott, Slaughter, Smith of Galveston, Smith of Marion, Sumner, Thomas, Varnell, Watrous, Wilson of Brazoria, Wright—46.

Nays—Messrs. Armstrong of Jasper, Bell, Boyd, Butler, Curtis, Degener, Evans of McLennan, Fayle, Gaston, Glenn, Grisby, Harris, Horne, Hunt, Keigwin, Kendal, Lippard, Long, Morse, Newcomb, Oaks, Patten, Whitmore, Williams, Wilson of Milam, Yarborough—26.

So the resolution was laid on the table.

The president announced the next business in order was upon Mr. Buffington's resolution, to discharge the clerks of the various committees of the Convention.

Mr. Butler moved to lay the motion upon the table, upon which the yeas and nays were demanded and resulted thus :

Yeas—Messrs. President, Armstrong of Lamar, Bell, Bellinger, Bledsoe, Boyd, Brown, Bryant of Harris, Butler, Burnett, Carter, Coleman, Constant, Curtis, Downing, Evans of McLennan, Flanagan, Fleming, Foster, Goddin, Horne, Hunt, Johnson of Harrison, Keuchler, Leib, Munroe, Newcomb, Oaks, Patten, Phillips of San Augustine, Ruby, Schuetze, Slaughter, Smith of Marion, Whitmore, Yarborough—36.

Nays—Messrs. Adams, Armstrong of Jasper, Board, Bryant of Grayson, Buffington, Cole, Degener, W. Flanagan, Gaston, Glenn, Gray, Grigsby, Hamilton of Travis, Harris, Harn, Johnson of Calhoun, Kealy, Keigwin, Kendal, Lindsay, Lippard, McCormick, McWashington, Morse, Mundine, Pedigo, Phillips of Wharton, Posey, Rogers, Scott, Smith of Galveston, Stockbridge, Sumner, Thomas, Varnell, Watrous, Williams, Wilson of Brazoria, Wilson of Milam, Wright—40.

So the Convention refused to lay the resolution on the table.

The president announced that the hour had arrived to take up the report of the Committee on Internal Improvements, upon the sale of the Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado Railroad, and other railroads.

Mr. Fayle made the following minority report :

MINORITY REPORT OF COMMITTEE OF INTERNAL IMPROVEMENTS.

The minority would call the attention of the Convention to the following facts in relation to the Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado Railroad, and which were not known to a majority of the committee at the time their report was first made and ordered to be printed:

1. The Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado Railroad was originally built with the moneys and materials furnished principally by non-residents of the State of Texas, and who, in consequence of their non-residence, were unable to preserve and protect their interests during the late unhappy rebellion.

2. Up to the inauguration of that dreadful state of affairs the Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado Railroad was kept in most excellent condition, was constantly being extended and improved, and not only paid the interest accruing on the school fund, but actually lessened the principal itself by twelve thousand dollars.

3. In consequence of the financial derangements produced by the rebellion, and the wearing out of the rolling stock, machinery and road beds during its continuance, said Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado Railroad Company became greatly embarrassed at the close of the rebellion, and were left without means, machinery, or rolling stock, and a worn-out road on their hands as the results of the war.

4. Subsequent to the war, however, and up to the fifteenth of June last, these same non-resident creditors, instead of taking advantage of the necessities of the old company for their exclusive benefit, as they might very justly have done, have been generously rendering such assistance as they could to the former company for their resuscitation and establishment; but, as events have proved, unfortunately without success.

5. On the fifteenth of June last, and since this Convention commenced its session, in order to secure their own interests, with the full consent and at the express desire of the former company, the aforesaid non-resident creditors have been induced to take the management of said road into their own hands and subject to their sole control; and, forming a new company, have united themselves with one of your own citizens, identified with every interest of the State, and a prominent and well known railroad man.

6. Carrying out in good faith the programme laid down in their formation as a new company, to make the Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado Railroad a first-class road, and being fully able to do so, they have since the fifteenth of June last paid of the floating debt of the old company, $20,000 to the laborers and workmen previously employed, and in judgment $50,000 more; leaving the entire floating debt now due not over $16,000. They have ordered from Calcasieu and along the line of the road a new set of cross ties, and are relaying the roadbed at a probable cost of $60,000; they have bought and paid for, and it is now on the way, a substantial truss iron bridge to go across the Brazos river at Richmond, and are now building the brick and concrete abutments therefor, and which bridge, when finished by the first of October next, will be at a cost of $80,000; and in addition to all this there is ordered an entirely new rolling stock, which will swell the cost $75,000 more; all of which amount, $255,000, has been or will be expended during the present year.

7. There is now eighty-five miles of road built, which will be put in first class order, as before said, during the present year, with the certainty that as soon as it is practicable it will be extended to the utmost degree; thus making it one of the most valuable railroads in the State, and affording ample security to the school fund in the future.

With these facts in view the minority think it would be unfair, and an act of great injustice to these enterprising men, citizens of our common country, for this Convention to take advantage of the derangements caused by the recent civil strife, and the well meant efforts of the present company to sustain the former one, and now, at so short notice, to foreclose the mortgage of the State upon the road; more particularly as they are just starting out as a new company, with all the difficulties of a recent change, and without any opportunity afforded them of meeting the obligations thus suddenly and in some measure unexpectedly thrown upon them. Such action of this Convention would deprive them of all means of recovering their just dues, after laying out of them some ten or twelve years without any benefit therefrom, and would not increase the certainties of the State realizing the proper advantages of the school fund. The minority conceive that such action on the part of this Convention would greatly affect the credit of the State abroad, and much trammel railroad enterprises within the State of Texas for the future; and would respectfully suggest that a proper and just course would dictate that every reasonable favor and extension should be granted said company; and that this may be done, yet the well prized school fund of the State of Texas be at no unnecessary risks, and the hopes of a broad and wise system of educational interests imperiled; therefore,

DECLARATION.

Be it declared, That the Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado Railroad Company shall be, and is hereby, required to deposit with the Comptroller of the State of Texas within sixty days from the passage of this declaration, the sum of one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars, either in money or United States bonds, as additional security to the bonds now in possession of the State, for the amount due on the School Fund, principal and interest; amounting in all to $499,800, due March 1, 1868.

2. That the said $499,800, with so much interest accruing thereto as shall make the sum total $500,000, shall form a new principal, the interest of which shall be paid by said Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado Railroad Company on the first day of January next, and semi-annually afterwards, as it becomes due.

3. Said Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado Railroad Company shall be entitled to draw out of the hands of the Comptroller any portion of said deposit, in sums of not less than twenty thousand dollars at a time, whenever said company can make satisfactory showing to the Governor that they have expended such amount in the permanent improvement or in the actual extension of said road.

4. Should said company not produce to the Governor, within sixty days from the passage of this declaration, the receipt of the Comptroller, showing that the sum of one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars, in money, or United States bonds, has been deposited for additional security, as required by the first section of this declaration; or should the said company fail to make any payment of interest for sixty days from the time such payment is due, the Governor shall be, and he is hereby, authorized, after giving thirty days' notice in the Austin Republican, San Antonio Express, Flake's Bulletin, National Index, and one leading paper respectively in Boston and New York, to proceed to sell, or to have sold, from the Capitol steps, in the city of Austin, said Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado Railroad, with its entire rolling stock, together with all the rights, privileges, franchises, immunities and claims that said company may have to the same, to any person or persons who shall bid the whole amount of principal and interest due on the day of sale; payments to be made as follows: one-fourth down, and the remainder in four annual installments, with interest from the day of sale, secured by lien on the road.

The minority would also offer the following modification of the majority report, as it respects the New Orleans and Southern Pacific Railroad:

A DECLARATION.

1. It is hereby declared by the delegates of the people of Texas in Convention assembled, That it shall be and is hereby made the duty of the present Provisional Governor of this State to cause the following named railroads to be sold for the payment of the indebtedness of the companies owning them, respectively, to the Special School Fund of the State, to-wit: the Texas and New Orleans Railroad, and the Southern Pacific Railroad.

2. It shall be the duty of the Governor, as soon after the passage of this act as may be consistent with his other official duties, to cause said railroads to be advertised for sale, for sixty days, in the following named newspapers, to-wit: the San Antonio Express, the Austin Republican, Flake's Galveston Bulletin, the Galveston News, the National Index, at Tyler, Smith county, some newspaper in the city of Marshall, Harrison county, and one leading paper in the city of New York. The sale shall take place on the steps of the Capitol, in the city of Austin, between the hours of ten o'clock, A. M., and two o'clock, P. M., under the direction of the Governor. The said roads shall be sold separately. The sale shall transfer to the purchaser all the property in the road and of the company to which the road belongs, upon which the bonds executed for the loan of the Special School Fund are a lien, as set forth in the third section of the act of the thirteenth of August, A. D. 1856, concerning the loan of the School Fund.

3. For the purpose of the sale herein contemplated, it is hereby declared that the Texas and New Orleans Railway Company was indebted to the Special School Fund, on the same day, in the sum of $595,166.25, principal and interest; and that the Southern Pacific Railway Company was indebted to the Special School Fund, on the same day, in the sum of $202,625, principal and interest.

4. The sale of these roads shall be at public auction; and if any person shall bid for either of said roads the whole amount of the debt due by the Company owning the road to the Special School Fund, with interest to the day of sale; one fourth to be paid down in coin, and the balance in four annual installments with interest thereon, it shall be the duty of the Governor to accept such bid, and to cause the road in question to be knocked off to such purchaser, provided he cannot obtain a better bid in cash; but, if no person shall bid the whole amount due by the companies owning said roads respectively, it shall be the duty of the Governor to bid for each of said roads the whole amount due by the Company to which the road belongs to the School Fund, and thus purchase each of said roads for the State; and upon the making of such bid by the Governor, and his public declaration that he purchases said roads for the State, said roads shall become the property of the State: and the Governor shall, on the same day, file in the office of the Secretary of State a written declaration that he purchased said roads, or either or any of them, as the case may be, for the State, which declaration shall be attested by the Secretary of State and the seal of the State.

5. If any person other than the Governor shall become the purchaser of said roads, or either or any of them, then it shall be the duty of the Governor, after the payment of one-fourth the price and first class bonds securing the payment of the remainder, principal and interest, to give to such purchaser a certificate of sale, signed by himself officially, and attested by the Secretary of State, using the seal of the State, which said certificate, after being recorded in the office of the Secretary of State, shall be delivered to the purchaser, and shall vest in said purchaser full title to the road or roads so purchased, with all the rights, franchises, property, etc., etc., set forth in the third section of the act of the thirteenth of August, 1856, concerning the loan of the School Fund.

6. If the parties purchasing any of said road or roads at public sale, shall fail to pay any of the subsequent installments with the interest accruing thereon, for ninety days after such payment is due, said parties shall forfeit all right and claim to said road or roads, and the Governor shall have authority to take possession of said road or roads and appoint a receiver or receivers to manage the same for the State, until a re-sale can be effected or the Legislature may otherwise prescribe; and said parties so forfeiting their rights in the road shall have no recovery for the amounts previously invested.

7. It shall be the duty of the Governor to recite this declaration in the advertisement of said roads for sale.

A DECLARATION.

1. It is hereby declared by the delegates of the people of Texas in Convention assembled. That it shall be, and is hereby made the duty of the present Provisional Governor of the State to cause the Houston Tap and Brazoria Railroad to be sold for the payment of the indebtedness of the company owning the same, to the Special School Fund of the State.

2. As soon after the passage of this ordinance as may be consistent with his other official duties, the said Provisional Governor shall cause the said railroad to be advertised for sale for sixty days in the following newspapers: the San Antonio Express, the Austin Republican, Flake's Galveston Bulletin, the Houston Telegraph; and for at least forty days in some leading paper in the city of New York.

The sale shall take place in front of the Capitol, in the city of Austin, between the hours of ten o'clock, A. M., and two o'clock, P. M. The sale shall be at public auction and under the direction of the Provisional Governor. The sale shall be for cash, to be paid down in gold or silver money of the United States, or in its equivalent in United States currency, on the day of sale.

3. As there may be some question as to the rights of a purchaser under the existing law of the State, it is hereby declared that any purchaser of this road shall have the right either to run and manage said road in conformity with the charter of the company now owning the same, and subject to the laws of the State in the premises, or to take up and remove the iron from said road; but if the use of said road shall ever be discontinued and the iron removed from the same, then the franchises granted in the charter authorizing the construction of said road shall revert to the State of Texas.

4. If any person shall appear and bid for said road, and become the purchaser thereof on the day fixed for the sale, it shall be the duty of the Governor to give to such purchaser a certificate of the sale and purchase, which shall be signed by the Governor officially, and attested by the Secretary of State, and the seal of the State; which said certificate shall be recorded in the office of the Secretary of State before being delivered to the purchaser; and such certificate shall vest full title to said road in the purchaser, with all the rights and privileges accorded by the charter of said road, by the laws of the State, and by this declaration.

5. No bid for a less sum than twenty-five thousand dollars in coin for said road shall be considered by the Governor; and if there be no sale made of the road aforesaid, then it shall be the duty of the Legislature, at its first session, to make such disposition of said road as may be deemed necessary and proper.

Mr. Evans, of McLennan, moved the following substitute for the whole :

DECLARATION

Providing for the sale of such railroads of this State as may be indebted to the School Fund.

SECTION 1. Be it declared by the people of Texas in Convention assembled. That the railroads within this State which are indebted to the School Fund, to wit: the Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado Railroad; the Washington county Railroad; the Houston and Texas Central Railroad; the Houston Tap and Brazoria Railroad; the Southern Pacific Railroad; and the Texas and New Orleans Railroad; shall be sold by the Governor of the State, either at public auction or private sale, as he may order, to any company or any individual that will, in the particular case, assume the entire debt that may be due from the railroad sold, to the said School Fund; such sale to be under the following terms and conditions:

The company or individual purchasing any of the railroads sold under this provision, to deposit in the Treasury of the State, at the time of such sale, the one-fourth part of such indebtedness, which said fourth part may be used, under the supervision of the Governor, in putting the railroad sold in good running order, or in extending the same.

That the company or individual purchasing any of said railroads under the provisions thereof, shall have a term of twenty years within which to complete payment of the indebtedness to the School Fund; the payment to be made in equal semi-annual installments, with interest at six per. cent per annum, payable also semi-annually. That, should any company or individual, who may purchase under the provisions hereof, fail to make any of the semi-annual payments, either of the amount of indebtedness to said School Fund, or of interest due, then the whole amount of such indebtedness and interest shall become due, and the railroad in possession of such company or individual shall be again sold by the Governor, under the terms and conditions of this declaration.

Provided. That in making the first sale of any of the said railroads, as hereinbefore provided, the Governor shall give a preference to the company or individual at present owning the same.

Provided further, That should the Governor not be able to sell any of said railroads, under the terms and conditions of this declaration, then he may sell the same at public auction unconditionally, for such sums as may be offered for the same.

Provided further, That in the indebtedness of the said railroads hereinbefore mentioned, it is intended to include the total amount of principal and interest due from said railroads, without regard to any pretended payments made during the late rebellion, when such payments were made in any other currency than gold and silver.

Mr. Boyd moved to adjourn until to-morrow morning at nine o'clock.

Mr. Hamilton, of Travis, asked that the motion be withdrawn. Motion withdrawn.

Mr. Hamilton asked leave of absence be given to Messrs. Adams and Gray, for an indefinite period.

Leave granted.

Upon the motion to adjourn the yeas and nays were demanded, and resulted thus :

Yeas—Messrs. Adams, Armstrong, of Jasper, Bledsoe, Boyd, Brown, Butler, Cole, Downing, Evans of McLennan, Fayle, Foster, Gaston, Glenn, Grigsby, Hamilton of Travis, Harris, Hunt, Johnson of Harrison, Keuchler, Lindsay, Lippard, Long, Mackey, McWashington, Mullins, Oaks, Patten, Pedigo, Phillips of San Augustine, Rogers, Schuetze, Slaughter, Smith of Marion, Stockbridge, Sumner, Talbot, Thomas, Watrous, Williams—39.

Nays—Messrs. President, Bell, Bellinger, Board, Bryant of Grayson, Bryant of Harris, Buffington, Burnett, Carter, Constant, Curtis, Degener, Flanagan, W. Flanagan, Fleming, Goddin, Gray, Harn, Horne, Johnson of Calhoun, Jordan, Kealy, Kendal, Leib, McCormick, Morse, Muckleroy, Mundine, Mumoe, Newcomb, Phillips of Wharton, Posey, Ruby, Scott, Smith of Galveston, Varnell, Whitmore, Wilson of Brazoria, Wilson of Milam, Wright, Yarborough—41.

So the Convention refused to adjourn.

[Mr. Evans, of McLennan, in the chair.]

On motion the Convention adjourned until to-morrow morning, at nine o'clock.

CAPITOL, AUSTIN, TEXAS,
JULY 25, 1868.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment.

Roll called. Quorum present. Prayer by the Chaplain. Journal of yesterday read and adopted.

Mr. Lindsay moved that Mr. Mullins be indefinitely excused from attendance upon the Convention.

Leave granted.

Mr. Constant presented a protest from L. E. Stephenson, and ninety-nine others, against a new county being formed out of Fannin and Lamar counties.

Mr. McCormick, from the Committee on Contingent Expenses, made the following report :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
July 25, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR: The Committee on Contingent Expenses, to which was re-committed the resolution originally reported by said committee, in reference to the substantial recording of the journals of the Convention, and the substitute offered by Mr. Burnett, of Houston, and the motion to amend the substitute made by Mr. Thomas, of Collin, have again had the subject matter under consideration, and are of the opinion that the original resolution embraces all that is necessary or expedient for the Convention to do on the subject: that the price specified is adequate, but not excessive; that the work is such as falls naturally and almost necessarily within the duties of the Chief Secretary of the Convention, who is responsible, and must be so held for its proper execution: that it is not at all necessary, and hardly desirable, that it should be done currently with the sittings of the Convention; and, in the opinion of your committee, the Convention cannot consistently make it the duty of the Secretary to have this work done, and for a certain price, and then require him to transfer the work and pay to another man. The Convention has not provided for such an office as Recording Secretary; and, in the judgment of this committee, there exists no reason for making such an office.

I am, therefore, instructed to report it as the opinion of this committee that the original resolution reported from this committee should be passed, and they therefore report the same back, and recommend its passage.

A. P. McCORMICK.

Chairman.

Resolved. That the Secretary of the Convention be, and he is hereby authorized and required to have the journals of the Convention inscribed in a bound volume, such as is commonly used in recording deeds; and the said secretary shall receive the sum of twenty cents for every hundred words of said journals so inscribed, in addition to his per diem pay.

Mr. Burnett moved a suspension of rules, to take up report.

Lest.

Mr. Munroe, from the Committee on Division of the State, made the following report:

COMMITTEE ROOM.

July 25, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention:

SIR: The Committee on Division of the State, to which was referred the resolution reported from the Committee on Federal Relations, respecting the relinquishment by the State of political jurisdiction, and right of public domain over the county of El Paso, instruct me to report that this committee has now under consideration a declaration which contemplates a cession of the whole of the public domain of the State of Texas, as well as the relinquishment to the United States of the political jurisdiction of a portion of the State, embracing the county of El Paso; they, therefore, ask to be relieved from the further consideration of the above resolution.

A. T. MUNROE,

Chairman.

Mr. Whitmore, from the Committee on Lawlessness and Violence, made the following report :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
Austin, Texas, July 21, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR: The special Committee on Lawlessness and Violence respectfully present the following supplementary report :

It is, perhaps, due to ourselves to state that, in collecting evidence, no reference has been had to the political opinions of witnesses. The committee issued a circular summons to all the members of the Convention, so that all, without distinction of party, were requested to report on the lawlessness in their several districts; and it is for those who failed to obey that summons, to explain why they failed. They are certainly estopped from all right to denounce the labor of the committee as partizan in its character. We take pleasure in saying, however, that the Conservatives have testified before the Committee, and some of the most flagrant outrages embodied in our report were furnished by them.

In our report of the thirtieth ultimo, it was stated that Milton Biggs, a loyal man, was murdered in Blanco county last year. Subsequent investigation shows that Claiborne Biggs, the son, was murdered as described: that circumstances point to certain rebel outlaws as the murderers, and that the father and other members of the family understand that their lives are in danger, and have left the county for safety.

It was also stated in said report that the district clerk of Hunt county had been driven away on account of his loyalty. It is the clerk of the county court who has been thus exiled. The present clerk of the district court of that county is not a loyal man, and he is not compelled to leave. We would also state that Mr. Wade was murdered in Red River county instead of Lamar, as previously reported.

It is impossible at this time to give the number of murders up to the first of July. The reports of the Sub-Assistant Commissioners of the Freedmen's Bureau, for June, have not come in yet; and the complete reports of outrages in that month will not be made till the first of August. But from the few reports received, and from other authentic sources, we have collected ninety-six additional homicides. So that the statistics of homicides committed in Texas during the three years since the conclusion of the rebellion stand thus:

	Whites	Freedmen	Total
Killed in 1865.....	47	51	98
Killed in 1866.....	75	95	170
Killed in 1867.....	173	174	347
Killed in 1868.....	182	137	319
Year unknown.....	32	29	61
Race unknown.....	—	—	40
	509	486	1035

We have thus a grand total of 1035 homicides in three years, or 345 per year; and, estimating our population since June, 1865, at 800,000, we have one person killed out of every 2,026 of the whole population per year. We doubt very much if such a record of blood can be exhibited in any Christian or civilized State in the world in a time of peace. It has been stated in the papers that the homicides in New York during the year 1867 numbered forty-seven. If this be correct, there was one person killed out of every 80,000 of her whole population; and then in that year there were forty times as many homicides in Texas as in New York, according to the population of each. The eighth census of the United States, for the year 1860, reports for that year thirty-seven homicides and murders in New York, making one person killed out of every 104,000 of her whole population: so that Texas has averaged per year since the war forty-five times more homicides than New York did in 1860. We note also that, for fourteen murders in New York, there were three executions in 1860; whilst, for the one thousand in Texas since the war, there has been but one execution.

It should here be remembered, that in New York and other States in the North, every murder is accurately reported, while the figures here presented come far short of representing the actual number of murders in Texas during the time specified. We have kept scrupulously within the numbers presented to us, of which facts any candid man can satisfy himself by patiently examining all the data. We assert, too, that the reports usually relied on do not present all the homicides committed in the sections described by them. For example, from the ordinary sources of information we had reported only three homicides in Washington county since the first of December, 1867; but when a full report is obtained from that county, it gives sixteen in that time. Through the usual channels only two murders were reported in Tarrant county; whereas a more complete account gives fifteen. And so it is with other counties. Now when it is remembered that we have full reports from only about thirty of the one hundred and twenty-seven organized counties of the State, it becomes very evident that we have only a portion of the murders committed. It is proper to state further, that the reports which we call full do not profess to give complete accounts of the murders in the counties represented by them. Many of them positively state that they do not report all; and witnesses tell us of men disappearing mysteriously, and of dead bodies being discovered, hid away in ravines or floating down streams—of which cases no history is given.

We have never said that all of these murders were committed by rebels for political ends. In our previous report we distinctly stated that many of them were committed for purposes of plunder and robbery, and that many of them resulted from private quarrels. But what we insist on is, that many of the persons murdered were loyal, and that they were murdered for their loyalty. To substantiate this statement, we now present some cases of recent occurrence, not embraced in our former report:

In the counties of Collins and Hunt, five men, well known as sterling loyalists, were brutally murdered within the last two weeks by some rebel desperadoes. The Hon. A. O. Cooley, a worthy citizen of Gillespie county and a prominent Republican, was shot and wounded on the 10th inst., at home, by an assassin from a distant county. We also learn that W. H. Upton, a Union man, was hung by a mob on the 3d instant in Brazos county. Here there are six well known Unionists murdered, and the life of another attempted—all in the present month. Some time ago, this year, the Rev. Joshua Johnson, an excellent citizen of Titus county, and against whom nothing can be said by anybody, unless it be that he has always been true to his country, was driven from his home and the State by rebel intolerance. It is now a matter of general notoriety that loyal men in various parts of the State are receiving notices to leave, threatening them with death and the burning of their homes if they do not fly. It is equally notorious that great alarm prevails among the Union men in many localities, and many of them are abandoning their homes for their lives. We also state it as a fact, that honorable members of this body are in receipt of letters from those who love them, from wives and children, informing them of threats to take their lives, and imploring them not to return home. And we say further, that the families of at least two of the delegates on this floor have been forced away from their homes by rebel proscription since the meeting of this Convention.

Now, these are all undeniable facts, and they certainly justify the affirmation that many of the persons killed in Texas are killed for their loyalty. It is an easy matter when a Union man is murdered to start the cry of "thief" or "Indians," and to get credulous people to believe it; but this hypocrisy only serves to expose the guilty to the minds of reflecting men, and cannot change the fact that loyal men are murdered by rebels.

And we are constrained to add, that it is by no means significant of good, that whilst Union men are falling at the hands of paroled prisoners of war, there are those who not only deny the fact, but accuse those as slanderers who attempt to reveal and arrest this alarming march of crime. Certainly the first step towards providing a remedy is to ascertain the extent and the nature of the evil: and we cannot understand how any friend of mankind, or of Texas, can oppose an examination into the abounding violence in the State, or attempt to conceal the same from public view. It is doubtless true that a ventilation of the social disorder in Texas will deter many good people in other States and countries from coming here. But this is already the case. Capital and immigration turn away from our State as a land of violence: whilst good and loyal citizens are forsaking us in large numbers. We have evidence that between eight and nine hundred loyal families, within a territory of twenty-five or thirty counties, are now leaving the State on account of the persecutions they have suffered from lawless men. Texas is to-day undergoing a process of depopulation, at least as to her truest and best citizens. And while this is going on, the lawless and the outlawed in other States are flocking within our limits. Some of the leaders in the unlawful organizations alluded to in our previous report are fugitives from other States. These desperadoes seem to understand that Texas presents a promising field for their operations, and that they will here meet with sympathy and with apologists in high places: and in proof of this statement we appeal to the following facts: 1. This alarming amount of crime is persistently denied in certain quarters: 2. It is unequivocally avowed in the same circles that this shedding of blood must continue till the Republican party surrenders the reins of government and the advocacy of colored suffrage is abandoned. In other words, the disaffected in our State design to create and keep up a reign of terror till the loyal element in Texas is suppressed. The recent debates on the floor of this Convention furnish sufficient evidence on this point; and 3. Some of the Conservative papers of Texas openly counsel assassination. Not to mention indirect invitations to murder found in many of them, we refer now to the incendiary article in the Daily Telegraph of the 14th inst., wherein reference is made to lynch law and to the Hon. M. C. Hamilton and the Hon. C. Caldwell, and which concludes thus: "We say it solemnly, such men ought to die."

We have said nothing as yet, in this report, of the murdering of freedmen. We cannot present any adequate account of the atrocities perpetrated against them from day to day. We can only say that the bloody work goes on. A short time ago in Waco a white man, a stranger there, accosted a freedman, and asked him if he did not fear the Ku-Klux; and on being answered "no," said, "take that," and at the same time ripped open the bowels of the freedman with a knife. The unoffending victim lingered seventeen days and died. The assassin was bailed by his comrades and then left. Two worthy, industrious freedmen were brutally murdered in Falls county, on the 10th of this month, by seven white men, who stated at the same time that they intended to kill in like manner every negro who belonged to the Loyal League. Numerous instances of similar outrages are reported in various parts of the State by almost every mail. On the 4th of July the freed people of Jefferson attempted to celebrate the day, but were fired upon and dispersed by a mob of armed white men. And as an evidence of organization among the disloyal whites of that section, we mention that in half an hour after the first shot was fired about a thousand white men were under arms. The riot at Millican on the 15th and 16th inst. is yet unexplained, but all the accounts agree in stating that twenty-five or fifty freedmen were killed, while not a single white man was slain.

It is very probable that the negroes are sometimes culpable in these altercations, but we are persuaded that even then, generally, they are circumvented by their more crafty foes, who manage to place them in the wrong and goad them on to violence. This was the case in the Houston riot of last month. In that case, a freedman, a pet with the Conservatives, had shot another freedman. The disloyal police of the city pretended to arrest the criminal, and immediately the same night, let him go without any trial whatever. The freedmen, seeing this, resolved to arrest him themselves, and their effort to do so was interpreted at once by the whites as an insurrection.

We conclude by expressing it as our deliberate conviction, that unless relief, prompt and decided, is provided, not only will any constitution presented by this Convention be defeated, not only will elections be broken up or controlled by violence, but the loyal, law-abiding people of Texas will be hunted to death or driven into exile. We have it on Conservative testimony that in many localities an election could not now be held without military protection, that the lives of good loyal citizens are in danger, and that a loyalist could not travel through the State organizing loyal leagues without molestation.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

G. WHITMORE, Chairman,
A. BLEDSOE,
J. G. BELL,
F. W. SUMNER,
J. H. LIPPARD.

Mr. Cole, from the Committee on Lawlessness and Violence, made the following minority report :

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR : The undersigned, one of the Committee on Lawlessness and Violence, not doubting the figures as set forth in said committee's report of July 21, 1868, but admitting the same to be correct, would respectfully dissent from the conclusions as set forth by said committee, believing the majority of homicides and violence has not been committed on account of political differences, and asks that the dissenting report be spread on the journal of the Convention.

Respectfully submitted,

COLÉ, of Hopkins.

Mr. Hamilton, of Travis, offered the following resolution :

Resolved, That this Convention respectfully request Brevet Major General J. J. Reynolds, commanding District of Texas, to select one or more commissioned officers under his command, as he may deem proper, to participate with the committee appointed by this Convention, in the investigation of the late disturbances at Millican.

Mr. Hamilton asked a suspension of the rules to allow consideration of the resolution.

Rules suspended.

Resolution read a second time and ordered to be engrossed.

Mr. Hamilton moved a further suspension of the rules to put the resolution on its passage.

Rules suspended.

Resolution read third time and passed.

Mr. Buffington offered the following resolution :

Resolved, That the investigation of the financial condition of the penitentiary be referred to the first Legislature after the adoption of the Constitution.

Resolved, 2. That the committee raised by this body for that purpose, be, and are hereby discharged from the further consideration of that subject.

Resolved, 3. That the chairman of that committee be required to return the books which he brought away from the penitentiary to the same.

Laid over one day under rules.

Mr. Wright offered the following resolution :

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed by the President of this Convention, whose duty it shall be to examine into the business of the Land Office, and ascertain whether there are not a greater number of clerks and draftsmen employed in that office than are necessary ; and if so, how many can be dispensed with.

Mr. Burnett moved the rejection of the resolution.

Convention refused to reject.

Mr. Whitmore offered the following resolution :

WHEREAS, It is the desire of the loyal people of Texas that the people of the United States be correctly informed of the social and political condition of the people of this State : therefore

Be it resolved by the delegates of the people of Texas in Convention assembled : That the Congress of the United States is hereby respectfully and most earnestly requested to send a committee of that honorable body into the State of Texas, to inquire into the condition of the State, to the end that the facts may be made known to the public in an authoritative manner, that the veracity of the loyal men and press of the State may be vindicated, that violence may be repressed and order restored throughout the State.

Mr. Whitmore moved a suspension of rules for the consideration of the resolution.

Rules suspended.

Resolution read second time and ordered to be engrossed.

Mr. Slaughter moved a further suspension of the rules to put resolution upon its passage.

Mr. Hamilton offered the following amendment :

Amend by striking out all after the word "manner."

Amendment agreed to.

The question recurring upon the adoption of the resolution as amended, the yeas and nays were demanded and resulted thus :

Yeas—Messrs. President, Armstrong of Lamar, Bell, Bledsoe, Board, Brown, Bryant of Grayson, Bryant of Harris, Buffington, Butler, Burnett, Carter, Coleman, Constant, Degener, Downing, Evans of McLemman, Fayle, Flening, Foster, Goddin, Grigsby Hamilton of Travis, Harn, Horne, Hunt, Johnson of Harrison, Johnson of Calhoun, Jordan, Kealy, Kendal, Kuechler, Leib, Lindsay, Lippard, Long, Mackey, McCornick, Mundine, Muuroe, Newcomb, Oaks, Patten, Pedigo, Phillips of San Augustine, Phillips of Wharton, Rogers, Ruby, Schuetze, Scott, Slaughter, Smith of Galveston, Smith of Marion, Stockbridge, Sumner, Talbot, Thomas, Varnell, Watrous, Whitmore, Williams, Wilson of Brazoria, Wilson of Milam, Wright, Yarborough—65.

Nays—Messrs. Armstrong of Jasper, Bellinger, Boyd, Cole, Evans of Titus, Flanagan, W. Flanagan, Gaston, Glenn, Harris, Keigwin, Mueckleroy—12.

So the resolution was adopted.

The President announced the business in order was upon the following substitute offered by Mr. Evans, of McLemman, to the report of the Committee on Internal Improvements :

DECLARATION

Providing for the sale of such railroads of this State as may be indebted to the School Fund :

SECTION 1. Be it declared by the people of Texas in Convention assembled. That the railroads within this State which are indebted to the School Fund, to-wit: the Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado railroad, the Washington County railroad, the Houston and Texas Central railroad, the Houston Tap and Brazoria railroad, the Southern Pacific railroad, and the Texas and New Orleans railroad, shall be sold by the Governor of the State, either at public auction or private sale, as he may order, to any company or individual that will, in the particular case, assume the entire debt that may be due from the said railroad sold, to the said School Fund: such sale shall be under the following terms and conditions :

The company or individual purchasing any of the railroads sold under this provision, to deposit in the Treasury of the State, at the time of such sale, the one-fourth part of such indebtedness, which said fourth part may be used, under the supervision of the Governor, in putting the railroad sold, in good running order, or in extending the same.

That the company or individual purchasing any of said railroads, under the provisions thereof, shall have a term of twenty years, within which to complete payment of the indebtedness to the School Fund: the payment to be made in equal semi-annual installments, with interest at six per cent. per annum, payable also semi-annually. That should any company or individual, who may purchase under the provisions hereof, fail to make any of the semi-annual payments, either of the amount of indebtedness to said School Fund, or of interest due, then the whole amount of such indebtedness and interest shall become due, and the railroad in possession of such company or individual, shall be again sold by the Governor, under the terms and conditions of this declaration.

Provided, That in making the first sale of any of the said railroads, as hereinbefore provided, the Governor shall give a preference to the company or individual at present owning the same.

Provided further, That should the Governor not be able to sell any of said railroads, under the terms and conditions of this declaration, then he may sell the same at public auction unconditionally, for such sums as may be offered for the same.

Provided further, That the indebtedness of said railroads, hereinbefore mentioned, is intended to include the total amount of principal and interest due from said railroads, without regard to any pretended payments made during the late rebellion, when such payments were made in any other currency than gold and silver.

The question recurring upon the adoption of the substitute, the yeas any nays were demanded and resulted thus :

Yeas—Messrs. President, Armstrong of Lamar, Bledsoe, Bryant of Harris, Butler, Burnett, Constant, Downing, Degener, Evans of McLellan, Fayle, Fleming, Foster, Goddin, Hunt, Jordan, Kendal, Kuechler, Leib, Lindsay, Lippard, Long, Munroe, Newcomb, Oaks, Patten, Phillips of San Augustine, Ruby, Scott, Slaughter, Smith, of Marion, Talbot, Thomas, Watrous, Whitmore, Williams Yarborough.—37.

Nays—Messrs. Adams, Armstrong, of Jasper, Bell, Bellinger, Board, Boyd, Bryant, of Grayson, Buffington, Carter, Cole, Coleman, Evans of Titus, Flanagan, W. Flanagan, Gaston, Glenn, Gray, Grigsby, Hamilton, of Travis, Harris, Haru, Horne, Johnson, of Calhoun, Kealy, Keigwin, Mackey, McCormick, McWashingtion, Morse, Muckleroy, Mullins, Mundine, Pedigo, Phillips, of Wharton, Rogers, Schuetze, Smith, of Galveston, Stockbridge, Varnell, Wilson, of Brazoria, Wilson, of Milam, Wright,—42.

So the Convention refused to adopt the substitute.

Mr. Lindsay offered the following substitute:

Be it declared by the people of Texas in Convention assembled: That the Provisional Governor is hereby requested to examine into the condition and affairs of the several railroad companies in the State, which are indebted to the School Fund; and if, after such enquiry and examination into their condition and circumstances, he shall be of opinion that that portion of the school fund loaned to said railroad companies, together with the interest accrued, and now due thereon, is insecure, and likely to be lost by any delay in action, he is hereby requested to adopt such measures under the provisions of the law now in force, as in his judgment will prevent its total or partial loss.

On motion the Convention adjourned until Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

CAPITOL, AUSTIN, TEXAS,
July 27, 1868.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment.

Roll called. Quorum present. Prayer by the Chaplain. Journal of yesterday read and adopted.

The President instructed the Secretary to read the following communications from General Buchanan :

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH MILITARY DISTRICT,
OFFICE OF SECRETARY FOR CIVIL AFFAIRS,
New Orleans, La., July 21, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President Texas Constitutional Convention :

SIR: I am instructed by the Commanding General to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the tenth instant, with enclosure, and, in reply thereto, to inform you that the resolution of the Convention adopted on the twenty-third day of June, 1868, appropriating "fifteen thousand ($15,000) dollars, or so much thereof as may be sufficient, to pay the unsettled balance due the civil officers of the State of Texas appointed by Governor A. J. Hamilton," having been considered by the Commanding General, is, for the following reasons, respectfully returned to the Convention without the approval asked for.

First. He is unable to find, in the reconstruction act of Congress, under which the Convention assembled, anything which authorizes it to appropriate the moneys of the State for the purpose specified in said "declaration."

Second. This is properly a subject for legislation, and should be left to the consideration of State Legislature.

I am, sir,

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

B. B. KEELER,
Brevet Major U. S. A.,
Secretary Civil Affairs.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH MILITARY DISTRICT,
New Orleans, La., July 21, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President Texas Constitutional Convention,
Austin, Texas :

SIR: The following "declaration" of the Texas Constitutional Convention of the second of July, 1863, to-wit:

That the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, be, and the same is hereby appropriated out of any money in the State Treasury not otherwise appropriated, and that the same be placed at the disposal of the Governor of Texas, to enable him to offer suitable rewards for the arrest and apprehension of such desperadoes, and to employ detectives to ferret out their hiding places, and that this resolution be forwarded to the Commanding General of the Fifth Military District, for approval: provided, that no part of the same shall be used unless the Military Commander of the District of Texas shall first be authorized to organize military commissions for the trial of offenders," having been submitted to the Commanding General of the Fifth Military District for his approval, is, for the following reasons, respectfully returned to said Convention without the approval asked for.

First. He is unable to find in the reconstruction act of Congress, under which the Convention assembled, anything which authorizes it to appropriate the moneys of the State for the purpose specified in said "declaration."

Second. This is properly a subject for legislation, and should be left to the consideration of the State Legislature.

Third. The declaration appropriates twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000) to be used as above stated, with a proviso with reference to military commissions, which its author doubtless intended as a gratuitous indignity to the Commanding General of the Military District, by coupling it with conditions intended to reflect discreditably upon his administration of its civil affairs.

With the display of such a spirit on the part of the Convention, the approval, by the Commanding General, of an act which equally violates the reconstruction act under which it was convened and the object for which it was assembled, can hardly be expected.

I am, sir,

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant.

B. B. KEELER,

Brevet Major U. S. A.,

Secretary Civil Affairs.

Mr. Lindsay offered the following resolution, and moved that the rules be suspended to take up resolution.

Resolved by the Convention. That the use of this hall be tendered to Judge G. W. Paschal, at 7:30 P. M., on the evening of Tuesday, the twenty-eighth instant, for the purpose of delivering an address which he proposes to make, on the adoption of the Fourteenth article of the Constitution of the United States.

Rules suspended, and resolution adopted.

Mr. Kuechler introduced a petition from citizens of Gillespie county, praying that the town of Fredericksburg be incorporated as a city.

Referred to Committee on Counties and County Boundaries.

Mr. Hunt, from the Committee on State Affairs, made the following report :

COMMITTEE ROOM.

Austin, Texas, July 27, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention:

SIR: Your Committee on State Affairs have had under consideration the declaration presented by Hon. Mr. Ruby, embracing a plan for the police regulations of the city of Galveston. A majority of the committee instruct me to report the same back to the Convention with the request that it be not adopted.

H. C. HUNT.

Chairman pro tem.

Mr. Pedigo, from the Committee on Political Disabilities, made the following report :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
Austin, Texas, July 24, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention:

SIR: Your Special Committee on Political Disabilities, to whom was recommitted a resolution and, also, a memorial (the latter intended to be addressed by this Convention to the Congress of the United States), have had the same under consideration, and a majority of the committee have instructed me to report back to the Convention said resolution without alteration, and to report back said memorial with the recommendation that in lieu and stead of the names therein inserted, there be inserted all the names which appear on documents marked "A" and "B," which are hereby transmitted as part of this report, and to recommend to the Convention that the resolution and memorial so amended be adopted.

All names, it will be observed, which appear on the printed list of those to be recommended by the committee for Congressional relief appear in documents A and B; in addition to which a few others proper to be relieved, not, it is believed, exceeding ten or twelve in number, have been placed on this list since the printed list was furnished.

It will be observed, by examination of documents A and B, that the committee have acted in accordance with the requirements of a resolution of the Convention, in presenting the name of the member of the Convention who recommends or vouches for any person to be relieved, along with the name of the latter. One or two deviations from this rule only occur, which are explained by the fact that this precaution not having been observed in making out the original list, it was found impossible to ascertain, in one or two cases, which one of several absent members of the Convention had recommended to the committee the name sought to be presented for relief. Your committee would further suggest, that they are satisfied that Congressional relief might well be extended, and that the interests of the State require that it should be extended to all persons whose names appear upon the list presented.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

H. C. PEDIGO,
Chairman.

LIST OF NAMES

Recommended to the Convention by the Committee on Political Disabilities, for petition to Congress for the removal of such disabilities, together with the names of those representing the applicants.

G. W. WHITMORE,

Chairman Com. on General Provisions.

Mr. Hunt, from the Committee on State Affairs, made the following report :

COMMITTEE ROOM.

Austin, Texas, July 27, 1868.

HON. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR: I am instructed by the Committee on State Affairs, to whom was referred the resolution introduced by the Hon. C. T. Harn, of Grimes county, to secure the fund contributed by the people of Texas to erect a monument on the battle-field of San Jacinto commemorative thereof, to make the following report :

Your committee are of opinion that the fund already contributed by the people of Texas should be collected, placed in the treasury of the State, invested in the bonds of the national government, and held as a sacred fund in trust for the purposes for which it was intended.

The fund already amounts to thousands of dollars, and is in the hands of those who will transfer the same to the treasury of the State upon the passage of the resolution under consideration. It is true that but a small amount has yet been set apart, but it is believed that when the State undertakes to control the fund, and to secure the ends for which it was designed, that a sense of State pride and desire to commemorate the names and gallant bearing of those who won a nation's independence on the 21st day of April, 1836, will inspire the people of Texas with a patriotic and generous spirit, and that ere long the means necessary to the accomplishment of the object will be collected.

The 21st of April will be a great holiday when the monument shall be commenced, and annually the patriotic deeds of the fathers of the republic of Texas will be remembered and the people of our State will have increased confidence and hope of the maintenance of our government.

In view of the premises, and the object to be accomplished, your committee recommend the passage of the resolution.

H. C. HUNT,
Chairman pro tem. of Committee on State Affairs.

Mr. Butler, from the special committee appointed to investigate into the condition of the Penitentiary, reported as follows :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
July 25, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention :

Sir: The Committee of the Convention appointed to investigate the financial affairs of the State Penitentiary, and to whom was referred a resolution directing them to inquire into the condition of the convicts and the causes for which they were sentenced to confinement in that institution, have the honor to submit their report :

From the examination which the committee was enabled to make during their visit to the establishment, they were impressed with a conviction that the inmates were as well taken care of, and as well provided for, as the capacity and condition of the buildings and the enclosure would allow. There are more than four hundred convicts confined within the walls of the Penitentiary, largely too many for the capacity of the institution, which renders it wholly impracticable for the managers to secure that comfort and salutary discipline which a beneficent government should always extend, when practicable, even to the guilty violators of its laws. They ascertained, however, that by means of the labor of the convicts the managers were engaged in making brick to erect other and additional buildings, which will greatly contribute to increase the comforts of the inmates, and enlarge the capacity and promote the convenience of the establishment for the purposes for which it was designed. The appearance of the convicts indicate that they are well fed and properly attended to; but from the number now in the Penitentiary, and restricted capacity, they are necessarily too much crowded, especially at night in their dormitories, for the certain preservation of the health of the establishment. If an epidemic should prevail there, it would be impossible, with the present capacity and arrangement of the institution, to secure the comfort and the restoration of the afflicted to health. This will, no doubt, be obviated to a considerable extent when the additional buildings contemplated shall have been erected and fitted up for use and occupation.

The annexed schedule [marked A], which is made a part of the report, will show the names of the convicts, the county in which they were found guilty and sentenced, the offences with which they were charged, the time of conviction, the period of confinement, the time of entrance, and the circumstances of the conviction, as detailed by themselves: and their general deportment since their admission, as related by the managers, of one hundred and sixty-one convicts.

From the special examination thus made, the committee was brought to the conclusion that some of them presented strong claims to Executive clemency, and in the remarks of the schedule they have taken the liberty so to commend them to the Governor for pardon. In their judgment, the Governor, in exercising clemency in these cases, would not only wisely extend mercy to repentant criminals, but he would both offer inducements for moral reformation to the remaining convicts and increase their comforts, now so much discommoded in an over-crowded establishment.

The committee therefore recommend that this report be referred to his Excellency, E. M. Pease, and that he be requested to gain such additional information, in his power, as would enable him to extend Executive clemency to those who, according to his judgment, deserve it.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JAMES P. BUTLER,
Chairman Committee.

STATEMENT OF CONVICTS.

- Statement of the* } We had no weapons, but one of us had a stick ; first 6. } no blows passed and no one was hurt. The cause of our riot was: our employer had severely beaten a woman, under his charge as cook, and from civil law we could get no satisfaction.
7. Offence committed in 1860. Burns after that left for the North, but returned to Galveston in 1865, when he was tried before Judge Love. Pleads innocent. Good character. Convicted for stealing twenty-five pounds coffee. Refers to Judge Fahle.
8. Belonged to Second Wisconsin Cavalry, company L, Capt. LeRoy; tried before Judge Gould. Refers to Prof. McKinney, at Huntsville, who states that convict was most likely convicted through prejudice. Committee would favor his pardon.
- 10 to 21. Five years for stealing animals and two years for stealing from a house. Referred to Gen. J. J. Reynolds for information. These convicts belonged to the Liberal army in Matamoras, Mexico, were under command of Gen. Ford, brought across to the United States side, and camped above Brownsville; by their leader they were taken up the country, as he said, to cross back to Mexico at Camargo, and on the way by him induced to take from ranches saddles and horses to mount themselves. The committee recommends these parties for Executive clemency, considering them more the dupes of their leader, who never was caught. They recommend this case to a careful examination.
22. I was ordered by my employer to take up a stray horse, for which I paid him feed. I transferred my claim for the feed, for which I was tried and convicted of horse stealing. My employer was a Mr. Chambers, of Fort Bend county. I refer to B. F. Atkins and Capt. Rock.
23. I saw my employer, Sam Chamblers, giving a

24. I was found with two dozen cotton handkerchiefs, sold to me by somebody else. This case comes under the twenty dollar law. Reference: Hon. Armstrong, of Lamar.
25. I have served nine months in the Federal army, and belonged to company H, Eighth United States Artillery, colored. My captain (Norton) had given me a furlough to visit some of my relations in Texas and loaned me for that purpose a horse, which he, after my arrest, claimed. I refer to Inspector Wm. H. Sinclair's report, and to Mr. Horton Rieves, at Paducah, Ky. Capt. Norton lives at an unknown point in Ohio. I was arrested and tried in national uniform; no party claiming the horse swore positively to the right of property.
26. Trial before Judge Love. One of the witnesses declared that the prisoner was a Yankee and only came here to steal what little was left. Reference: Hume or Hunsacker.
27. I had used seventy-five dollars of my own money on a sick man in my charge, when he died with all his means in bank, and with no other friends or acquaintances. To get his money, wherewith to pay his board and funeral expenses, I, by advice of others, signed his name to the bank book, not knowing that I committed any offence, as there was nobody else that had any interest in obtaining his money. Reference: Augustus Close, and Robert Ferguson, a workman in the foundry. I belonged to the Federal army.
- 28 and 29. Being in company with a horse thief, we both were kidnapped from the Indian Nation and brought to Barnim, Fannin county, Texas, where we were tried and convicted. We were prejudiced by being connected with the Federal army and by retaliating feelings, and 29. }* because during the war some men had been hung in the Indian Nation.

30. I was run off by my employer; went back after my pay. The next day my employer missed a gun; the gun was neither found with me, nor any testimony produced that I stole the gun, other than that I had been on the premises. I am innocent. Reference: Mc-Washington.
31. Owns charges to be correct.
32. I am charged with having stolen a watch and locket. The watch was found on a person in Louisiana whom I never had seen; the locket was handed me by a white man as security for a debt. Reference, C. H. Leonard and Arthur Donnely, Galveston.
33. Pleads not guilty, and refers to Munroe and Burnett.
34. Owns having had the articles; refers to Munroe and Burnett.
35. The freedman whom I struck rushed on me with a claw-hammer; the axe cut only a small gash on his head, no serious injury. I was a stranger in Cherokee county.
36. I borrowed $2 50, offering to return them next day; party would not receive it, but arraigned me for swindling. Sentenced by Judge McEson.
37. I acknowledge having taken three sides and a half of bacon. Reference, Armstrong, of Lamar, (member of Convention) and Harrison, of Lamar. Convicted.
38. Was convicted for stealing $10 in money.
- 39 and 40. Theft of goods.
41. My employer owed me, and told me that I might ride his horse to town, in possession of which I was arrested. I was a member of 5th Massachusetts Regiment: my discharge taken from me.

43. Reference, Ledbetter, of LaGrange, and Judge Lindsay, (member of Convention.)
44. Refers to Bell, of Austin, (Convention member.)
45. I had hired the horse and paid $15 for it.
46. I bought a horse, but found out that it was stolen, and turned it over. My witnesses were not permitted to testify. Judge Ochel-tree.
48. Accused was young, but eighteen years old in June, 1867.
49. I am charged with having hit a freedman in the face with an axe; I deny having done so, and refer to lawyer Marshall Semmes, who pleaded my case.
51. I was working for Adam Deichert, at Clinton, (now at Victoria.) I could not get any pay out of my employer for painting done, therefore I helped myself to a buggy, which I sold for $40. Another man had given me a precedent, he helping himself in a similar way. I, therefore, thought I was right. I am sure I had no fair and impartial trial, the District Attorney calling me a Yankee before the jury. I was 1st Sergeant of the First New York Engineers. Superintendent says: The prisoner's behavior has been very good.
52. I wanted to see my sister, and took for that purpose a horse from my employer. I was nearly home again when I was caught. Reference, lawyer Plass.
53. About my wife, with whom my antagonist lived and had a child: we had first a fair fight, after that he got a gun, and approaching with it, threw a rock at me, when I shot at him with a pistol. Reference, Dr. King, at Concrete, DeWitt county.
54. Committee recommends him to pardon. Annexed testimony of Dr. Tullis. His character in Penitentiary has been unexceptionable.

STATEMENT OF CONVICTS.—Continued.

- Statement of* 56. At my trial I was refused witnesses in my favor.
Refers to Representative of Williamson.
57. Refers to Hamilton, of Travis.
58. Referred to Dr. Richardson and Gammel, of Robinson county, and Boyd, member of the Convention.
59. Convict was a member of Fourth Cavalry, United States Army.
60. Convict was one of the police force in Brownsville, Texas, at the time of his conviction.
62. A petition has been formerly sent to the Executive of the State for pardon during the Throckmorton administration. Refers to letters to Governor Pease and Armstrong, member of Convention from Lamar.
64. I am accused of having stolen $10 from a United States soldier; I was with the party who was caught, and having found $15 upon me, I was declared guilty; I can prove that I was in possession of the $15 before I was arrested, by Norton Fletcher; refer also to Henry Irvin, of Galveston.
65. I was sick and unable to work, and to get something to eat I stole two bars of iron, one piece of which I sold for $1.10.
66. In my valise some clothes were found. Refers to Hunsacker, of Galveston.
68. I worked in U. S. Navy during the war; refers to Judge Love, to Houston or Galveston.
69. Denies charge.
73. Acknowledges charges. She is of excellent behavior, and enjoys many liberties outside of the Penitentiary.
74. A white woman broke in a store and took out of it some goods; I was found in possession of part of them and, therefore, charged with burglary; I was tried before Judge Harrison. Reference: H. Cook, of Owensville, Texas.
75. I was deranged at the time of my conviction, but improved before reaching Penitentiary. References: Col. Bell, Superintendent Peni-

76. Refers to Delegate from Harrison county; also, Coleman, member of Convention.
77. The three pounds of bacon I am accused of having stolen were my weekly allowance. I refer to the Delegate of Harrison county.
78. My trial was a partial one, for I was not permitted to introduce any colored witnesses; though accused of intentions to kill, I had no weapons. Refer to Frank Fletcher, of Lampasas, and Judge Harrison, of Waco.
79. Convicted for stealing a shirt. Reference: Judges Caldwell and Gray, members of Convention.
80. Convicted for stealing twenty-one bushels of corn.
82. Is in bad health.

84. Acknowledges the stealing of the horse.
85. On account of yellow fever, I was hurried to trial without witnesses; and on account of having been in U. S. Army, prejudice prevailed against me.
[Second term of imprisonment in Penitentiary.]
86. No money was found on my person when arrested; I am convicted on suspicion.
87. Refers to proceedings of this case.
89. I went into a bar-room to have a $5 bill changed. I soon found out the change was counterfeit, and when I saw the man dropping his pocket-book I picked it up, to get even with him.
90. Calls himself R. H. Cobb, and claims to be a son of Howell Cobb, of Georgia; denies having stolen the horse, and requests the proceedings in his case.
91. He says he killed the man in self-defence. The committee are favorably impressed with the

- Statement of* 91. prisoner, and they, as well as the officers of Penitentiary, recommend his pardon. He is nearly seventy years old, and has, therefore, only a short time more to live.
92. The committee has investigated this case, and find that the prisoner was convicted on circumstantial evidence, which can be had by referring to the proceedings of the District Court of Grimes county for the above term. The officers of the Penitentiary testify to his uniform good conduct; he has never been punished since his confinement, a thing unusual on the records of the prison. He was very young (twenty-two years) at the time of his conviction, and the committee feel safe in saying that they think he would make a good citizen if Executive clemency was extended to him: they, therefore, beg leave to respectfully recommend his pardon.
93. The committee has investigated this case, and find the man to be near seventy years of age, old and infirm. In consideration of his old age, his uniform good conduct, and his having already served nine years and three months, they would recommend that Executive clemency be extended to him.
94. My husband stole a hog without my knowing anything about it. Meat was found in my house, and I, therefore, made party to the theft. My husband is in prison.
95. Admits charge correct.
96. To make my daughter and me confess the theft of a box with $30, we were twice hung up by the neck: the second time my daughter confessed, and on her evidence alone I was convicted.
98. Says he was taken for the thief, though innocent.
99. I took the mule to ride it four miles and then turned it loose: my employer got it back four days after.
100. Bad temper.

- Statement of* 101. I had the stolen things in my possession, but another man had stolen them.
- 104 and 105. A white man hung a boy (sixteen years old, freedman) three times, and made him confess that he and we two attempted to rob his store. The boy was released for telling.
106. I found money in my employer's wagon, and gave it to a magistrate when arrested.

125. Denies.

129. I only stole an orange.
131. I bought the pony from my employer for $30 00 and worked out the pay. But my employer took back the pony, and said he would pay me the $30. When I saw that I could get no money from him, I went and took the pony.

135. My master, who has killed two white men, one day shot twice at me; I took the horse to run away on.
136. I was arrested on suspicion.

I consented to work for him another year for nothing, if he would not kill me. My employer though, said: "No G-d d—n you! you ran away and I am not going to let you live with anybody:?" and thereby he shot me through the left shoulder. (Prisoner is an honest looking old man.)
151. I killed a freedman in self-defence.
152. I had a fight with a freedman and killed him in self-defence.
154. After having lent me the horse, my mistress prosecuted me for stealing it, because I would not live with her another year.
155. My employer owed me $30 00; which I could not get, I therefore took a $20 horse in lieu.
157. I won the saddle from a freedman, Geo. Smith, who belonged in Nassau, and was there on my trial.

CAPITOL, AUSTIN, TEXAS,
July 29, 1868.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment.

Roll called. Quorum present. Prayer by the Chaplain. Journal of yesterday read and adopted.

Mr. Hunt, from the Committee on State Affairs, made the following report :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
July 29, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention :

A majority of your Committee on State Affairs, to whom was referred the declaration of Hon. A. J. Evans, locating the Capital of the State of Texas, after the year 1870, at the city of Waco, Texas, and dividing and increasing the University Fund of Texas, and locating one branch thereof at San Antonio, Texas, and the other at Tyler, Smith county, Texas, ask permission to make the following report to your honorable body.

First. We find that the city of Waco, if not in the exact center, is nearly so, of both the territory and population of Texas; is a fine, eligible and healthy place, surrounded by a fine farming country; said city is second, in point of size and business importance, only to the cities of Galveston and San Antonio, and surrounded by a highly intelligent and enterprising people.

Before the first meeting of the Legislature in 1870, the city of Waco will be connected with the Texas Central Railroad, by a tap or link road: if, in fact, the said Central railroad does not run to the city itself, thus securing the future Capital of Texas connection with all the railroads in Texas and the United States.

The place is far enough from the coast to remain forever free from those terrible epidemics that of late years have almost sacrificed the coast and immediate towns.

Second. Our University Fund, now amounting at least to one million six hundred thousand dollars, lies idle and unemployed: nay, more, is being rapidly squandered: all efforts to locate an University in Texas, for the last fifteen years, have proved in vain, from the very fact that the locality could not be agreed upon by the Legislature of the State; and, judging the future by the past, we think it safe to say, that if this Convention does not now locate the same, it never will be done.

The only satisfactory method of doing this is, we think, that of increasing the fund, by lands or State bonds, to three millions two hundred thousand dollars, and locating two branches thereof.

A division of the State of Texas having failed for the present, and the time for which the present seat of government of Texas is fixed expiring in 1870, it is nothing but natural in the people of Texas to desire that the Capital thereof shall be in the center, and that the eastern part of the State have one branch of the University, and the western the other.

We, therefore, report back the declaration, and ask its passage.

H. C. HUNT,
Chairman pro tem.

Be it declared, That the following shall be a section of the new constitution of Texas :

SEC. —. From and after the year 1870, Waco, McLennan county, Texas, shall be the Capital of the State of Texas ; and that the University Fund of Texas shall be equally divided and increased double its present amount, by the Legislature of Texas, and two universities established ; the one at Tyler, Smith county, Texas, the other at San Antonio, Bexar county, Texas.

Mr. Carter, from the Committee on Political and Legislative, offered the following report :

To the Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention :

SIR: The Committee on Political and Legislative Department, having given careful consideration to the matter relating to that department of the Constitution, presents the result of its labors in the article now proposed for the consideration of the Convention.

Several changes have been made in, and a few new clauses added to the constitution of 1845, that instrument being the basis of the report now presented.

Your committee, having in view the many difficulties that surround the question of " Franchise," has endeavored to so frame that clause that, while it shall give full protection to the loyal element, it shall do no injustice to those who are wavering in their attachment to the government.

The Committee on Apportionment not having reported, blanks are left, in the proper places, to be filled up when that committee makes its report.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

CARTER,
Chairman.

CAPITOL, AUSTIN, TEXAS,
July 30, 1868.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment.

Roll called. Quorum present. Prayer by the Chaplain. Journal of yesterday read and adopted.

Mr. Hunt, from the Committee on State Affairs, made the following report and accompanying declaration:

COMMITTEE ROOM,

Austin, Texas, July 30, 1868.

To the Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention:

SIR: A majority of your Committee on State Affairs, to whom was referred the declaration introduced by the Hon. T. H. Mundine, of the county of Burleson, to extend the right of suffrage to all citizens of the State over the age of twenty-one years, possessing the requisite qualifications for electors, have examined with much care said declaration, and considered the object sought to be accomplished, and have arrived at the conclusion that said declaration ought to be a part of the organic law.

It was said by George Washington that the safety of republican governments depends upon the virtue and intelligence of the people. This declaration is not a new theory of government; for the first time proposed to be made a part of our republican institutions, the idea of extending the elective franchise to females has been extensively discussed both in Great Britain and in the United States.

Your committee are of the opinion that the true basis of republican government must ever depend on the wisdom and virtue of the people.

In this State our system of jurisprudence is a combination of the civil and Spanish law, intermixed with the common law of England: and this peculiar system, just in all its parts for the preservation of the rights of married and unmarried women, is likely to be continued.

The time was when woman was regarded as the mere slave of man: but that time was when ignorance prevailed, and learning was confined to the few. It was believed, in order to perpetuate the pretended Divine right of kings to rule, that the masses of the people should be kept in profound ignorance, and that woman was not entitled to the benefits of learning at all.

It is not remarkable that as the benign principles of Christianity have been promulgated, that free government has steadily progressed, and the natural and Divine rights of woman have been recognized.

That government from which we borrowed the main principles of our free constitution, and from which we wrested our independence, even to this day, though its soil is dedicated to freedom, its people enlightened and christianized, yet it maintains that the individuality of woman, upon marriage, is lost and swallowed up in the superiority of man.

The principles of the common law have gradually given way to our more advanced ideas of civilization. Under the system of laws now in force in many of the States of the American Union, the natural rights which appertain to human intelligence are guarded and protected by the organic and statute laws of the States.

The old Constitution of the Republic of Texas, the Constitution of the State of Texas of 1845, the laws enacted for the protection of married women, the many learned decisions of the Supreme courts of Texas and Louisiana, and other courts, clearly indicate that the march of intelligence is onward, and that our advanced civilization has approximated to the period when other and more sacred rights are to be conceded.

Is it just that woman, who bears her reasonable portion of the burdens of government, should be denied the right of aiding in the enactment of its laws?

It may be truly said that all just governments are founded on the consent of the governed; yet woman has no voice, and her individuality is lost.

The present generation has more educated women than men, as teachers, as writers, as operators, as clerks, in fact, in every department of life; in faith, in virtue, in knowledge, in sagacity, in the practice of pure religion, we give it as the result of human experience that woman is the equal and, in many respects, superior to man.

When was it, when a down-trodden people were struggling for freedom of thought, of speech, of action, and, above all, the freedom of conscience, that neglected and always faithful woman failed to keep the fires of patriotism continually burning?

In no age, country or clime, though woman was almost accounted a servant, has her devotion, patriotism, integrity and self-sacrificing disposition been less than that of man.

In all great moral reforms and distribution of universal charity, in the diffusion of knowledge and virtue, woman has borne well her part.

When the blood of the Savior was poured out upon the mount, she was the last to linger about the cross, and the first at the tomb of the resurrected Lord.

The question of extending the freedom of the ballot to woman, may well claim the attention of the law-maker: and in view of the importance of the subject, a majority of your committee earnestly recommend the passage of the declaration.

H. C. HUNT, Chairman.

DECLARATION

Be it declared by the people of Texas in Convention assembled. That the following shall be a section of the Constitution of the State of Texas, known as — section of — article:

Every person, without distinction of sex, who shall have arrived at the age of twenty-one years, and who shall be a citizen of the United States, or is, at the time of the adoption of this constitution by the Congress of the United States, a citizen of the State of Texas, and shall have resided in this State one year next preceding an election, and the last six months within the district, county, city or town in which he or she offers to vote (Indians not taxed excepted) shall be deemed a qualified elector; and should such qualified elector happen to be in another county, situated in the district in which he or she resides at the time of an election, he or she shall be permitted to vote for any district officer; provided, that the qualified electors shall be permitted to vote anywhere in the State for State officers; and provided, further, that no soldier, seaman or marine, in the army or navy of the United States, shall be entitled to vote at any election created by the constitution.

Mr. Adams, from the Committee on State Affairs, made the following minority report:

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President Convention:

SIR: We, the undersigned, members of Committee on State Affairs, after examining the declaration presented by Mr. Mundine on female suffrage, respectfully present this minority report, and unhesitatingly state that we are opposed to female suffrage; not because we think them of less capacity than men, but, forsooth, we think that by the very law of their nature they are transcending above an active participation in the government of the country, and because of their native modesty and inborn refinement of feeling, causes every true woman to shrink from mingling in the busy noise of election days. They are conscious that they exercise, by keeping themselves in their appropriate spheres, and by exhibiting all these gentle qualities directly opposed to the rougher sex in their capacities as wives and mothers, an influence mightier, far, than that of the elective franchise. We are opposed to it, further, because we believe that the good sense of every true woman in the land teaches her that granting them the power to vote is a direct, open insult to their sex, by the complication that they are so unwomanly as to desire the privilege.

We, therefore, believe that such a declaration should not pass this body of gentlemen.

P. P. ADAMS,
A. BUFFINGTON.

Mr. Armstrong of Jasper, from Committee on Political or Legislative, made the following minority report:

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention:

The undersigned, being a minority of the Committee on Legislation, respectfully dissent from so much of the report of the majority and accompanying declaration as proposes to exclude citizens of our State from the privilege of suffrage for participation in the late rebellion, and so dissent for many reasons, some of which are the following:

We believe that the reconstruction acts of Congress are in the nature of a bill of attainder against this State, and against a very large majority of the citizens thereof, and said acts are ex post facto in their enactment and intended operation, and in conflict with the Constitution of the United States, which prohibits Congress passing bills of attainder and ex post facto laws; and therefore this Convention can derive no power from said reconstruction acts by which to abridge or deprive this State, and the people thereof, of the right of suffrage, or any privileges connected therewith, for participation in the late rebellion.

The undersigned further hold to the belief that neither the fourteenth article of amendment, or the said reconstruction acts, authorize this Convention to interrupt or defeat any citizen in the exercise of the privilege of suffrage, by him heretofore enjoyed, for participation in the late rebellion; nor can any citizen be in any manner charged and adjudged without due course of law.

The undersigned hold to the principle that all men are presumed innocent till declared guilty by due course of law, and that no citizen of the United States can be charged by this Convention for rebellion against the government of the United States, nor prosecuted by the government of the United States, for participation in the late rebellion, after three years from the termination of the same.

If the citizens of our State were ever liable to prosecution by the government of the United States for participation in the late rebellion, then we say that all have been fully acquitted and discharged therefrom by the executive proclamations of amnesty and pardon of December 8, 1863, March 26, 1864, May 29, 1865 and July 4, 1868.

Some contend that the government of the United States obtained Texas by conquest from the de facto government of the Confederate States, and if that be true (which is not admitted by us), we hold that the people of Texas, as citizens of said de facto government, parted with to the United States nothing more than their allegiance to said de facto government, according to the usages of nations.

And we say further, that the Confederate authorities did not surrender at discretion, but on terms specified in their treaty of surrender, and which terms have been complied with, and being citizens of the United States by operation of said treaty or treaties, neither by the action of Congress or of this Convention can they be disturbed or defeated in the exercise of all the rights and privileges of citizens of the United States and of this State, including suffrage, for participation in the late rebellion.

It is, therefore, our deliberate opinion, that every male citizen of this State, of European or Mexican origin, who is twenty-one years old, is as legally and fully entitled to exercise the privilege of suffrage as Thaddeus Stevens, of Pennsylvania, and we therefore recommend that so much of said majority declaration as provides for the exclusion of persons from the privilege of suffrage for participation in the late rebellion, or for being in any manner connected therewith, be stricken out.

Respectfully,
 ARMSTRONG OF JASPER,
 WEBSTER FLANAGAN.

Mr. Armstrong of Jasper made the following additional report :

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
 President of the Convention :

The undersigned, being one of the Committee on Legislation, respectfully dissents from the report of the majority, and accompanying declaration, proposing to invest negroes with the privileges of citizenship and suffrage, and say it is my opinion that all political power ought to be and remain exclusively with the races of European and Mexican origin, as heretofore, and that the civil rights of negroes should be subject to the control of future legislation, and the undersigned holds to the belief that negroes are without sufficient understanding for the proper exercise of this privilege of suffrage; are only capable of being the instruments of power in the hands of the white race, to the destruction of good government.

The undersigned has based his conclusions of negro incapacity on many grounds, but at present will refer to the size of his brain, the average of which is sixty-six cubic inches, whilst the average of the East Indian is eighty-four, and of the white man ninety-six, as found by scientific Frenchmen in their measurement of one thousand of each race; and I also refer this Convention to the history of the negro race since creation.

And the undersigned believes, that owing to the great physical and mental difference between the white and negro races, they can not, ought not, to be connected in the exercise of political power, and believes that the same municipal regulations are not, can not, be adapted to the white and black races, and that the equality of these races is impracticable and inconsistent with God's Providence.

And the undersigned further says, that it is his opinion that the reconstruction acts of Congress, and such action as may be had by this Convention in controlling the question of suffrage, by virtue of said acts, are in direct conflict with the reserved rights of the State and the people thereof.

Therefore respectfully submit the accompanying as substitute for so much of the majority declaration as declares who shall be citizens of the State, and who shall be qualified voters.

Respectfully,

ARMSTRONG OF JASPER.

SUBSTITUTE.

That all persons (except Indians not taxed, and Africans and descendants of Africans,) born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, and aliens (Africans and descendants of Africans excepted,) who have declared their intention to become citizens of the United States, and actually residing in this State, are hereby declared citizens of the State of Texas.

That every male person who is a citizen of the United States and of this State, who shall have resided in this state _____ next preceding an election, and _____ within the district or county in which he offers to vote (Indians not taxed, Africans and descendants of Africans excepted), shall be deemed a qualified elector: and should such qualified elector happen to be in any other county situated in the district in which he resides at the time of an election, he shall be permitted to vote for any district officer: provided, that the qualified elector shall be permitted to vote anywhere in the State for State officers: and provided further, that no soldier, seaman or marine, in the army or navy of the United States, shall be entitled to vote at any election created by this Constitution.

Mr. Pedigo made the following report from the Committee on Counties and County Boundaries:

President of the Convention :

agement of the said ship basin and ship channel; and the directors shall be further authorized to receive subscriptions to the stock of said company in money, land, town lots, real or personal estate of any description, at such valuation as may be determined upon between them and the person subscribing the same, and to hold or alienate the same, or realize money on the same by mortgage or otherwise. But the directors shall not be authorized to issue bonds in any way affecting the dividends to be derived by the city of Houston on its stock, until said bonds of the city shall have been retired; nor shall any bonds affecting the franchise or property of the company be issued by the directors, unless authorized by a vote of three-fourths of the stockholders, at a meeting held for that purpose, after thirty days' notice.

SEC. 13. That the directors of said company shall have power to dispose of the shares in its capital stock in such manner and on such terms as they may deem best for the interests of the company, and that an agreement in writing whereby any one shall become a subscriber for stock may be enforced by said directors in the name of the company in any court having jurisdiction; and that vacancies in the board of directors may be filled by the board from among the stockholders.

SEC. 14. That the dividends arising out of the profits of the company shall be made semi-annually, but no dividend shall be made impairing the capital stock.

Mr. Degener, from the Finance Committee, made the following report :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
July 31, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention :

SIR: Pursuant to a resolution passed by the Convention, to request the Commanding General to cause the Comptroller of Public Accounts of Texas to transmit for the use of the Convention a series of statements, two voluminous documents were transmitted to the Convention, and referred to the Committee on Finance.

The documents are herewith returned, and your committee beg leave to observe that it was never their good luck to examine a report which gave so full and lucid a statement of the complicated machinery of the finances of our State, as that of Acting Comptroller George C. Rives.

The statements enter into the minutest details, and any synopsis drawn therefrom cannot do justice to a report which must be intimately studied to fully appreciate its value, and the amount of labor spent for compiling the same.

Your committee hold, however, that they would be failing in their duty if they did not reply to the eleven interrogatories of the Convention, by giving the aggregate amounts as furnished by the respective statements of the Comptroller: deem it, however, appropriate to confine themselves to such remarks only as are absolutely necessary, or of an especial interest.

Amount of 5 per cent. State bonds, payable same time, issued to School Fund, section 2, same act, both being based upon 5 per cent. U. S. indemnity bonds, formerly belonging to said fund.....	82,168 32
Total debt.....	$1,146,369 40

The probable amount yet to be paid to school fund, under section 2, act of November 12, 1866, should be added to the above; but as this matter has been kept entirely within the control and management of the Executive, the Comptroller has no data whatever upon which to base an estimate.

The above statement is based upon the idea that there has been no legal authority to deal with the indebtedness of the State since the 4th of March, 1861. It has, however, been found utterly impossible to give a full and complete statement of the public debt, without giving what has been done by authority of the so-called Eleventh Legislature.

Assuming that the lately adopted amendment to the Constitution of the United States, now being the fourteenth article of the same, decides, in some measure, which portion of our public debt must be declared valid, which portion was null and void from the beginning, it will not be inappropriate to notice :

1. That the 8 per cent. bonds, issued under the acts of March 20, and of April 8, 1861, together of $933,000, were issued in aid and for the support of the rebellion.

2. That the non-interest notes of $15,000 were all paid in warrants, and that it is proper to investigate how far persons accepting those warrants in payment of their claims, are entitled to an exchange of those warrants against legal money.

3. That the 10 per cent. warrants issued under an act of 14th February, 1860, were in reality not fully issued until January, 1862. The question thus arises how many warrants were issued after 4th March, 1861. It will take a considerable time to ascertain the real status; it is, however, believed that not more than about $50,000 are in circulation for which the State is liable. Adding to this sum the certificates issued to the Wise and Parker minute men, for the defence of the frontier since 1866, with $3,671 and $8,323 of unaudited claims, the whole amount of our public debt will not be much above $60,000.

SEVENTH INTERROGATORY.

Reports of Railway Companies made to Comptroller, under act of February 7, 1853. Only five companies have complied with the above law, as far as 1867 and 1866, respectively :

The Southern Pacific R. R. to.....	May 31, 1867.
The Houston Texas Central R. R. to.....	“ “ 1866.
The Galveston, Houston and Henderson R. R. to....	March 1, 1866.
The Galveston, Houston and Henderson Junction to.....	“ “ 1866.
The Washington County R. R. to.....	Oct. “ 1866.

If the act referred to was intended to furnish the Comptroller the means of fully judging of the security the several railroads give to the school loan, your committee holds that it is incomplete, and that the next Legislature ought to pass such acts as may be deemed necessary to prevent difficulties of a similar nature as those under which we are at present suffering.

EIGHTH INTERROGATORY.

The remarks of your committee on sixth interrogatory, with regard to the public debt, contracted during the rebellion, find a full application to the payments of the several railroads toward their indebtedness, in a tender which is illegal from the beginning, being created for the purpose of carrying on war against the United States. Four railroad companies have availed themselves of a law passed by the Tenth Legislature, so-called, in December, 1863, and paid in warrants what in reality they owed in gold to the school fund, to wit:

In view of the great expenses which would be incurred, if the Convention ordered the printing of the voluminous documents from which the above extracts are drawn, your committee does not recommend that this should be done; holds, however, that a careful examination of this extract, especially the statements of Interrogatories Nos. 6, 8 and 11th, will show the necessity of some legislative action, to settle the controversy about payments made in a tender which was created or issued for the purpose of carrying on war against the United States, giving at the same time full power to the Legislature hereafter to grant relief to such purchasers of University land, or owners of pre-emption lots, who may be deserving the same; in consideration whereof, your committee has unanimously instructed me to report the annexed resolution.

Most respectfully,

E. DEGENER.

Resolved, The pretended acts of a body, calling themselves a Legislature of Texas, bearing date January 11, 1862, chap. 47, and December 16, 1863, chap. 57, being in violation of the Constitution of the United States, and in aid of the rebellion, were, and are, null and void; Provided, That nothing herein be construed so as to prevent the Legislatures of Texas from granting equitable relief to owners of University lands, and of pre-emption lots, who are bona fide citizens of the State.

MINORITY REPORT.

A minority of your committee holds, further, that an ordinance regulating gold and United States currency claims, until the Congress of the United States takes action thereon, should be passed by this Convention.

The above exhibit, under Interrogatory 8th, shows that the several railroads are indebted to the School Fund for a sum of above two and one-half of a million of dollars in gold; which amount, if tendered in United States currency, would, under the late decisions of our courts, most undoubtedly be declared a payment in full of all the claims the school fund may have against said railroads, and thus a loss would be incurred of about $750,000 in gold. Although your committee believes that the Convention can conscientiously not treat this danger lightly, the liberty is taken of giving a further argument in favor of an ordinance regulating gold and currency claims in the following remarks:

The exchanges with Mexico from Western Texas amount to many millions annually. All these exchanges are based upon gold and silver. The Mexicans know no other currency, and the merchants of the West are compelled to make the basis of all their transactions the common medium of the world. If they cannot contract for gold and silver, and enforce those contracts in our courts, it at once confuses and paralyzes all their transactions. This western commerce, this stream of gold and silver, flowing constantly from Mexico and daily increasing, is of infinite value, and a material addition to the wealth of our whole State. Why shall not an individual, a firm or a corporation be at liberty to contract to pay, at a day certain, one thousand dollars in gold or silver, or coin, or, in default of their prompt payment, compel the party contracting to pay their value in the legal tender notes of the government at their market value, as well as to contract to deliver one thousand head of horses or cattle, and, in default of prompt delivery, to pay their market value on the day of payment.

No legal mind can draw the distinction, and certainly justice and equity draw none. The Constitution of the United States absolutely forbids Congress to pass any law, or to permit the States to pass laws, impairing the obligation of contract; and where any act so palpably violates public policy, and abrogates all the obligations of individual contracts, it is certainly unjust and inexpedient.

It is the opinion of your committee that it was not the intention of the Congress of the United States that the Legal Tender Act should be interpreted as has hitherto been done by our courts, and that the Convention has the right to interpret the law for itself, and to make that interpretation binding on the courts of Texas.

In consideration of all these reasons, the minority of your committee has instructed me to report the subjoined declaration.

All of which is most respectfully submitted.

E. DEGENER.

A DECLARATION,

Explanatory, of and more particularly defining the Legal Tender Act, passed by the Thirty-Seventh Congress of the United States, 1861-2.

We, the people of Texas, in Convention assembled, acknowledging that the Constitution of the United States, and the laws passed in pursuance thereof, are the supreme law of the land, declare,

1. That the citizens and corporations of Texas had, and have now, the undoubted right to contract, and bind themselves for the payment of gold and silver, or its equivalent coin of the United States.

2. That the act of Congress known as the Legal Tender Act was not intended to, nor does it, restrict, alter, modify, or change the above specified right; therefore, Be it declared, That the courts of Texas shall hereafter conform their decisions to the true intent and meaning of the individual contracts which may come before them for adjudication; unless the Supreme Court of the United States shall declare that the said Legal Tender Act applies to all personal contracts of the citizens of the United States, without regard to the forms of their contract.

Mr. Talbot, from the Committee on Education, made the following report. Reading was dispensed with, and it was ordered to be printed.

COMMITTEE ROOM,
Austin, July 31, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention :

SIR: Your Committee on Education, having had under consideration that part of the Constitution, have instructed me to report the accompanying article on that subject. The necessity that exists in all free States for the education of all the children of the State, has come to be so universally acknowledged, that no argument appears necessary to justify the committee in having made so liberal provision for the support and maintenance of public schools, and in giving the control of the whole subject to an independent board. The article is respectfully submitted to the consideration of the Convention.

JOSEPH W. TALBOT,
Chairman.

PROVISIONS RESPECTING EDUCATION.

SECTION 1. A general diffusion of knowledge being essential to the preservation of the rights and liberties of the people, it shall be the duty of the Legislature of this State to make suitable provision for the support and maintenance of a system of public free schools, for the gratuitous instruction of all the scholastic inhabitants of the State between the ages of six and eighteen years, without distinction on account of race, color or previous condition.

SEC. 2. The public free schools and other educational institutions of the State shall be under the management of a Board of Education, consisting of a Superintendent of Public Instruction, the Controller, and two members from each Congressional District. The Governor of the State shall be ex officio a member of the board, but shall have no vote in its proceedings.

SEC. 3. The Superintendent of Public Instruction shall be President of the Board of Education, and have the casting vote in case of a tie. He shall have the supervision of the public free schools of the State, and perform such other duties as may be imposed upon him by the Board of Education and law of the State. The Governor of the State shall nominate, and by and with the advice and consent of two-thirds of the Senate shall appoint, the Superintendent of Public Instruction, who shall hold his office for a term of eight years, and shall receive an annual salary of not less than three thousand dollars, which shall not be diminished during his term of service. He shall reside at the capital of the State during his continuance in office, and a suitable office room shall be assigned him by the officer in charge of the State buildings.

SEC. 4. The members of the board shall hold office for the term of four years, and until their successors shall be elected and qualified. After the first election under the Constitution, the board shall be divided into two equal classes, so that each class shall consist of one member from each Congressional district. The seats of the first class shall be vacated at the expiration of two years from the day of election, so that one-half may be chosen biennially.

SEC. 5. The members of the Board of Education, except the Superintendent and Controller, shall be elected by the qualified electors of the Congressional district in which they are chosen, at the same time and in the same manner as the members of Congress.

SEC. 6. The Board of Education shall exercise full legislative powers in reference to the public free schools of the State, and its acts, when approved by the Governor, or when re-enacted by two-thirds of the board in case of his disapproval, shall have the force and effect of law, unless repealed by a two-thirds vote of the Legislature of the State.

SEC. 7. The Board of Education shall, at its first session, establish a uniform system of public free schools throughout the State, and shall so provide that the course of study and the manner of teaching shall be the same in all the public schools throughout the State, and that no one shall be received as an instructor in any of such public schools who has not received a certificate of competency from such boards of examination as the Board of Education shall designate; provided, that no one shall be held competent as such instructor who can not take the oath prescribed by law as a qualification for registration as electors.

SEC. 8. The Board of Education, at its first session, shall pass such laws as will require the attendance on the public free schools of the State of all the scholastic population of the State for the period of at least four months in each and every year, and shall have authority to pass, from time to time, all such laws as may be found necessary or proper to enforce said attendance; provided, that such of the scholastic inhabitants as may be shown to have received regular instruction for said period of time in each and every year, from any teacher having the certificate of competency required by the seventh section of this article for the teachers of the public free schools, shall be exempt from the operation of the laws contemplated by this section; and provided further, that all teachers receiving said certificate of competency shall be required to make returns to the officer or authority designated by the Board of Education, of the instruction given by them, in the same manner and in the same form as that which may be prescribed for the returns that are to be made by each instructor, or the principal instructor, in each of the public free schools; and provided further, that when any scholar shall have completely mastered all the branches of study taught in the public free schools, he shall be entitled to receive a certificate which shall exempt him from the further forced attendance upon the public free schools.

SEC. 9. As a basis for the endowment and support of said system of public free schools, all the funds, lands, and other property, heretofore set apart and appropriated, or that may hereafter be set apart and appropriated, for the support and maintenance of public schools, shall constitute the public School Fund; and said fund, and the income derived thereon, shall be a perpetual fund exclusively for the education of all the scholastic inhabitants of this State, and no law shall ever be made appropriating said fund for any other use or purpose whatever. And until such time as the board of education shall provide for the establishment of such system of public free schools in the State, the fund thus created, and the income derived therefrom, shall remain as a charge against the State, and be placed to the credit of the public free School Fund.

SEC. 10. All the alternate sections of land, reserved by the State out of grants heretofore made or that may hereafter be made to railroad companies or other corporations, of any other nature whatever, for internal improvements, or for the development of the resources of the State, shall be set apart as a part of the perpetual School Fund of the State; Provided, that if, at any time hereafter any portion of the public domain of the State shall be sold, and by virtue of said sale the jurisdiction over said land shall be vested in the United States government,—in such event, all the proceeds derived from such sale shall become a part of the perpetual fund of the public free schools of the State, and the Legislature shall hereafter appropriate all the proceeds resulting from all sales of public lands to the perpetual public free School Fund.

SEC. 11. The Legislature shall provide, from time to time, for the sale of land belonging to the perpetual public free School Fund to actual settlers exclusively, and not to exceed 640 acres to any one head of family, upon such time and terms as it may deem expedient: Provided, that the Legislature shall have no power to grant relief to purchasers by granting further time for payment, but shall, in all cases, provide for the forfeiture of the land to the State for the benefit of the perpetual free School Fund, and that all interest accruing from such sales shall be a part of the income belonging to the public free School Fund, and subject to appropriation annually for educational purposes.

SEC. 12. The Legislature shall, from time to time, cause the principal sum of the public free School Fund now on hand, and arising from the sales of land, or from any other sources, to be invested in the bonds of the United States of America, or the bonds of the State of Texas, or such bonds as the State may guarantee; and the Legislature shall have no power to appropriate, loan, or invest in any other manner any part of the principal sum of the perpetual public free School Fund, for any purpose whatever; and it shall be the duty of the Legislature to appropriate annually, the income which may be derived from said fund, for educational purposes, under such system as the Board of Education may adopt; And, provided, That the first appropriation of money made by any Legislature hereafter, out of the general funds of the State, shall be such as will discharge the amount of principal or interest due upon the bonds of the State, or such bonds as the State may have guaranteed to the perpetual public free School Fund.

SEC. 13. All public lands, which have been heretofore granted for public schools to the various counties or other political divisions in this State, shall be under the control of the Legislature, and shall be sold on the same terms and under the same regulations as are or may be prescribed for the sale of the lands belonging to the perpetual public free School Fund; and the proceeds of the sale of said lands shall be added to the perpetual public free School Fund of the State. And if any of the counties of this State have not received their quantum of lands for the purpose of education, the Legislature shall cause to be located for the benefit of the public free School Fund the same quantity of land for each of said counties as that heretofore appropriated by the Congress of the Republic of Texas and the State to other counties.

SEC. 14. The Legislature shall provide for levying a poll-tax of one dollar on all male persons of over twenty-one years of age for educational purposes, which shall be annually appropriated in like manner, and for the same purposes as the income which may be derived from the perpetual free school fund.

SEC. 15. It shall be the duty of the Legislature to set apart not less than one-fourth of the annual revenue of the State derivable from taxation, not to include the poll tax provided for in Section 14, for educational purposes, to be appropriated in like manner as prescribed in Section 14, for the appropriation of the poll tax to be levied for educational purposes.

SEC. 16. The moneys and lands heretofore granted by the State for the endowment and support of one or more Universities, shall hereafter constitute a part of the public free school fund, and the lands still unsold shall be sold in the same manner as is provided in Section eleven (11) of this Article for the sale of other lands belonging to the public free school fund, and the proceeds of said sales, and the proceeds of any sales heretofore made, when collected, and the moneys now on hand, or due by the State to the University fund, shall hereafter constitute a part of the principal of the public free school fund, which shall be invested in the same manner and under the same restrictions as provided for in the investment and control of the principal of the public free school fund in Section twelve

(12) of this Article: provided, the Board of Education shall, from time to time, and as soon as practicable, establish institutions of a higher degree of learning than the ordinary public free schools, and the highest of them with a course of study equivalent to that of the average of American colleges.

SEC. 17. The Board of Education shall have power to provide for the levying of a tax in each school district, sufficient to procure the site or sites for, and the building of such school house or houses, with adequate furniture, fixtures and appurtenances, as the wants of the scholastic population of said district may require.

SEC. 18. The four hundred thousand acres of land that have been surveyed and set apart under the provisions of a law, approved August 30th, A. D. 1856, for the benefit of a lunatic asylum, a deaf and dumb asylum, a blind asylum, and an orphan asylum, shall constitute a fund for the support of such institutions, one-fourth part for each; and the said fund shall never be diverted to any other purpose. The said lands may be sold, and the fund invested under the same rules and regulations as provided for the lands belonging to the public free school fund. The income of said fund only shall be applied to the support of such institutions, and until so applied shall be invested in the same manner as the principal.

SEC. 19. No rule or law affecting the general interest of education shall be made by the Board of Education without a concurrence of a majority of its members. The style of all acts of the board shall be, "Be it enacted by the Board of Education of the State of Texas."

SEC. 20. The Board of Education shall meet annually at the seat of Government, at the same time as the Legislature, but no more than one session shall be held in the same year, unless authorized by the Governor. The members shall receive the same mileage and daily pay as the members of the Legislature.

SEC. 21. Each school district shall be required to raise by local taxation on property an amount of money for educational purposes, and subject to the control of the Board of Education, equal to the pro rata share of said district in the appropriations annually to be made by the Legislature for school purposes; and any school district failing to raise said amount by said taxation, shall be deprived of its pro rata share of said annual appropriations; and said share shall be distributed pro rata among the school districts complying with the requirements of this Section. The Board of Education shall prescribe the time and manner in which said district taxes may be raised: provided, that all property within said school districts, subject to State taxes, shall be made subject to said local tax.

Mr. Whitmore, from the Committee on Finance, offered the following report and accompanying declaration :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
July 29, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention :

The Committee on Finance have had a resolution offered by Scott, of Lamar, under consideration, asking that the Police Court of Lamar county be authorized to levy a special tax for the purpose of paying the present indebtedness of said county, have had the same under consideration, and recommend its passage.

WHITMORE,
Chairman.

DECLARATION.

Be it declared by the people of Texas in Convention assembled :

That the Police Court of Lamar county be authorized to levy a special tax, for the purpose of paying the present indebtedness of said county, and that said tax be collected as heretofore directed by law.

Mr. Whitmore, from the Committee on Finance, made the following additional report :

COMMITTEE ROOM.
July 29, 1868.

HON. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention :

SIR: The Committee on Finance, to whom was referred two following letters of General Buchanan, refusing to endorse two resolutions passed by this Convention, to-wit :

First. A resolution appropriating the sum of fifteen thousand dollars for the payment of officers and employes appointed by the Provisional Governor A. J. Hamilton.

Second. A resolution appropriating the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars, to be placed in the hands of Governor Pease, for the purpose of employing detectives to ferret out crimes and criminals, and of paying suitable rewards to persons who succeed in arresting and bringing to justice criminals.

Your committee have duly considered the same and are of opinion that the dignity of the Convention does not require that any notice be taken of the language used in the reply of General Buchanan to the second resolution, and recommend that both resolutions be passed again by the Convention. and recommend to General Reynolds, who now is the Commander of the Fifth Military District.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

WHITMORE,
Chairman of the Committee on Finance.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH MILITARY DISTRICT,
OFFICE OF SECRETARY FOR CIVIL AFFAIRS,
New Orleans, La., July 21, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President Texas Constitutional Convention :
Austin, Texas :

SIR : I am instructed by the Commanding General to acknowledge the receipt of your communication of the tenth instant, with enclosures. and in reply thereto to inform you that the resolution of the Convention adopted on the twenty-third day of June, 1868, appropriating "fifteen thousand ($15,000) dollars, or so much thereof as may be sufficient, to pay the unsettled balance due the civil officers of the State of Texas appointed by Governor A. J. Hamilton," having been considered by the Commanding General, is for the following reasons, respectfully returned to the Convention without the approval asked for.

First. He is unable to find, in the reconstruction act of Congress under which the Convention assembled, anything which authorizes it to appropriate the moneys of the State for the purpose specified in said "declaration."

Second. This is properly a subject for legislation, and should be left to the consideration of the State Legislature.

I am, sir,

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

B. B. KEELER,
Brevet Major U. S. A.,
Secretary Civil Affairs.

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH MILITARY DISTRICT,
New Orleans, La., July 21, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President Texas Constitutional Convention,
Austin, Texas:

SIR: The following "declaration" of the Texas Constitutional Convention of the second of July, 1868, to-wit: "That the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, be, and the same is hereby appropriated out of any money in the State treasury not otherwise appropriated, and that the same be placed at the disposal of the Governor of Texas, to enable him to offer suitable rewards for the arrest and apprehension of such desperadoes, and to employ detectives to ferret out their hiding places, and that this resolution be forwarded to the Commanding General of the Fifth Military District, for approval.

"Provided, that no part of the same shall be used unless the Military Commander of the District of Texas shall first be authorized to organize military commissions for the trial of offenders," having been submitted to the Commanding General of the Fifth Military District for his approval, is, for the following reasons, respectfully returned to said Convention without the approval asked for.

First. He is unable to find, in the reconstruction act of Congress under which the Convention assembled, anything which authorizes it to appropriate the moneys of the State for the purpose specified in said "declaration."

Second. This is properly a subject for legislation, and should be left to the consideration of the State Legislature.

Third. The declaration appropriates twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000) to be used as above stated, with a proviso with reference to military commissions, which its author doubtless intended as a gratuitous indignity to the Commanding General of the Military District, by coupling it with conditions intended to reflect discreditably upon his administration of its civil affairs.

With the display of such a spirit on the part of the Convention, the approval, by the Commanding General, of an act which equally violates the reconstruction act under which it was convened and the object for which it was assembled, can hardly be expected.

I am, sir,

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant.

B. B. KEELER,
Brevet Major U. S. A.,
Secretary Civil Affairs.

Mr. Glenn, from the Committee on Finance, made the following minority report :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
July 29, 1868.

To the Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention :

The majority of the Committee on Finance have reported that the resolutions of the Convention appropriating $15,000 to pay officers and appointees under the provisional government of Governor Hamilton, and also the one placing at disposal of Governor Pease $25,000, to arrest thieves and robbers and to ferret out their hiding places, and which said appropriation having been disapproved by General Buchanan, commanding Fifth Military District, said majority of the committee ask that the same be repassed by this Convention, and submitted to Brevet Brigadier General J. J. Reynolds for his approval.

To all of which I most respectfully dissent, upon the ground that the resolutions were submitted, according to their tenor and effect, to the commanding officer of the Fifth Military District, and he having refused to make or approve said appropriation, as was his prerogative to do, alleging in vindication of his course, that no such powers were contemplated in the reconstruction acts of Congress; and that, as the Convention was acting solely under the authority derived from said reconstruction acts, it is wholly inconsistent with sound discussion and right reason to assume that we have any such legislative power vested in this body; and I would beg further to state that the appropriations in the resolutions having been defeated in a legitimate manner, they are not now a proper subject for consideration by this Convention; and finally they are subjects of purely a legislative character, and should be properly considered by the Legislature when one shall be convened.

Besides, they are calculated to influence the public mind, already too much agitated upon the great subject of large appropriations, and a system of taxation almost insufferable. All of which I submit.

MARSHAL GLENN, of Anderson county.

Mr. Degener moved to suspend rules for consideration of the report of the Committee on Finance.

Rules suspended.

Mr. Degener offered the following resolution :

Be it resolved, That a declaration of this Convention, asking the assent of General Buchanan to the payment of $15,000 out of the treasury, for the settlement of claims of officers appointed by Provisional Governor Hamilton, be referred to General Reynolds for approval.

The question recurring upon the second reading of the resolution, it was read a second time and agreed to.

Rules suspended.

Resolution read third time and passed.

Mr. Hamilton, of Travis, offered the following resolution:

WHEREAS, Texas has been created a military district, and Brevet Major General J. J. Reynolds, in whose loyalty, ability, and patriotism, this Convention has full confidence, has been assigned to its command; therefore be it

Resolved, That the committee heretofore appointed by order of this Convention to repair to Millican to investigate the late disturbances at that place, be, and they are hereby relieved from such duty.

Mr. Hamilton, of Travis, moved a suspension of rules for consideration of resolution.

Rules suspended, and resolution agreed to.

Mr. Degener moved the suspension of rules to consider report of the Committee on Finance.

Rules suspended.

Mr. Degener offered the following resolution:

Be it resolved, That a resolution of this Convention, in reference to an appropriation of $25,000, for the purpose of ferreting out criminals, and paying suitable rewards for their arrestation, which was not endorsed by General Buchanan, be referred to General Reynolds for adoption.

CAPITOL, AUSTIN, TEXAS,
August 5, 1868.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment.

Roll called. Quorum present. Prayer by the Chaplain. Journal of yesterday read and adopted.

Mr. Mundine presented the following petition, from the citizens of Burleson county, opposing the formation of a new county to be taken from the territory of said county.

On motion the reading was dispensed with, and the petition was referred to the Committee on Counties and County Boundaries.

Mr. Smith, of Galveston, from the Committee to examine Controller's and Treasurer's offices, offered the following report and accompanying declaration :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
Austin, Texas, August 5, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President Convention :

SIR: The standing committee to examine the Comptroller's and Treasurer's offices having discharged that duty, respectfully report: That the utmost scrutiny of the Comptroller's and Treasurer's offices exhibit, on the part of the officers, the most disinterested devotion to the interests and economy of the State. The complex system necessary to guard these interests; the large number of books kept; the great variety of sources of revenue and disbursements necessarily kept separate, would make it impossible for any committee, in any reasonable time, to examine each one of the particular books in detail; but a general examination shows that for neatness, accuracy, care and order of arrangement, few similar offices in the United States can compete.

An examination of the accounts proves that the following recapitulation hereunto annexed is correct, to which reference is respectfully called :

The examination covers only that period embraced within the dates of September 3, 1867, and August 1, 1868—the official terms of the present incumbents.

An examination of the building and appliances induce this committee to submit an ordinance appropriating a sum of money believed to be sufficient to meet the requirements of the two departments, in order to secure the safety of their archives, and the preservation of the building. Another safe is necessary for the treasurer; more furniture is requisite for both offices, and your committee cannot do better than submit the following views of the Comptroller himself:

It is the opinion of the Comptroller that the law for the assessment and collection of Taxes is in many respects impracticable, and should be modified; and that it is of the first importance to the proper and efficient control of the public funds that he should be invested with full power to enforce all laws over defaulting assessors and collectors and all others intrusted with the public money and property.

There is now outstanding against assessors and collectors about eighty thousand dollars, ($80,000), with but a poor prospect of collection, owing to the inefficiency of the district attorneys, sheriffs, courts, &c. There had but one suit been brought by the Comptroller against assessors and collectors since the rebellion to the fourth of September, 1867. Since that time, sixteen suits have been brought by the Comptroller, who doubts whether enough money will be realized to pay the costs of the suits.

All persons entrusted with public money, no matter from what source derived, or public property, should be compelled, by the most summary process, to account for the same to the Comptroller, at such times as he may prescribe, and under such rules and regulations as he may indicate; and should any party fail to do so satisfactorily, he should be suspended from office by the Comptroller, and the Comptroller should be required to report each case to the ensuing Legislature, and ask that his action be ratified. Assessors and collectors have been heretofore appointed and removed in all cases, without consultation with the Comptroller.

By virtue of an act concerning the five per cent. indemnity bonds, approved 30th of October, 1866, this subject is under the exclusive management of the executive, but what has been done, or is now being done for their recovery, your committee have not inquired.

The area of the State is estimated at 175,594,560 acres; against which there are claims of all classes, perfect and outstanding, amounting to 82,594,560.

Leaving, unincumbered by any claim, 93,000,000 acres.
Patented lands of the State of Texas, including lands granted by the Mexican government, and titles confirmed by the Legislature, amount to	77,723,272
Assessed for taxation	50,839,033
Leaving untaxed	26,884,209

Of the 50,839,063 acres, from which the State derives revenue, a very large amount is taken up by the assessors and collectors as "unrendered."

Your committee take great pleasure in presenting the annexed exhibit of accounts to the people of Texas. Two independent departments, handling the whole revenues of the State separately, without the loss of a dollar, or a single defect in calculation, is the surest guarantee to the people of the integrity and ability of their public officers.

ROBT. K. SMITH,
Chairman.

DECLARATION

Be it declared by the people of Texas in Convention assembled: That the sum of three thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, be and is hereby appointed out of any money in the treasury, not otherwise appropriated, to repair the Controller and Treasury Building, and purchase the necessary fixtures and furniture.

Mr. Hunt, from the Committee on State Affairs, made the following report.

COMMITTEE ROOM.

August 5, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention:

SIR: Your Committee on State Affairs, to whom was referred a petition from the citizens of Bexar county asking for the incorporation of an association to be called "The Germania Club," have had the same under consideration, and are in favor of granting the prayer of the petitioners.

We believe the object sought to be accomplished by the formation of said association to be in a high degree laudable, tending to promote social refinement and the general moral and intellectual improvement of society. Your committee therefore report the accompanying declaration to your honorable body, and ask its adoption.

H. C. HUNT,
Chairman.

Mr. Mullins made the following minority report from the Committee on Lawlessness and Violence:

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of Convention :

SIR: The undersigned, member of the Committee on Lawlessness and Violence, would respectfully submit the following minority report:

It is due to myself to state that when I was placed on the committee its labors were well nigh concluded, the "supplementary report" nearly completed, and I only heard two or three of the witnesses testify. I, therefore, had no opportunity of cross-examining witnesses except two or three mentioned, or adducing rebutting testimony, by reason of the committee having closed its labors soon after I was added to it.

The clerk, however, furnished me with the written testimony upon which said supplementary report is founded, but I have not been able to examine the testimony on which the original report was made, because, as I was informed by the clerk, it had been sent to Washington, except so much of it as might be found in the records of the Freedmen's Bureau, which I have not had time to examine.

The evidence, as far as I have been able to examine it, is almost entirely hearsay, contained in mere statements, not sworn to, made for the most part by persons whose credibility is not supported by any established or known character. However well such persons might stand at home, there was nothing before the committee, so far as I am aware, going to show that they are reliable.

The majority of the committee use the following language in the supplementary report: "But what we insist on is, that many of the persons murdered were loyal men, and that they were murdered for their loyalty. To substantiate this statement, we now present some cases of recent occurrence not embraced in our former report.

"In the counties of Collin and Hunt, five men, well known as sterling loyalists, were brutally murdered within the last two weeks, by some rebel desperadoes."

This statement is made upon the authority of a letter addressed to J. W. Thomas, Esq., a member of this Convention, to which letter six names are signed. The letter referred to bears the impress of panic, and the fact that several names originally put down as killed have since been stricken out, shows how utterly unreliable their report is. No affidavits or other sworn testimony accompanies this letter. The letter avers that five Union men were killed by the Lee party, and from this the committee infer that they were killed because they were Union men. To show how unwarranted the committee were in making this inference, I quote from the official journal of this body, the Daily Austin Republican of July 11, 1868. The editor says: "The McKinney Messenger of the third July contains an account of the assassination of two men, Thomas and Doc. Walters, living in the edge of Hunt county, who were shot from the brush and killed by some of the Lee party. It seems that there are two parties in that neighborhood, known as the Lee party and the Peacock party, who employ their time in waylaying each other in the brush, and shooting each other in a most cowardly manner."

The two men, Thomas and Doc. Walters, mentioned by the editor of the Republican, were two of the five names mentioned in the letter to J. W. Thomas, Esq., as stated above, and were also two of the six Union men alleged to have been killed for their loyalty, in the quotation before made from the supplementary report of the committee.

It will also be remembered that five of the six men there alleged to have been killed for their loyalty, were killed, if at all, by this same Lee party; and if the editor of the Republican is correct in the statement above quoted, this killing grew out of a feud existing between two parties known as the Lee and Peacock parties, "who," as he says, "employ their time in waylaying each other in the brush, and shooting each other in a most cowardly manner."

There is nothing going to show that these are political parties; but if they were, they would both be equally culpable, if what the Republican states is true. But that the true character of this Lee and Peacock war may be known, I here insert an extract from a private letter published in the Austin Daily Republican of July 15, 1868, and indorsed by that journal as coming "from a prominent Unionist in Fannin county." It reads thus:

BOXHAM, Fannin county, Texas, }
July 8, 1868. }

"As to news, except the incidents of the Lee and Peacock war, we have nothing exciting. The details of that war you have undoubtedly got from other sources. I am posted as to its incipency. During the fall of 1865 or winter of 1866, Lee came to me for warrants against Peacock and others, alleging that they had kidnapped him, spirited him away to Choctaw bottom, and robbed him of all he had.

Two of the defendants, whose names I have forgotten, were brought before me, and the evidence sustained Lee's statement.

I held them to bail, and they forfeited their bonds. Afterwards Lee compromised with the remainder, and while drinking to friendship, one of them, Maddox, shot and wounded him. Lee then declared war, assembled his friends, a desperate gang, and commenced the work of slaughter. Reprisals followed; friends of the skin on each side came in, and the affair is growing to dangerous proportions. The commanding general should send a competent cavalry force here without delay.

————— is the head of "Conservatism" in this county, chairman of the "Fannin Conservative Club." What he proposes to "do about it," I have no means of knowing. I am pleased to see him in the lead, as his natural instincts are tolerant and kindly. He will permit no Ku-klux organization; so far as party spirit is concerned, it does not run high in Fannin.

We get along very comfortably. We can poll some Radical white votes, but not enough, even with the blacks, to make a majority."

The foregoing letter speaks for itself, and is endorsed by high Republican authority, and, on at least one point, it is conclusive, that is, that the war going on between the Peacock and Lee parties is not political. From this letter no inference can be drawn as to the politics of the parties, but if it be claimed, and it is claimed in the report of the committee, that the Lee party is a rebel party, then I have only to say that the letter here quoted proves conclusively that the Peacock party (alleged to be loyal) were the aggressors in the incipency of these troubles. This disposes of five out of six of the alleged murders of loyal men.

The other case, in which it is averred that a Unionist was murdered for his loyalty, is that of W. H. Upton, who, the committee say, was hung by a mob on the 3d in Brazos county.

A letter published in Flake's Galveston Daily Bulletin of July 31, 1868, written by Edward P. Upton, father of the alleged decedent, and enclosing a letter from Wm. Sheriff, father-in-law of W. H. Upton, fully explains the character and cause of the transaction. I here insert these letters, the authority of which will scarcely be questioned:

LETTER FROM REFUGIO COUNTY.

REFUGIO, Refugio county, Texas, }
 July 20, 1868. }

To Editor Flake's Bulletin :

It is with a heavy heart I write to narrate another atrocity, and this time the victim is my own son. I send you for publication the following letter, just received from Judge William Sheriff, the father-in-law of my son, who formerly resided in this county, but now of Fort Bend county :

PITTSVILLE, Fort Bend county, Texas, }
 July 8, 1868. }

To Judge E. P. Upton :

DEAR JUDGE: I have the sad task of relating to you the murder of your son Wheelock. Within the last two months Wheelock has made some trips between this neighborhood and the vicinity of Millican, driving beeves. On Monday, 29th ult., he left this place for Millican with a small drove of beeves, and on reaching Navasota he was arrested and put in jail on a warrant for stealing beeves from one Brookshire, of this neighborhood. He then sent for Mr. Gill, my brother-in-law, who went on his bond for $500, and he was then released. From there he went to his home, seven miles from Millican, where he was again arrested on another charge of same nature. In the night a band of men surrounded the house, and caused him and the sheriff, in whose charge he was, to go with them to Millican. At Millican the next day he was informed that he would have to return to Navasota to be tried, and a guard was appointed to take him there, and about 3 o'clock they started with him. Near close of day the guard returned to Millican, and reported that near a creek they were met by a large band of men who took their prisoner from them and liberated him. Then the authorities at Millican sent out to have him re-arrested. Mr. Gill, who remained at Millican, suspicious of circumstances, got one of the guard to show him where the pretended liberation took place, and was led by this man to a place where they found Wheelock hanging. All of Wheelock's property has been taken, his widow and child left totally destitute. Mrs. Upton and her child are with me here in Pittsville, where she has been for many weeks past under medical treatment.

I state facts and make no comments.

The perpetrators of this atrocity ought to be punished, but I am afraid they never will be. I leave here to-day for Wheelock's home, in order to try and regain anything for his widow and child, I'm afraid hopelessly. His property is gone. Mr. Gill, who has been living with Wheelock, brought me the news. He had an inquest held on the body, on which was found a letter without signature, but supposed to be from you, which the coroner read and commented on. The above mentioned Brookshire reported that Wheelock was the son-in-law of an old Union scoundrel living at Pittsville, and the whole crowd of Uptons and Sheriffs were d——d Abolitionists.

There is no safety for a Union man here. I ask for revenge, but apparently without any hope.

I shall be at the next court in Refugio.

Friendly yours,

WILLIAM SHERIFF.

My son, Wheelock H. Upton, and his father-in-law, left this county about two years since, to settle in Fort Bend county. They fled from prosecution here of the most annoying and atrocious character. They were branded as Union men, and charged with all the crimes known to the criminal calendar. The same proscription followed them, and some time since my son removed up the Brazos, to near Millican, and was pursuing his honest avocation, when foully murdered by a band of lawless desperadoes. My son's only crime was that he was a fearless Union man, and had by honest labor accumulated some property since the war. He was the son of the old Union Upton charged with high treason against the Confederate States, thrown into the loathsome jail of Gonzales, and there kept for the period of six months, and denied while there the writ of right by Judge Thos. Devine, who, I am told, is now pardoned and free, and again working in the interest of the rebels. He is the son-in-law of William Sheriff, who, during the war, was subjected to all sorts of prosecutions, imprisoned, his property stolen from him, and his life frequently threatened.

Sir, our own private wrongs we could and would have endured without a public murmur, but this last overflows the cup, and now we call loudly for justice, and justice we are determined to have. The murderers are known. If they are arrested and properly punished, by either a civil or military tribunal, it is well and good; if not, Wheelock H. Upton has still a father living, and numerous relatives and friends, who cannot be expected to sit quietly by, listening to the moans of his bereaved mother and sisters, the cries of his heartbroken wife, and the wail of his little orphaned child. I have placed the matter in the hands of General Reynolds, who I believe will use his best endeavors to bring this murderous band to justice. Should he fail, there is still left the right divine, the lex talionis.

Mr. Sheriff truly says there is no security for a Union man in this State. How long, sir, are we to endure this? Already the Union men in various parts of the State are banding together for mutual protection, and this will become general, unless something be speedily accomplished by Congress. I know that General Reynolds is doing all in his power for our relief, but unfortunately his power is limited, and relief may come too late to save us from civil war; for the Union men of the State, white and black, are determined that they will no longer submit to the present state of things.

I am, sir,

Very respectfully yours,

EDWARD P. UPTON.

I give these letters entire, because I desire that the full statement of the friends of the measure, which may be supposed to be the most favorable that can be made in his behalf may go to the world. Now, it is plain from these letters, without hearing anything on the other side, that R. H. Upton was hung (if at all) on a charge of stealing cattle, (whether he was guilty or innocent of the charge is immaterial,) and not for his Unionism.

The six alleged murders for loyalty are now fully exploded by the foregoing statement of facts, made solely by Republicans and on Republican authority.

The allegation of the committee that the attempt made to assassinate the Hon. A. O. Cooley, was because of his loyalty, is wholly gratuitous, and is not sustained by the evidence. On the contrary, it is now well established and notoriously known that the attempt on the life of Judge Cooley was made by a young man on account of an old grudge, growing out of family difficulties.

This disposes of all the cases adduced by the committee "to substantiate" the "statement" made by them, "that many of the persons murdered were loyal, and that they were murdered for their loyalty," and now I assert, on Republican authority, that not one of the parties named was killed on account of their loyalty: and I further assert that of all the homicides reported, there is no evidence that any one of them was killed for his Unionism.

Unfortunately, a great many homicides have been committed in Texas within the last three years, and no man's life is secure. These homicides have been committed without reference to party, race, or color, and the cause of them can justly be attributed to no other source than the want of an efficient, strong, civil government. Indeed, it is so obvious that there can be no security for life, liberty, or property, here or elsewhere, without such government. A full, lucid, and very satisfactory report from Montgomery county, which I have examined with much care, is very instructive on this subject.

This report, dated June 23, 1868, shows that thirty homicides have been committed in that county during the years 1865, 1866, 1867 and 1868. Of these ten were committed in 1865, when there was no civil government in force.

Five men were killed in 1866, twelve in 1867, and three in the present year up to the date of the report. It is a remarkable fact that only five men were killed in 1866, while the reconstruction policy of President Johnson was in force, and civil law executed, while double the number had been killed during the six or seven months preceding, while the country was in a state of anarchy. It is also remarkable that in 1867, twelve homicides were committed, and they must be committed after May, for the reporter says: "I made a report to General Griffin, and on this head I spoke thus to him—that I rejoiced to see crime on the decrease; that for four months of the year 1867, up to date, I had only issued three criminal processes." Now, when it is remembered that this was under the Throckmorton government, that the reconstruction laws of Congress were passed in March, 1867, and would become known and understood about the time this letter was written to General Griffin, and that afterwards crime increased so enormously that year that twelve men were killed before its close, in that county, no one can, I think, fail to be impressed with the idea that the disorganizing effect of the reconstruction policy of Congress, and the anomalous condition of the government inaugurated thereby, must have had something to do with the fearful increase of crime, of which the reporter from whom the quotation above is made, exclaims, in concluding the sentence quoted, "But, my God, since that time, crime has increased to an awful extent in various shapes,"—that is, since May, 1867.

A report from Polk county, which was before the committee, contains the following: "The reasons why the civil authorities have not enforced the laws are, that the officers are changed so often that they can't learn their duties, and a great many of them now being appointed, never will improve any. Cause: want of capacity." I fully concur with this reporter, and give it as my firm conviction, that the ignorance and inefficiency of the officers appointed under the present administration of our State government, constitute one of the most palpable sources of lawlessness and violence in the State.

In conclusion, I must state that I have not been able for want of time, to give a synopsis of the testimony in this report; but, I here affirm that there is not a scintilla of evidence, not an authenticated fact, that came before the committee, which could by any fair legitimate process of logical reasoning, be made to justify, or in the slightest degree palliate or excuse the insidious effort of the committee to fix the responsibility of the lawlessness and violence committed in the State on this Conservative party.

I regret that business compels me to leave this report incomplete, because I feel assured that a fair analysis of all the testimony would not only sustain my conclusions, but would fix the responsibility of any excess of crime that may have been committed in this State on those who, for the sake of power and the love of plunder, by unjustifiable appeals to Congress, and false representations of the disposition of our people, have prevented the State from being restored to its rightful relations in the Union of our fathers.

Very respectfully,

W. H. MULLINS.

Mr. Smith, of Galveston, moved to reject the report.

Motion to reject withdrawn.

Mr. Boyd offered the following declaration, and asked its reference to the Committee on State Affairs.

Mr. Lindsay made the following report from the Special Committee appointed to inquire into the conduct of Messrs. Long and Johnson :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
August 7, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention :

SIR : The Special Committee appointed by you, under an order of the Convention, to investigate the conduct of two of its members, Messrs. Johnson and Long, upon a charge of having violated the rules of decorum, prescribed for the government of this body, during its session, have performed that duty, and now beg leave to submit the following report :

From the evidence, which they were enabled to procure, it appears that the occurrence took place entirely without the precincts of the Convention ; and, however reprehensible their conduct may have been—about which the committee thinks it would be improper for them, under the circumstances, to express an opinion—it is not subject to the jurisdiction of this body. If the difficulty had taken place in the midst of the members, during the session of the Convention, or in the lobby of the House, then, by the rules adopted for the government of this body, as well as by general parliamentary law, the parties would have been justly subject to its censure, and might be dealt with by reprimand or expulsion : but, as it took place without the precincts of the House, if the parties are amenable to any tribunal, it is to the civil authority of the country ; and they cannot be dealt with by parliamentary law upon the facts ascertained by our investigation.

Whether the parties are amenable to the civil law upon the facts, the committee deems it improper for them to express an opinion, as such an intimation might prejudice the rights of the parties in an investigation before the civil tribunals of the country.

They may be permitted, however, to say that, according to the principles of parliamentary law, there are certain privileges guaranteed to the members of all deliberative bodies, which shield and protect them against arrest by the civil authorities of the government, while in session. No member of a deliberative body can be arrested during the continuance and term of its sessions, except for treason, felony, breach of the peace, or in a case in which sureties of the peace may be demanded, of one or both of the parties, for threatened aggressions. In all other cases, the members of deliberative bodies are privileged from arrest, while the body, of which they are members, is in session.

In this case no treason nor felony has been committed. And, as nothing occurred within the precincts and jurisdiction of the House, calling for its action, or animadversion, it would be improper for this committee to intimate whether a breach of the peace was committed or not; as that might become a subject of judicial inquiry by the civil tribunals of the country.

Upon examination of the parties themselves involved in the investigation, the committee is satisfied the difficulty is at an end between them, and no precautionary measure is necessary to prevent a collision, and they therefore recommend their discharge from the custody of the sergeant-at-arms, and their restoration to their privileges in the House. They ask that the committee be now discharged. All of which is respectfully submitted.

L. LINDSAY.

B. F. WILLIAMS.

JAMES P. BUTLER.

Upon motion, the report was adopted.

COMMITTEE ROOM,
Austin, Texas, August 13, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention:

SIR: Your Committee on Counties and County Boundaries, to whom was referred a resolution introduced by Mr. Carter, in reference to the creation of new counties, and requiring all new counties to contain at least six hundred square miles, instead of nine hundred square miles, as required by the Constitution of 1845, have had the same under consideration, and a majority of the committee have instructed me to report the following as a substitute for section twenty-four of the General Provisions of the new Constitution, as reported by the Committee on General Provisions, to wit :

SECTION 24. "The Legislature may, from time to time, create new counties for the convenience of the people; provided, however, that no new county shall be created which shall contain, or reduce the county or counties, or either of them, from which it may be taken, to a less area than six hundred square miles, except by the concurrence of a majority of two-thirds of each branch of the Legislature."

Mr. Phillips, of Wharton, from the Committee on Commerce and Manufactures, reported as follows :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
Austin, August 14, 1868.

To the Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Constitutional Convention :

SIR: The Committee on Commerce and Manufactures has instructed me to report as follows :

The committee is of the opinion that the condition of the country makes it the true policy of this State to lend encouragement to every kind of manufactures for which the raw material is produced or found within the State. The whole country offers inducements to capital to find investment in manufactories of one description and another; and our State cannot enjoy the advantages resulting from such investments within her limits, without offering some peculiar advantages to capitalists in return. The difficulties encountered by those engaging in the business of manufacturing in the interior of the State are very great, owing to the want of facilities for transportation of machinery.

The committee is of the opinion that to exempt from forced sale, for a period of five years, such machinery as may be devoted to manufacturing purposes of public utility, would furnish some encouragement to the establishment of such manufactories.

The committee therefore recommend the adoption by the Convention of the accompanying declaration on this subject (marked "A"), as one of the several provisions of the Constitution.

Your committee is also of the opinion that it is important to the commercial interest of a large portion of the State, that Sabine City should be made a port of entry, and the committee therefore recommend the adoption of the accompanying resolution memorializing the Congress of the United States on this subject.

While it may not be deemed strictly within the province of your Committee to do so, the committee cannot refrain from expressing their opinion of the necessity of establishing an industrial bureau, for the collection, preservation, and publication of statistics in relation to the commerce, manufactures, agriculture, and various industries of the State. Our State is of such great territorial extent that persons visiting it for the purpose of seeking homes are unable to obtain information respecting its different parts, except by personal inspection, at great expense and inconvenience, and go away dissatisfied; who, under other circumstances, would be able to find homes adapted to the pursuit or business in which they desire to engage. Your committee is of opinion that it would contribute very greatly to the settlement of the State, to establish an office at the Capital for the purpose of collecting and publishing to the world the various advantages offered by the different parts of our State to immigrants, and your committee believes that the information which would be thus collected, would in other respects be of great public utility.

Your committee therefore recommend the passage by the Convention of a declaration providing for the establishment of a bureau of industrial resources, as a part of the constitution.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. J. PHILLIPS,
Chairman.

DECLARATION "A."

WHEREAS, It being the policy and duty of the people of Texas to foster and encourage the industrial interests of its citizens, particularly as regards its manufacturing interests; therefore, be it

Resolved, That all machinery imported into this State for manufacturing purposes shall be exempt from taxation for five years from the date of its being put in operation.

Reported from Committee on Federal Relations, respecting the relinquishment by the State of political jurisdiction and right of public domain over El Paso county.

WHEREAS, The people of county of El Paso, in the State of Texas, and the county of Dona Ana, in the Territory of New Mexico, have petitioned the Congress of the United States to give them a Territorial Government; and,

WHEREAS, Owing to the geographical position of the aforesaid county of El Paso, it is inconvenient and unwise that it should be longer a part of the State of Texas; and,

WHEREAS, 2d, In the opinion of this Convention it would be better, both for the people of the State and for the people of the aforesaid counties, that such Territory should be formed; therefore,

Be it resolved by the people of Texas in Convention assembled, That the political jurisdiction over the said county of El Paso, and the right of "Public Domain" therein, is hereby relinquished to the United States of America; provided, that the said United States shall form a Territorial Government of which the county of El Paso shall be a part.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment.

Mr. Fleming, from the Committee on Counties and County Boundaries, made the following report:

COMMITTEE ROOM,
August 17, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention:

SIR: Your Committee on Counties and County Boundaries, to whom was referred a memorial from certain citizens of Polk, Montgomery, Walker and Liberty counties, praying that a new county to be called the county of San Jacinto, be erected out of portions of the counties of Polk, Liberty, Montgomery and Walker, have had the same under consideration, and a majority of the committee believing that the proposed new county ought to be established, and that it is necessary to the convenience of the people, that it should be established, herewith report to the Convention the accompanying declaration and ask its adoption by the Convention.

Your Committee would state that the only objection urged from any quarter to said new counties, comes from their chairman, who refuses to assent to this report for the reason, that being the representative in this Convention of Liberty county, he is unwilling to consent to the partition of that county without some assurance that the citizens thereof assent to its partition.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

WM. H. FLEMING,
JACOB KUECHLER,
For the majority of the Committee.

sion, shall pass such law or laws as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section.

FOSTER,
Of Colorado County.

SEC. 40. Limitations may be fixed by law to the recovery of obligations for the payment of money or property; provided, the party pleading limitation shall first make affidavit that the demand has already been paid.

SEC. 41. No limitation to the recovery of parol obligations for money or personal property, shall be interposed by statute under four years, or of written contracts under seven years from maturity.

SEC. 42. The right of parties to the recovery of land in the possession of adverse claimants, shall not be barred under fourteen years, and when the occupant is without title, legal or equitable, no limit to the recovery of the rightful owner shall be interposed.

To the Hon. E. J. Davis,

President of the Constitutional Convention of the State of Texas:

SIR: The Judiciary Committee, to whom was referred sections thirty-four, forty, forty-one and forty-two of the report of the Committee on General Provisions, after due consideration of the several subjects involved in those sections, beg leave to make the following report:

In regard to section thirty four, they deem it both impolitic and unwise to adopt it in the form in which it was presented. Instead of promoting public and private morality, it would give a public sanction to dissoluteness, and encourage licentiousness, rather than put a wholesome restraint upon it. The toleration, by any act of public authority, of an irregular and illegal mode of living, especially among the opposite sexes, is always followed by most disastrous consequences to society. The public authority in every social system should studiously avoid even an apparent connivance at so pernicious an example.

But, from the peculiar condition, but recently existing, of a very large portion of our present citizenship, who, from no fault of their own, were compelled to live in this irregular manner, some relief is called for to repair an evil which was imposed upon them by a state of force, and which was unavoidable without the possession of virtues which do not commonly fall to the lot of humanity. The past wrong and mischief should be repaired as far as practicable; and the whole civil polity of the State starting on a new career of morality and virtue, as we hope, from the adoption of this Constitution, some provision should be engrafted upon it, to absolve that class of our citizens from the evil consequences of their former forced and abnormal relations. For this purpose, the committee recommend the adoption of the following, as a substitute for section thirty-four:

SECTION —. All persons who at any time heretofore lived together as husband and wife, and both of whom, by the law of bondage, were precluded from the rights of matrimony, and continued to live together until the death of one of the parties, shall be considered as having been legally married; and the issue of such cohabitation shall be deemed legitimate. And all such persons as may be now living together in such relations shall be considered as having been legally married, and the children heretofore, or hereafter, born of such cohabitations shall be deemed legitimate.

The committee are of the opinion that the subject embraced in sections forty, forty-one and forty-two is properly, and ought to be exclusively, of legislative cognizance. It is altogether a question of State policy, and the policy of States necessarily changes with the varying condition of the circumstances in the history of governments, and their powers on such subjects ought not to be trammelled on by an inexorable organic law. For these reasons they recommend that each of those sections be stricken out.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

L. LINDSAY,
Chairman, pro tem.

Mr. Butler introduced a report from the Committee on Penitentiary, and asked that the reading be dispensed with, and printed.
Report withdrawn.

Mr. Whitmore offered the following

RESOLUTION,

Requesting Major General Reynolds to create a new judicial district out of the Ninth and Fifteenth Judicial Districts of Texas.

WHEREAS, The necessities and conveniences of the people of the Ninth and Fifteenth Judicial Districts of Texas demand special terms of the District Court which cannot be held by the judge thereof, as the regular terms of said court (as the districts are now constituted) require the official and regular services of said judges nearly the whole of the year; therefore, with the view of meeting meeting the wants of the people in this behalf,

Be it resolved by the delegates of the people of Texas in Convention assembled. That Brevet Major General J. J. Reynolds, commanding the Fifth Military District, comprising the State of Texas, be and he is hereby respectfully requested to subdivide the Ninth and Fifteenth Judicial Districts of the State of Texas, and from said districts create a new judicial district, as follows, to wit:

Houston, Nacogdoches and Anderson counties, from the Ninth Judicial District, and Trinity and Angelina, from the Fifteenth District, to be called the Eighteenth Judicial District of Texas: and appoint a judge and district attorney for said district; and authorize and require said judge to hold one or more special terms (at least one) of the District Court in each of said counties in each year, as he may direct; and that in case any of the courts of the proposed new district conflict with each other, that the judge be authorized and required to postpone the regular term of the court of such of said counties as may conflict, as he may direct.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution, signed by the President and Secretary of this Convention, be forwarded to Major General Reynolds, through the office of His Excellency E. M. Pease, Provisional Governor of Texas.

Mr. Munroe asked that the rules be suspended to take up declaration.

Rules not suspended.

Mr. Degener asked leave to introduce the following report from the special committee appointed to consider the railroad subjects before the Convention:

REPORT OF THE SELECT COMMITTEE ON RAILROADS.

COMMITTEE ROOM,
August 18, 1868.HON. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention:

SIR: Your select committee, to whom was referred all matter appertaining to the sale of certain railroads, which are indebted to the school fund of this State, have duly considered the documents referred to them, and a majority of the committee has instructed me to report the following preamble and resolution.

All of which is most respectfully submitted.

E. DEGENER,
Chairman.

WHEREAS, Certain railroads in the State of Texas are indebted to the school fund of Texas for money borrowed therefrom, under the act of the Legislature of Texas of the ——— day of ———, 1856, commonly called the loan bill, and for the payment of which the State, as trustee, holds a first mortgage upon the roads, etc., with power of sale,

Be it declared, That the Governor of the State of Texas be and he is hereby authorized and required to collect said indebtedness from each of said roads, by selling the same, if necessary, according to the provisions of the law under which said money was loaned: provided, that whatever amounts may be claimed to have been paid by said roads in Texas treasury warrants, created for the purpose of carrying on war against the United States, shall not be deemed payments, unless so decided by the Supreme Court of Texas, upon a writ of injunction to be sued out by the company or companies from whom such credits are now exacted; and provided further, that if no bidder at the sale of said roads shall bid a sum equal to the full amount which said road shall owe the State, less the credit claimed by said company on account of so-called payments in treasury warrants, and take the road subject to the lien that may exist, if the Supreme Court of Texas should decide said pretended payments in treasury warrants to have been null and void, then the Governor shall buy the same on account of the State, and may resell the same, either at private or public sale, if he is offered the sum of indebtedness in coin, or its equivalent in United States currency, of each of said roads, except the Houston Tap and Brazoria Railroad, which he may resell for the largest sum he may get.

Mr. Goddin moved that Mr. Armstrong of Lamar be added to Committee on Counties and County Boundaries.

The President announced the following communication from his excellency E. M. Pease, respecting the Penitentiary, and ordered it to be read:

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
Austin, Texas, August 18, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention:

SIR: I beg leave to call the attention of the Convention to the propriety of passing an ordinance authorizing the Provisional Governor, with the approval of the Commanding General of the Fifth Military District, to lease the State Penitentiary, with the labor of the convicts, for a term of years.

The Penitentiary went into operation about the first of January, 1849, and up to the present time there has been paid from the State Treasury, for its construction and support, the sum of three hundred and fifty-five thousand seven hundred and twenty-six dollars and twenty-five cents, and there are estimated to be debts outstanding against the institution to the amount of about fifty thousand dollars. During a large portion of this time the number of convicts did not exceed one hundred and fifty, but they now number about three hundred and sixty, and are increasing.

No money has ever been paid into the State Treasury from the labor of the convicts, with the exception of some Confederate money received in payment for goods manufactured during the rebellion, which was paid in at a time when it was almost valueless.

During the rebellion, when cotton and wool could be bought at nominal prices, and manufactured goods were sold at almost fabulous prices, the Penitentiary was mainly supported with the earnings from the labor of the convicts in making cotton and woollen goods, and a considerable stock of cotton and wool was accumulated which was turned over to the financial agent appointed by Governor Hamilton.

During the time of Governor Hamilton's Provisional Government, manufactured goods sold readily at high prices, and the Penitentiary made money; and when it was turned over, about the fourth of September, 1866, to the financial agent appointed by Governor Throckmorton, there was on hand a stock of goods, materials and money, amounting to about eighty thousand dollars in specie, over and above all outstanding debts.

This agent continued to manage its affairs until about the 3d of January, 1868, a period of sixteen months, when it was turned over to the present financial agent, with only about nineteen hundred dollars worth of goods, very few materials, and no money, with debts outstanding supposed to be not far from forty thousand dollars in specie. Having used in its management, during this period, about one hundred and twenty thousand dollars, in goods, materials, money and credits, of specie value, besides the labor of the convicts.

The present financial agent was appointed on the 4th of November, 1868, but owing to the epidemic then prevailing at Huntsville, he was not able to qualify and enter upon his duties until about the 3d of January, 1868. His administration has been embarrassed for want of means, having, as before stated, but about nineteen hundred dollars worth of goods, very few materials, and no money on hand when he commenced, and having had to pay about four thousand dollars for machinery, that had been ordered but not paid for by his predecessor.

The Penitentiary continued to manufacture goods at a small profit until about the 5th of June last, when the price of cotton became so high that no profit could be made from the manufacture of the style of cotton goods for which the machinery was adapted, and the factory was stopped. Since that time, besides carrying on the various workshops, a large number of the convicts have been employed in making brick for the purpose of putting up additional buildings and cells which are needed for the accommodation of the present increased number of convicts.

There has been drawn from the State Treasury for the support of the Penitentiary, since the 1st of January, 1868, about the sum of fourteen thousand dollars, in currency, and it will probably require an additional amount of about twenty thousand dollars, in currency, for its support until the 1st of October next.

The trial that was made under the administration of my predecessor to employ a portion of the convicts upon railroads was not successful. The contractors failed to make the payments due under their contracts after a few months. Quite a number of the convicts thus employed made their escape, and many were killed and wounded in trying to escape. These results induced an abandonment of the project, and the convicts were returned to the Penitentiary.

The machinery now at the Penitentiary is not sufficient to employ much more than half of the convicts that are now under sentence, and the small profit made in manufacturing goods since the 3d of September, 1866, does not seem to warrant a continuance of the business by the State.

It is, however, believed that under the management of individuals, who might procure other machinery suitable to different manufactures, in addition to those now carried on, and who could manage such business with more skill and economy than it can be by the State, a considerable profit might be made from the labor of the convicts. They could, at least, save the commissions and charges heretofore paid to agents on the sale of the goods, by doing this business themselves, and this alone would afford them a handsome profit.

I have every reason to believe that if a lease of the Penitentiary, with the labor of the convicts, were offered to the highest and best bidder, for a term of not less than five, nor more than ten years, under the conditions and limitations contained in the ordinance herewith submitted for your consideration, persons would take this lease and undertake to pay all the expenses of the institution, and perhaps something more. By making such a lease the State would be doing better than it has done under the management of the institution through its own agents and officers; and I respectfully recommend that the experiment be tried.

E. M. PEASE.

DECLARATION.

A Declaration authorizing the Governor to lease the State Penitentiary.

SECTION 1. It is hereby declared by the people of Texas in Convention assembled, That the Provisional Governor of the State is hereby authorized and required to lease the State Penitentiary, with the labor of the convicts, for a term of not less than five years, nor more than ten years, upon the conditions and limitations hereinafter named.

The Penitentiary shall continue to be managed according to the present or future laws of the State, except that the office and duties of the financial agent, his book-keeper and clerk, shall be dispensed with; and except, also, that the lessee or lessees shall have the right to direct what particular kind of labor the convicts shall be employed in, but they shall not employ such labor at any other place than the Penitentiary. The lessee or lessees shall furnish everything that is necessary for the support and maintenance of the Penitentiary and convicts therein imprisoned, including the salaries of the officers and employes, which shall be paid quarterly, and the amount required to be paid to convicts on their discharge. They shall, also, keep the buildings in good repair, and shall construct such additional buildings and cells as in the opinion of the directors and superintendent may be necessary for the accommodation of the officers, employes and convicts, which shall be of durable materials, similar in style, and equal in quantity to the present buildings and cells; and they may, with the approval of the directors, erect such other walls and buildings, and make such changes and alterations in the present machinery, and procure such other machinery as they may deem necessary for the profitable employment of the convicts.

The lessee or lessees shall have the use of all lands, buildings, machinery, tools and other property belonging to the Penitentiary, which are destined or used for the labor of the convicts, subject, however, to all laws that have been, or may hereafter be enacted for the government and police of the Penitentiary. They shall have the right to introduce into the Penitentiary such skilled labor as they may think necessary to direct the labor of the convicts, and give efficiency thereto. An inventory and valuation of the materials, machinery and property of every description, now belonging to the Penitentiary, except the land and buildings, shall be made by appraisers, one of whom shall be appointed by the Governor, and the other by the lessee or lessees, with the right on the part of said appraisers to appoint an umpire, in case they cannot agree; which property shall be received for by the lessee or lessees at its valuation. At the expiration of the lease, a like inventory and valuation shall be made in the same manner of all the materials, machinery and property of every description then in use at the Penitentiary, including all new walls, buildings and cells that may have been constructed by the lessee or lessees under the sanction of the directors, but excluding the land and present buildings. At the expiration of the lease the lessee or lessees shall be bound to have all the walls, buildings and machinery in good repair, and shall deliver them to the State in that condition, and the State shall be bound to pay them whatever excess there may be in the valuation of the materials, machinery and property, including any new walls, buildings and cells erected by them, which they may deliver to the State, over and above the value of the property received from the State at the commencement of their lease. Whatever amount the lessee or lessees may agree to pay the State for said lease beyond the obligations herein required of them, shall be promptly paid according to the terms of the agreement.

The lessee or lessees shall be required to execute and deliver to the Governor a bond, with security, to be approved by him, payable to the State of Texas, in the sum of fifty thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful performance of the terms of their lease.

The State of Texas, by the Governor or Legislature, shall have the right to terminate said lease, if at any time the lessee or lessees shall fail to comply with their obligations under the same.

SEC. 2. The Commanding General of the Fifth Military District is requested to approve this declaration, and to authorize the Penitentiary to be leased in accordance therewith; and the Governor shall be empowered to insert such other terms in the contract as he may deem of interest to the State, which shall conflict with the rules herein provided.

The special committee to whom was referred the Governor's message touching the Penitentiary, have instructed me to report the declaration accompanying the message back to the House, and recommend its passage, with the following amendment:

CALDWELL,
Chairman.

That the first clause of the declaration shall read as follows:

That the Provisional Governor of the State is hereby authorized and required, without unnecessary delay, to lease the State Penitentiary, with the labor of the convicts, for a period of not less than five nor more than ten years, to any suitable person or persons who may be competent to hold office under the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States: the said lease to be upon the conditions and liabilities hereinafter named.

CALDWELL,
Chairman.

Mr. Burnett made the following minority report:

Austin, Texas, August 19, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention:

SIR: The undersigned, one of the special committee to which was referred the Governor's message in reference to the leasing of the State Penitentiary, while he is favorable to the passage of the ordinance or declaration proposed by his Excellency, yet opposed in the committee, and now dissents from the amendment proposed by the committee to the effect that persons who may not be competent to hold office under the Fourteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States, shall be precluded from bidding for the lease.

I regard the matter of the lease as a question simply of business and individual enterprise, and doubt the justice or propriety of restricting competition to those who are not registered voters. I do not believe that it was contemplated by the adoption of the Fourteenth Amendment that the disabilities imposed should impair or affect the social or business relations of the citizen, but solely the political rights of those who came within its provisions.

The lessee or lessees would, of course, be bound to comply with the terms of the lease in their spirit and letter, and if this were done, it would seem to be a matter of little consequence whether he or they were not competent to hold office, especially when it is remembered that the disabilities imposed by the Fourteenth Amendment are hoped to be only temporary. Again, the Governor did not see fit to recommend that the bidders should be thus restricted, and it is well known that there are many loyal men in our State who are precluded from holding office, as the report of the Committee on Political Disabilities will bear witness.

I therefore respectfully recommend that the proposed amendment be not agreed to, and that the ordinance or declaration as it stands be adopted.

Very respectfully,
JAMES R. BURNETT.

The Convention refused to suspend the rules.

Mr. Smith, of Galveston, offered the following resolution :

That the ordinance of the Convention passed on the 1st day of February, A. D. 1861, commonly known as the ordinance of secession, was in contravention of the Constitution and laws of the United States, and therefore null and void from the beginning; and all laws or parts of laws founded upon said ordinance, were also null and void from the date of their passage.

That the Legislature which sat in the State of Texas from the 18th day of March, A. D. 1861, until the 6th day of August, A. D. 1866, had no Constitutional authority to make laws binding upon the people of Texas; provided, that this section shall not be construed to inhibit the authorities of this State from respecting and enforcing such rules and regulations as were prescribed by the said so-called Legislature which were not in violation of the Constitution and laws of the United States and of this State, or in aid of the rebellion against the United States, or prejudicial to the citizens of this State who were loyal to the United States, and which have been actually enforced or observed in Texas during the above period of time, nor to affect prejudicially private rights which may have grown up under such rules and regulations; nor to invalidate official acts not in aid of the rebellion against the United States during said period of time.

That the Legislature which assembled in the city of Austin on the 6th day of August, A. D. 1866, was provisional only, and its acts are to be respected only so far as they were not in violation of the Constitution and laws of the United States, or were not intended to reward those who participated in the late rebellion, or to discriminate between citizens on account of race or color, or to operate prejudicially to any class of citizens.

That all debts contracted by the rebel organization in the State of Texas in aid of the late rebellion against the United States were created without constitutional authority, and the Legislature is prohibited from recognizing or making any provision for the payment, and the legislature is prohibited also from assuming or making provision for the payment of any debt contracted or incurred, or any warrant or evidence of debt issued by the said rebel organization of the State of Texas, from the 28th day of January, A. D. 1861, until the 5th day of August, A. D. 1865, except such warrants or evidence of debt as were issued in payment of services rendered, or liabilities incurred before the 28th day of January, A. D. 1861.

That all debts incurred in aid of the rebellion against the United States by the several counties, cities, and towns of the State, were without constitutional authority, and the corporate authorities of said counties, cities and towns are prohibited from ever making any provisions for the payment of such debts.

That it shall be the duty of the Legislature to ascertain and make provision for the payment of all debts that were owing by the State of Texas on the 28th day of January, A. D. 1861.

That the declaration take effect from and after its passage.

COMMITTEE ROOM.

August 17, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR : A majority of your committee appointed to investigate the financial affairs of the State Penitentiary, have now the honor of submitting the following report :

We find, after a close examination of the past history of the institution, up to the first of June of this year, of keeping the books and accounts, and of its management, that no system had been adopted previous to the first of June of this year, when, at the instance of the present Comptroller, Mr. M. C. Hamilton, efficient regulations were introduced. A majority of your committee, therefore, in a measure, consider the present condition of the finances of the institution attributable to that fact. But while now, under the new regulations, the Financial Agent is required to render his accounts to the Comptroller, the Superintendent is left with no other accountability than a general superintendence by the Directory, which practically amounts to nothing, and is a mere farce. It is true, the Financial Agent produces receipts for raw material and supplies bought; but when these materials and supplies are turned over to the Superintendent, he is not required to take them up on a return, or render any abstract of expenditures, or vouchers for what has been made proper use of, or what not. No certain ration is prescribed for a convict: provisions are bought and turned over to the Superintendent without any requisition for the same, or without any person being aware if all these provisions, or how many of them, are consumed by the convicts, or if they are used for other purposes; in short, the Superintendent is without any control whatever, and the whole system of administration, to say the least, a very loose one.

A precedent has been established by the Superintendent, at what time your committee was unable to ascertain, but it was established before the appointment of the present Superintendent: suffice it to say that it has been established, to compel guards to board with the Superintendent, without any law compelling the latter to furnish decent board. However dissatisfied the guard may be in this regard, he has no chance to complain, because he has no authority to appeal to. If dissatisfied, he is at the mercy of the Superintendent, turned off, no matter how faithful and useful he may have been otherwise, with the consolation that there are plenty others who, through extreme necessity, are willing to submit to the outrage.

A majority of your committee do not want to convey the idea that they would have the guards board away from the institution, but that the State, and not the Superintendent, should board them, from the following facts, that the State furnishes the stove, cooks, and wood to cook their victuals with, furnishes waiters to wait on them, sufficient feed for twenty or thirty hogs for meat; land, and convicts to cultivate and raise vegetables with, and, in fact, almost everything but the flour and meal for bread, which could also be furnished by the State, under the present loose commissary system, without the least trouble or fear of detection. All these facts go to show that the State should board these guards. The Superintendent receives a very liberal salary to attend to the interests of the State; the board of the guards amounts to over $5000 a year, and as the Superintendent is at but very little cost to board them, the balance is allowed him, for we have no law forbidding it, under this precedent established, when it properly belongs and should go to the State.

From the facts stated above, a majority of your committee are forced to the conclusion that, to keep up and work such an institution by State authority, as it has been conducted, will always be a source of great corruption: it will be a harvest to be gathered by some favorite politician of the party in power at the time; and while the State revenue ought to derive at least $25,000 per annum from the profits of the institution, it will always prove to be an expense to the State.

It is clearly to the interest of the State to remove the source of corruption from the gaze of keen-sighted politicians, by leasing the whole establishment to individuals, requiring the lessee to make semi-annual payments or forfeit his lease. The treatment and support of the convicts should remain within the control and management of the State, and the lessee should only be entitled to the labor of the convicts, under such rules and regulations as the State may prescribe. This arrangement can easily be made, and it is believed that at least $25,000 per annum could in this way be realized by the State treasury. Should, however, the Penitentiary continue to be conducted as it is, defalcation and confusion may be expected to continue, and the institution will continue to beg at the doors of the treasury for bread.

A majority of your committee deem it not improper to suggest, that, in case it is thought preferable to let the Penitentiary remain in its present relation to the State treasury, the Comptroller of the State be required to send an agent, who shall be a competent accountant, to, once in every six months, inspect the books and accounts both of Superintendent and Financial Agent, and make his report to the Comptroller.

The condition of finances of the institution is such that it will want the most prudent management to retrieve the losses incurred. The statement hereto annexed shows the assets of the Penitentiary at two different periods, August 1856, and January 1868, which latter have continued the same until the present time. At the former period the institution was quite prosperous, for the assets, consisting of manufactured goods, raw material and moneys, amounted to $106,287.49.

Seventeen months after, these, as far as we could ascertain, were reduced to almost nothing, for no material and no money was on hand, and only a few manufactured goods, valued at $1,893.93.

Besides this, a confusion prevails, which will want further labor, to ascertain whether these assets will not be changed into liabilities.

The main causes why the Financial Agent of that period has failed to preserve the finances of Penitentiary in the former prosperous condition, we have found to be the following :

Imprudent agreement with agents, to whom was granted unlimited power to dispose of manufactured goods without any control or restriction, and whose main object it seems to have been to get rid of them as fast as possible :

Want of economy in the purchase of supplies : and

Want of system and order in books and accounts.

During a period of twelve months goods were consigned to the agents, T. H. McMahan & Co., in Galveston, who, as per account sales, account for 1,265,818 yards.

The books of the Penitentiary show a little less, viz. 1,258,234 yards.

Difference 7,584 yards, which can only be accounted for by omissions in these books.

After deducting from the proceeds of sales the charges, consisting in freight from Navasota to Galveston, insurance, commission, storage, freight to New Orleans and New York, and good many others, the proceeds of the above accounted for 1,265,818 yards were \$150,518.10 : or 11 cents per yard Osnaburgs, 12 $\frac{1}{4}$ cents per yard cotton Jeans, 24 $\frac{1}{2}$ cents per yard W. Kerseys, 21 $\frac{1}{4}$ cents per yard White Plains.

But these were not yet the net proceeds, for in their account currents McMahan & Co. make charges of outlay for freight from Huntsville to Navasota and commission thereof, forwarding, labor on goods, interest on payments, reclamations for damaged goods, advertising, commissions on advancing and commission on disbursements, etc., etc., in all amounting to $26,085.18, which reduce the proceeds of Osnaburgs from eleven cents to the net proceeds, "nine cents per yard."

According to books, the following rates have been paid for the raw cotton, out of which the above goods were manufactured :

1866. September, from 17 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 20 cents ; average, 18 $\frac{3}{4}$ cents.
October, 20 cents : average, 20 cents.
November, 20 cents : average, 20 cents.
December, from 18 to 20 cents ; average, 19 cents.
1867. January, 20 cents ; average, 20 cents.
February, from 18 to 20 cents : average, 19 cents.
March, from 16 to 18 cents ; average, 17 cents.
April, from 15 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 20 cents : average, 17 $\frac{3}{4}$ cents.
May, from 13 to 18 cents ; average, 15 $\frac{1}{2}$ cents.
June, from 14 to 16 cents ; average, 15 cents.
July, from 13 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 19 cents ; average, 16 $\frac{1}{4}$ cents.
August, from 13 $\frac{1}{2}$ to 15 cents ; average, 14 $\frac{1}{4}$ cents.
September, from 15 to 16 cents : average, 15 $\frac{1}{2}$ cents.
October, 16 cents ; average, 16 cents.
- Average rate per pound, 17 $\frac{1}{2}$ cents.

As evidence for our assertion, that the Financial Agent was wanting in economy in purchasing supplies, we wish to draw attention to the latter rates. During September and October, 1867, cotton could be bought at Huntsville at from 7 to 9 cents, whereas from 15 to 16 cents have been paid.

One pound of raw cotton, the average price of which was $17\frac{1}{2}$ cents, yields $1\frac{3}{4}$ yard of Osnaburg, and as the net proceeds of 1 yard of Osnaburg, as stated before, was 9 cents, the net proceeds of $1\frac{3}{4}$ yard Osnaburg or 1 pound cotton was $15\frac{3}{4}$ cents, or $1\frac{3}{4}$ cents less than the cost of it. McMahan & Co. had received, besides other goods, 1,123,253 $\frac{1}{2}$ yards Osnaburgs, equivalent to 641,916 pounds cotton; these alone caused an actual loss of \$11,233.53 in specie.

Great sacrifices have been made by the shipment of goods to New York, which, considering the facility the telegraph offers to gain information in regard to the New York market, appears a very thoughtless undertaking, provided the agents had in view the interest of the consignor. Seven hundred and fifty bales of goods were consigned to New York;

75 bales of these, measuring 45,269 yards, brought....	$3,757.66
McMahan & Co.'s charges.....	430.00
	$3,327.66

Or	7 $\frac{1}{2}$ c. P yard.
And, after deducting the proper share of McMahan & Co.'s charges of \$26,085.18, moderately estimated at	1 $\frac{1}{2}$ c.

The net proceeds are6c. P yard.

And $1\frac{3}{4}$ yards representing 1 pound cotton, the net proceeds of the latter is $10\frac{1}{2}$ cents. The raw material, bought in Huntsville at an average price of $17\frac{1}{2}$ cents per pound, brought, therefore, after requiring the labor of convicts, (and their support, wear of machinery, &c., considered) converted into goods and shipped to New York, 7 cents per pound less than cost.

After charging the Penitentiary with $147 68 for extra labor during the overflow, the agents in Galveston sold 158 bales of goods, which, according to their statement, were damaged during that calamity, and amongst which was a considerable part woolen; they brought not even half the cotton value.

The books of the Financial Agent are kept without system and order. A comparison with the accounts current of McMahan & Co. has brought to light omissions to the amount of $14,034 43, some of which could possibly have escaped his knowledge, as they were charges per invoice. The accounts current above mentioned acknowledge, amongst others, the following receipts of moneys:

1867. February 8.	From Perkins, Swenson & Co.,	cash	$3,286 04
March 1.	“ A. Sessums & Co.,	“	2,008 59
	“ do	“	966 87
April 15.	Draft on A. J. Burke,	“	218 18

Of these payments no entries can be found, and it can scarcely be presumed that the paying firms should have neglected to give notice to the Financial Agent, or that McMahan & Co. kept these receipts secret. The latter statement will sufficiently show how little reliable the books are.

The Financial Agent ought to be a man of some mercantile knowledge. Such a one would not have entered in agreement which gives the agents unrestricted authority to dispose of goods as ever they think proper, reserving for himself no right to stop them when he sees that they get rid of them too fast and at too low a figure. It was, to say the least, an imprudent act, which has taken from the institution a great deal of money, and thereby the means to increase its efficiency. Agreements of such magnitude ought, in future, to be subject to the endorsement of the Comptroller. For a person of mercantile knowledge it is an easy matter to calculate the actual cost of goods and the charges to the place of consignment, which will enable him to instruct his agents under what minimum price not to sell; he will, when no profitable market can be found, rather stop manufacturing, than evidently throw away money.

For the purpose of protecting the Penitentiary against losses and further claims, a majority of your Committee suggests, finally, that the books may be further investigated, the accounts balanced, and thereby ascertained who has claims against the institution, and who is debtor to it. We think the conclusion of this investigation of books, which would take from four to six weeks more, so much the more necessary, as it has important bearing upon the duties of Financial Agent as well as Comptroller.

N. B. From January 14th until the present time the Penitentiary has not only not improved financially, but has drawn $12,500 from the State Treasury, and to-day it is wanting money again.

If the Penitentiary has greater assets, as stated above, or, as is presumed, has liabilities, such can only be ascertained by continued investigation of books.

JAMES P. BUTLER,

COMMITTEE ROOM.
Austin, August 21, 1868.

SIR: Your Committee on State Affairs have had under consideration a declaration presented by Mr. Kirk, in reference to the relinquishment by the State of the State tax of the county of Erath assessed in 1868, to be used in replacing the records of said county, recently destroyed by fire.

We find, upon investigation, that the office buildings of county clerk, district clerk and county surveyor, together with all of the records, were burnt in September, 1867.

This county being upon the frontier, has also suffered from the depredations of Indians to such an extent that the people, in many cases, have been reduced to absolute want, and are unable to bear the additional taxation necessary to supply the required records.

These facts considered, a majority of your committee have instructed me to report the declaration back to the Convention, and ask its passage.

H. C. HUNT,
Chairman.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention:

testimony of other living eye-witnesses, suggest their own comments. We would state, however, that Captain Hart was a highly respected and honored citizen of his section, and, before the war, had enjoyed the honor of serving his fellow-citizens in the legislative councils of our State; and that we deem it proper that the loyal people of Texas, whose true friend he was until his death, should pay a tribute of respect to his memory, and tender to his bereaved family and friends their sympathies.

Very respectfully,

SIR: The Committee on Contingent Expenses, to whom was referred a resolution in reference to the payment of a copying clerk, &c., have had the same under consideration, and beg leave to report that they find that J. F. Stokes has been engaged in copying the journals since 15th day of July, 1868, that his services were needed on account of the great pressure which the business of the Convention has put upon the secretaries: and that said J. F. Stokes has rendered efficient as well as necessary service; the committee have, therefore, unanimously instructed me to report the resolution back to the Convention, with the recommendation that it do pass.

Mr. Armstrong, from the special committee, to whom was referred the petition of John Jackson and others, reported as follows:

COMMITTEE ROOM,
Austin, August --, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention :

The undersigned, of your special committee of three, to whom was referred the petition of John Jackson and others, praying that a new county be created, including territory which now forms part of the counties of Polk, Walker, Montgomery and Liberty, with due respect, say they have examined the petition, and decline recommending the creation of such new county, for several reasons, among which are the following:

The petition does not show who of these signers live in Liberty county, or in which of said counties the signers respectively live.

It does not show that there are a sufficient number of voters in said territory as required in such organization.

Mr. Pedigo, one of this committee, fails to recognize any of these signers as citizens of Liberty county, which he has the honor to represent in this body. The undersigned do not feel free to recommend the transfer of the jurisdiction of any portion of said county without first giving the citizens of each and all of said counties full time and opportunity to present all objections which they may have.

And further say, that the creation of such new county will reduce these counties to a diminutive size, (Liberty county contains an area of 1,600 square miles, Polk 1,188, Walker 854, and Montgomery 852,) and may operate to the removal of the respective county seats of said counties; and furthermore, we believe that it will be better policy, and more likely to give satisfaction to the people by the postponement of further action in this respect till the next meeting of this body, affording thereby an opportunity to present their objections, understanding that there are objections to such new county, not yet fully presented.

And this committee respectfully ask to be discharged from the farther consideration of the same.

ARMSTRONG, of Jasper.
H. C. PEDIGO.

Mr. Boyd made the following minority report from the Committee on Penitentiary :

To the Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention :

As one of the committee appointed to visit the State Penitentiary, I respectfully present the following minority report. I cannot concur in the majority report, believing that the statements which, by implication, reflect upon the character of different agents, are unjust:

In a former report from the committee, a full statement as to the convicts, etc., has been presented, and that subject will not again be particularly noted. I dissent from the majority because,

FIRST, The report, after speaking of the salary of the present Superintendent, and proceeds arising from board of guard, reflects to some extent upon this officer. In my intercourse with Mr. Bell, and my examination of his books, I found him to be using all his energy to administer the institution economically and prudently, providing, as far as he could, with the limited means at his disposal, for the health and comfort of the convicts. I found nothing in his official acts, as well as private intercourse, derogatory to the character of a gentleman. The fact that the guard board with him, and his provisions are purchased by the wholesale, is no evidence of malfeasance. This was the custom long before he came into the office; and, from my observation, the guard should board where they do, and be subject to his control at all times, he being charged with the grave responsibility of safely keeping the convicts. If any of them are dissatisfied with their boarding house, as seems to be the case in the majority report, the service is not compulsory, and they can leave and find service elsewhere. Others can be employed. I do not think it prudent or advisable for the guard to be allowed to scatter around promiscuously, and probably be absent at some critical moment. What I have said of Mr. Bell can be justly applied to Colonel Sinks, the Financial Agent. From what I could learn from a limited acquaintance, and, laboring as he does under the pressure of limited finances, he deserves at least credit for his acts.

In the majority report another reflection is made in reference to the administration of the previous financial agent, Dr. Dickson, whose acts and accounts I have, with some care, inquired into. It is shown that, from September, 1866, to July, 1867, the average price paid for cotton was seventeen cents per pound, and the operation following that in September or October, 1866, cotton could be had at seven to nine cents. This may be so. I did not inquire; but it is not material. It has not been long since the store-room and cotton there were burned. There is no provision for insurance; and no law I know of authorizes the agents to go in debt and pay ten to twelve per cent. interest on the money necessary to pay for a year's supply of cotton in order to get it cheap. The agent had to take the cotton at the price it bore in the market, as he needed and could purchase; and the implication that the loss of the difference in fluctuation of the value of cotton is chargeable to him is unjust. I have examined his vouchers upon which his books are based, and find no grounds for complaint. Nor is the agent culpable because, at the advance of cotton, he purchased cotton and run the factory, when, as shown in the report of the majority, the depreciation in price of fabrics reduced sales to below the actual value of raw material, without reference to wear and tear of merchandise and full labor; and, though the institution be leased out, I do not see that these difficulties can be solved or obviated. I have, so far as I could do so, examined the vouchers, books and accounts of the previous agent, Dickson, and find no discrepancy or malfeasance; and, though his books may not be as perfect as the rules of counting houses require, I found them neat, balanced, and closed, making a fair and honest showing of his business. Each item in the books, so far as I could observe, was supported by proper vouchers; and the statement in the majority report that $14,034, of funds received, is not shown on his books, and he is thereby guilty of culpable neglect, is error.

The report is cautiously worded, refusing to directly say his books are evidence of malfeasance, but states just enough to leave that impression on the mind, and do injustice to a man whose honor is unimpeached. His reports up to July, 1867, were made out together with a full statement of the superintendent, showing the internal working of the institution, and finances, up to that date. The vouchers neatly filed, numbered and abstracted, accompanied the same, and was passed upon by the Comptroller, W. L. Robards, no error being found, and I found none since that period, and up to the time he left his office. His report was also made out in proper form, consisting of vouchers, abstracts, specie and merchandize, accounts and final account of merchandize and account current. This last report was presented to the directors appointed by Governor Pease, and they declined examining the same, though urged by the agent. The refusal caused delay, and so it remained, as under the law, before the financial agent's account can be admitted in the Comptroller's office, it must be examined and approved by the directory. This subsequent report and the books for that period I have looked into and find no error. The vouchers and reports are in the Comptroller's office, and any one can examine as to the correctness of my statements. The amount, $14,034, omitted, as stated in the majority report, is accounted for by proper vouchers. It is true Perkins, Swenson & Co., and the others, are not charged on the books of the agency, for, as I understand the books, Dickson never sent them any goods, and, as in case of the others, the funds came into their hands as agents of McMahon & Co., and is accounted for to Dickson in his report. And I do not see any sense in encumbering the books with duplicate accounts relating to the same matter, which is embraced and fully accounted for in Dickson's account with McMahon, and shown by return sales of McMahon & Co., which are introduced as vouchers to his report. I cannot see any secret suppression in the matter, and the imputation, unless better founded, I cannot endorse. I do not know what other members of the committee have done, but having the interests of the State on one side and the integrity of its officers on the other, have tried to get at the facts, and do justice to both. Nor do I concur in the idea that because offices which necessitate confidence in men and whenever there is a chance to steal from the public it is never passed, and that, therefore, all officials are rascals, and the judgment upon their character is by consent. I do not endorse this, though I know or believe that bad men do get into office as well as good men.

The want of harmony and system in the administration of the institution, and of proper order and rules in the accounts and vouchers, is the result of defective laws and the ever changing and vacillating policy of appointing new officials. By the time one agent begins to learn his duty, and from experience be able to provide for the demands upon him, he is ousted, and some new aspirant, who, perhaps, unable to make a living by honest labor, or to manage his own finances (if he ever had any) is put to school to learn at the expense of the State the duties of the position. I find this to be the history of that institution, and unless some wholesome change be made, and these difficulties obviated, the institution will always be bankrupted. To this cause do I attribute the confusion that has prevailed there. It is evident that the institution has within the last eighteen months sustained heavy losses in the sale of its manufactured fabrics, but to give any positive reason is not so easy, showing how and why it occurred, as several causes seem to be blended. The overflow of Galveston damaged one hundred and fifty-eight bales of goods, as shown in McMahon's account, but to what extent is not known, as the committee have taken no proof on the subject. I find no report of any Board of Survey assessing the loss by that. Another fact, all cotton fabrics in the fall of 1867 fell very much below their usual standard, and sales made at this period did not realize the cost of raw material by perhaps one or two per cent. It was error, perhaps, in the agent, not restricting the sale of the goods in the hands of his agents, McMahon & Co., but at the time he was prostrate with yellow fever, and when he could act had his own and the duties of superintendent to discharge. The new appointees by Governor Pease, in consequence of yellow fever, failed to come. The clerk ran away from the fever, the guard sickened and died, and the financial agent had to telegraph to Galveston for a guard that was fever proof, and finally, when stricken down by the disease himself, he employed General Besser's former financial agent to keep the books and attend to the duties of the office, refusing to close the office notwithstanding his own life was endangered, and knowing he had been removed, he still remained at his post and did his duty. But few men would have done this, and the statement of the facts is sufficient evidence of his integrity.

I attach a copy of the agreement with McMahon & Co., in regard to the sale of the goods. I am no commercial man, but think the latitude allowed them in the sale of the goods consigned to them rather unlimited, but from the papers, if any culpability exists, it must attach to them, unless they can show that at the time the goods were forced upon the market, and sacrificed by them at prices less than the cost of the raw material, (which they must have known) and that it was to meet an actual demand for money by the financial agent, which they did not have to advance, they ought to be accountable for the deficit.

The policy of the agent to consolidate the sales, was, I think, better than to scatter them over the country and bring different agents of the same goods in competition. In my examination of the charges of McMahon & Co., I do not think, in every instance, they correspond with his written undertaking, and should be inquired into. I am informed by parties that McMahon & Co. were to make regular returns to the agent, showing his accounts, but had it been done during the prevalence of the epidemic, the agent could not have attended to it then, being prostrate with fever. Another cause of heavy expenditure, with no corresponding income from the same source, was the surplus convicts, some 150 or 160, that, under Throckmorton's administration, were hired to work on the railroads, and the State Penitentiary thus relieved of that expense, were thrown back upon the institution to be clothed and supplied with medicines, and no employment for them: and here it will be well to observe, that in order to avoid the gradually increasing surplussage of idle hands that must be fed, clothed, etc., the institution must be enlarged or a new one erected.

It was my intention to present specie reports, showing quarterly receipts of expenditures and receipts during the administration of Dickson and the present incumbent; but it could not be done in the limited time allowed me, as I had no clerk. I could, therefore, only compare the books and vouchers and examine the report of the agent as heretofore stated.

It will take a good accountant at least one month to make out the papers for such a report. But to give an idea of the working capacity of the institution, I will state that in the year 1867 the factory produced 1,401,65 yards, viz: 1,203,430 yards osnaburgs, 53,810 yards cotton jeans, 86,180 yards of woolen kersey, 13,463 yards of woolen plaids, 3,024 yards of sheeps' gray. Besides this it produces a large quantity of thread of various kinds, manufactures some furniture, plows, shoes and hats. The expense per quarter is from $40,000 to $70,000, varying in proportion to the amount of supplies and material. The 1,401,065 yards, at an average value, would yield, at twenty cents, the annual sum of $280,213 00. But it must be remembered that a large amount of the fabrics are consumed annually in clothing, &c., but against this stands the receipts of other materials and manufactured articles. From this rough estimate it will be observed that if the institution could be disencumbered of old debts and the surplus hands, and a settled policy adopted, it should yield some revenue to the State. Under the present law the financial agent has to pay sheriffs and guards for transportation of convicts to the Penitentiary, and this is a heavy item of expense. As an instance, from Brownsville, on the Rio Grande, last year, was sent, at one time, forty-two convicts, from one term of the district court there. The expense and mileage of sheriffs and guards cost the Penitentiary $3,776 32 in gold, and the charge was reduced at that.

It seems to me that a change in the law in this respect is necessary, and require each county to meet these expenses and thus relieve the Penitentiary of the burden.

With proper regulations, and a stable financial policy, a revenue annually will be paid to the State by that institution.

Very respectfully submitted,

J. B. BOYD.

We concur in the above report with J. B. Boyd.

Mr. Goddin made the following report from the Special Committee respecting petition from citizens of Polk county for the creation of San Jacinto county :

COMMITTEE ROOM,

Austin, August —, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

The undersigned, appointed on a special committee, to whom was referred a declaration and petition of the people of Polk county, praying the creation of a new county out of a part of Polk, Walker, Montgomery and Liberty counties, as defined by petition of said citizens of said parts of counties, beg leave to report that the inhabitants of said territory are subjected to many and serious difficulties to the interest of the loyal people of said territory. Outside of heavy ferriage in crossing and re-crossing Trinity river, there are many other streams of a difficult crossing in high water, which are frequently dangerous and impossible to cross. They are, also, at such a remote distance from their respective county sites as to render it impossible to attend courts, or other proceedings at their county sites, without incurring such expense as in their impoverished condition they are not able to incur. The minority of your committee, therefore, beg leave to report and recommend that this prayer of said petitioners to establish the new county of "San Jacinto" be granted by the Convention.

M. H. GODDIN, for Minority.

Mr. Flanagan, from the Committee on Internal Improvements, reported as follows :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
Austin, Texas, August 24, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention :

Sir : Your committee have had before them a petition presented by the Hon. W. Bledsoe, of Dallas county, signed by many persons, asking the Convention to levy a tax of $5000, in specie, or to authorize the county court of Dallas to do so, and to tax the citizens of the town of Dallas sixty cents on the $100 and the people in the body of the county twenty cents on the $100, for the purpose of clearing out a portion of Trinity river.

Your committee are of opinion that they have no power in this State to regulate the currency of the United States, and that the specie claim goes beyond our power. They are of the further opinion, that they would not, under any circumstances, have the power to tax the citizens of the town of Dallas as petitioned for, sixty cents on the $100, and the citizens of the body of the county twenty cents on the $100. The premises considered, they instruct me to report back the declaration, leaving the whole matter with the county court and people of Dallas county, and that it do not pass this Convention.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. W. FLANAGAN,
Chairman of Committee on Internal Improvements.

Mr. Flanagan made the following additional report from the same committee :

COMMITTEE ROOM,
August 25, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention :

SIR : Your committee have had before them a declaration supplemental to a declaration in relation to railroads, dated August 10, 1868.

Upon the investigation of this subject the committee arrived at the conclusion that not only the railroad interest required the relief sought in this declaration, but that it is a conclusive fact that to the State it is also, certainly, a great enterprise such as this contemplated, is entitled to ground for a double track; and as the claim for land, so far as the eastern portion of the State is concerned, it is a matter of little importance, as there are no vacant lands in that range of country.

Your committee are further informed upon this subject, that in the west, in the range proposed for this road, that the domain is all, or a large portion, taken up in large Mexican grants: but they do not pretend to be well informed upon the subject. Many of the delegates, we presume, are.

The premises all considered, your committee, or a large majority of them, instruct me to report back the ordinance, and recommend the adoption of the same.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. W. FLANAGAN,
Chairman of Committee on Internal Improvements.

on vacant lands lying within the Memphis and El Paso railroad reserve, shall be entitled to and receive from the State of Texas eighty acres of land, including the place occupied, on payment of all expenses of survey and patent.

SEC. 2. Be it further declared, That all vacant lands lying within the Memphis and El Paso railroad reserve are hereby declared open and subject to sale to heads of families actually settled on, or who may actually settle in said reserve, at the price of one dollar per acre; and said vacant land within said reserve shall be open to preemption settlers, and subject to the location of all genuine land certificates.

SEC. 3. Be it further declared, That on the fourth day of February A. D. 1856, an act, entitled "An Act to incorporate the Memphis, El Paso and Pacific Railroad Company," was approved by the Governor; and on the twenty-fifth day of August, 1856, the nineteenth section of said act was amended and approved by the Governor; and by the said act and amendment aforesaid, a certain quantity of land per mile was granted to said Memphis, El Paso and Pacific Railroad Company, upon the express condition that the said company put in complete order twenty miles of said road; and a large quantity of certificates for lands have been issued by the Commissioner of the General Land Office to said company, and many patents have been issued thereon; and it is believed by this Convention that said patents and certificates have been issued in violation of the express provision of said act;

MURDER OF HON. MARTIN D. HART.

Mr. William H. Graham, Sergeant-at-arms of the Texas Constitutional Convention, being duly sworn, says:

Hon. Martin D. Hart, of Hunt county, Texas, Captain of Company A, First Texas Cavalry, U. S. A., together with Lieutenant Hayes and eight others of the same company, were captured by about three hundred and fifty rebel troops, under command of Lieut. Col. R. P. Crump. Captain Hart and his men surrendered as prisoners of war. Colonel Crump demanded the surrender of Captain Hart and his men, which was at first refused; upon which Colonel Crump said he did not want any blood shed, and that he had men enough to take us any way. (Witness was one of Captain Hart's company captured.) He further said, if we would surrender, we would be treated as prisoners of war, and addressing us said: "Not a hair of any of your heads shall be hurt." After talking among ourselves, and considering the conditions of surrender, we agreed to surrender, and did so. This was on Saturday, the 18th day of January, 1863. On Sunday, the day following, we were taken to Fort Smith, Arkansas. On Monday, a court-martial from Speight's Texas Brigade (as witness understood) was organized. Tuesday, Captain Hart and Lieutenant Hayes were tried before the court-martial, at ten o'clock, A. M., and sentenced to be hanged between one and two o'clock that evening, which sentence was executed at the appointed time. After the sentence of death was read to him, Captain Hart asked permission to see his fellow prisoners, which was refused; but Lieutenant Hayes was permitted to talk with the other prisoners about five minutes. On being conducted to our cell, Lieutenant Hayes said that Captain Hart had been refused permission to talk to us, but he had been permitted to come in and say a few words. He told us that he and Captain Hart were to be hanged between one and two o'clock of that day; that it was a very hard sentence, but he would meet it fearlessly; that they expected the balance of us would be hanged before long, and if so, to meet it fearlessly and show no signs of weakness. At the stated time, Captain Hart and Lieutenant Hayes were executed. Witness saw a crowd gathering to execute the sentence.

Witness further states: That within ten or fifteen minutes after giving up our arms, one Major Burns, of Crump's command, came in the room where we were, with a revolver in his hand, and demanded each prisoner's pocket-book and money, which were given to him. Burns took all the money each prisoner had, placed it in the best pocket-book he could find, put it in his pocket, and said the money would be refunded at the proper time, but was never refunded.

Witness further states: That after Captain Hart and Lieutenant Hayes were hanged, we were marched out, handcuffed with heavy handcuffs, made in a blacksmith shop; afterwards taken to Dardanelle, Arkansas, and chained together, two by two, by the ankles; thence taken to Little Rock, marched through the streets in derision; lodged in the guard-house for four days; thence taken to the county jail, and placed inside the iron cells. Here we were confined for two months in very cold weather, with no fire and one-fourth rations. We were then marched out to General Holmes' headquarters, and the Adjutant General of General Holmes' staff told us we could take our choice, to volunteer in the Confederate States army, or return to jail, to await a trial before Confederate officers for treason against the Confederate States. We joined the army to save our lives, and in five weeks I escaped to the Federal army, and in time my comrades escaped.

This statement can be fully confirmed by E. H. Vance, Esq., of Little Rock, Arkansas, who was a prisoner with us, and by four or five other citizens of Arkansas, who also were prisoners with me.

WILLIAM H. GRAHAM.

AFTERNOON SESSION—FOUR O'CLOCK.

Convention met pursuant to adjournment.

Roll called. Quorum present.

Mr. Schuetze. from the special committee appointed to visit the asylums of the State, made the following report :

COMMITTEE ROOM,

Austin, Texas, August 27, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,

President of the Convention :

SIR: The special committee appointed to visit the deaf mute and the blind asylums, and to inquire into the propriety of admitting into both, or either of those institutions, such number of indigent orphan children as might be received therein for support and education, respectfully report that they have performed that duty. That after a thorough conference with the superintendents of both of these asylums, and after a careful examination of the premises, your committee are of opinion that the buildings now occupied by the scholars and teachers of these institutions are barely sufficient to accommodate them, and that the additions which would be required for the reception of orphan children would ultimately cost as much as a suitable building for that express purpose. While we deem it proper to express our gratification at the excellent manner in which these institutions are conducted, we regard it our duty here to express our deep regret that the indigent orphan children of the State are deprived of the fostering care of the community due to the fatherless and motherless. While we regard it the duty of the State to provide for the unfortunate children who are blind or deaf and dumb, but who may still enjoy the embrace of loving and sympathizing parents, we consider it also the sacred duty of the government to adopt the fatherless and motherless, who, although they may enjoy the faculty of speech or sight, are deprived of the blessings and tender caresses of a father or mother, and we deem it proper to say that in cases where the parent was murdered by lawless bands on account of devotion to his country, it is the least the State can do to support and educate the orphan child who has been robbed of the father, in whose untimely death the State shares a considerable amount of responsibility, through the want of will or power to protect the citizen in doing what his conscience and the laws of his country bid him to do.

We, therefore, in consideration of the sufferings of the large numbers of indigent orphans in the State of Texas, ask the passage of the declaration hereunto annexed.

Very respectfully,

JULIUS SCHUETZE.

Chairman.

Be it declared by the people of Texas in Convention assembled, That it shall be the duty of the Legislature to provide for an orphan asylum for the reception of indigent and orphan children, under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by law.

Mr. Hunt offered the following declaration :

SEC. 2. Be it further declared, That the charter of the Columbus, San Antonio and Rio Grande Railroad Company be so amended as to grant the privilege to said railroad company to commence the building of said railroad at the town of Gonzales, or some practicable point on the contemplated line of the Indianola and Austin Railroad, running west, instead of at Columbus, its present point of beginning.

*That a payment to a "rebel receiver" operated an extinguishment of the debt that the "so-called Confederate States of America and the pretended States thereof" were de facto governments, that promissory notes given for Confederate paper, and obligations to pay money for slaves, made after President Lincoln's proclamation of emancipation stated that it took effect, were null and void from the beginning, and shall so remain: provided, nevertheless, that this declaration shall not be construed to validate or invalidate by emancipation any of the acts of the other decisions.*

So the declaration was rejected.

Mr. Schuetze offered the following declaration, and asked its reference to the Committee on Finance :

WHEREAS, The county of Bastrop is indebted to the amount exceeding five thousand dollars, which debt was chiefly incurred by the safe keeping and boarding of prisoners delivered to the county jail of Bastrop county, from other counties of the State : and

WHEREAS, The resources of Bastrop county are not sufficient to discharge said debt, besides defraying the current expenses of said county ; therefore

Be it declared by the people of Texas in Convention assembled. That the State taxes assessed for the year 1863 by the assessor and collector of Bastrop county be and are hereby set aside for the purpose of paying the drafts legally issued by the county court of Bastrop county, since the first day of August, 1865.

WHEREAS, The ability of said company to build said main trunk and branch roads would be greatly increased by the consent of the State to exchange the six per cent. bonds of said companies now held by the State for the seven per cent. gold bearing bonds of said Houston and Texas Central Railway Company, issued by virtue of a deed of trust executed by said company on the first day of July, A. D. 1868, in which deed of trust Shepherd Knapp and David S. Dodge, of the city of New York, are named (and have accepted) as trustees; and

D. 1868: provided, that the said Houston and Texas Central Railway Company shall never issue an amount of the said seven per cent. bonds above described to exceed twenty thousand dollars to the mile of completed road, including such bonds as have been already issued; nor shall said company ever issue any other bond that shall rank as a first mortgage bond on their road, without first paying the whole amount of the indebtedness of the company to the State.

Pending the announcement of the vote, Mr. Munroe, from the Committee on Engrossed Bills, reported provisions Nos. 60 and 61 correctly engrossed.

Mr. Armstrong of Lamar, from the Committee on Public Debt, reported as follows:

COMMITTEE ROOM,
Austin, August 31, 1868.

Hon. E. J. DAVIS,
President of the Convention:

I am instructed, by a majority of the Public Debt Committee, to whom was referred a declaration by the Hon. Mr. Stockbridge, asking the Convention to authorize the Comptroller to audit and pay to M. K. Rion the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars, with interest for twelve months, to report that the debt claimed by M. K. Rion, amounting to the sum of two thousand five hundred dollars, is not yet due; but that there is interest upon said bonds which should be paid; therefore the committee herewith report a substitute for the original, and recommend its adoption.

ARMSTRONG, of Lamar,
Chairman.

DECLARATION.

Be it declared by the people in Convention assembled:

That the Comptroller is hereby directed to pay to M. K. Rion such interest as may be due him on twenty-five bonds issued by the State, in part payment of debts contracted by General Sam Houston for the protection of the frontier.

Mr. Buffington, by consent, offered the following

DECLARATION.

Be it declared by the people of Texas in Convention assembled:

That the Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado Railroad is indebted to the State of Texas in the sum of $597,819.25, principal and interest, due to March 1, 1858.

It is, therefore, ordained, That the Governor of the State be, and he is hereby, directed to sell, at public auction, the said Buffalo Bayou, Brazos and Colorado Railroad, upon the same terms and conditions as have been prescribed in a declaration passed by this Convention, authorizing the sale of the New Orleans and Texas Railroad and the Southern Pacific Railroad: provided, that the railroad herein authorized and required to be sold, shall not be sold unless it shall bring the full price of principal and interest due up to the day of sale, in gold.

The President then announced the vote upon the question of adjournment.

So the Convention adjourned until the first Monday in December.

END OF FIRST SESSION.

APPENDIX.

REPORT OF THE
ATTORNEY-GENERAL OF TEXAS
FOR 1867.

TRANSMITTED TO THE CONVENTION BY GOVERNOR
E. M. PEASE, JUNE 19, 1868, AND ORDERED PRINTED.

[SEE PAGE 129.]

ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S OFFICE, }
Austin, Texas, November 2, 1867. }

On retiring from office it is incumbent upon me to give in the form of a report an official statement of the business that came within my charge, and to accompany it with such suggestions in regard to the administration of the law as the public welfare appears to demand.

No reports have been made to me in regard to the suits directed to be instituted in behalf of the State during the time I filled this office under Provisional Governor Hamilton, and so short a time has elapsed since my appointment under the present administration, that nothing has transpired touching those suits and the other pending suits in which the State is concerned, worthy of mention.

The opinions delivered to the heads of departments are on file with the officers at whose instance they were prepared. They are not recorded in this office, because the opinion book in which they should be inserted, was not delivered to me by my predecessor, who retained it in order to have his official opinions and correspondence neatly recorded, until too late a period to admit of their insertion.

Shortly after entering upon the discharge of the duties of my office, I addressed communications to the Commissioner of the General Land Office requesting him to furnish certain statements, which he did as soon as the investigations requisite to their completion could be made. These statements are appended with the suggestion that they demand further attention.

The first of them shows the amount of land scrip, (viz: 145,600 acres,) issued from the General Land Office, and to whom, during the earlier period of the not yet ended rebellion and war, and paid for with what is called "Confederate money." That the scrip so issued is null and void, and should be so declared, there can be no doubt. Its recognition as valid would be a wrong to every owner of a good title to land in Texas, with whose land it might come into competition; and besides, would be justly offensive to the national Government.

The second of these statements consist of an elaborately full showing of the financial condition of the General Land Office while administered by Capt. Stephen Crosby, as Commissioner. It appears that the books of that officer make it manifest that a deficit of money due the State and individual depositors, existed when Capt. Crosby was removed, amounting in the aggregate to $17,839 34, in coin.

For so much of this sum as is due the State, viz: $14,073 24, he and his sureties may, and should be held responsible.

It is further evident from this statement that the interest of the public would be better served were it provided by law, that hereafter no money should be paid directly into the General Land Office, and that all fees and dues chargeable by that office should be deposited on warrant of the Comptroller, based on a statement of the Commissioner in the Treasury.

It may not be amiss in this connection to call attention to the duties and labors imposed by law upon the office which I am about to leave, and hence, of which I can speak with impartiality. They are amply sufficient to occupy the whole time of four active and industrious members of the legal profession, not diverted from their work by any private business. To do justice to the defence of mandamus suits, to claims and suits in favor of the State, to estates without heirs, to the preparation of State cases brought up by appeal, to corporations,—besides the preparation of opinions, of correspondence, and a personal attendance upon the Supreme Court at three points, requires more time and thought than any one person can give, even though he should permit nothing else to interfere. In this opinion my predecessor fully concurs. The Attorney General should be allowed competent assistants, and no law officer of the State, while such, should be permitted to continue to act, or to accept employment in any matter of private litigation.

The inefficiency and delay in the administration of the law, both civil and criminal, merits special attention. The delay in civil suits is often so great as to amount to a denial of justice. In that class of suits too many oaths and too many suretyships are provided for. "The first affidavit for a continuance" offers a premium for an immunity to false swearing, and should in any event be abolished. There should be a mode provided whereby a citizen may have his property judicially bound, so that he may not be compelled to entangle his friends and neighbors by suretyships.

To guard against stay and appraisement laws, a provision should be inserted in our Constitution similar to that existing in the Constitution of New Jersey, prohibiting the Legislature from passing any law "depriving a party of any remedy for enforcing a contract which existed when the contract was made." (Vide Sedgwick on Statute and Constitutional Law, 696.)

The civil law of Texas needs to be reformed and to have its defects supplied in the following additional matters:

An original should constitute the record of every instrument required by law to be recorded.

There should be a registration of births and deaths, as well as of marriages.

Tax sales of land should be abolished, and the payment of taxes with interest, in case of a failure to pay, enforced by the prohibition of the registration of any instrument affecting the title, save on the proof of the payment of the taxes, with interest.

Juries should not be required, where liquidated demands, the execution of which is not denied, are sued upon.

Interest should not exclude any person from being a witness in a civil cause.

Only a single execution, properly directed and to be supplied in case of loss, should be issued upon a judgment.

Terms of courts should be abolished, and all our tribunals should be like admiralty courts, always open for business save on Sundays and holidays.

These suggestions may be regarded as Utopian and impracticable, but on slight investigation it can be ascertained that every one of them (excepting, perhaps, that in regard to taxes,) is now the law in almost every civilized country in the world.

In a word, our civil statutes need to be reformed so as to give prompt justice to the people, and with a constant view of the principle that one who is wronged should be reinstated, as near as may be, in the condition in which he was immediately before he was wronged, and at the cost of the wrong-doer.

The condition of the administration of criminal and penal law in Texas is truly deplorable. As a physician, before determining what remedies should be applied, must ascertain the nature and extent of the disease, so a government, before legislating further against crime, should obtain full and accurate criminal statistics. The reports of district attorneys and clerks (so far as such have been made), received at this office, are meagre and unsatisfactory. At best, they only show what indictments have been found, and what disposition has been made of them. No provision exists for obtaining statistics of the vast mass of crime for which, from various causes, indictments are not found. The records of appealed cases, in some instances, as in the case of Spence, a freedman from Bell county, show that torture was resorted to; but in other cases, as in that of Charles Thompson, a freedman from Williamson county, whose feet were burned until the skin burst open, they are silent on that fact. No one has thus far been indicted for inflicting torture. Officers of the law admit verbally that, in general, a freedman who is guilty of crime can be convicted and punished, but that it is next to impossible to convict and punish a white man; and, indeed, acknowledge that a white man can not be convicted and punished for a homicide, especially if it be of a freedman.

I learn from all sources that human life has never been less protected by law in Texas than at the present time.

A military officer of high character has informed me that since the surrender of General E. Kirby Smith, and until the first of July last, one hundred and forty murders, chiefly of freedmen, had been committed in a county in which he was on duty. Another stated to me, that, while a member of the staff of the late Brevet Major General Griffin, he was for a time in a county in a different region in which twenty homicides were committed in the course of one month. The counties referred to certainly show an average of crimes of violence above that of the remaining one hundred and twenty-six organized counties of the State; but taking three homicides per county as the average number per year, as was stated by the late Judge Buckley in his charge to the grand juries of his district, and it follows that not less than three hundred and eighty-four murders per year are committed, or rather were committed before the rebellion and war, which has certainly not improved the morals of the people. I am satisfied that this estimate falls far short of the truth, as may be ascertained by a reference to official statements, imperfect as they are, on file.

These appalling facts cannot be ignored or suppressed. The whole truth should be ascertained and stated, and an efficient protection to life afforded by law.

If sheriffs will aid in packing juries, and if juries will not convict for crimes against life, at least a remedy should be afforded so far as practicable by civil suit. The provision of the common law which holds the right of civil suit to be merged in the felony, should be repealed, and a right of civil action for exemplary damages given, independently of a prosecution and conviction, or a failure to prosecute and convict for crime. The statute of February 2, 1860, (vide Paschal's Digest, page 98,) is insufficient. A statute better planned and of greater scope is needed.

The too great size of the geographical State of Texas is, perhaps, one of the greatest obstacles that exist to the enforcement of law and the maintenance of order. To attempt to govern economically and well a State which contains over five times more square miles than the great State of New York,* and which has scarce any facilities for intercommunication, is to attempt an impossibility. A letter can go by mail from Austin to any capital city of Europe, and a reply to it can be received, with more promptitude and certainty than one can be sent to and answered from very many of the counties of Texas. A division of Texas into five States, as is contemplated by the joint resolution of annexation, would be a finality, and would greatly conduce to effect the leading objects of a government founded on equality before the law; protection, education and internal improvements.

Appended hereto as a part of this report, will be found a report which was some time since submitted to the officer in command of the District of Texas, on the pretended "public and general laws" of Texas, of 1866. It sets forth briefly in the first instance the "laws" leveled against the freedmen; and in the second instance such as are directly or indirectly hostile to the United States government and to the loyal citizens thereof. It does not embrace the "special laws" of that year, which, with a few and unimportant exceptions, amount in the aggregate to an ingenious system of rewards to persons who were active as politicians, editors, officers military or civil, blockade runners, contractors, etc., etc., in behalf of the rebellion.

In leaving office, I file herewith a printed opinion touching the pretended legislation of the rebellion, and likewise a printed copy of my letter of resignation. [See documents A. and B.]

I again solemnly protest against the attempt that is made to put

*According to the Compendium of the United States Census of 1860, New York has 46,000 square miles, and Texas 237,321 square miles. The report of the Commissioner of the General Land Office of Texas for 1859, sets forth that Texas contains 274,356 square miles. Mr. Pressler, the present Chief Draughtsman of the General Land Office, estimates that Texas contains 265,578 square miles.

upon the people of Texas, who did not make and who never have sanctioned them, the pretended "laws" of the rebellion.

The registered voters are the "people."

The leading propositions bearing upon the claims of the pretended legislation of the rebellion, the so-called "laws" of 1866, inclusive, are briefly as follows :

The Congress of the United States cannot go beyond the power of attorney under which (and which alone) it acts—the Constitution of the United States.

The legislation of the rebellion was made within the limits of the United States, and not only without, but against, the authority of the national constitution, the continuously supreme law of the land. Such being the case Congress could not, without exceeding its warrant of attorney, recognize or confirm it, and Major General Sheridan could not derive from Congress any power with which that body could not be clothed by the constitution. Besides, neither Congress nor Major General Sheridan is justly chargeable with having attempted to inflict upon Texas so unprovoked and so great a wrong. Under the Constitution of the United States a rebel "law" cannot be legalized. A rebel official act, where found to be indifferent in its character, may from considerations of public convenience be validated, but even that should not be done save with an express proviso to the effect that neither the United States government nor any loyal citizen thereof should in any manner or to any extent be prejudiced thereby.

Considerations of policy do not warrant a sworn officer of the law to abandon propositions and conclusions established by reason and sanctioned by authority; hence I adhere to the positions I have taken. A correspondence with able jurists in other States who had previously arrived at the same views, has confirmed me in the conviction that they are correct and true, and that like all truths they will stand the test of time.

WILLIAM ALEXANDER,
Attorney General.

PRETENDED LAWS OF 1866 AGAINST THE FREEDMEN.

The foundation of what are termed the Laws of Texas of 1866 is the rejected Constitution of 1866. If it is null and void, because incompatible with and hostile to the supreme law of the land, the Constitution and laws of the United States, all that has been built up upon it must be null and void also. By referring to art. 3, secs. 1, 5 and 10; to art. 4, sec. 16; to art. 8; to art. 10, sec. 2; and to ordinance No. 11; the incompatibility of the rejected constitution of 1866 and its hostility to the Constitution of the United States may be clearly perceived.

The main object kept in view by those who made that instrument, and of those who devised the pretended laws based upon it was the restoration of African slavery, in the modified form of peonage. This object is very distinctly fore-shadowed by the peculiar phraseology of art. 8, which sets out by declaring that "African slavery, as it heretofore existed," (only,) is regarded as having been abolished, not by the people of Texas, but "by the government of the United States, by force of arms." That such was the intent and purpose alike of the unauthorized Convention and Legislature of 1866 will be more fully apparent on reference to the following of the pretended laws and joint resolutions of 1866, made to carry that constitution into effect:

Ch. 80, p. 76—the so-called labor law.—It provides expressly for a system of peonage, though without using that term, in many respects similar to the peon system abolished by the Liberals of Mexico a few years since, which Maximilian was unable to restore. It is directly opposed to the Thirteenth Amendment of the Constitution of the United States, and of the Civil Rights Act.

Ch. 82, p. 80—Against persuading, enticing and tampering with laborers. This is in furtherance of the above, and is subject to the same objections.

Ch. 73, p. 70—Defines "persons of color." The sole object of this law was to defeat equality before the law—justice: to discriminate on account of race. This is subject to the same objections.

Ch. 59, p. 59—Restricts the right of persons of color to testify in certain cases. Subject to the same objections.

Ch. 123, p. 131—Defines the rights of persons of color. Subject to the same objections. It is restrictive, giving them no more rights than free persons of color had during the existence of African slavery. It takes special care not to declare them to be "citizens."

Ch. 135, p. 160—Exempting from sale under execution a certain amount of the property of every "citizen." A very ingenious thrust at the freedmen. Subject to the same objections.

Ch. 92, p. 90—Makes the carrying of fire-arms on enclosed land, without consent of the land-owner, an offence. It was meant to operate against freedmen alone, and hence is subject to the same objections.

Ch. 146, p. 170—As to public schools for whites (only.) Subject to the same objections.

Ch. 154, p. 195—Providing for indigent white children (only.) Subject to the same objections.

Ch. 164, p. 203—Donates land to white settlers (only.) Subject to the same objections.

Ch. 180, p. 225—Jury law, for whites only. Subject to the same objections. This pretended law has been obviated by the jury order of Brevet Major General Griffin.

Ch. 53, p. 43—Organizes a new county court system. This onerous act was devised chiefly in order that rebels might be able to get at the freedmen without waiting for the semi-annual terms of the district courts. It is subject to the same objections.

Ch. 63, p. 61—The apprentice law. It provides for "moderate corporeal chastisement." This act seems to have been framed in ignorance of sec. 990 of Oldham & White's Digest, which it should either have amended or repealed. It is subject to the same objections.

Ch. 102, p. 97—Provides for special cars on railroads for freedmen. Subject to the same objections, and hence obviated by an order of Brevet Major General Griffin.

Ch. 111, p. 102—The vagrant act. The latter part of sec. 1 of this act is insidiously leveled against the freedmen, who are not even mentioned as such in it. Subject to the same objections that lie to the whole of the system of which it forms a part.

Ch. 120, p. 119—Provides for employment of convicts for petty offences. Intended for the freedmen, and subject to the same objections.

Ch. 125, p. 126—The "stay law," delaying the collection of debts. It prevents freedmen dependent upon their immediate earnings from collecting their wages. Subject to the same objections that lie to the whole system.

Ch. 64, p. 64—Gives a lien on crop. An ingenious device, whereby a man who rents land and hires laborers to cultivate it may be enabled to avoid paying the laborers. Subject to the same objections. Believed to have been obviated by an order of General Kiddoo.

Ch. 132, p. 134—For the assessment and collection of taxes.

Said to be substantially the "Confederate Act" re-enacted. It is cumbrous in its machinery, complicated and unjust. Under it more than double the tax due is frequently collected from freedmen who cannot read the notices, and against whom mileage is charged and received in consequence. By military circular No. 15, current taxes are made payable under the act, the circular being the law.

Ch. 153, p. 192—For employing convict labor on railroads. A very ingenious feature of the peon system. It does not mention the freedmen, but was devised with an especial reference to them. Subject to the same objections.

Ch. 178, p. 221—To amend the rebel Sunday law of December 16, 1863. Said to be modeled on one of the blue laws of Connecticut, only it ingeniously provides that laborers not hired specially to work seven days in the week may, on sugar plantations, &c., be made to work on Sundays in certain cases. Subject to the same objections that lie to the rest of the system.

Ch. 186, p. 236—Militia law. It makes the militia to consist of "able-bodied free white male" inhabitants. Subject to the same objections.

Joint Resolution No. 4, p. 260—For the removal of the United States troops. Their presence being the chief protection afforded the freedmen, the attempt to remove them is a part of the system stated, and is subject to the same objections.

Joint Resolution No. 13, p. 166—The refusal to ratify the fourteenth proposed amendment to the Constitution of the United States. As the first section of this amendment guarantees freedmen their civil rights as citizens of the United States and of the States in which they reside, the rejection of the amendment is not only subject to the same objections, but is subject to the further objection of being a rejection of a condition precedent since imposed by the military reconstruction act. By that act, an acceptance of the Fourteenth Amendment is made indispensable.

Query—Is not Ch. 177, p. 221, (the dog tax law,) aimed at the freedmen also?

It is to be observed that all of the foregoing general acts and joint resolutions. (twenty-four in number,) were approved by Ex-Governor Throckmorton, who also signed the constitution and ordinances of 1866, on which they are based. He was probably removed from office on account of his sustaining and executing the same, together with some forty odd other pretended general laws, and a larger number of pretended special laws, hostile in their character to the United States Government and its loyal citizens, white and colored.

PRETENDED LAWS,

Based upon the Rejected Constitution of 1866, which are incompatible with the Constitution of the United States, and are either directly or indirectly hostile to the United States Government, and to the loyal citizens thereof; in addition to the twenty-four pretended General Laws leveled at the Freedmen.

Ch. 6 and 65, and Joint Resolutions No. 22, pp. 6, 64 and 272—Making appropriations for 11th Legislature.

Insidious attempts to legalize the two preceding rebel "Legislatures." If the bodies that claimed to be the 9th and 10th were not legislatures because they were made up wholly of "public enemies," and were carried on during the existence of active hostilities against the United States Government, the pretended Legislature of 1866 could not by any possibility be "the 11th Legislature."

Ch. 10, p. 7—Lays off Texas into Congressional Districts. This "Act" "gerrymanders" the (geographical) State with a special reference to the vote for Governor Pease at the last general election, so as to make it impossible to elect a loyal member.

Ch. 12, p. 10—Provides for a rebel military organization under pretext of defence of the frontier. Not permitted to be executed by Brevet Major General Griffin.

Ch. 30, p. 33—Provides for a special term of the District Court for Davis county, which is the rebel name for Cass county.

The name of Cass county was changed during active hostilities expressly to dishonor Gen. Cass on account of his loyalty, and to honor Jefferson Davis on account of his disloyalty. This pretended law was enacted to validate the change.

Ch. 31, p. 23—Supplementary to ch. 10, p. 7.

Ch. 33, p. 24—Makes appropriation under ch. 12, p. 10.

Ch. 34, p. 25—Relieves Assessors and Collectors where tax has been collected "in treasury warrants, or other liabilities of the late Confederate States."

An attempt at a recognition of the so-called "Confederate States," and at the same time to legalize the official collection of rebel paper just as though that was not a crime.

Ch. 35, p. 26—Creates Judicial Districts. Under the pretext of doing this, this pretended act was artfully framed to throw out of office two of the three loyal Judges elected. On being apprised of the fact Brevet Major General Griffin promptly restored them to office.

Ch. 36, p. 28—Supplementary to the preceding.

Ch. 41, p. 32—An apparently public act devised to determine a pending suit.

Such legislation is as reprehensible in morals as unwarrantable in law.

Ch. 48, p. 40—Creates the unnecessary office of State Librarian to provide for the charge of a damaged and broken lot of books which originally cost $5000, and which would not now bring at public auction $1000, the salary of the Librarian for one year.

This "act" is a job to pension the editor of a rebel newspaper because he had been private secretary to Jefferson Davis, and Secretary of State under the rebel Governor of Arizona, and who, when appointed by, and acting under Governor Throckmorton, had not yet taken the amnesty oath.

Governor Pease promptly removed the ineligible incumbent and left the office vacant, declaring that it should so remain.

Ch. 51, p. 42—Appropriates $5000 to pay for a then unpublished law treatise, which, as the Constitution of 1866, is rejected, is no authority as to a very material portion of its contents.

Another job.

Ch. 69, p. 67—Confirms grant of lands to a rebel railroad.

Ch. 79, p. 74—Provides for sale of school lands.

Owing to the rebellion they will not bring their value, so the cause of education is made subservient to the interest of land speculators.

A blow at public schools.

Ch. 85, p. 83—Creates the county of Hood "in honor of Gen. J. B. Hood, of the late Confederate army." (See notice of ch. 30, p. 33.)

Comment upon this is unnecessary.

Ch. 86, p. 84—Amends general railroad law.

As most, if not all, of the railroads of Texas were used with the consent of their officers to aid and abet the rebellion, the United States government may yet enforce the Confiscation Act of August 6, 1861, against them. At all events, the State when re-organized and re-admitted may see how far they have complied with existing laws, and may enforce its lien.

Ch. p. 79. Authorizes guardians and administrators to compound.

Query. Is this done to obviate sales made for "C. S." paper, and instalments made in "C. S." bonds; or, is it a sly mode of sanctioning them? Perhaps widows, orphans, and loyal creditors, would be decidedly better off if such an "Act" had never been passed.

Ch. 91, p. 90. Enables those who, by rebelling, caused certain counties to become disorganized, to take advantage of their own wrong. Most probably, like ch. 41, page 32, this act is a general law prepared with reference to a special case.

Ch. 93, p. 91. To levy taxes.

It makes specie the basis of valuation instead of legal tender notes; is opposed to the U. S. Legal Tender Act.

Ch. 95, p. 93. For the sale of University Lands.

It does this when, in consequence of the rebellion, and of the want of confidence, caused by the disloyal Convention and Legislature of 1866, the lands would not bring near their value. Another attempt of rebel politicians to take advantage of their own wrong. A job combined with a speculation at the expense of the cause of public education.

Gov. Pease put a stop to this scheme.

Ch. 98, p. 95. A cool appropriation of $25,355 33 of the School Fund—which, under our accepted and unrepealed State Constitution of 1845-6, ought to be inviolate—to the State Revenue account.

Everything opposed to our accepted State Constitution (as modified by the amendments to the United States Constitution and the laws passed thereunder) is hostile to the United States Constitution. The pretended legislation of 1866 shows a spirit of hostility to public education for the whites almost as bitter and determined as that manifested towards the public education of the freedmen.

Ch. 113, p. 105. Provides for the public printing.

This "act" carries into effect an ingenious scheme to subsidize a rebel press by covertly paying the highest, not the lowest, price for public printing. (See remarks in ch. 48, p. 40.) Section twelve is contrary to the United States statute touching legal tender, and is remarkable alike for the ideas it aims to embody and the grammar in which they are expressed.

On inquiry at the Comptroller's office, it can be ascertained how much in coin, or in currency at coin rates, has been paid for public printing, as well as what sort of printing it has been.

Ch. 117, p. 111—Appropriation Act for Expenses of 1866.

Functus officio, but bad. (See remarks on Ch. 175, p. 213, post.)

Ch. 118, p. 117—Provides for the issue of bonds for Frontier Defence.

An attempt to do this by a disorganized (geographical) State under a rejected constitution—a Provisional Government while the state or condition of war yet continues—is contrary to the Constitution of the United States.

Ch. 119, p. 118—An attempt to legalize judgments rendered by "public enemies," not unfrequently against loyal citizens, before the state or condition of war is declared by Congress to be at an end, and at the same time to repeal a law in regard to judgments, enacted by competent parties under an accepted constitution.

Ch. 121, p. 120—Supplementary to Sequestration Act of March 15, 1848, &c.

Subject to the objections urged against the foregoing.

Ch. 122, p. 122—To establish an Industrial Board.

Not permissible. (See remarks on Ch. 118, p. 117, and Ch. 119, p. 118.) Besides, it is a job to give salaries to "ex-Confederate States" officers.

Ch. 123, p. 125—Sets apart one acre for a United States Military Cemetery.

An inexcusable and ill-timed display of animosity toward the dead of those whose patriotism, courage and endurance maintained our national cause by victories in the field. In the convention of 1866, United States soldiers were said to be, when living, "the scum of the earth," and their remains, after they were dead, were spoken of as "vile dust," which might, by a too close proximity, contaminate the remains of the rebel dead. Hence, this acre was set apart for them by the Legislature. It is to be noted, that the men who used the brutal epithets cited are described by the Supreme Court of the United States as being "none the less enemies, because they are traitors." (2 Black's Repts., p. 674.)

Ch. 124, p. 125—Amends District Court Act of March 16, 1868. Provides that unknown heirs may be represented by Attorney.

An arrangement far more advantageous to disloyal attorneys than to loyal unknown heirs.

Probably, like Ch. 41, p. 32, an apparently public and general act, artfully devised to dispose of a particular pending suit.

Ch. 138, p. 160—Provides for a bonded Receiving Clerk in the General Land Office.

An adroit device for apparently "locking the stable after the horse has been stolen," after the coin in the General Land Office had been exchanged for "Confederate paper," and nobody held responsible for it. A job.

Ch. 140, p. 163—Provides for enclosing the State Cemetery.

A shabby display of disloyalty, for it appropriates only fifteen hundred dollars for a rough wooden fence, instead of providing sufficient for a permanent wall. This was done by a legislature which, by joint resolution, number five, page 261, appropriated two thousand dollars to exhume and reinter the body of an ex-United States officer, who was not born in Texas—whose domicile, when he was killed, was in the free State of California, where his widow and children yet live—who never fought but one battle for the “Confederacy, was defeated and fell in that, and whose christian and surname our legislators did not know, for they spelled it wrong three times consecutively in the caption and body of their joint resolution! Truly, they must have been hard run to find a subject for a rebel pageant. Ex-Governor Throckmorton’s reflections on Generals Sheridan and Griffin, in his funeral discourse, are in print and need no comment.

Ch. 141, p. 165—Increases salaries above the difference between coin and currency.

The spirit of this enactment is apparent.

Ch. 145, p. 169—Establishes a six months’ limitation to suits against “Confederate States” receivers and other rebel officers.

All mention of this act is omitted in the index. It is thoroughly rebel in spirit, and is evidently intended to practically repeal the act of the United States Congress of July 11, 1864, suspending the running of statutes of limitations in the rebel territory.

Ch. 148, p. 185—University of Texas established.

This is attempted in a disorganized State that has not established so much as one free public school. Contrary to the Civil Rights Act, and, besides, a job.

Ch. 150, p. 188—For the collection of State arms.

Well enough, if the so-called “Confederacy” had conquered the United States.

Ch. 151, p. 189—For publication of the reports of the rebel Supreme Court.

This act has two objects—to legalize by implication the decisions of the rebel Supreme Court, and to cause United States currency to be paid for the publication of the same at an arbitrarily fixed discount. Besides, it creates another job. As to the character and decisions of the rebel Supreme Court, see ex parte Louisa Merry, 26 Texas reports, pp. 23-4, and Ib. pp. 404-5.

Ch. 152, p. 191—Supplementary to ch. 95, p. 93—For sale of University lands. (See remarks on ch. 95, p. 93.)

Ch. 165, p. 204—For collection of back taxes; rebel war taxes inclusive. Stopped by an order of Brevet Major General Griffin.

Ch. 167, p. 208—For the issue of bonds for School Fund.

By ch. 98, p. 95—A portion of the School Fund is unconstitutionally appropriated, and this act aims to supply the place of that together with the rest of that spoliated fund by bonds, before Texas is reorganized and readmitted. The Constitution of 1866 being rejected, this is unauthorized.

Ch. 174, p. 212—Grants lands to railroad companies.

How many of these corporations have forfeited their charters from a non-compliance with the statutes of the State? How many of them are subject to condemnation and sale by the United States government? How many of them are chartered by the pretended Legislature of 1866?

Ch. 175, p. 213—General appropriation act for 1867-8.

Defective, extravagant and unauthorized. Needs to be supplied by a military order.

Ch. 176, p. 219—Empowers towns, counties, &c., to create funded debts.

Wrong in principle, even were the rejected Constitution of 1866 in force.

Ch. 183, p. 288—Regulating fees of office.

It ought to be entitled, "An Act regulating the value of United States legal tender treasury notes in certain cases," as it makes these notes legal tender at a discount adjusted arbitrarily for each fee, contrary to the United States statute as to legal tender.

Ch. 188, p. 255—Makes United States District Clerks the custodians of "Confederate States" district court records, and makes transcripts thereof evidence. The coolest piece of impudence, combined with disloyalty, of all! Comment upon it is needless.

Ch. 189, p. 255—Creates the office of State Engineer.

This is a good job for rewarding some rebel officer or politician. Useless. Governor Pease has removed the incumbent, and left the office vacant.

Ch. 190, p. 257—For assessment and collection of the United States direct tax.

Unnecessary and unauthorized. It aims to throw the fees for collecting the United States direct tax into the hands of rebels, and is so devised as to cause loyal men who have already paid the United States direct tax to a United States officer, and who are in consequence careless as to pretended State legislation in regard to it, to pay a second time.

It is to be observed that the United States Secretary of the Treasury has suspended the further collection of this tax until January 1, 1868.

Ch. 11, p. 9—An act to provide for elections in certain cases.

It is really intended to restore all rebel State officers, except assessors and collectors, to office. "where no election was held or ordered prior to the expiration of the Provisional State Government, on the 13th August, 1866, in accordance with the laws in force." Of course it refers to the rebel "laws" as being in force.

Perhaps this pretended law shows the spirit of the rebellion more fully and distinctly than any other in the volume.

Ch. 45, p. 38—Appropriates two thousand dollars for removing obstructions in Sabine Pass, "placed there by the authorities of the Confederate States government," &c. Loyal men should not be made to pay for this, but rebels alone.

Ch. 46, p. 39---Legalizes election of judge and district attorney in Twelfth District, neither of whom could register or take the test oath, and one of whom has since been removed from the judgeship by or at the instance of Brevet Major General Reynolds.

Joint resolutions 6, p. 262; 8, 263; 9, 263; 10, 264; 16, 268; 21, 271; and 23, 272, in addition to those specified as hostile to freedmen, are all, to a greater or less extent, opposed to the Constitution and laws of the United States---the supreme law of the land.

LETTER OF RESIGNATION.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Austin, October 28, 1867.

GENERAL: A few weeks ago several of the gentlemen who have since been appointed to the principal offices of the present provisional government of Texas, together with other citizens, signed a petition, drawn up by myself, to Brevet Major General Griffin (who, to the sincere regret of all really loyal men, is now no more), asking him, in substance, to declare, by a military order, all pretended legislation done in Texas and dating from and after February 1, 1861 (the date of the so-called Ordinance of Secession), to be what the law holds it to be---null and void from the beginning. You are respectfully referred to that petition, which must be on file either in your office or at the headquarters of the Fifth Military District, for the matters it presents and the names of the signers.

On being subsequently appointed to the office of Attorney General, I, with the other officers appointed at the same time, in pursuance of the order of appointment, took the United States test oath, together with the oath of office prescribed by the accepted constitution of Texas of 1845. The same oath appears to have been taken by all the recently appointed officers of the provisional government.

There can be no question as to what State constitution and laws we were sworn to support. The phrase, "since the adoption of this constitution by the Congress of the United States," settles beyond a doubt that we did not qualify to the rebel State constitution of Texas, for it substitutes "since the second day of March, A. D. 1861," for the words cited; nor to the rejected State constitution of 1866, which, had we inserted "since the rejection," etc., instead of "adoption," might with propriety be regarded as the instrument to which we made oath.

Having taken a solemn oath, from which I have not been released, to perform the duties of my office agreeably to the only "adopted" or accepted constitution of Texas, and the laws enacted in pursuance thereof (all relating to African slavery having been previously annulled by the thirteenth amendment to the United States constitution, and by-laws to carry the same into effect), I can not conform to the requirements of the proclamation of the Executive of Texas, dated on the 25th inst., but only this day received, which, though in my conception not free from ambiguity in language, has been verbally explained in your presence and before the heads of the departments of the provisional government as being designed to declare the constitution and statutes of 1866, subject to certain exceptions, to be "rules for the government of the people of Texas and the officers of the civil government," or, in other words, our body of municipal law.

Holding, as I do, that the rejected constitution of 1866 and the laws based thereon are neither in force proprio vigore, nor by virtue of the military reconstruction act and its supplements, nor yet by Major General Sheridan's order assuming command, I regard the proclamation of the 25th inst. as requiring me to do what is inconsistent with my oath of office as well as with my settled convictions of law.

It is respectfully and earnestly submitted that the proclamation, as explained, promulgates errors fraught with danger to the loyal people of Texas, white and colored, and eminently prejudicial to the national cause, which I deem it to be my official duty to briefly point out.

Laws, organic or otherwise, in the United States, may be unconstitutional on one or both of two independent grounds: because made against or without the authority of the national constitution, or because made under the authority of the supreme law of the land and yet intrinsically in conflict therewith. All rebel constitutions and laws are unconstitutional and null and void ab initio for the first of these reasons, and very many of them for the second in addition.

If, indeed, as I hold, the constitution and laws of the United States have continued, without cessation, to be the supreme law of the land, the friends (citizens), not to speak of the "public enemies" of the United States, could not, without the authority of the United States government, make any law within our national limits. Any pretended law they might so enact would, to borrow the language of Chief Justice Marshall, be "incompatible" with the constitution of the United States; would necessarily be unconstitutional. If, on so unimportant a subject as defining the times for the sessions of a court, because passed against the authority and without the consent of the national government, which, by the constitution, can only permit admitted States and lawfully organized Territories to legislate, it would be unconstitutional. In contemplation of law, all hostile and unauthorized legislation done in Texas from and after February 1, 1861, is unconstitutional, and no decision can be cited showing that an eclectic system can now be introduced under which we can say that one pretended law so made is valid and another void on account of its provisions.

If, on the other hand, the rebel view be correct, and the constitution, etc., etc., of the United States were not the supreme law of the land in Texas, from February 1, 1861, until the date of the surrender of General E. Kirby Smith, valid laws might have been made here, all of which would remain in force after the constitution, etc., etc., of the United States had "again resumed their sway," except such as might be incompatible therewith on account of their contents. Still, there seems to be no authority to show that a State constitution made without the authority of Congress, after General E. Kirby Smith's surrender, which that body subsequently, by the military reconstruction act, provided should never be laid before it for acceptance, but that a new one should be formed by the action of registered voters and presented, can supplant an accepted constitution and the laws passed in pursuance of the same.

According to the theory of government generally adopted in a Republic, the government is regarded as being a collection of agencies of the sovereign people, who furnish to their agents or officers a constitution and laws as their power of attorney beyond which they cannot go. Congress (our collection of legislative agents for national purposes) has not the power to validate a State Constitution or laws made by a people within our limits, hostile to, or not authorized by, the national government. Not having the power to do so, it could not confer such power upon Major General Sheridan as it did not itself possess.

If these propositions be correct, the military reconstruction act and the order cited ought to be construed in accordance with them.

To do so, we have only to regard the word "governments" as employed in the act and in the order in signifying "the bodies of administrators who rule," (see Encyc. Britt., vol. 10, p. 731.) the persons claiming to be and acting as civil officers—nothing more, and not as also including the rejected constitutions of the rebel States with the laws based thereupon.

To hold otherwise would be to assume that Major General Sheridan, when he used the phrase "provisions of law," did not mean, as his language clearly imports, to refer to valid existing laws, but on the contrary intended to validate pretended law; or, in other words, that in his order assuming command he took upon himself to do what his known character precludes him from being charged with—to reject the accepted constitution of Texas of 1845 and to accept the rejected constitution of 1866—to doubly repeal and overrule legislation enacted at different periods by the Congress of the United States.

I am firmly convinced that that officer, who, during his command of the Fifth Military District, gained a reputation for administrative ability scarce surpassed by his achievements in the field, undertook to do nothing of the sort. Hence, I beg leave to protest against his being charged with having put the rejected constitution and "laws" (so-called) of 1866 upon us. Indeed, the character of those "laws" is such that he could not have done so. Not less than eighty-three of such of them as claim to be public and general in their nature, are either directly or indirectly hostile to the United States Government, or, to its loyal citizens, twenty-four being leveled at the freedmen; while about two hundred of such as are styled special confer magnificent rewards upon those who had been prominent in upholding the rebellion.

Major General Sheridan did not validate rebel judgments and sales under execution had against loyal men, (some of them bearing arms under him at the time,) because they were in the service of their country. He did nothing to put down the friends and build up the enemies of the United States; to make loyalty odious and treason respectable in this State. True, notwithstanding the military reconstruction act we did not have a military government established, but instead, a rebel civil government organized under a constitution not accepted, and administering rebel laws, was continued and upheld; but this was done against the earnest and reiterated remonstrances of the commander of the Fifth Military District.

Now, since he at last was permitted to place appointees of his own in power, if rebel laws are to be administered by them, what has the United States Government, what have the people of Texas, in the true political sense of the term—the registered voters, white and colored, who did not make and who have never sanctioned such laws, gained by the change? Had the rebels been victorious in the field, what could they have won beyond the establishment of their laws? When they have lost, must the result be the same?

I am averse to occupying your time and attention farther, or, in this connection, I would trace the progress that has been and is insidiously made by disloyal judges, by means of these pretended laws, toward a judicial justification of the rebellion; and would also give my reasons for believing that the administration of ex-Governor Throckmorton was regarded an impediment to reconstruction, partly, at least, because it executed rebel laws in their spirit.

Having taken the position of Attorney General expressly to aid in the enforcement of our accepted constitution and unquestionably valid laws, and the programme having, against my protest, been altered, and a rejected constitution, with disloyal "laws," substituted, I conceive myself to be under no obligations to continue in office to assist in the administration of a body of municipal law which, in my belief, has not been and could not be sanctioned by the military reconstruction act nor by general order No. 1 of Major General Sheridan.

Not having changed the views to which I subscribed before being appointed, I cannot abandon them now without doing wrong---occupying a false position, and appearing to be actuated not by principle, but by a mere vulgar desire for office.

Sincerely convinced of the correctness of the opinions set forth, which, however objectionable to rebels, it must be conceded would, if carried out, work no prejudice to any loyal man or to the United States Government, I beg leave to transmit through yourself to the Commander of the Fifth Military District this my resignation, to take effect as soon as a successor can be appointed and qualified, so that I can deliver over to him the books and papers of the office.

I remain, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

WILLIAM ALEXANDER,

Brevet Major General J. J. REYNOLDS, U. S. A., Commanding the District of Texas.

COMPTROLLER'S OFFICE,
AUSTIN, TEXAS, Sept. 5, 1867.

Hon. W. ALEXANDER,
Attorney General of Texas :

SIR: On entering upon the duties of Comptroller of Public Accounts, I am admonished at once of the embarrassments which lie in the way of what I conceive to be a proper and efficient administration of the laws of the State, so far as they relate to this office, which I am sworn to support and to execute.

The first duty devolving upon me arises under Chapter 175 of the General Laws of the Eleventh Legislature of the State, designated "An Act making appropriations for the support of the State Government, for the years 1867 and 1868." The act provides for the payment of sundry sums of money, not necessary to the proper administration of the laws of the State, during its provisional term, nor, indeed, at any time.

The question, upon which the opinion of the Attorney General is solicited, is whether the statute is a valid law of the State of Texas, and, consequently, whether the accounting officers are bound to respect and execute it as such. If not, then what law, if any, beyond the military orders of the Commanding General of the District, is in force? or if in force, what other authority than the United States can now make appropriations for the support of the Provisional Government of Texas?

I shall be pleased to have the early and careful consideration of these enquiries by the Attorney General.

I have the honor to be your obt serv't.

M. C. HAMILTON,

Comptroller.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE,
AUSTIN, TEXAS, Sept. 7, 1867.

SIR: Your communication of the 5th instant was received on the evening of that day, and its contents have been duly considered. In reply I transmit the subjoined opinion.

I remain, very respectfully, your ob't serv't,

WILLIAM ALEXANDER.

Attorney General.

Hon. M. C. HAMILTON,

Comptroller.

OPINION.

The Constitution of the United States, etc., the supreme law of the land. The accepted Constitution of Texas, which took effect February 16, 1846, and the laws made under it, the municipal law of the land. The rejected Constitution of 1866, and the pretended laws dependent upon it, null and void, ab initio.

The leading facts bearing upon the inquiry submitted, which, being matters of public and general notoriety, may be taken notice of without proof, are as follows :

Certain politicians of the slave States finding that, as they were in a hopeless minority, they could no longer control the national government, conspired together to organize a rebellion and war against that government, in order that they might overthrow it and establish a stronger and more aristocratic form of government than a republic in its place, constructed with a special reference to the maintenance and extension of African slavery, which was declared to be its "corner stone." In pursuance of this scheme some sixty-one of them, who were citizens of Texas, published a call for a "Constitutional Convention," asking county officers to hold "unofficially" an election for delegates. Rather less than one-third* of the then electors voted for delegates favorable to the conspiracy.† The minority-elected delegates assembled, and on February 1, 1861, passed what

*From the proclamation appended to the so-called Constitution of Texas, it appears that only 28,119 persons voted for its adoption, a small minority. The delegates to the Convention of 1861 were not elected by so small a minority as that which voted for the (rejected) constitution of 1866.

†This minority controlled the masses by means of secret organization, terrorism and violence.

is commonly known as the "Ordinance of Secession." They also passed, a little later, what they styled "amendments" to the Constitution of the State of Texas which had been accepted by Congress. It was under this accepted constitution that Texas, on February, 16, 1846, organized as a State, forming a part of the nation known as the United States of America.

These "amendments," if operative, substituted for the constitution a new and essentially different instrument, asserting allegiance to a treasonable organization, never recognized* as a government by any existing nationality, called the "Confederate States of America." These "amendments," or new rebel constitution, are claimed to have continued in force until superseded, in 1866, by another constitution, also passed under the guise of "amendments" (materially different from its predecessor, and from the constitution of 1845-6), and which was rejected by the United States Congress.

What purports to be the "law" in regard to which you inquire, was passed under and is dependent upon the instrument last referred to. If the one is the Constitution of the State of Texas, the other is a law; but not otherwise.

*The non-recognition of the so-called Confederate States Government, and of every pretended state thereof, prevents their being taken notice of by courts and judicial officers. This is perfectly well settled by the Supreme Court of the United States.

The following is the language of Chief Justice Marshall, in the case of Rose v. Hinley, 4 Cranch, 272:

"The colony of San Domingo, originally belonging to France, had broken the bond that connected her with the parent state, had declared herself independent, and was endeavoring to support that independence by arms. France still asserted her claim of sovereignty, and had employed a military force in support of that claim. A war de facto then unquestionably existed between France and San Domingo. It has been argued that the colony, having declared itself a sovereign State, and having thus far maintained its sovereignty by arms, must be considered and treated by other nations as sovereign in fact, and as being entitled to maintain the same intercourse with the world that is maintained by other belligerent nations. In support of this argument the doctrines of Vattel have been particularly referred to. But the language of that writer is obviously addressed to sovereigns, not to courts. It is for governments to decide whether they will consider San Domingo as an independent nation; and until such decision shall be made, or France shall relinquish her claim, courts of justice must consider the ancient state of things as remaining unaltered, and the sovereign power of France over that colony as still subsisting."

The principle stated in the foregoing citation is commented upon and reaffirmed by Mr. Justice Story, in the case of Gelston v. Hoyt, 3 Wheaton's Reports, 325, as follows:

"No doctrine is better established than that it belongs exclusively to governments to recognize new states in the revolutions that occur in the world; and in the such recognition, either by our own government or the government to which the new state belonged, courts of justice are bound to consider the ancient state of things as remaining unaltered. This was expressly held by this court in the case of Rose v. Hinley (4 Cranch, 241), and to that decision on this point we adhere. And this same doctrine is clearly sustained by the judgment of foreign tribunals. (The Maria, 1 Edwards Reports, 1. The City of Ber v. the Bank of England, 9 Ves. 547. Dolter v. the Bank of England, 19 Ves. 377. 3 Ves., 283.)"

A citizen of an unauthorized or rebel government cannot maintain a suit in chancery. Bire v. Thompson, cited in 1366, Page, 60; Thompson v. Bowles, 2 Sumner's, 194; 2 Cond. Eng. Ch. Rep. 378. see also for analogy furnished, Kennett v. Chambers, 14 How. 38.

The Constitution of the United States is conclusive as to this, as it declares that it, with the treaties and laws made in pursuance thereof, are the supreme law of the land. No authority can be found showing that the supreme law of the land ever ceased to be in force for any moment of time that has elapsed since it first took effect, and over every square inch of ground within our national limits. If all the time in force, no pretended constitution incompatible with it, and no "law" dependent upon such constitution, has existed in Texas since Texas first became a State in the Union.

The three departments which together make up the national government have also separately furnished constructions throwing light on the matter in hand, which accord with the supreme law of the land and with each other.

Firstly (in order of time), the Judiciary—the Supreme Court of the United States has decided that the rebellion amounted to a war; that the rebels were "the public enemy" of the United States, and that they were "none the less enemies because they were traitors." (2 Black's Rep. 674.)*

*See also Pland v. the Adams Express Company, 1 Duval's Ky. Rep. 232, in which it was decided that "Confederate soldiers" commanded by John Morgan, were the "public enemy," and that in consequence the Adams Express Company was not, as a common carrier, responsible to the owners thereof for money captured by the "Confederate soldiers" when in transit in its safe.

It is to be observed that the statutes of the so-called Confederate States term the citizens of the United States "alien enemies." The records of the so-called Confederate States District Court at Austin show that all the personal property and real estate it could reach, that belonged to loyal citizens of the United States, was sequestered and sold as the property of "alien enemies." Even the American Bible Society's books were condemned and sold. It has been estimated that not less than twelve million dollars worth of lands were condemned and sold by that branch of the Confederate States District Court for a mere trifle. The pretended laws of the rebel organization that claimed to be the State of Texas, also treat loyal citizens of the United States as their enemies. See for example "General Laws of the Ninth Legislature," p. 35, ch. 42; and p. 39, chs. 51 and 52. One of these "laws" merits special attention, and is as follows:

CHAPTER XVI.

An Act to exclude from office, serving on juries, taking or holding property, and from the rights of suffrage, all persons who take the alien oath, leave our country to avoid the service, or who join the enemy or in anywise give them aid and comfort.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Texas, That no person, being a resident of the State, or of any one of the Confederate States, who may, during the existing war between the Confederate States and the United States, take the oath commonly known as the alien oath, whereby he claims the protection of any foreign government as a shield from serving in the cause of the Confederate States in their present struggle, or who may leave, or having left, remain absent, from this State or any of the Confederate States, to avoid participating in behalf of the Confederate States; or who may join, or having joined, continue in the army, or service, or employment of the United States, or who may conceal himself and thereby avoid service in our cause, or who may, in any wise, give aid and comfort to the enemy, shall, upon conviction thereof before any court of competent jurisdiction, take or hold any estate, real, personal or mixed, whether by purchase, gift, devise or descent, in this State, nor hold any office of trust, profit or honor, nor vote at any election, nor serve on any juries in any court within this State; provided, that persons who shall prove themselves to be bona fide neutrals and citizens of a friendly power, shall not be subject to the provisions of this act.

SEC. 2. That the judgment of the court upon the verdict of a jury in any one of the causes enumerated in the preceding section, shall be sufficient evidence of the guilt

By the law of war, public enemies have no political rights under the government against which they are warring. As regards it, they have, in general, only the right to be killed when in arms in the field, and to be treated as prisoners of war in case they are forced to surrender. A citizen who assumes, and is recognized in, the incompatible character of a public enemy, ipso facto forfeits his citizenship. No argument is required to prove that public enemies, when inside our national boundaries, are incompetent to do what loyal citizens alone may do, and even they only with the (at least) implied consent of Congress that they should set about the work, and the express approval of Congress when it is completed and submitted. (Const. of the U. S., art. 4, sec. 4. See also the Military Reconstruction Act (No. 68) for the conditions precedent imposed.

Secondly, the Executive Department of the National Government—the President, has put himself upon the record repeatedly,* and in various ways, in harmony with the Judiciary. To cite one example: In his proclamation of June 17, 1865, appointing General A. J. Hamilton Provisional Governor, he declared that the rebellion had deprived Texas of “all civil government.” If the rebels had, by their own criminal conduct, deprived themselves of all civil government, it is not perceived that, while in that condition, they could perform any governmental act, much less set aside a State constitution, made by competent parties, and accepted by Congress, together of the party, in any suit or proceeding that may subsequently arise, on any issue made, upon any question involved in the said first section.

SEC. 3. That for the offences enumerated in the first section of this act, the party may be prosecuted at any time within five years after the ratification of a treaty of peace between the Confederate States and the United States.

SEC. 4. That this act take effect from and after its passage.

Approved March 5, 1863.

(General Laws, extra session, Ninth Legislature, p. 12.)

See also the Joint Resolution on page thirty-six of the General Laws of the same session, in which Major General Butler is described as “better known as Butler the Beast,” and the laws charging the names of Cass, Buchanan and Walker counties to Davis, Stephens and (Samuel H., impliedly) Walker counties. General Laws Ninth Legislature, ch. 11, p. 8, and Special Laws Tenth Legislature, ch. 12, p. 39; enim multos annis.

It will doubtless be contended that this “law” was repealed by Ordinance No. 11 of the Convention of 1866. If the rejection of the work of the Convention of 1866 by Congress made it as valid as the acceptance would have made it, the “law” in question may be regarded as repealed by it, but not otherwise.

However, it can scarcely be claimed that the Convention of 1866 attempted to repeal certain very obnoxious laws passed preparatory to the rebellion, such as that authorizing magistrates to search the United States mails, and to take out and burn abolition documents, etc. (General Laws of Eighth Legislature, pp. 99, 100; that prohibiting negroes from holding religious meetings, unless two slaveholders should be present, etc. (Ib., pp. 101, 102.)

From a hasty examination, I have been unable to discover that articles 915, 916, of the Code of Criminal Procedure (see O. & W. Digest, pp. 663, 670), which provide for selling free persons of color into slavery, have ever been attempted to be repealed.

In each of the several proclamations appointing Provisional Governors for the other insurgent States, the President made use of the same language. Indeed the former proclamation was printed with a blank for the name of the State, and was issued officially when the blank was filled up and the date attached. One of these proclamations, of which a large quantity, with the blanks unfilled, was sent by the State Department to Texas, is now before me.

with the laws and civil rights that had accrued under it, during the lapse of years of peace and comparative good order.

Though it was a matter of public and general notoriety that what claimed to be a State Government existed in Texas; that persons claiming to be "officers," occupied all the public offices, and that such had been the case continuously since February 1, 1861: it is worthy of note that our Chief Magistrate very properly ignored both that government and its officers. Regarding them as illegal, he did not trouble himself to remove F. S. Stockdale, Esq., who, as "Lieutenant Governor," claimed to be "Governor," when P. Murrah, Esq., had absconded to Mexico, but appointed General Hamilton, without taking the slightest notice of him whatever.

Thirdly, the Legislative Department of the National Government—Congress, appears to have concurred fully with the views given by the Judiciary and Executive Departments, though it has expressed itself in more moderate terms. It has set forth, in the preamble to the Military Reconstruction Act of March 2, 1867, (No. 68), that "no legal State Government exists in Texas," etc. This may be regarded as a statutory fact. If no legal State government existed in Texas on March 2, 1861, when the ordinance of secession took effect in a disorganizing act, and related back to February 1, 1861, the date of its passage, there did not exist, then nor since, any power, on the part of the rebels of Texas, competent to modify the State constitution and laws. A State constitution can, in general, only be altered by means of a legal State government, and with the express approval of the work by Congress, subject to the exceptional case of a modification through the operation of amendments to the National Constitution, and of laws enacted under and by virtue of such amendments.

It is fairly inferable, from the expressions of its departments, that the National government regarded what are termed the insurgent or rebel States, as disorganized political States, which, as their boundaries were never changed by law, were considered as mere geographical States: nothing more. Though unquestionably aware that what were called "governments," continuously existed in them, it ignored those pretended governments, as they were not legal, considering that the persons claiming to be the officers occupied no higher ground than men who, finding public offices empty, entered, and gave themselves out to be officers. The United States government has never admitted, and could not, under the constitution, admit the Texas Ordinance of Secession to be other than null and void from the beginning, together with all pretended legislation connected with or dependent upon it. The United States government has only done what implies that it regards that void ordinance as fixing the date when, according to the rebels, the disorganization under the State constitution occurred. A State may disorganize without making a futile attempt to secede. For example, were all the officers of the three departments of a State government at once to die, resign, leave the State, or accept incompatible offices, the State would be disorganized, though, as in the case under consideration, the constitution and laws would remain intact; and enabling legislation, on the part of Congress, would be required to assist the geographical State to regain its lost character of a political State, and to resume its working relations to the National government, of which it never ceased to form a part.

The rebellion and war had no legal effect, save to produce disorganization. It did not repeal any thing. The resistance or escape of a vast number of criminals, for a greater or less period of time, when they are afterward captured, and put subject to the supreme and municipal law of the land, does not make them a de facto government, nor empower them to repeal the civil and criminal statutes, nor the constitution on which those statutes are based, any more than does the resistance or escape of a single criminal.

Were the pretended legislation of the rebels, framed in defiance of the constitution, held valid, no honest or loyal purpose would be effected thereby, and a greater impediment would be interposed to reconstruction than any now in existence. There is nothing in its character that would justify or even excuse us in holding that it swept away an accepted constitution, with the laws that had been enacted and the rights that had accrued under it. Our laws, as they stood on February 1, 1861, were generally more just and efficient for the ends of justice, than at any previous time—far more than any pretended laws of a later date. Whatever then has been done in Texas during the rebellion, that was lawful, considered with reference to our constitution and laws as they stood at the date of the attempted secession, except where inconsistent with the National constitution as amended, and laws, is as valid as if done at any earlier period. Lawful contracts, marriages, etc., made then, are as binding as they would be had they been made previously.

The pretended constitution (ordinances included) of 1866, passed under the style of "amendments," is not only null and void for reasons already indicated, but for additional considerations. It shows on its face that it is the work of disloyal men, actuated by a subdued hostility to the United States government. Besides, it is founded and built up upon the rebel State constitution, (which had been previously adopted under the guise of "amendments" also), and not the State constitution accepted by Congress, which "public enemies" were incompetent to set aside or alter. Taken with the ordinances, it amounts to an insidious attempt to legalize so much of the rebel State constitution and laws as is not openly and directly opposed to the National constitution, and thus to make the legislation of the rebels, since February 1, 1861, (inclusive), as far as possible, constructive as regards itself, but destructive as regards the supreme law of the land and the accepted State constitution, with the laws enacted under it, as they existed and continue to exist.

In order that a State constitution should be so framed in a disorganized State, that Congress can accept it, not only must the conditions precedent imposed by the Military Reconstruction Act, as explained by its supplements, be observed, but it must ignore the rebel State constitution and laws, and must be based upon the (accepted) State constitution and statutes; for, in legal contemplation, they are the municipal law of the land.

When Congress accepts a State constitution, it is valid; hence, when Congress rejects one, it must be void. On principle, the rejection of a State constitution does not merely exclude United States Senators and Representatives elected under it, but makes it a nullity, and we are thrown back upon the old State constitution. A rejected constitution is not cognizable by the judiciary. (Luther v. Borden, 7 How. 42).

Under the constitution of the United States, but three sorts of governments, in the nature of State governments, are possible: Territorial governments, State governments, and, where either of them are disorganized, from the necessity of the case, military governments. What are termed provisional governments, under the acts of Congress, are but subordinate parts of military government.

More inconvenience would be unjustly wrought upon loyal men by holding that the legislation of fifteen years has been swept away by rebels, than would be justly wrought upon rebels by holding their pretended legislation of the last six years to be what the law holds it to be—void.* The “legislation” of the rebels, during the earlier part of the rebellion, was not only hostile to our country, but was in itself eminently unjust and unscrupulous. Nor are the “laws” of the last so-called Legislature otherwise. They, too, are persistently leveled against the United States Government and its loyal citizens, and not a few of them are artfully contrived to effect fraudulent and criminal designs, not apparent on the surface.† Certain of

* The rebel State “laws” permitted the property of estates to be sold for “Confederate paper,” and the money of estates to be invested in “Confederate bonds,” to the great loss of widows, orphans and loyal creditors, who, as they were unable to protect themselves, the government is morally bound to protect. They also authorized “Confederate paper” to be received at par for land warrants at the General Land Office. A vast quantity of land warrants were obtained for this paper at the actual cost of one cent per acre.

† See for example, ch. 41, p. 32, of the volume entitled General Laws of 11th Legis- them, such as the "Labor," "Persuading," "Vagrant," "Fire-Arms," "Apprentice," "Tax" and "School," &c., "laws," amount to a cunningly devised system, planned to prevent equality before the law, and for the restoration of African slavery in a modified form, in fact, though not in name. They were designed to defeat justice.

The so-called "Special Laws" of 1866 appear to have been devised chiefly to reward, at the cost of the people, leading rebel military men, politicians and contractors, for their services in behalf of the rebellion, by granting them a great number and variety of charters, which, if valid, would be worth millions.

It may not be amiss to briefly consider the views of those persons who, whether because they are disloyal, or because their judgments have been warped by the pressure of the rebellion, differ from what has been hereinbefore advanced. Such of them as are rebels admit that the Supreme Court was right in declaring them to be "the public enemy," but not in deciding them to be also "traitors." They claim that they were not only public enemies, but were more—were a foreign nation. It seems never to have occurred to them that, if so, as Congress, the war-making power, have not yet declared the state or condition of war ended, and as they have never been naturalized and enfranchised, in 1866 they could not legislate at all. They and their sympathizers hold the statement of the President, that they had deprived themselves of "all civil government," to be simply untrue in point of fact, instead of construing it fairly to mean what that officer intended, that they had no government that he was bound to respect.

Instead of construing the Military Reconstruction Act in accordance with the settled principles of the law, so as to make it all to stand, these people misconstrue it in an absurd manner, making it alike self-destructive and unconstitutional—contending that while in its preamble it declares that no legal State Government exists in Texas, it legalized the so-called State Government in existence at its passage, and thus makes a military government unconstitutional! They construe the words "that may exist" to read, "that do or may exist," contending that rebels can be officers, without taking the test oath, who cannot be appointed officers, because unable to take the test oath. As a matter of course, they produce no warrant of law for their style of construction. All their arguments are based upon a tacit assumption of what they have not the hardihood to directly lature. This act, though apparently general in its terms, was devised to cause a widow to lose a valuable tract of land involved in a pending suit.

assert—that the Constitution, &c., of the United States have not been continuously since February 16, 1846, and till now, the supreme law of the land in Texas. They are not unaware of the effect, which this proposition, if true, would produce upon the United States laws, passed since February 1, 1861, such as the Direct Tax law, the Internal Revenue law, the law establishing United States Circuit Courts, the law declaring Statutes of Limitation not to run, &c., &c. Hence they insidiously aim, by inducing acquiescence, suferance and delay, on the part of those charged with the execution of the law, and, indeed, by all other indirect means, to get their theory established—that, during four years, the Constitution and laws of the United States, with the State Constitution accepted by Congress, and the laws made under it, were not in force in Texas, but were supplanted by the rebel “C. S.” and State Constitutions, to which the United States Constitution and laws, (except those passed during the four years), and the rejected State Constitution of 1866, with the laws made under it, are the successors, or heirs at law.

Indeed, some of them very gravely contend for a proposition, than which they can scarce go farther, that the validity of the rebel statutes must be determined, (in each case separately,) by comparing them with the United States and the accepted State Constitutions. They might, with equal warrant of authority, and with greater plausibility, argue that Canadian statutes may be tested by the Constitution of Mexico. As the statutes of Canada were not framed with reference to the Mexican Constitution as the paramount law; so the rebel statutes were not drafted with reference to the United States and accepted State Constitutions, as the superior and controlling law. There the parallel ends. The Dominion of Canada never having been at war with Mexico, the Canadian legislation is, at least, not hostile in its character. It was not devised by a criminal organization, co-operative in all its parts, to dismember and overthrow our sister Republic. It is needless to consider such propositions.*

Had Congress expressly declared, in the Military Reconstruction Act, that legal governments existed, at the time of its passage, in the rebel States, that declaration would have made the act unconstitutional. The conditions precedent required by the act to be

One, however, is so curious that it deserves to be noticed. Although under the U. S. Constitution only three sorts of governments in the nature of State governments are possible, viz: Territorial, State, or where they are disorganized ex necessitate rei, Military, they vaguely assume that there may be a fourth sort, which they call Provisional Governments: evidently not comprehending that what are called “Provisional,” under the laws of Congress, are but subordinate parts of military governments.

It is idle to argue with persons who contend that a rejected State Constitution with the laws made under it are as valid as an accepted State Constitution and the laws made under it.

complied with by loyal citizens, viz: Registration, the adoption of a Constitution, its submission to and approval by Congress, and the adoption of the proposed Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, show that it was not designed to legalize the work of rebels unconditionally.

Because, therefore, the Constitution, treaties and laws† of the United States have been continuously, since February 16, 1846, the supreme law of the land in Texas: because our State Constitution, (under which Texas organized on February 16, 1846,) and laws, as they stood on February 1, 1861, have continued to be the municipal law of the land, and for the other reasons stated, no pretended legislation by criminal and incompetent persons, hostile to or unauthorized by our National and State Constitutions, can be regarded as law.

The pretended "law" as to which you inquire was null and void from the beginning.

Under the Military Reconstruction Act and the acts supplementary thereto, the General in command of this District has not merely the power to supply the place of any law which may have expired by its own terms, or become inapplicable in consequence of the changes wrought by the rebellion, but can make any orders legislative in their nature, which he may regard as necessary for the public good.

† Not excepting the U. S. direct tax law, of August 6, 1861; the internal revenue law of July 1, 1862; the law establishing U. S. Circuit Courts in Texas, of July 15, 1862; the law suspending the running of statutes of limitation in cases civil and criminal, of June 11, 1864, &c., &c.

The rebels seek to get it established, that these acts were not in force in Texas until E. Kirby Smith surrendered. Coolly assuming that the rejected State Constitution of 1866, on which the pretended laws of 1866 depend, is as valid as if it had been accepted and that, too, in spite of its being based upon a rebel State Constitution, not upon our accepted Constitution and State laws as they stood on February 1st, 1861, they rely chiefly on considerations of "policy" and the argumentum ab inconveni-entia. So far as "policy" is concerned, they are referred to the opinion of Judge Thornton, published in the Austin Republican of September 11th. They complain of hardships and inconvenience. By a wicked attempt to subvert the supreme and municipal law of the land, they brought about such confusion as exists, and now they modestly ask us, in violation of principle as well as of positive law, to legalize that confusion, instead of returning to the simplicity of a Constitution and statute law, which they were incompetent to overthrow.

RULES OF THE CONVENTION.

RULES OF THE CONVENTION.

REPORTED BY THE COMMITTEE ON RULES,
JUNE 4, 1868, AND ADOPTED.

[See pages 19, 22, 23.]

DUTY OF THE PRESIDENT.

1. He shall take the chair every day precisely at the hour to which the Convention shall have adjourned, call the members to order, and direct the Secretary to call over the names of the members. On the appearance of a quorum, he shall have the journals of the preceding day read.

2. He shall preserve order and decorum; may speak to points of order in preference to other members, rising from his seat to do so, and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the Convention by any member; on which appeal no member shall speak more than once, unless by leave of the Convention.

3. When a motion is regularly made, which places a question fairly before the Convention, the President shall distinctly put it in this form, to wit: "As many as are of the opinion that (as the case or question may be) say Aye;" and after the affirmative is expressed, "As many as are of the contrary opinion, say No." If the President should doubt, or a division be called for, the Convention shall divide; those in the affirmative of the question shall first rise from their seats, and afterwards those in the negative.

4. The President shall examine and correct the journal before it is read. He shall have a general direction of the hall; he shall have a right to name any person to perform the duties of the chair, and in case of sickness or inability of the President to discharge the duties of his office, the Convention shall be called to order by the Secretary, who shall direct an election to be held for President pro tem., who shall preside during the absence of the President.

5. All committees shall be appointed by the President, unless otherwise specially directed by the Convention, in which case they shall be appointed by ballot; and if, upon such ballot, the member or members required shall not be elected by a majority of the votes given, the Convention shall proceed to a second ballot, in which a plurality of votes shall prevail: and in case a greater number than is required to compose or complete a committee shall have an equal number of votes, the Convention shall proceed to further ballot or ballots.

The standing committees of the Convention shall consist of the following, viz:

A Committee on the Political or Legislative Department.

A Committee on Judicial Department.

A Committee on Executive Department.

A Committee on General Provisions.

A Committee on Finance.

A Committee on Education.

A Committee on Internal Improvements.

A Committee on Immigration.

A Committee on Public Debt.

A Committee on Public Lands.

A Committee on Apportionment.

A Committee on State Affairs.

A Committee on Federal Relations.

A Committee on Printing.

A Committee on Contingent Expenses.

A Committee on Counties and County Boundaries.

A Committee on Engrossed Provisions.

A Committee on Enrolled Provisions.

A Committee on Style.

A Committee on Engrossed Bills.

A Committee on Enrolled Bills.

A Committee to Examine Comptroller's and Treasurer's Offices.

A Committee on Commerce and Manufactures.

6. In all cases of election, or when the yeas and nays shall be taken by the Convention, the President shall vote. In other cases he shall not vote, unless the Convention be equally divided, or unless his vote, if given to the minority, will make the division equal: and in case of such equal division the question shall be lost.

7. All declarations, addresses and resolutions shall be signed by the President: and all writs, warrants and subpoenas issued by the Convention shall be under his hand, and attested by the Secretary.

8. In case of any disturbance or disorderly conduct in the galleries or lobby, the President or the Chairman of the Committee of the whole Convention shall have power to order the same to be cleared.

9. Stenographers and reporters wishing to take down the proceedings may be admitted by the President, who shall assign such places to them, on the floor or elsewhere, to effect their object, as shall not interfere with the convenience of the Convention.

ORDER OF BUSINESS.

10. As soon as the journal is adopted, the President shall call for petitions. The petitions, having been presented, received and read, shall be disposed of as follows:

- 1st. By motion to reject.
- 2d. To lay on the table.
- 3d. To postpone to a certain day.
- 4th. To commit.
- 5th. To postpone indefinitely.

The order of commitment shall be :

- 1st. A Standing Committee.
- 2d. The Committee of the whole Convention.
- 3d. A Select Committee.

Then reports—first from the Standing Committees and then from Select Committees—shall be called for and disposed of.

Then declarations and resolutions shall be in order.

11. After petitions, reports from committees, and declarations and resolutions are gone through, the unfinished business in which the Convention was engaged at its last preceding adjournment, if any there be, shall be disposed of. Then it shall be in order to entertain a motion that the Convention do now proceed to dispose of the business on the President's table, and to the orders of the day; which being decided in the affirmative, the President shall dispose of—

- 1st. Simple resolutions.
- 2d. Declarations on their third reading.
- 3d. Declarations on first and second readings.

12. After the business on the President's table has been reached, no business shall be introduced without leave of the Convention.

13. The orders of the day shall always have precedence when the hour for considering the same has arrived.

REPORTS.

14. When a committee reports to the Convention a declaration referred to them, and recommends its passage without amendment, the report, when submitted to the Convention, shall be read, and, together with the declaration, shall then be placed in its order on the President's table. If amendments or substitutes for the entire original declaration are proposed by the committee, they shall be read as being part of the report, and with the declaration, in their proper place, come up in order for their adoption.

15. When a declaration originates with a committee, their report shall be read (including the declaration), which declaration shall be marked by the Secretary as being read first time. When the Committee on Enrolled and Engrossed Declarations report, the question shall be on the acceptance of the report only. The reports of said committees shall be in order at any time.

16. When a committee report the indefinite postponement of a declaration, or anything which may require a vote of the Convention, the report shall be read and placed in its order on the President's table. All reports of committees shall be copied in or appended to the journals.

DECLARATIONS AND RESOLUTIONS.

17. Every declaration shall receive three several readings in the Convention previous to its passage. All declarations shall be acted upon in their order, unless the Convention shall direct otherwise; but no declaration shall be read twice on the same day, without the suspension of the rule by a majority of four-fifths of the Convention.

18. The first reading of a declaration shall be for information; and if opposition be made to it, the question shall be, "Shall the declaration be rejected?" If no opposition be made, or if the question to reject be negatived, the declaration shall be open for commitment.

19. Upon the second reading of a declaration, the president shall state it as ready for amendment or engrossment.

20. No amendment shall be received at the third reading of a declaration without the consent of two-thirds of the Convention: but a declaration may be recommitted by a majority vote, and should the committee report an amendment, the declaration shall be considered as on its second reading.

21. When the vote is taken to engross, and is negatived, it amounts to the rejection of the declaration.

22. When a declaration has passed its third and final reading, the same shall be certified by the secretary, noting the day of its passage at the foot thereof; but he shall not certify to the passage of any bill after the adjournment of the Convention sine die.

RESOLUTIONS.

23. Resolutions shall take the same course prescribed for declarations. A resolution may be introduced at any time, by leave, and acted upon at the pleasure of the Convention. A resolution requesting information from the governor of the State, or directing it to be furnished by the heads of either of the executive departments, shall lie on the table one day for consideration, unless otherwise ordered by the unanimous consent of the Convention; and all such resolutions shall be taken up for consideration in the order they were presented, immediately after reports are called for from the select committees, and when adopted, the secretary shall cause the same to be delivered.

24. When the reading of a resolution or any paper is called for, and the same is objected to by any member, it shall be determined by a vote of the Convention.

AMENDMENTS.

25. When a committee reports a substitute or other amendment, the secretary shall read the same. If no proposition be then made to amend, the question shall be on concurring in the amendment or substitute.

26. An amendment beyond the second degree shall not be entertained.

27. A substitute, when adopted, takes the place of the original, and is subject to amendment.

QUESTIONS.

28. Any member may have the question before the Convention divided, if susceptible of division, into distinct questions, such member submitting his proposition to divide in writing, if required by the President to do so.

29. It shall require ten members to second a motion for the previous question, which shall be in this form: "Shall the main question be now put?" If a majority of the members present vote in the affirmative, the main question shall be put. The previous question shall be decided without debate; and until it is decided, it shall preclude all amendments, motions and further debate of the main question.

DECORUM AND DEBATE.

30. When a member is about to speak in debate, or to communicate any matter to the Convention, he shall rise from his seat, and respectfully address himself to "Mr. President." He shall confine his remarks to the question under debate, and shall avoid personality in his language. When two or more members rise at once to address the Convention, the president shall name the member who is entitled to the floor.

31. If a member, in debate or otherwise, transgresses the rules of the Convention, the speaker shall, or any member may, call him to order. The member so called to order, shall immediately take his seat, unless permitted to explain. The Convention, if appealed to, shall decide the appeal; if no appeal be taken, the decision of the chair shall be submitted to. If the decision be in favor of the member called to order, he shall be at liberty to proceed; if otherwise, he shall not be permitted to proceed without leave of the Convention; and if the case requires it, he shall be liable to the censure of the Convention.

32. No member shall speak more than twice on the same question, unless by leave of the Convention: nor more than once until every member, choosing to speak, shall have spoken.

33. If the question pending be lost by the adjournment of the Convention, and revived on succeeding day, no member who shall have spoken twice on the preceding day, shall again be permitted to speak without leave of the Convention.

34. While the President is putting any question, or addressing the Convention, he shall rise from his seat, and no one shall walk across or out of the Convention, or entertain private discourses.

35. While a member is speaking, no one shall pass between him and the Chair.

36. No member shall absent himself from the sittings of the Convention without leave, unless in case of sickness.

37. A member may excuse himself from serving on any committee at the time of his appointment, if he is then a member of three other committees.

38. No declarations, except those of a general nature, shall be taken up out of their regular order, unless by consent of four-fifths of the members present.

39. No member shall look over the Secretary's count while summing up the vote upon any question, and every member so offending shall immediately be declared out of order by the President.

40. Neither smoking within the bar, nor sitting upon tables shall be allowed; and no member shall address the Convention from any other than his own seat, nor wear his hat during the session of the Convention, nor enter the Convention in his shirt sleeves.

41. Every motion shall be reduced to writing, if the President or any member requires it.

42. When a motion is made and seconded, it shall be stated by the President: or if it is in writing it shall be handed to the President and read aloud by the Secretary before debate.

43. After a motion is stated by the President, or read aloud by the Secretary, it shall be considered in the possession of the Convention; but it may, by leave of the Convention, be withdrawn at any time before it has been amended or decided.

44. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received except the following:

- 1st. To adjourn.
- 2d. To reconsider.
- 3d. To lay on the table.
- 4th. The previous question.
- 5th. To postpone to a day certain.
- 6th. To commit.
- 7th. To amend.
- 8th. To postpone indefinitely.

Which several motions shall have precedence in the order in which they are stated.

The same motion, to postpone to a day certain, to commit, or to postpone indefinitely, after being decided, shall not be again allowed on the same day, and at the same stage of the declaration or proposition.

46. A motion to strike out the enacting words of a declaration shall have precedence of a motion to amend, and, if carried, shall be equivalent to a rejection.

47. When a motion is made to refer any subject, and different committees are proposed, the question shall be taken in the same order as that prescribed for referring petitions in rule number ten.

48. A motion or proposition on a subject different from that under consideration shall not be admitted under color of amendment.

49. Motions may be committed or laid on the table at the pleasure of the Convention.

50. When a motion has been decided by the Convention, any member who voted with the majority may move a reconsideration thereof, on the same day or the succeeding day; and such motion to reconsider shall have precedence of all other questions or motions, except a motion to adjourn; but no motion to reconsider shall be entertained by the Convention, on any declaration or resolution, more than once at the same stage thereof. Motions to reconsider a vote taken on any question, and to lay the same on the table, may be made simultaneously by the same member: and if the motion to lay on the table is carried, there shall be no further action on such question during the session.

51. A motion to lay on the table, or to adjourn, shall be decided without debate; and a motion to adjourn shall be always in order except when the previous question shall have been ordered by the Convention, yet this motion cannot be received after another question is actually put, and while the Convention is engaged in voting. When a motion to adjourn is made, the question shall be put immediately, and no motion to adjourn for a longer or shorter time shall be received until the first is decided or withdrawn.

52. On a motion to fill a blank, the largest sum and the longest time shall have precedence.

53. No motion to admit any person whomsoever, in the Convention, to present a petition, memorial or address, or to hear it read, shall be in order.

54. A motion to strike out, if lost, shall not preclude a motion to amend, or strike out and insert.

CALLS OF THE CONVENTION.

55. Fifteen members shall be necessary to sustain a call of the Convention, and upon a call of the Convention, the names of the members shall be called alphabetically by the Secretary, and the absentees noted; after which the names of the absentees shall be called again. If they do not answer, the Sergeant-at-Arms or a special messenger may be sent for them, and the question pending shall be, without a motion, laid on the table, until the absentees appear or the call is suspended.

56. When a member shall be discharged from custody and admitted to his seat, the Convention shall determine whether or not such discharge shall be upon payment of fees; and in like manner whether or not a delinquent member taken into custody by a special messenger shall defray the expense of such special messenger.

57. Any fifteen members (including the President, if there be one,) shall be authorized to compel the attendance of absent members.

VOTING.

58. In all cases of ballot, except for committees, a majority of the votes given shall be necessary to an election; and where there shall not be such majority on the first ballot, the ballot shall be repeated until a majority is obtained.

59. No member shall vote on any question in the event of which he is immediately or particularly interested, nor shall he vote in any case where he was not present when the question was put, except by leave of the Convention; and no member who is absent from the Convention shall be permitted to vote by a committee.

60. Upon a division and count of the Convention on any question, no member without the bar shall be counted. Every member who shall be in the Convention when a question is put shall give his vote, unless the Convention, for special reasons, shall excuse him.

61. The yeas and nays of the members of the Convention on any question shall, at the desire of any three members present, be entered on the journals, if the call is made before the result of the vote shall be announced by the Chair. In taking the yeas and nays the names of the members shall be called alphabetically.

62. In all cases where other than members of Convention shall be eligible to office by an election of the Convention, there shall be a previous nomination.

SERGEANT-AT-ARMS.

63. There shall be a Sergeant-at-Arms elected by the Convention, whose duty it shall be to attend the Convention during its session; to execute the commands of the Convention from time to time, and all process issued by the authority of the Convention that may be directed to him by the President.

64. The Sergeant-at-Arms shall be allowed for every arrest the sum of two dollars, and for each day's custody one dollar, and for traveling expenses for himself or special messenger, twelve and a half cents per mile for every mile traveled in going and returning.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE.

65. It shall be in order throughout the session for the Convention to resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole Convention.

66. In forming a Committee of the Whole Convention, the President shall leave his chair, and a Chairman to preside in committee shall be appointed by the President.

67. The rules of the Convention, as far as applicable, shall be observed in Committee of the Whole.

68. Upon declarations committed to a Committee of the Whole Convention, the declaration shall be first read throughout by the Secretary, and then again read and debated by clauses, leaving the title to be last considered; the body of the declaration shall not be defaced or interlined; but all amendments, noting the page and line, shall be duly entered by the Secretary on a separate paper, as the same shall be agreed to by the committee, and so reported to the Convention; after report, the declaration shall again be subject to be debated and read by clauses, before a question to engross it be taken.

SUSPENSION AND RECISION.

69. No standing rule or order of the Convention shall be rescinded or changed, without one day's notice being given of the motion therefor. Nor shall any rule be suspended, except by the vote of at least two-thirds of the members present. Nor shall the order of business, as established by the rules of the Convention, be postponed or changed, except by a vote of at least two-thirds of the members present; provided, that it shall be in order for the Committee on Enrolled and Engrossed Declarations to report at any time.
